Royal Liner Nears Islands

ABOARD S. S. GOTHIC (CP)—This royal liner neared the Marquesas islands today as the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh looked for their first sight of land since leaving Panama eight days ago on the first sea stage of their Commonwealth tour.

The Marquesas are the easternmost group of the South Pacific archipelago. For the rest of the voyage to the Fijis the Gothic should come within sight of tropical coral atolls frequently.

Today was another easy-going day for the royal couple, but Thursday they get another taste of formality when a New Zealand cruiser, the Black Prince, takes over escort duties from the British cruiser Sheffield.

The Royal Marine band which is travelling with them is busy rehearsing for the forthcoming stops. It ran through the Fijian song "Isa Lei" Monday and the Tongan national anthem as well as "Advance Australia Fair" and "God Defend New Zealand."

The Gothic is due in Fiji Dec. 17.

WINS ELECTION — Slightly more than one-quarter of Toronto voters re-elected Mayor Allan Lamport, 48, for his third term. In spite of clear weather and temperatures around 45 degrees, only 101,144 of the city's 351,195 voters turned out.

Royal Children Spend Yule At Sandringham

LONDON (Reuters) — Prince Charles and Princess Anne will spend Christmas with their grandmother, the Queen mother, at the royal residence at Sandringham, Norfolk, while their parents are away in New Zealand on their Commonwealth tour.

Accompanied by Princess Margaret, they will travel down to Sandringham by train two days before Christmas. They are expected to stay there for a few weeks before returning to London, Buckingham Palace announced today.

GLASS CENTRE

St. Helen's in Lancashire is the chief centre of the British glass-manufacturing industry.

House Defeats Motion Criticizing Welsh Plan

LONDON (Reuters)—The House of Commons Tuesday night defeated a motion criticizing the government for not doing enough to keep Welshmen from leaving the rural areas of Wales.

The vote was 240 to 222. The motion, introduced by Welsh Socialists led by Aneurin Bevan, said that proposed government measures to halt depopulation of Welsh areas were "inadequate."

The major problem facing Wales today is a steady drop in rural population, despite a return to agricultural prosperity.

The Welsh say it is caused by the difference between rural and urban standards of living.

In the remote areas, only six per cent of the houses have electricity. There are scarcely any sewers or piped water. Housing is bad—and where it is good, rents are too high for farmhands. There are few public entertainment centres.

4 Young Children Rescued After Fire

TORONTO (CP) — Four young children were rescued Tuesday night after fire broke out in their home while their parents were at the movies.

They are Ellen Buckley, 7; Raymond, 5; Freddie, 3; and Susan, 18 months. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. William F. Buckley.

A baby-sitting uncle, Charles E. Buckley, 25, groped his way through smoke to a second-floor bedroom and carried two of the children to safety before collapsing from the effects of the smoke and fumes. Firemen saved the other two.

Gets Third Reading

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Tuesday gave third reading to a bill which gives the board of transport commissioners complete jurisdiction over the location, construction and operation of interprovincial and international oil and gas pipe lines. The bill now goes to the Senate.

May Abandon Hunter Permits

OTTAWA (CP) — United States hunters soon may be able to bring small arms ammunition into Canada without first obtaining a special permit.

Amendments to the explosives act, approved in principle Tuesday night by the Senate, make that possible.

Senator W. Ross Macdonald, government leader in the senate, said in outlining the amendments that regulations under the act will make an exception of U.S. hunters in the prohibition against importing explosives.

He indicated that the change is being made to facilitate entry of hunting parties from the U.S. with their equipment.

Other provisions of the bill would make the crown and its servants liable for mishandling of explosives. At present, the courts have interpreted the act as meaning that the crown is not liable.

The bill was sent to the banking and commerce committee for further study.

Missing Girl Found

ROSEBANK (CP) — Reta Allen, 19, reported missing in Buffalo, N.Y., Sunday, was found Tuesday less than a block from her home in this community 15 miles east of Toronto. A companion on the Buffalo trip, Norma Taylor, 22, of Scarborough township, started the search for her Monday. She told police she lost track of Miss Allen and their car in Buffalo and had to return by train.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Dan Gerber (Mother of 5)

Even the tiniest tots can be captivated by pleasing colors and textures. A young mother we talked to recently said she was amazed at her baby's happy preoccupation with a couple of gaily-colored hankies. Turned out to be a favorite plaything.

• • •

Flavor counts with babies too! Gerber's Strained Orange Juice is made from tree-ripened oranges, specially processed to keep natural fresh-fruit flavor. Extra finely strained . . . goes so easily through nursing bottle nipples. Gerber's Orange Juice helps to supply baby's all-important Vitamin C needs. It's so easy for baby to digest, so wonderful to taste!

• • •

Change-about. When baby is introduced to strained fruits and vegetables, the important thing is to accustom him to a variety of taste experiences. It's usually a good idea to offer 2 servings of vegetables a day, plus an additional serving of fruit. If baby shows marked preference for fruit, try giving him the vegetable first, when he's still hungry.

• • •

Easy street. Eating is often made easier when you serve baby Gerber's Strained Foods. For these fine, true-color fruits, vegetables, meat-soups and desserts have the smooth-as-cream consistency and good-tasting true flavors. 23 varieties!

• • •

Teething tot? Then here's wonderful news for both of you! Gerber's famous Teething Biscuits—so helpful for this "trying" time—will soon be available at your favorite store. Watch for an announcement soon!

• • •

Special offer . . . and something mighty handy! For just 10c and 3 labels from Gerber's Strained Foods or Junior Foods you can get three attractive Refrigerator Can Covers to snap on opened cans of Gerber's Baby Foods. Just send to me, Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box 17, Toronto 18.

Willie Must Take Holiday Or 950 Miners Strike

GLASGOW (Reuters) — The 950 coal miners who work with Willie Farrell have all threatened to strike this month unless he takes a vacation—his first in 12 years.

They claim his habit of working a seven-day week 52 weeks a year is unfair labor practice.

But Farrell said today that he hasn't been working 365 days a year since 1941 just for fun.

"I'm the father of 11 children and I need the extra money to keep my household going," he explained.

At first his buddies tried to talk him into taking a vacation by pointing out that a principle is at stake. They said that their union fought hard for a two-week annual vacation and that Farrell should feel it his duty to take advangage of it.

Willie didn't agree. "It isn't that I don't need a holiday," he told them. "I just feel I should be entitled to do without one with no interference from you."

Then the boys called a union meeting and gave Farrell this ultimatum: "Take your vacation by Dec. 17 or we strike."

Willie grudgingly decided that he'll probably have to give in.

"I guess I'll have to take a holiday whether I like it or not," he sighed today. "I don't want to cause my mates a loss of wages over the Christmas season."

TORNADO'S PATH—A violent twisting tornado left this scene of death and destruction after knifing through the heart of Vicksburg, Miss., Saturday. At least 30 persons are known to have died and 230 others injured. Among the dead were five children found buried beneath the debris of a theatre where 34 youngsters were watching a matinee when the twister struck. The brutal winds, bouncing in several parts of the city, smashed 12 blocks of the business district and set off a dozen fires.

Troops Rescue Planter, Wife

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya — (Reuters) — A British rubber planter and his wife, besieged in their bungalow by terrorists who cut the telephone lines, summoned their rescuers by portable radio transmitter Monday night.

Troops of the East Yorkshire Regiment piled into armored trucks and dashed 20 miles to the planter's rescue.

The terrorists melted into the trees around the house, apparently without loss, when the troops moved in. The planter's wife was struck on the finger by a terrorist bullet.

People Tighten Belts Across Red China

HONG KONG (AP)—The fourth winter of communism in China sess the return of food lines and watery gruel, according to evidence of national belt-tightening received here from refugees, broadcasts and letters.

There are no ration cards, but only 10 pounds of cereal can be bought a week in Shanghai — if you can get it. "You have to line up early to get anything," wrote one Shanghai family to their son here.

No white rice is available and not much red (unpolished) rice, but mostly it is millet corn meal and beans, which western Chinese consider pig food.

Only a few ounces of oil can be bought, and it is described as rancid.

Woman Flavors Cake With Hacksaw Blades

NORTH SYDNEY, N. S. (CP)—Police here are looking for a woman who flavors her cakes with hacksaw blades. They say a cake was delivered to the Cape Breton county jail the day before two prisoners escaped by sawing the bars on a second-storey indwow.

The prisoners, John Earle, 28, of Glenwood, Nfld., and Sidney Dunphy, 24, of North Sydney, were recaptured.

Battle Of Britain Fought By Gay Company Of Men

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—A young Spitfire pilot on his first combat flight knocked down two German bombers, rammed a third, parachuted to safety, kissed two girls to celebrate his feat and was back "upstairs" in the cockpit of another fighter three hours later.

This story of one pilot's crowded day is told in a book "The Fight at Odds," published Tuesday. This is the first of three volumes in the official history of the RAF from 1939-1945.

The authors of "The Fight at Odds," Denis Richards and the late Hilary St. George Saunders, relate how Sgt. Raymond Holmes, now living in Liverpool, took the air for his first fight Sept. 15, 1940, turning point in the fateful Battle of Britain.

Holmes promptly shot down two Dornier bombers. Then his ammunition ran out and he rammed a third enemy plane, one which had just bombed Buckingham Palace. The German plane crashed on London's Victoria station.

Holmes' plane, minus a wing after the collision, went into a spin and he bailed out, landing on a sloping tile roof, his parachute snagged in a drainpipe and he was left dangling with his legs in a garbage can.

Once back on the ground he saw two girls in a next-door garden and in the exuberance of the moment gave them both a kiss. Then he telephoned his station and was soon aloft again in another Spitfire.

At another point "The Fight at Odds" says pertinently:

"The Battle of Britain was fought by the gayest company who ever fired their guns in anger. The combination of gay hearts, admirable equipment, good leadership, first-class training and devoted service on the ground proved too much for the Luftwaffe."

The book also pays tribute to scientists who, in one instance, jammed a radio beam which German bombers were following to attack the huge Rolls-Royce works at Derby. The raiders unloaded their bombs on deserted moors.

Another passage recalls the lighting of a "decoy fire" which deceived a wave of bombers on their way to Nottingham. They dumped their loads of 230 high-explosive bombs in a vale now occupied by two RCAF fighter bases. The only casualties were two cows and two chickens.

Richards was head of a group of historians and technical experts who wrote confidential studies for the air ministry during the war. Saunders was official diarist for combined operations headquarters and the Allied expeditionary air force.

Many Notables Visit Gander

By JOHN MOSHER

GANDER, Nfld. (CP) — This sprawling airport is a gateway to the new world for multitudes. In September it served about 58,000 passengers, a summer monthly average. The volume is less in winter.

Gander lies in northeastern Newfoundland, 30 miles from the Atlantic and a natural choice on the air route linking the main centres of Europe and North America.

Since builders began carving the airport from wilderness in 1936, huge expenditures have been made. Britain bore the brunt at the outset, Newfoundland then having a commission form of government under the crown, and Canada the remainder. An unofficial estimate of the total to date would be more than $100,000,000. Further millions are expected to be spent for the immediate future.

TWO-MILE RUNWAY

Longest of the three present runways is more than 1½ miles. Land clearing has started for a new one, ultimately to stretch two miles and cost perhaps $12,000,000. It will be 250 feet wide and the project involves extensive grading on each side.

A major undertaking in the planning stage is renovation of the main terminal, to provide more space and better placement of air lines' offices.

Another big project, a five-year task with more than three years to go, involves a new townsite several miles from the airport. Gander is unique among the world's important airports in that all residential accommodation is near the runways. Living quarters were converted from barracks and the 6,000 population consists entirely of airport workers and their families.

Gander is a federal department of transport show, from administration of aviation matters to what are usually the functions of ordinary town officials—fire department, water, sewage, snowplowing, etc. Airport manager Eric Winsor heads the set-up. The second in command is operations manager Rex Tilley.

Waiting passengers, and residents in off time, generally congregate in the large, pleasant lounge at Gander International airport.

The lounge, restaurant, snack bar, cocktail bar and air lines booths cover a low-ceilinged, fluorescent-lighted rectangle about 60 feet wide and four times as long.

At the cocktail bar—called the Big Dipper—all forms of alcoholic drinks are available by the glass or bottle throughout the 24 hours—a convenience for air travellers and a phenomenon in the Atlantic provinces. The whole terminal and airport operate on a 24-hour basis. Designations such as Jupiter Skyways Hotel and Saturn Skyways Hotel are hangovers from star names freely used in early airport days.

Sixteen air companies operate to and from Gander. There's a separate terminal for domestic lines.

Essential facilities at Gander include air traffic control, formerly centred at Moncton, N.B., and GCA (ground control approach, for guiding planes to safe landing in zero or near zero visibility).

Moncton controls plane movements in the Maritimes to a line east of Nova Scotia while Gander has a huge area from Newfoundland and Labrador to a position far out in the Atlantic. At these centres the position of any planes flying in the area concerned is apparent at any given time. The airport control tower is subordinate to air traffic control.

Operation of the mobile GCA equipment, owned by Pan American, is financed on a contributing basis by several air lines. Other companies using the facility are charged $125 per landing. The radar equipment is taken to the end of a landing and the incoming pilot is "talked" to a safe descent.

COLORFUL ACTIVITY

At intervals through a day and night the main Gander terminal becomes a commotion of colorful activity when giant air liners disgorge their human cargo. Turbaned Indians may thread their way between Dutch immigrants. Tired mothers, with babes in arms, accompany servicemen husbands. Notables appear frequently.

A Newfoundland resident chatted at length with a stranger in the lounge then went to a movie. The star he saw on the screen was the stranger, John Wayne. Another man had a talk with Alan Ladd and didn't realize his identity. The curves of Marilyn Monroe, in person, have been seen here and many other stars have had stopovers.

Newfoundland's strategic situation as the easternmost land of North America led to development of other airports in this province and neighboring Labrador. The United States has bases at Argentia, St. John's, and Stephenville.

Services at Goose Bay, Labrador, are operated jointly by Canada and the U.S.

HONORARY COLONEL—Prime Minister St. Laurent is presented with regimental badges and insignia of his rank as he is made an honorary colonel at Quebec City of Les Voltigeurs de Quebec, oldest French-speaking Canadian army reserve unit. Mr. St. Laurent recalled that among his predecessors as honorary colonel was Sir Wilfrid Laurier former Liberal prime minister. At left is Lt.-Col. J. M. Corbett, colonel of the regiment.

Big Goose

CARMAN, Man. (CP)—"Plump" was hardly the word to describe the Canada goose bagged by C. W. Orchard. The hunter's trophy weighed 17 pounds, far heavier than the other four geese he bagged that day.

Huge Tusks

CAPETOWN (CP) — Transvaal provincial game officers shot an elephant near the Kruger game reserve which produced the biggest pair of tusks seen in many years. More than seven feet long, they weighed 115 and 113 pounds.

Toronto Marlboros Trip St. Catharines By 6-4

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gerry James, a star halfback in football, is back to his old tricks in hockey.

The big, bruising defenceman, who joined Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series last week-end after a great football season with Winnipeg Blue Bombers, scored two overtime goals Tuesday night as Marlboros defeated the league-leaders St. Catharines TeePees 6-4.

The victory shortened the gap between the third-place Marlboros and the TeePees to five points.

In the only other game, the last-place Quebec Citadelles took advantage of Kitchener - Waterloo Greenshirts for a 9-2 win in Kitchener.

In St. Catharines, Jack Bionda, Wally Maxwell, Billy Harris and Dave Jackson also scored for Marlboros.

McLEAN PACES TEEPEES

Don McLean led St. Catharines with two goals. Hank Ciesla and Barry Cullen scored the others.

Citadelles, who had little trouble against the weakened Shirts, now share last place with Guelph Biltmores and have a chance to move out of the cellar when they tackle the Bilts in Guelph tonight.

Richard Bouchard, Gilles Thibault and Stan Parker each tallied two for Quebec. Carl Wandowich, George Faulkner and Clermont Doyon rounded out the total. Bill Oberle and Buddy Horne served for Kitchener.

Other games tonight are Toronto St. Michael's at Hamilton and St. Catharines at Barrie.

Testimonial Dinner Thrill To Sportsman Billy Hewitt

TORONTO (CP)—W. A. (Billy) Hewitt, who has taken a large part in the development of Canadian sport for 60 years, Tuesday night celebrated what he described as "the shining night of my life."

The 78-year-old sportsman ended a half-century as secretary of the Ontario Hockey Association and nearly 500 sport celebrities paid tribute to him at a testimonial dinner.

They recalled incidents in the life of Mr. Hewitt, appointed OHA secretary Dec. 8, 1903, paid tribute to his executive ability and praised him as "probably the most understanding and kind" man in the world of sport.

MEMORABLE NIGHT

It was a memorable night for the soft-spoken little man who watched the Canadian sports scene from a ringside seat as sports editor of the Toronto Daily Star from 1900 to 1931, who was instrumental in formation of the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union and the CAHA. He also was the leading figure in the OHA, the biggest group of its kind in the world.

George Dudley of Midland, secretary-manager of the CAHA, sounded the keynote of speeches with the observation that "Mr. Hewitt's kindness and courtesy and depth of understanding has made a legion of friends for him throughout his career."

FRENCH BOXER DIES

PARIS (AP)—Ray Grassi, 23, promising French boxer, died Tuesday of head injuries received in a match Sunday night in which he lost his French featherweight title.

Grassi underwent brain surgery late the same night. He had been knocked down twice in his fight with Mohamed Chickaoui, French Algerian contender. Observers said Grassi seemed to have been partly paralyzed by a smashing blow to the head in the ninth round. He rose on the count of nine, then slumped back on the canvas just as the bell sounded. His manager kept him from going out for the 10th round.

NOT ALLOWED TO RETIRE

WELLINGTON, England (AP)—Sir Gordon Richards, Britain's 49-year-old champion jockey, says the Queen won't let him retire.

Richards finally won the Derby on Pinza last June after 27 losing rides in the three-year-old classic. The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh were the first to congratulate him.

"The duke said to me 'I suppose you are going to retire now,'" Richards told a dinner party here Monday night. "But the Queen stepped forward and said 'Oh, no, he's not. He is going to win the Derby for me on Landau next year'."

The Queen's Landau is one of the outstanding two-year-old colts of 1953.

COMEBACK SUCESSFUL

LONDON (Reuters)—Jack Gardner, 27, former British heavyweight champion who retired to a farm 18 months ago after losing his title, began his comeback Tuesday night with a technical knockout over Uber Bacilieri, the Italian champion.

The referee stopped the fight after seven of the scheduled 10 rounds because Bacilieri's right eye was badly cut.

Bacilieri, at 193 pounds, spotted Gardner 24 pounds, but appeared to be slightly ahead on points when the TKO was called. Gardner's long layoff was reflected in his faulty timing.

MARMORA (ENS) — The doubleheader of pre-season Trent Valley hockey games held in the Marmora arena Monday night featured Marmora versus Hastings and Bancroft against Havelock.

Darrah and Brooks were scorers in the first period the former getting an assist from Leonard and the latter scoring on assists from Jones and Mantle. Oliver for Hastings got a goal in the second after taking a pass from Cain. Mantle tallied three minutes later unassisted. Declines Commen: On Refusal Of OHA

TORONTO (CP) — Frank Selke Tuesday declined comment on the refusal of the Ontario Hockey Association to transfer players from the junior Kitchener Greenshirts to teams in the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association.

"I could say a lot of things but I'm not going to," said the National Hockey League club manager.

Canadiens purchased the Kitchener team more than a week ago and assigned nine of its members to the Quebec Junior League and one to St. Catharines in the Ontario Hockey Association.

Earlier, before the decision was announced, Selke said he was waiting to see if the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was running itself or was being run by the OHA.

Trade Jensen To Boston In 3-Man Deal.

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Washington traded Jackie Jensen to Boston in a major three-man deal, commissioner Ford Frick awarded 18-year-old Ralph Terry to New York Yankees and the major leagues clammed up on the pension plan hassle.

Jensen, a fleet, strong-armed outfielder with good power who hit 10 homers and drove in 84 runs for Washington despite a disappointing .266 average, went to the Red Sox for lefthanded Pitcher Maury McDermott, (18-10) and outfielder Tom Umphlett. Umphlett surprised with a .283 rookie season.

The Washington - Boston swap Tuesday was expected to break the log jam that has blocked trades during the winter baseball meetings.

Philadelphia Athletics sold second-baseman Cass Michaels to Chicago White Sox.

TWO AGREEMENTS

Commissioner Frick decided Terry, who was reported to have agreed to terms with both the Yanks and St. Louis Cards on the same day, belonged to the Yankees. He said Terry's acceptance of terms and the subsequent confirmation by the Yanks predates his signing a contract with Omaha, a St. Louis farm in the Western League.

The pension hassle was strictly a "no comment" case as far as the majors were concerned, pending action at today's joint meeting.

The player demands range from comparatively minor matters such as uniform meal money to increases in minimum pay from $5,000 to $7,200 and higher benefits and lower age limit for the pension.

The main controversy centres around the resolution passed by the major league executive council, Sept. 29, recommending a two-man committee study the procedure for ending the pension plan.

ATLANTA MEETING

Commissioner Frick called the 16 player representatives to Atlanta last week to discuss this resolution. The players refused to talk unless their lawyer, J. Norman Lewis, could be present. After the players walked out, Frick for the first time publicly disclosed the existence of the resolution.

Both Ralph Kiner and Allie Reynolds, the player representatives, denied they voted for the resolution at the Sept. 29 council meeting. Their lawyer, who was present during part of the meeting, also said the players took no such action.

Lattner Will Listen To Canadian Offers

NEW YORK (CP)—Johnny Lattner says he'll listen to the offers of Canadian football teams.

Notre Dame's all-American halfback said Tuesday he'd "like to try pro ball for a while to see if I could play it." He said he was willing to play with whatever club drew his name in the pro draft. Or if Canadian clubs made him a better offer he'd listen, though, he'd prefer one of the Chicago clubs, which are nearer home.

Lattner last week was reported as a likely bet to join British Columbia Lions, new entry in the Western Interprovincial Football Union next summer. Lions' coach Annis Stukus, on a scouting trip in California, declined comment.

Canadian Meats Shown

NEW YORK (CP)—A display of meat products of the Canadian packing industry is on view in the Canadian government showroom in Rockefeller Centre this month. The products of 17 Canadian firms are being displayed, including a complete line of canned meats for which a substantial export demand has developed. The facilities were made available by the department of trade and commerce.

Windsor Blanks Indians 5-0 Take Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Individual stars stole the show Tuesday night in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series.

In Windsor, goaltender Nick Pidsodny posted his first shutout of the season as he blanked Stratford Indians 5-0 to help the Bulldogs regain sole possession of first place.

In Sarnia, defenceman George McLagan scored less than a minute before the end of the game to give Hamilton Tigers a 6-5 victory over Sarnia Sailors.

Jerry Reid was the sparkplug in Owen Sound as he tallied in overtime to give the Mercurys a 5-4 decision over Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen, who had previously shared first place with Windsor.

SAME STORY

It was the same story in North Bay where Henry (Pop) Backor fired three goals, including one in overtime, to lead Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians to a 7-6 victory over North Bay Trappers in a Northern Ontario Hockey Association Southern group game.

In Windsor Alex Birukow led Bulldogs with two goals. Dick Kotanen, Earl Keyes and Bob Hayes scored the others.

Lloyd Ferguson notched a pair to lead the Tigers to their victory. Other marksmen were Murray Comfort, Art Hammond and Bud Anslow. Vern Gardiner fired two for the Sailors with singles going to Ollie Haddon, John McKennell and Don Savage.

COME FROM BEHIND

Owen Sound had to come from behind for its victory. Ralph Hosking deadlocked the score with 82 seconds left in regular time. Reid won it in the extra period.

Other Owen Sound scorers were Tommy Burlington, Buck Forslund, and Roy Leckie. Johnny Muretich, Jerry Theberge, Jack McKenzie and Howie Lee were the Kitchener snipers.

The Indian win over the Trappers broke a four-game home winning streak and lifted the Indians into fourth place over the idle Pembroke Lumber Kings.

Ab Demarco, the league-leading scorer, followed Backor's three-goal performance with three markers and added an assist to spark the North Bay attack.

AIDS INDIANS

Conrad Bonhomme scored two goals for the Indians with singles going to Gordie Kerr and Lloyd Finchberger. Don Hogan, Bill Dwyer and Mike Bukacheski added to Demarco's total for the Indians.

Last-place Niagara Falls Cataracts travel to Hamilton tonight while Windsor meets the Maroons in Chatham and Sarnia is at Kitchener. In the NOHA the Indians are at Pembroke and Sudbury Wolves travel to Sault Ste. Marie, Ont.

Micro-Wave TV Network To Link Private Stations

OTTAWA (CP) — A micro-wave television network will link privately-owned television stations in Kitchener, Hamilton and London, Ont., and Quebec City with the CBC television network during 1954.

A. J. Ouimet, CBC general manager, today announced that the publicly-owned corporation has accepted a joint tender by Canadian National Telegraphs and Canadian Pacific Telegraphs to provide network facilities. The companies will build a micro-wave network extending the one now linking CBC television stations at Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

The extension—from Toronto towards Windsor and from Montreal to Quebec City—will bring five of the 14 private television stations now under construction into closer contact with the CBC's national program service.

The private stations are required under government policy to carry a minimum of 10½ hours of programs weekly from the CBC free of charge. The London station, CFPL-TV, went on the air late last month and now is carrying about 15½ hours of CBC programs weekly. CKSO-TV, Sudbury, the other private stations now broadcasting, carries about 13 hours weekly from the CBC.

PROGRAMS KINESCOPED

These programs on kinescope, filmed recordings of shows produced for television, are sent to the private stations now by train, plane or automobile. With the micro-wave extension they will be moved on the micro-wave network to stations within its range.

Temporary facilities extending the network to London from Toronto are expected to be ready before Christmas. The permanent extension will follow within a few months.

The Hamilton station is expected to be broadcasting by February and the Kitchener station two or three months later. Mr. Ouimet said permanent connections are expected to be ready by the time these stations go on the air.

The extension to the Windsor station will be built "as rapidly as construction conditions permit," he said. The aim is to have permanent facilities ready by next winter.

RENT FACILITIES

The CBC will rent the micro-wave facilities from the two telegraph companies in a manner similar to rental of facilities from the Bell Telephone Company for the Montreal-Ottawa-Toronto network. The latter network comprises a series of repeater stations, spaced about 40 miles apart, which pass the television broadcast waves along to the next point.

Mr. Ouimet said the contract between CBC and the telegraphs companies calls for network facilities to be available eight hours daily and for additional services as CBC requires.

The eastward extension to Quebec City is expected to be ready to coincide with the opening of the private station during next summer.

Tentative plans call for repeater stations on the Ontario leg to be at Toronto and Windsor with repeater station at Milton Heights, Hamilton, Preston, Kitchener, Woodstock, London, Dutton, Ridgetown, Chatham, Tilbury and South Woodslee.

Abstemious MP Fails To Appreciate Gift

OTTAWA (CP)—Stanley Knowles abstemious Commons member from Winnipeg North Centre, Tuesday lugged into the House an armful of education about wine.

The CCF member carried a two-foot-long wooden box. In it reposed a volume, done up artistically in a sackcloth cover, entitled "The Story of Wine."

It was put out by the Canadian Wine Institute, representing 13 firms, and expressed to all members of Parliament.

Mr. Knowles asked Revenue Minister McCann if he would disallow any attempt by those producing the book to charge the cost against their taxable income.

The minister did not reply.

She is survived by three children, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. Alice McRoberts of San Francisco, and Vernon A. Payton, Wenatchee, Wash. Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Addie Gordon, Rochester, N.Y., and Lily Moncrieff, this city, and three grandsons. Burial was in this city.

Labor Reform

LONDON (CP)—Terms of proposed legislation to make coal mines safer include raising from 15 to 16 the minimum age for boys employed underground. At present 15-year-olds working underground number about 3,000.

The first well on the 320-acre farm has been capped by the Christmas tree valve for controlling the oil flow and is already in production. The extent is not yet known but Mr. Skinner holds half the mineral rights—he sold the other half—and stands to make considerable money in royalties.

Plan To Spend Quiet Yule With Eskimos

HOLMAN ISLAND, N.W.T. (CP) Two Roman Catholic missionaries who unwittingly made newspaper headlines four months ago are preparing to spend a quiet Christmas with their Eskimo charges in Holman Island, 700 miles from the north pole.

Rev. Maurice Metayer, 42, and Rev. Henri Tardy, 33, are none the worse for the 21 days they and four Eskimos spent drifting aboard an 18-foot boat in arctic waters last August.

Members of the Oblate Order and veterans of the arctic, they became lost on a trip to Coppermine, 275 miles south of her, to pick up winter supplies. Their supplies were running low when an RCAF search plane spotted them.

The priests sailed back to Holman Island at the end of September and returned to the duties of their mission in this settlement on the southwest coast of Victoria island, a vast barren island 1,200 miles north of Edmonton.

They operate a school for Eskimo children and tend the spiritual needs of nomad Eskimo bands. The priests take turns making five-to six-week trips from the mission. They catch up with one Eskimo group, spend a little time, then move on to another group.

The priests make a point of being in the settlement for such religious feasts as Easter, New Year's Day and Christmas.

Holman Island is a coastal settlement with a population of 35 persons, including the priests and the Hudson's Bay Company factor and his family.

MASKED TESTIMONY — A masked and unidentified Roman Catholic priest testifies before a Congressional Baltic Committee hearing in New York on the matter of Soviet brutalities. The priest, arrested by the Russians in January, 1941 on charges of spying, said he had been stuffed into a coffin-like box or left stripped in a room filled with ice.

Say Coupons, Premiums Encourage Adult Childishness

TORONTO (CP) — Estelle LeBlanc, head of Montreal's French branch of the Canadian Association of Consumers, says coupons and premiums offered with so many products encourage childishness in adults.

She told the Advertising Sales Club of Toronto the majority of women would prefer a good product with the price down a few cents rather than coupons and premiums.

"We know we pay, in the end, for all those little surprises," she said.

Miss LeBlanc said manufacturers should offer women more information in capsule form when advertising their products.

Earlier in an interview she said manufacturers wishing to sell their products to French Canadian house wives in Quebec don't have to think up some new approach.

The French women like variety of color and styles as do any other women, she said.

The only thing manufacturers must watch were mistakes in translating advertisements. It took skill to translate an English advertisement into French, or for that matter a French advertisement into English.

Stamp Out Individuality Street Cars Lose Clocks

OTTAWA (CP) — Progress has stamped the last ounce of individuality out of Ottawa's street cars. No more clocks.

The clocks, located high at the front of the cars in full view of most of the customers, were unique. Visitors from many parts of the continent remarked on them.

The capital's clock-watching commuters are confronted with the cold fact that the clocks are on their way out.

The clocks disappeared during the war because parts were difficult to obtain. But there were many complaints and they were reinstalled.

Faithful tram-jammers, noting fewer and fewer cars with clocks in recent days, began querying Dave Gill, genial general manager of the Ottawa Transportation Commission who fronts as a one-man public relations office and complaints bureau.

ANOTHER INSTITUTION

Some recalled another Ottawa street car institution which went by the boards several years ago. Smoking was allowed from May to October. The non-smoking trade won out, but both factions still liked the clocks.

Mr. Gill said he understood Ottawa was the only city in the world with street-car clocks. He was sorry to have to dispose of them but they cost too much money. The OTC "just couldn't afford to have them wound, set and repaired any more. Besides, it cost a lot for parts."

Bingo Player Receives Threats

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Stephen Skrabko, Windsor's top bingo player, has received an anonymous letter and two threatening phone calls, but she will be back in the game Thursday night.

Mrs. Skrabko won three automobiles at the local game in the last seven months.

She received the letter Monday and the phone calls Tuesday. A caller told her not to show her face at the arena Thursday. The letter, postmarked Detroit and signed, "Your friend Marge", indicated the writer thought the people running the bingos are operating a confidence game.

Officials at the arena said the bingos are sponsored by a different club each week and no one has access to the master number of the cards used. Police are investigating.

"I wasn't going to go this week, but I'm going now," said the intrepid bingo player.

Red China Strengthens Coastal Defences

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Red China is going to strengthen coastal defences against possible attack by Chinese Nationalist forces based on Bormoda, the Nationalist defence ministry's Ta Tao news agency said today.

Ta Tao, which claims reliable underground contacts on the China mainland, said the recent visit to Formosa of South Korea's President Syngman Rhee caused some concern in the Red high command.

The news agency said troops in coastal areas of China within striking distance of Formosa are to be put on a footing of wartime preparedness, and fortifications are to be strengthened.

Find Driver Blameless

ZURICH (CP)—A coroner's jury Tuesday found the driver of a car which struck and fatally injured William Rennie, 76-year-old retired district farmer, blameless. Rennie died in a London hospital Dec. 2 of injuries received when hit by a car driven by Russell Hayter of Varna. The jury attributed the mishap to improper lighting on a road grader which Hayter said blinded him so he was not able to see Rennie walking along the road.

Body Found In River

PEMBROKE (CP)—The body of Charles O'Leary, 65, of Pembroke was found floating in the Muskrat river here Tuesday by a passerby, Bert Koepsel. Coroner Dr. J. C. Bradley said the body had been in the water at least 24 hours.

Don't Want Eskimos Under Indian Laws

OTTAWA (CP) — Citizenship Minister Harris said Tuesday night the government does not want to put Eskimos under the same regulations that govern treaty Indians.

Mr. Harris said in the Commons that the proposed new department of northern affairs and national resources will make "every effort" to treat Eskimos and white residents of the north equally.

The minister was replying to Opposition Leader Drew, who asked why Indians should be administered under the citizenship and immigration department while Eskimos were provided for under separate legislation.

Tractor Accident Fatal

DUNNVILLE (CP)—John Toad, 55, was fatally crushed by a tractor which flipped over backwards Tuesday. He was using the machine to try to free a wood-laden truck that was stuck in the mud.

Green Appointed Caucus Chairman

OTTAWA (CP)—Howard Green, 58-year-old member of Parliament for Vancouver Quadra, has been appointed chairman of the caucus committee of the Progressive Conservative group in the Commons.

The caucus committee is composed of the chairmen of committees set up by the opposition to study government activities. It constitutes a "shadow cabinet," which might be named to office if Opposition Leader Drew was asked to form a government.

Mr. Green succeeds Gordon Graydon, member for Peel who died last September.

Pinned In Wreck

ORILLIA (CP) — Two injured youths were pinned in their damaged dump truck for 12 hours before they freed themselves Tuesday and flagged down a passing motorist. Leon McCulley and Glen Brown, both 18 and from Port Carling, were taken to hospital with undetermined injuries. Their truck crashed through a guard rail and down an embankment.

Held For Illegal Entry

BUFFALO, N.Y. (CP) — Police said Tuesday Paul Corcarella, 30, of Niagara Falls, Ont., is being held in custody on a charge of attempting to re-enter the United States after being deported in 1947. He was arrested Sunday.

Want Corporal Punishment Kept At Reformatories

TORONTO (CP) — Deputy Reforms Minister Basher told the legislature's committee on reform institutions Tuesday that it would be a sad day for Ontario's reform institutions if the right to inflict corporal punishment was taken away.

Col. Basher's comment followed a viewing by the committee of the two main instruments of punishment—the strap and the lash.

Members were unanimous in their opinion that while the lash is considered the most severe punishment, the strap would hurt most. The lash, with its nine 13-inch thongs can only be given by a judge or magistrate as part of a sentence. The strap is used for corporal punishment in institutions.

CCF House leader W. J. Grummett described a lash used overseas during the war which had thongs about 30 inches long and quite often a man's back was covered with blood after the punishment.

"The lash we use now would never draw blood," Col. Basher declared. The deputy minister agreed with Harry Nixon, former provincial secretary, that there is a 10-stroke limit in institutions and this is rarely given.

Chairman W. J. Stewart explained the committee is not recommending wider use of corporal punishment.

"We approve the principle of corporal punishment and believe it should be retained in our institutions as a deterrent but we do not advocate brutal use of the strap," Mr. Stewart said.

Both Mr. Grummett and Peter Manley, Liberal, Stormont, disagreed with this view. They said juvenile court judges and magistrates should be given the right to inflict corporal punishment when they saw fit.

Seek Bus Fare Rise

GUELPH (CP)—A Guelph bus fare increase is to be sought early in 1954. The Guelph transportation commission plans to ask for a rate of three adult tickets or six children's tickets for 25 cents. GIANT WATER WHEEL—This water wheel, so big it looks like a ferris wheel, was erected on Perry Creek, 15 miles north of Cranbrook, B.C., in 1933 to help find gold missed by miners in an earlier gold rush. Built from 11,000 board feet of lumber, it powers two pumps used to drain seepage from a mine 100 feet deep. When built, the wheel was considered the largest of its kind in North America. It is 32 feet in diameter, has a seven-foot face width and 72 built-in buckets.

Huge Water-Wheel Tribute To Miners

CRANBROOK, B.C. (CP)—A huge water-wheel, 15 miles north of here, is man's modern tribute to the old placer miners who once crowded Perry creek.

Today only Walter Dooley and a few others live in the area where men once dragged the creek for gold. A cemetery of unmarkd graves is a reminder of what used to be Old Town.

Placer miners went to Old Town and the fabulous creek long before the Klondike was ever news. Later, they drifted from Perry creek and Fort Steele up to the Klondike.

Gold was discovered around Fort Steele in 1865. The prospectors made their way along Perry creek in 1867 as they worked the tributaries of the Kootenay river. Gold taken from Perry creek was almost pure. It must have been dragged for hundreds of miles by the creek waters, for the mother lode was never found.

Today, on occasion, a man who likes the life will still attempt to take a little gold from the creek. But, as Dooley says, "Gold once taken is gone; it doesn't grow again."

BUILT IN 1933

The big wheel, built by a syndicate in 1933 from 11,000 board feet of lumber from the nearby hills, was meant to virtually dredge out what the old-timers missed.

It is so big it looks like a ferris wheel. When built, it was considered the largest overshot wheel in North America. It is 32 feet in diameter, has a seven-foot face width and 72 built-in buckets.

The wheel was fed by a flume into which Perry creek was diverted 1,840 feet upstream. The wheel delivered 68 horsepower to two modern pumps used to drain seepage water from an underground mine 100 feet deep. The mine tunnels led beneath the creek bed in gold-bearing and water-filled gravel.

The wheel was operated from 1934 to 1936, when operations ceased. Old Town, once a roaring mining centre, gave up the ghost when its last surviving structure, a 14-room hotel of hand-hewn square logs, was destroyed by fire in 1945. But Dooley, who worked on the big wheel operation, remains there with his memories.

Says Reds Try Destroy Talks

PARIS (AP)—Robert Schuman, who gave his name to the European Steel and Coal Community while serving as French foreign minister, today said the Soviet Union will seek to destroy European integration at the forthcoming four-power talks in Berlin.

In an interview with the evening newspaper Paris-Presse Schuman asserted:

"The Soviet Union is going to try to obtain in that conference what it has failed to obtain by the cold war—the paralysis and then abandonment of our policy of European integration."

The former foreign minister, still a power in the Mouvement Republicain Populaire, which also includes the present foreign minister, Georges Bidault, said Russia's intention was evident in her agreement to meet with the West just at the moment when Western Europe in general and France in particular is on the point of making a decision on the European Defence Community treaty.

Wants Britain To Expand European Trade

LONDON (AP)—A trade leader declared today that Britain may as well abandon hope of lower United States tariffs and concentrate on expanded trade with Europe and the Commonwealth.

L. S. Amery, president of the Empire Industries Association and British Empire League, said the United Kingdom has already lost much precious time waiting for Washington to cut import duties. He asserted that R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer, had relied too strongly on such hope.

TIED HANDS

In a speech prepared for the annual meeting of the association and league, Amery said "we have tied our hands until such time as the Americans finally decide to tell us that there is nothing doing."

He said Britain should instead have put into effect a policy of tariff preference which would have stepped up trade with the Commonwealth countries.

Amery said Britain should proceed immediately to build up "by free agreement with our partners in the Commonwealth and, so far as may be practicable, with our neighbors in Europe, a broader and more securely balanced economy."

Three Appeals Disallowed

WINDSOR (CP)—Three appeals by members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters (AFL-TLC) against jail sentences imposed for disturbances during the Ontario truckers' strike last summer were disallowed in county court Tuesday.

One appeal was granted and the jail sentence cancelled. Another withdrew his appeal.

Seven-day sentences were confirmed against George Renaud, 29. Steve Vrabel, 28, and Charles Hilton, 21, all of Windsor. Gerald Lantz, 28, was set free. Robert Harper, business agent for Local 880 of the union, withdrew his appeals against two convictions and started his 15-day sentence.

Pushed Through Town At 60 Miles An Hour

KITCHENER (CP) — Gordon Schleuter testified Tuesday another automobile pushed his car through the village of St. Clements at 60 miles an hour.

He said he burned out his brakes trying to stop. His wife and 10-year-old daughter, with him in the car, were terrified by the incident.

Frank Friedman, 20, of nearby Linwood, who police said was behind the wheel of the car that did the pushing, was convicted of dangerous driving. He was remanded a week for psychiatric examination.

Jerome Stemmler, Linwood youth who was with Friedman in his car, said several Linwood youths push each other's cars in the manner Schleuter's was pushed and they thought Schleuter's car was that of one of their friends.

Any Indusrty Can Apply Law On Anti-Dumping

OTTAWA (CP)—Revenue Minister McCann said Tuesday in the Commons the government's new anti-dumping regulations can be applied to any industry, not only textiles.

Replying to J. M. Macdonnell (PC — Toronto Greenwood), the minister said no commodity is specified in the new regulations. Instructions had gone out to customs officials concerning the textile industry because the plight of that industry had been to the fore in recent weeks.

Any Canadian industry could ask that the regulations be applied against foreign competitors if it were experiencing unfair competition.

USE INVESTIGATORS

Dr. McCann informed M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, that the government determined what was unfair competition through reports by investigators in the country of export.

He also informed Opposition Leader Drew that it would be impossible to make an appraisal of what effect the new regulations, announced Monday night, would have on the Canadian textile industry. This could only be done after a close survey.

Incidental Find

EDMONTON (CP)—Workers on a new city bridge came on a three-foot seam of coal while digging 16 feet below the bed of the North Saskatchewan river. The discovery recalled early days when miners burrowed for coal along the river banks.

Canadian Veteran In Ideological War

By ARCH MacKENZIE

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian army veteran from Moose Jaw, Sask., is lined up in an ideological tug-of-war among the 27,000 workers in London's dockland, stronghold of militant labor.

On one side are the Communists and fellow-travelling dock leaders blamed for three wildcat strikes between 1947 and 1950. A national emergency was called once, troops came in twice and the cost was estimated in millions of dollars.

On the other side are men like 28-year-old Lorne Busby from Saskatchewan, a full-time disciple of the international ideological creed known as Moral Re-Armament—or MRA. He and his cohorts believe that their creed has played a big role on the labor peace resulting since 1950.

Says the soft-voiced, slight Busby: "The Communists talk to the men at work. We talk to them after work."

MANY BATTLES

The battle of ideas and ideals is one of hundreds being waged in industrial areas of Britain, France, Western Germany, North America and India. Some labor leaders have endorsed MRA. Others dammed it with faint praise in a special report issued last summer.

The Communists fight it bitterly.

Busby says of his all-hours work: "I'm just an ordinary guy from Moose Jaw, and MRA has given me the opportunity to have a part in rebuilding the world. The dockers aren't interested in just me—they see in Moral Re-Armament a force that is bringing social justice and international peace."

By MRA, Busby means a supra-denominational Christian code based on four fundamentals of absolute love, honesty, purity and unselfishness. Evolved in 1938 by United States-born Frank Buchman from his so-called Oxford Group, MRA claims that the world will improve only when the individual does.

Busby encountered MRA at the University of Alberta on a one-year army course. After his army discharge in 1946, he attended the University of Manitoba one year. Then he came back to Europe as one of MRA's 1,500 full-time, unsalaried workers, about 150 of whom are Canadians.

MOVED INTO DOCKLAND

With others, he moved into dockland early in 1950 to live there a year. Then, as now, he held MRA meetings at night, visited docker homes on invitation, escorted members of Parliament of all parties into dockland to show them what MRA was doing.

Busby and other MRA men say the way to hurt the Communists most is to pick off their best men. In many places, they say, they have.

Most notable example here is 52-year-old Jack Manning, self-confessed fellow traveller who played a leading part in all three wildcat strikes.

MRA officials quote one of Manning's Communist ex-friends as saying that the docker's change of heart is the reason there has been no major strike in dockland since 1950.

Germans Sorry To See Canadians Go

HANNOVER, Germany (CP)—Not all the Germans in this Saxony city are happy to see the last of Canada's 27th Infantry Brigade.

Now that the Canadian soldiers are pulling out, merchants will find their sales reduced. Stores specializing in cameras and field glasses probably will suffer most.

One salesman, 25-year-old Hans Brandes, said the store in which he works in Hannover's Georgstrasse sold more than 500 cameras to Canadians during the brigade's two-year stay.

Army sources estimated that the monthly payroll of the brigade's 5,000 soldiers was about $925,000, including regimental funds.

Brandes was asked what he thought Germans considered the most irritating feature of Canadian army behavior. He shrugged and said: "I guess it is your men occasionally drink too much beer, but that is not uncommon among soldiers."

Hannover's shops were the scene of a last-minute buying rush as the 27th Brigade prepared for the journey back to Canada. "Two years over here, and still I left it to the last to do my shopping," said Lieut. Arthur Whealy of Toronto.

Former Enemies Rush To Do Business With Reds

By FRED SPARKS

HONG KONG—(NEA)—The Chinese Communists are now smashing at Allied unity with an order book—something they could never do with a burp gun.

With the Korean battlefield silent, our allies—almost to a man—are falling all over themselves in their desire to do business with Peiping.

The American position is that any trade with Red China, particularly in military materials, will help secure Dictator Mao's throne.

U.S. ships are forbidden to land at Red Chinese ports; U.S. tourists visiting here are warned by the Consulate against buying as much as a pocket-comb imported from next-door China.

But, from my window on the great port of Hong Kong, I can see, among the junks and sampans, steamers from many allied nations riding at anchor before the final dash to Chinese mainland ports.

During the shooting days of the Korean War, there were plenty of under-the-counter dealings with Red China, in strategic materials forbidden by the UN as well as non-strategic materials.

Gasoline, for example, is on the UN's forbidden list. Chinese fishing junks gassed up in Hong Kong and sailed to nearby Macao, an easy-going Portuguese colony where about the only enforced law prevents knife fights in hotel lobbies. There the precious petrol was siphoned into Communist tanks.

But while so many boys were being crippled and killed in Korea by Chinese Communists, even the trade hungriest merchant (and country) hestiated to push too far.

Now the lid is off. Even without the slightest shred of guarantee that another grand Chinese attack will not be launched, the UN embargo is crumbling like a lightweight's chin before Marciano's fists.

From London to Jakarta, from Singapore to Tokyo, the cry is: "Profits before politics!"

Naturally, Hong Kong is the best place to hear the cry. It sits on the edge of huge China like a fly on an elephant's back. It isn't a city—it's a shop. It manufactures little and its purpose in life is to shuttle the world's goods to China.

The West's tiff with China has been as good for Hong Kong's business as leprosy in a restaurant. Somehow Hong Kong —one part British and 99 parts Chinese —blames the U.S. for its woes because the U.S. is too hard on potential customer Red China.

The Governor of this Crown Colony, Sir Alexander Grantham, who often goes about in a gray top hat as if this were still the 18th Century of the British Raj, plugs the London line that maybe Mao can be another Tito. He told a reporter:

"I anticipate that the Chinese Communists will not only be willing to do business with the West but will also want to do so; politically because China won't want to rely too much on one power, Russia, and practically because Russia will not be able to supply China with all she needs."

In this paragraph Sir Alexander neatly provides a moral reason for the good business he feels is available, even though every report shows Red China moving yet closer to Russia.

A look at the business ticker shows others drooling to make hay while the truce shines:

"Tokyo —'Trade-With-China and Do-Away-With-Crises' rally held: Agreement signed to supply China with steel pipes, iron sheets, railroad equipment, auto parts and ocean going ships." (All such gear could be used for further conquest.)

"Jakarta—A mass movement of ships experienced in running the Chinese Nationalist Blockade are moving to Indonesia to supply (Red) China with rubber."

"London—Board of Trade decides passenger cars carrying not more than six persons are no longer 'strategic' and can now be sold to China." (In other words, eight Red Chinese soldiers in a car are bad ; six Red Chinese soldiers in a car are OK.)

And the final payoff is this New York dispatch:

"Chinese bonds gain in anticipation of expansion in trade."

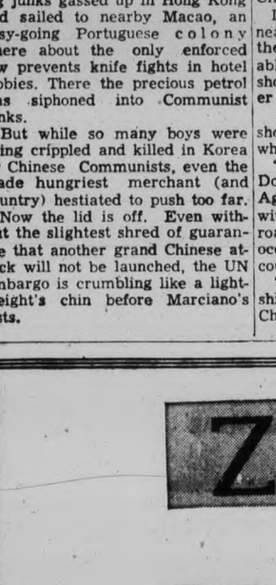
COOLIE LABOR is still used to speed merchandise. This coolie is unloading a ship in Hong Kong harbor.

HONG KONG TRAFFIC is busy, with everything from small sampans to ocen-going vessels. This Chinese woman steers her sampan past a Hong Kong steamer.

Charges Dismissed

LINDSAY (CP) — Charges of dangerous and careless driving against James Alexander of Toronto were dismissed after a grand jury returned a verdict of no bill. The charges arose from an accident near here last June in which Alexander's wife, Margaret, and their two-year-old son, James, were killed in a collision with a truck.

Doctor Fined $100



WINDSOR (CP)—A Windsor doctor had a charge of driving while intoxicated reduced to impairment Tuesday and paid a $100 fine. Dr. Othello Chatters said he had three drinks Nov. 9 before his arrest, but also took a nerve sedative and was under the influence of barbituates. Police said he was in a stupor when arrested and his blood showed a .115 alcohol content. In reducing the charge, the magistrate said evidence indicated unusual circumstances.

Defence Costs Canadian Taxpayer 40 Cents Of Every Dollar In Taxes

By JACK MacBETH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—For the second successive year national defence in 1953 cost the Canadian taxpayer about 40 cents of every dollar he paid into the federal treasury. No drop is expected in 1954.

Although the shooting stopped in Korea last July, defence officials stress there was no slackening in the huge defence program launched three years ago to meet the threat of Communist aggression.

In 1952, Canada's defence effort cost $1,876,724,000, a record peacetime high. This year, although final figures will not be known for some months, expenditures are expected to be roughly the same.

RCAF BUDGET UP

Reflecting the change in emphasis brought about by the develop-atomic weapons, the RCAF for the last two years has received the lion's share of the defence budget—37.6 per cent in 1952 and 41.7 per cent this year.

The Canadian Army received 27.2 per cent in 1952 and 23.7 per cent in 1953. Figures for the RCN were 13.3 per cent last year and 14.8 per cent this year.

Between the navy and the army, in the matter of allocation of defence funds, was mutual aid under terms of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

In 1952, most of the 14 NATO countries received from Canada equipment and supplies amounting to 17.4 per cent of the total defence appropriation. In 1953, the figure dropped to 15.3 per cent.

TRAINS NATO AIRMEN

In addition to providing materiel, Canada also trains NATO airmen at the rate of 1,500 a year.

Broken down by service requirements, defence department statistics showed that 41.1 per cent of the total expenditure went toward the purchase of equipment; 18 per cent for military personnel; 17.6 per cent for operations and maintenance; 10 per cent for construction; nine per cent for transfer of equipment (mutual aid) and 4.3 per cent for the salaries of civil employees.

Financial experts with the department said the total defence outlay represents about 40 per cent of the tax revenues in 1953.

Under a three-year plan announced by Defence Minister Claxton in 1951, Canada was to spend some $5,000,000,000 to build its three services, to help NATO countries and to strengthen this country's radar defences against air attack.

NEAR COMPLETION

Mr. Claxton has said this program already is largely completed. No new plan has been announced, as such, but it is known that there will be no relaxation of effort as long as present world tensions continue.

Authorized strengths for the three services, under a 1952 order: RCN, 16,300; army, 51,715, and RCAF, 42,000.

To date, the actual complements are: RCN 16,000; army, about 49,000, and the RCAF, about 42,000.

With the world situation as it is today, defence officials say authorized establishments are "only a guide" and can be changed if deemed necessary. Any big change however, would entail higher appropriations and thus call for parliamentary consideration.

CIVIL DEFENCE PROGRAM

Keeping pace with the development of Canada's military defences although on a much smaller scale, is the country's civil defence program. Under direction of the department of national health and welfare, the program is operating on a $6,000,000 annual budget.

Progress is reported as "excellent" in most parts of Canada, especially in the western provinces. There is close co-ordination between the national civil defence organization and the armed forces.

Discussing the need for continued and determined defence efforts Mr. Claxton told the Commons in March:

"We have spent great sums on our defence in Canada, as have other Western nations, sums expended as insurance for peace, and the prudent man does not stop paying the premium if the risk continues."

PROUDLY WEARING the blue and white apron and false nose of an "assistant barber" in Neptune's court, the Duke of Edinburgh plays an active part in traditional crossing-the-line ceremonies as the liner Gothic steams past the Equator on the first sea stage of the Royal couple's six-month Commonwealth tour. Although Queen Elizabeth and her husband were exempt from shellback initiation because they had crossed the line before, the Duke joined merrily in the time-honored rites. The Queen watched from the ship's bridge as King Neptune, left, held court. Neptune is the Duke's personal bodyguard, Inspector Frank Kelly.

Truce Independence Pledge For Indo-China

SAIGON, Indo-China (AP) — Maurice Dejean, French commissioner-general, today said the only peace France would consider for Indo-China would be one leading to "true independence and assured freedom."

Viet Nam nationalists hailed the statement as meaning French rejection of the armistice feelers put out recently by Ho Chi Minh, leader of the Communist Vietminh, whose forces the French union armies have been fighting for seven years.

Dejean said France does not want "a peace of merchants of servitude" or a "misleading cruel peace of the totalitarian regimes."

In a recent interview with a Swedish newspaper, Ho said he was ready to discuss a possible armistice.

Outstanding Policemen Rewarded As Manufacturer's Hobby

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bert Gutman's hobby is rewarding outstanding policemen—wth money.

He has set up a standing reward of $100 to be presented each month to the "outstanding policeman or sheriff's deputy" in line of duty. Altogether, he spends $5,000 a year rewarding good cops.

Guterman, a retired furniture manufacturer, met and liked some policemen on a train 40 years ago. That started it.

As a by product of his hobby he has a gun collection he values at $50,000 on display at his Hollywood home. Nearly every weapon was used in a crime of violence. They were presented to him by police.

PRESENTED WITH BADGES

Policemen, detectives and sheriffs have given him more than 550 police badges from all over the world.

Guterman travels throughout the United States exchanging ideas with police officers—from commissioners to rookies.

"I have one motive and that is to bring co-operation between citizens and police officers," he says.

"I never ask for a favor."

Heavy Trade With U.S. Seen Continuing

TORONTO (CP)—Canadians are likely to be putting more rather than fewer eggs into one basket, that basket being the United States, Robert Rae, president of the Dominion Bank, said today.

In an address prepared for delivery to the bank's annual meeting he added:

"Prudence would counsel us, if we could, to play the distribution of our fast-expanding export trade quite otherwise. But there is almost everywhere in this North American environment a capacity for economic expansion which simply cannot be matched elsewhere.

"Thus, the quickly-growing Canadian economy cannot help but sell an increasing proportion of its exports in the great market next door, just because that market now is the fastest growing of all our markets abroad.

SALES INCREASING

"Measured in dollars, our sales to the United States still are increasing at the rate of about seven or eight per cent annually. And, in the aggregate, our sales to the rest of our customers abroad are decreasing and in greater proportion. . . ."

Mr. Rae said 60 per cent of Canada's sales to other countries are made to the United States, adding some Canadians argue from this that Canada's position daily becomes more vulnerable.

"Let us remind them that but for this greatest of all markets in the United States, Canadians could have enjoyed no post-war prosperity.

"The great contrast between the people of the United States and our customers overseas, lies not so much in differences between the respective spending habits of the two groups, as in an enormous and still widening spread between their respective spending powers."

WELCOMES OPPORTUNITY

Mr. C. Asforth, general manager, commenting on proposed legislation to authorize banks to lend on mortgages, said the Dominion Bank "welcomes the opportunity to make an even greater contribution to the social and economic welfare of Canada."

He added, however:

"It should not be assumed that mortgage legislation will make available through the banks unlimited mortgage funds for housing construction. The primary responsibilities of the chartered banks is to their depositors and this is not inconsistent with their obligation to the country as a whole, since their depositors make up a very substantial portion of the population of the country."

MARRY IN TORONTO —Mrs. Olive Freeman Palmer of Toronto's suburban Willowdale poses with her fiance, John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Prince Albert, Sask., as he arrives at Toronto for their wedding. Mrs. Palmer is the daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. C. B. Freeman of Kingston. Mr. Diefenbaker's mother, Mrs. W. T. Diefenbaker, lives in Saskatoon.

Five Men Convicted On Wildlife Charges

Pleading guilty by letter Tuesday, five men, charged with conservation and wildlife offences were convicted by Magistrate W. R. Philp, Q.C. For hunting deer without a license Earland Gazley of Peterborough was fined $50. A fine of $50 was imposed on Clarence Northey of Peterborough for transporting a deer without seal attached. On a similar charge Reginald Bennett of Toronto was fined $50. Barry Wager of Peterborough was fined $50 for shooting a swimming deer. For carrying a loaded firearm in a vehicle Robert Yuill of Toronto was fined $20. Costs in each case were $2.50.

Business Good No Pantomines

LONDON (Reuters) — antomimes have "had it" this year, as far as top-flight London theatres are concerned. The trouble is that business is too good.

Theatre managers usually are glad to have a pantomime to attract the customers over the Christmas-New Year period. But this year the city's 40 leading theatres are doing too well to interrupt the run of a hit show or to close a play prematurely just to show a "panto."

As a result, there will be only one old-fashioned pantomime in the West End this year, compared with about a dozen before the war. The number has dwindled from four in 1950 to three in 1951 to two last year and now only one.

The sole standard bearer is ever-popular "cinderella," with the faithful servant, Buttons, again frustrated in his love for "Cinders." Also due for the Christmas public are "Where the Rainbow Ends," roughly comparable here to "The Wizard of Oz," and the incomparable "Peter Pan." but neither of these could call itself a pantomime.

Indians Forced To Leave Sinkiang

NEW DELHI (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru told Parliament today that India has had to close its consulate-general in Sinkiang province because the Chinese Communist government declared it "closed territory" where no foreign missions would be permitted to stay.

Replying to a question, Nehru said India also had found no use for its missions there since Indian traders had left because of what he called the disruption of India's central Asian trade by Pakistan's occupation of the normal trade routes of northern Kashmir. He said India still possesses buildings which are being held on its behalf by the Communist government in Sinkiang.

Falling Farm Prices Cause More Concern

FREDERICTON (CP)—Agriculture Minister Sherwood of New Brunswick is concerned about falling farm product prices.

Despite the continued increase in general living costs, prices for products have declined substantially, he said in a statement.

"This trend cannot continue without seriously injuring our agricultural economy and eventually disrupting the economy of the entire province."

Mr. Sherwood called for closer co-operation of provinces in agricultural matters and free exchange of information.

Conditions in New Brunswick's potato industry were "little less than chaotic," with growers receiving about half a cent a pound for Canada's No. 1 potatoes.

"Considering today's production costs, the result will be a substantial loss to the economy of the entire province when we consider that normally this industry is a $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 business and that N.B. produces from 20 to 25 per cent of the total produced in Canada," Mr. Sherwood said.

Lower prices also applied to lumber and other wood products. In former years many farmers earned considerably from these sources "but with present prices and increased freight rates which all but bar our timber products from central Canadian markets, revenue from these is seriously reduced."

Changing beef prices could easily cause a scarcity of dairy and livestock products, Mr. Sherwood said. Supplies and services the farmer must buy had remained at a high level.

RECEIVE CHARTER — Production employees of the DeLaval Company received their charter as local 872 of the International Association of Machinists (AFL-TLC) Tuesday night at the Empress Hotel. The 220 workers had their local certified in May and had their first contract with the company in July. Dan Dean (second from left, above), IAM organizer, presented the charter to president Gus Siegel (second from right). Admiring he scroll along with Mr. Dean and Mr. Siegel are Henry Nokes of the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council and Pat McQuade, another IAM organizer.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

DeLaval Workers Presented With Charter For Union

Production employees of the DeLaval Co. Ltd. received their charter Tuesday night as Local 872 of the International Association of Machinists (AFL-TLC).

Fifty of the membership attended the meeting in the Empress Hotel for William Boothroyd, representative of the grand lodge, to swear them as members of the IAM. Danny Dean, representative who helped to organize the plant, presented the charter; and Pat McQuade, another IAM representative, administered the oath to the executive.

Mr. Boothroyd said that a rise in the standard of living of the Peterborough workers would be reflected in a general rise in the city's standard of living. He cautioned the union members to be fair in their dealings with management but not to draw back from asserting their demand when the time came for negotiating a new contract.

He also warned the workers that there may be rougher days ahead.

"We are too prone to believe that this high-level of employment is going to continue... I'm afraid that one of these days we'll wake up and find ourselves in a position which followed the stock crash of 1929."

As a service to the city the trade unionists were urged to make some tangible contribution.

"Report to the Red Cross centre within the next 10 days and donate a pint of blood," said Mr. Boothroyd. "We're going to need it."

Sworn in were Gus Siegel, president; Harry Seaborn, vice-president; Max Sexsmith, recording-secretary; Wallace Harrison, financial secretary; William Campanaro, treasurer, and other executive members

Two hundred and twenty production workers are in the DeLaval bargaining unit. They were certified in May and got their first contract with the company July 1.

Try To Puzzle Meaning Of U.S. Atomic Stockpile

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower says the United States stockpile of atomic weapons is increasing "daily." It is recalled that in 1946, one test of two bombs was believed to have consumed what was then the stockpile.

Just what did the president mean to imply by the necessarily guarded language he used Tuesday about the stockpile in his United Nations speech?

Is the increase a weapon a day? Or is it more—or less? That information, of course, is secret. But here are some materials for thought:

1. The stockpile is believed to have passed the 1,000-unit mark some time ago, perhaps soon after the outbreak of the Korean war and U.S. atomic energy officials have since said publicly that the rate of production was due to increase.

2. When in 1946 the U.S. exploded two test bombs at Bikini atoll they were understood to be the only two finished weapons in existence.

NEW A-BOMBS

The president spoke Tuesday of a hydrogen weapon with the force of millions of tons of exploding TNT and new atomic bombs 25 times mightier than those "with which the atomic age dawned" only eight years ago. The new A-bombs would unleash energy equivalent to 500,000 tons of TNT.

Eisenhower spoke as a soldier who knew what conventional bombing can do. He used the yardstick of the Second World War in which he fought to measure the power the U.S. now holds in its hands. He said:

"Today, the United States' stockpile of atomic weapons, which, of course, increases daily, exceeds by many times the explosive equivalent of the total of all bombs and all shells that came from every plane and every gun in every theatre of war through all the years of World War II."

Eisenhower said 42 test explosions have occurred since the historic Alamogordo shot July 6, 1945. That meant 45 have been set off by the U.S.: The original test in New Mexico; two dropped on Japan; two fired in "operation crossroads" at Bikini; 31 shots at the Las Vegas, N.M., proving ground and nine at Eniwetok in the Marshall island group of the mid-Pacific.

N.Y. Newspaper Strike Ended

NEW YORK (AP)—The city's biggest newspapers resumed publication today, bringing news and ads to millions of readers after the worst strike in the history of New York journalism.

AFL photo-engravers and the publishers agreed Tuesday, the 11th day of the strike, to a fact-finding board proposed by federal mediators to consider the dispute over wages and fringe benefits.

Hours later, New York's three affected morning papers, The Times, The News and The Mirror, had today's edition on the streets. The Herald Tribune, lone major daily which was not struck, carried its first ads in nine days in an 88-page paper.

Meanwhile, the three afternoon newspapers, The Journal-American, The Post, and The World-Telegram and Sun, worked to put out their first post-strike editions today.

Aussie Law Worries Press

LONDON (Reuters) — The council of the Commonwealth Press Union has expressed alarm at a law passed last week in the Australian state of New South Wales compelling newspapers to disclose their information sources in graft allegations.

"The "Press Gag Act," as newspapers dub the Sydney city council disclosure of allegations bill, was approved by the Labor-controlled state parliament in the face of a storm of criticism. The government claims it will speed police investigation and "clean up" the city council before the royal visit in February.

A resolution by the CPU council said the measure gravely imperils an essential freedom—the right of newspapers to reveal at their own risk, and under ordinary law, any corrupt practises of which they gain information. The resolution declared the "traditional right" of the press to withhold the source of information given in confidence.

Another resolution expressed concern at the reported action of the Pakistan government in withdrawing its advertising and denying reporting facilities to two newspapers, Dawn and The Evening Star, because of criticism of government policy.

Tax Dodgers Caught

LONDON (AP)—The tax man caught up with 10,000 people who thought they had him fooled last year, and collected nearly £4,000,000 in penalties, government auditor Sir Frank Tribe reported Tuesday. The number of tax dodgers has doubled since 1951, he said.

Malone Nickle LOL 285 Holds Annual Election

MARMORA (ENS) — Nickle LOL 285 of Malone held its annual election and installation of officers at its regular monthly meeting Monday night. Deputy bounty master Milton Hagerman presided for the election.

Right Wor. Bro. R. Sanderson, Grand Master of Ontario East conducted the installation assisted by Wor. Bro. Jack Adams of Havelock Lodge. These with Bro. Hall of Havelock Lodge and Past County Master W. J. Cottrell spoke during the meeting.

The officers for 1954 are as follows: WM, Bert Hagerman; DM, Leslie Gazley; chap., Orville Pack; rec. Sec., Arthur Acorn; fin. sec., Albert Nickle; treasurer, George Fox; marshal, Kenneth Moffatt; 1st lecturer, John Moffatt; 2nd lecturer, Wesley Vilneff; tyler, Walter Henry; committee, Fred Pack, Gerald Fox, German Johnston, Tom McCann, F. Reid.

Lunch was served following adjournment after which Rev. K. J. Crawford gave an illustrated talk on "The Pentateuch". County Master Gordon Moffatt officially visiting his mother lodge spoke briefly.

Creamery Wins Prize For Butter Quality

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — At the Ontario Creamery convention in Toronto last week, it was announced that the Trent Valley creameries of Campbellford were among the prize winners for butter quality and purity for 1953.

To participate in these competitions, every churning of the season is graded by the Dominion butter graders. The Trent Valley creameries, owned by H. N. Carr and Son, was winner for butter quality with a score of 99.81 out of a possible 100. The creamery was also successful in receiving honorable mention in other competitions.

GOUZENKO AGREES TO SECRET TALKS

Reds Reject Eisenhower Atomic Plan

Vishinsky Calls Again For Prohibition All Atomic Weapons

LONDON — (AP) — Soviet spokesmen have given strong indications that the Kremlin wants no part of President Eisenhower's proposal for an atomic energy pool for peaceful use.

There was no "official" reply from the Soviet government, but Wednesday night a top commentator on Moscow radio, Boris Leontyev, described the U. S. proposal as a rehash of the Baruch atomic control plan which the Russians have always rejected. Leontyev added that Eisenhower had "threatened atomic war."

In the United Nations assembly, Russian delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky declared: "You cannot insure the use of atomic energy for peaceful purposes without unconditional prohibition and strict international control (of atomic weapons)."

UN deliberations on atomic energy control have been deadlocked for several years by Russia's insistence on an immediate ban and the West's counter-demand for a workable control and inspection system first.

INITIAL REACTION

The initial Soviet reaction came as the Western world generally applauded the plan, outlined by Eisenhower Tuesday in a speech before the UN assembly. Newspapers in India also welcomed it as a "rent, however small, in the atomic curtain."

Although some Western sources still expressed hope the official Soviet answer might be more favorable, the first Russian comment obviously had been cleared with Kremlin propaganda and foreign affairs authorities before it was made public.

In a later English - language broadcast beamed to North America, another Moscow radio commentator, Konstantine Oorlov, said the striking thing about Eisenhower's speech was "the utter lack of concrete proposals on how to make those general desires and wishes" for peace into reality.

Moscow's Communist party newspaper Pravda also raised the same point after an 800-word summary of the president's speech.

Domestic reaction in the United States itself was that fear of Russian trickery threatens to impede future Congressional approval of the president's proposal.

JUST RIGHT—Mrs. Richard Wakeman, of Union Mills, Ind., hangs on grimly to her new car to prevent strong winds from tipping it after a recent harrowing experience that resulted in this freak balancing act. She told police she was clipping along comfortably at 50 miles an hour when the car's front wheel suddenly came off. The vehicle went off the road, veered back in the path of the rolling wheel and came down to rest undamaged in this awkward position.

Might Hold Session In Ottawa

Statement Expected From Garson For Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Igor Gouzenko has agreed to a secret meeting with representatives of the United States internal security sub-committee, it was learned today.

It is not known when the meeting will take place between Gouzenko, former Russian embassy cipher clerk who disclosed a wartime spy ring operating in Canada, and the committee's representatives.

Where the meeting will take place also is not known but there has been speculation that it may be held in Ottawa.

Justice Minister Garson is expected to make a statement in the Commons when it meets today outlining Gouzenko's decision. The external affairs department also will inform Washington.

SEVERAL ATTEMPTS

Gouzenko has been the object of several attempts by Senator William Jenner, chairman of the senate sub-committee, to have the former Russian embassy clerk appear before the committee.

The initial request, contained in a note from Washington, was turned down by the Canadian government on grounds that Gouzenko has nothing new to add to the information already in the possession of the United States.

However, a second request for leave to interview Gouzenko was made and the Canadian government said in a note that if Gouzenko agreed a meeting could take place under Canadian auspices and on the understanding that his statements will not be made public without Canada's consent.

Jenner agreed to these conditions and another note was sent from Washington last Thursday asking that a meeting be arranged.

OLD POSITION

Gouzenko's decision brings him back to the position he took last month when he told a Chicago newspaper that he would be willing to talk with the sub-committee. Last week he was quoted by a Toronto newspaper as saying he did not want to risk the anonymity under which he has lived since the 1946 spy trials touched off by the documents he stole from the Russian embassy in the fall of 1945.

The most recent U. S. note said Jenner and Robert Morris, counsel of the sub-committee, had been designated as the questioners if a meeting was arranged.

The note added that it was assumed Canada would have no objection to U. S. Ambassador Stuart Douglas or his representative being present. It suggested that time and place of any meeting be communicated by word of mouth "in order to protect Mr. Gouzenko's security."

'Popcorn' Pops Peril

UMTER, S.C.—(AP)—Billy Lane's popcorn popped with a bang Wednesday, sending the 10-year-old youngster to a physician for treatment. He said he had walked into a movie with a bag of popcorn in one hand and torpedoes in the other. Inadvertently, he dropped the torpedoes into the bag and, excited by the movie, he bit down on a torpedo.

Communists Interrupt Nobel Awards

By HALVARD ROSSELAND

OSLO (CP) — Communist demonstrators, shouting, "This is no peace candidate," today interrupted the formal ceremonies awarding the 1953 Nobel peace prize to Gen. George C. Marshall.

A stunned audience at the Oslo University festival watched as the demonstrators showered anti-Marshall leaflets upon them during the presentation.

The audience had come to witness the award to Marshall in recognition of the $17,000,000 American post-war European aid plan which bore his name.

A group of about 20 young Communists, who sneaked into the gallery despite a check at the entrance, shouted in unison: "This is no peace candidate. Marshall go home." The leaflets were headed with the words,, "We protest"

QUICKLY CHUCKED OUT

Police rushed to the galleries and quickly overpowered the demonstrators, aided by angered spectators.

The interruption came as Gunnar Jahn, president of the Norwegian Nobel committee, started to read the official citation scroll. A gold medal and $3,840 in prize money were also awarded to Marshall.

French ambassador Louis de Monicault was present to accept the 1952 peace prize on behalf of Dr. Albert Schweitzer, famed African jungle doctor, humanitarian, philosopher and musical authority.

When things quieted down, Jahn calmly continued his speech.

As Marshall accepted the prize, the audience rose and applauded loudly for several minutes. Marshall briefly voiced his gratitude for the honor shown him.

RECALL HIROSHIMA

The Communist leaflets described Marshall as "the man who decisively contributed to the atomic death of 100,000 people in Hiroshima and Nagasaki," and who "contributed to the division of the world in two hostile blocks by launching his Marshall plan and the Atlantic pact."

Streamers were thrown also from the gallery with the words "Nagasaki and Hiroshima" and "Go home, Marshall."

A young man in his early 20s was among those arrested. He insisted to reporters he had carried out his part of the demonstration of his own free will and had no accomplices.

Marshall escorted 81 - year - old King Haakon VII from the hall at the end of the ceremony. The king, obviously upset over the Communist demonstration, had a grim expression on his face as he climbed into his car.

Police Believe Body In Barn Kidnapped Girl

TORONTO—(CP) — Suburban Scarborough township police today began a barn-by-barn search of the area northeast of the lover's lane where Marion McDowell was kidnapped acting on an anonymous telephone tip that her body was in one of them. The tipster did not specifically locate the barn, police said, but said it was "13 miles north and east" of the scene where the 17-year-old blonde stenographer was abducted Sunday night by a hooded gunman.

Police said the lead sounded authentic.

Every other clue has been "checked out," according to police chief Wilfred McLelland. Except for the latest tip the case remained as far from solution as it was the night James Wilson, 19, came to the police station to tell of being slugged unconscious and his girl friend kidnapped.

Wilson was taken to the scene at 3 a.m. today to re-enact the abduction.

PARKED CARS

Police parked cars on the side-road off the lover's lane where Wilson said he regained consciousness and saw Marion being lifted into the trunk of a car parked 50 feet away. They were checking on whether in the blackness of night Wilson could see the gunman as he stated.

"The trunk of the car could be easily seen," said police.

A reward of $2,000 has been offered for information leading to the discovery—dead or alive—of the girl. A police reward of $1,000 was matched by the girl's grief-stricken father, Ross McDowell.

"I'll match whatever anyone offers," said Mr. McDowell, employed as the superintendent of knitting in a lingerie plant.

CLUES FIZZLE OUT

Every lead led nowhere after police questioned dozens of former school friends, office colleagues and boy friends of the blonde, blue-eyed girl.

Police have been deluged with tips and offers of assistance in the search. High school students, boy scouts and other volunteers made a systematic search of the Danforth-Eglinton area of the township but failed to turn up a helpful clue.

Police now are going on the assumption that the girl is probably dead.

Police Chief Wilfred McLelland of Scarborough said it is possible the girl's body might be in the trunk of some car unknown to the vehicle's owner.

WANT TRUNKS SEARCHED

Police believe the automobile may have been stolen or rented and have appealed to car rental agencies, parking lot attendants and motorists in general to examine trunks.

The girl's father is also resigned to the fact that she may be dead.

"If the person responsible can see his way clear to send a plain card to the police just telling where she is, I will be grateful," he said.

A skirt, stockings and underclothing were found Wednesday in a ravine 20 miles north of the kidnapping scene by two of the girl's uncles and it was first reported they belonged to her. However, a check showed that the clothing was not her property.

French Charge Ex-RCAF Flier In Gold Theft

PARIS (CP) — Paris police say an American pilot arrested here last week on charges of stealing $34,285 worth of gold is the Harold E. (Whitey) Dahl who escaped execution during the Spanish Civil War as a result of an appeal by a woman who posed as his wife.

Blonde Edith Rogers sent her photographer to Generalissimo Franco to back up her plea for the life of Dahl, who had been shot down while flying for the loyalist side.

The 44-year-old Illinois-born adventurer who flew for a time in Canada with the RCAF, had been a pilot for the last year with Swiss Air. He was accused in connection with the disappearance of 59 pounds of gold bullion from a Swiss airplane he piloted from Paris to Geneva Oct. 5.

WED BELLEVILLE GIRL

Dahl joined the RCAF in 1940 after his release from the Spanish prison. In July, 1941, he was married to Eleanor Bone of Belleville, while he was stationed with the RCAF at Trenton, Ont.

In 1945 an RCAF court-martial convicted Dahl of improper disposal of government equipment and he was dismissed from the service.

French authorities said his wife and three children have been living in Zurich, Switzerland, since he joined Swiss Air.

$852,000,000 In Bonds-Record

OTTAWA (CP) — The 1953 Canada Savings Bond campaign went over the top—in a big way.

Sales up to Nov. 30, when the active drive ended, soared to a new high of $852,000,000—two-and-a-half times the $340,000,000 sold in the similar period of 1952, the Bank of Canada reported today.

The previous high was $471,000,000 reached in 1946.

Total number of buyers rose to 1,274,000, a gain of about 530,000 from last year.

Sales by banks in the period increased threefold to $519,000,000, whole sales by investment dealers were four times higher at $136,000,000.

Ask Help Against Recession

OTTAWA—(CP)—The Canadian Congress of Labor told the government today there are "disquieting features" in Canada's economy and called for action to head off any recession. The 375,000-member CCL, making its annual legislative submission to the cabinet, asked that the treasury lay out funds to boost employment. "If bad spots and soft spots of employment are not to develop into something worse," it said, "the government will have to develop a comprehensive public assistance plan . . . and promote new industries in, or transfer workers from, depressed areas." Another major recommendation of the congress was for what it called an "external affairs consultative committee" to act in an advisory capacity to the Canadian delegation at the United Nations.

The CCL, which generally takes a closer interest in international matters than other central labor bodies, said external affairs "must be increasingly injected into the political bloodstream of the country."

It also said Canada's contribution to the Colombo plan for southeast Asia development is "inadequate" and called for increased contributions to the International Labor Organization.

On the domestic front, the congress approved this week's move of the government in seeking from Parliament power to stiffen anti-dumping regulations aimed at textile imports but said this should be followed up by a labor-government-management conference that would work out solutions for textile problems.

USE MORE COAL

Dealing with current unemployment in the coal mines in the east and the west, the congress said the government should develop a national policy "designed to utilize much larger quantities of Canadian coal in domestic consumption."

The end would be that Canadian coal miners might enjoy full-time work at "adequate" wage levels.

Measures for increasing employment in shipyards also were advocated, chiefly the immediate replacement of obsolete government-service vessels and the construction of additional government tonnage.

Discussing the throne speech announcement of prospective mortgage money from the banks to finance housing, the CCL said this is welcome but does not go to the root of the problem.

Best Helmsman Ever Had

Crosses Ocean As Sailor Girl Will Be Deported

MONTREAL—(CP)—An 18-year-old girl is returning to Belgium on the freighter Luksefjell after an unsuccessful attempt to enter the country as seaman Alfred Albert Leopold Soudemonte. The story of the sea-going girl masquerading as a sailor came out Wednesday.

Before he sailed for Antwerp Capt. Harold Hansen was told by the J. Brock Shipping Co., agents for the freighter, that he would have as a woman passenger the same person he had earlier brought to Montreal.

"I didn't have any woman passenger," he replied promptly.

"That's what you think," a company official told him. "She wasn't a passenger; she was a member of your crew."

Jeanne Mutton, 18, signed on as a seaman in Antwerp as Soudemonte, saying he wanted to work passage to Canada; that he had relatives in Vancouver.

Luck was with him—or her. He was assigned to a room ordinarily used for hospital quarters. He took his regular turn at the helm and as deckhand.

HANDY WITH FISTS

Some crew members thought their new associate a bit effeminate. A couple of fist-fights followed. Jeanne was as handy with fists as at steering the ship. The wisecracks stopped.

When the ship arrived in Montreal immigration officials found the picture in his passport had been torn out. They became suspicious. Jeanne couldn't imitate the signature on the passport. When a physical examination was ordered Jeanne said: "All right, I'm a woman."

An immigration board of inquiry ordered her deported.

Little is known here of Jeanne's background. The Luksefjell's officers believed she must have been born aboard a ship and had had considerable experience.

"One of the best helmsmen I ever had," was Capt. Hansen's comment.

GALES DELAY LINER

HALIFAX (CP) — Gales today delayed arrival here of the liner Atlantic, bringing 350 27th Brigade troops and about 80 soldiers' wives and children to Canada from Germany.

Hopeful Soviet Accept Plan

WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House said today the United States still is "very hopeful" Soviet leaders will recognize President Eisenhower's international atomic pool proposal "for what it is—a serious and feasible first step toward atomic peace."

James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, made the statement in reply to requests for comment on Moscow's adverse reaction to Eisenhower's plan.

Radio Moscow accused the president Wednesday night of threatening atomic war.

TOO SOON TO TELL

Hagerty read this statement to newspaper men:

"We do not believe that immediate reaction to President Eisenhower's atomic proposal necessarily represents the considered decision of the Soviet government.

"After all, the president always recognized that his suggestion would require thoughtful study.

"Therefore, any 24-hour reaction propaganda media cannot be accepted as anything more than a stopgap, interim statement.

Moscow Papers Fail Publish Two Days

LONDON (Reuters) —Moscow radio said today that most of the Russian capital's leading newspapers failed to publish this morning. The broadcast gave no explanation.

Only the Communist party organ, Pravda, appeared as usual.

It was the second day off for the Moscow papers this week. No issues were printed on Monday, their normal non-publishing day.

Franco Receives Canadian Envoy

MADRID (Reuters)—Gen. Francisco Franco's palace guard band struck up "O Canada" for the first time today, when Lt.-Gen. Maurice Pope presented his credentials as the first Canadian ambassador to Spain.

Pope, 64, introduced his staff, then had a 20-minute informal chat with the Spanish head of state.

He later said: "I was received by the chief of state in a most friendly way and we had a conversation on topics of interest to both our countries. Gen. Franco expressed the hope that now diplomatic relations have been established between our two countries, friendly contacts between Canada and Spain would be fostered thereby."

Thousands of spectators gathered along Pope's route to the presidential palace.

The new Canadian ambassador rode in an 18th-century state coach drawn by six horses, escorted by 100 of Franco's famed Mounted Moorish Guard.

London's Fog Delays Churchill

HAMILTON, Bermuda (Reuters) Sir Winston Churchill's return to Britain was delayed today because of fog in London.

Together with French Premier Joseph Laniel, he now is due to take off at 7 p.m. EST, about 2½ hours later than originally planned.

Churchill, who spent most of today working on his papers, has asked that "Billy," the goat mascot of the Welch Fusiliers here, be on hand to see him off tonight.

"Billy" will be led up to the airliner Canopus for a final pat from the prime minister, who paid him special attention during his visit here for the Big Three talks.

A medical bulletin last night said the condition of the ailing Premier Laniel had continued to improve.

Liner Sails Atlantic Without Rudder

NEW YORK (AP) — The Norwegian America liner Stavangerfjord crawled through the wind-buffeted North Atlantic without a rudder today, but its 644 passengers were reported in no danger.

The 13,300-ton vessel advised the United States coast guard here that she was proceeding at 10 knots toward her home port of Bergen, Norway, and did not require assistance.

Baby Dies After Beating

BOWMANVILLE (CP) — Police said Wednesday that six-month-old Christine Whitehead who died in hospital Tuesday night had been beaten about the head and body by a four-year-old girl.

Officers said Mrs. Thomas Whitehead, the infant's mother, left her in her crib while visiting a neighbor. When she returned the tot was unconscious and a stove lifter and poker were on the floor near the crib.

A four-year-old neighbor's girl was found in the house.

Daley To Resume Mine Strike Talks

TORONTO (CP)—Top-level talks aimed at settling a strike of 1,500 miners at the big Hollinger mine in the Timmins area will resume with Labor Minister Daley of Ontario here at 2 p. m. EST, a union spokesman said today.

The official of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), representing the strikers, said the meeting will be attended by C. H. Millard, Canadian steelworkers' president, Arthur Goldberg, wage expert from the union's international office at Washington, and other union officials.

It was not known who will attend for Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines.

Mr. Daley announced today's meeting Monday after talks attended by Premier Frost and Jules Timmins, Hollinger president, were adjourned last week. It was not known whether Mr. Frost will attend today.

Hollinger, largest gold mine in the Porcupine camp, has been strike-bound since Sept. 24. Seven other mines employing some 3,500 miners are also on strike in the area. The disputes centre around higher wages, the union checkoff and other concessions.

Liquor Stores Closed 2 Days

Beverage rooms, cocktail lounges and similar outlets will close at 6:30 p.m. Christmas Eve. They will be closed Christmas Day but will be open as usual Dec. 26 except in a few communities which have asked for shorter hours that day.

Liquor stores will be closed Jan. 1 and 2. Beer stores will be closed Jan. 1 only. Beverage rooms and cocktail lounges will keep their regular hours New Year's Eve and Jan. 1.

Campbell Won't Act In NHL Game Rhubarb

MONTREAL (CP) — President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League said today he can't take any action in connection with Wednesday night's rhubarb in Toronto until he receives a full report on the game between the Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens.

He said it is unlikely anything will develop before Friday. Referee Frank Udvari who handled the game is on his way to Montreal.

Ammunition Blows Up As Truck Burns

MALVERN, Iowa (AP)—An ammunition truck which burned after sideswiping another semi-trailer Wednesday night gave this town of 1,400 a taste of what it's like to sweat out an artillery barrage.

The gasoline tank of the ammunition carrier caught fire following the collision, and its cargo of 105-millimetre shells started exploding. But no one was hurt.

The blasts continued for more than two hours, sending shrapnel screaming as far as 3,000 feet.

1 Wounded, 2 Arrested After Wild Chase By Police

WINDSOR (CP)—One man was wounded by police guns Wednesday night and two others arrested, one an American, after a wild chase through Windsor suburbs.

Police said three men stole a car in Windsor, broke into a store at Harrow and later stole gas and oil for the car. Those arrested were identified as Les Phon, 22, of Cleveland, Robert Berry, 18, who refused to give an address, and Arthur Thompson, 22, of Windsor, who was slightly wounded.

Provincial police discovered the Harrow break-in and reported a car racing toward Windsor. At the city outskirts, Windsor police took up the chase. The car failed to make a turn under the Ambassador bridge and crashed into a church gatepost. Three men ran from the car and one was shot in the hip when he failed to stop.

The owner of the stolen car, Robert Wainwright, 18, of Dearborn, Mich., was skating at Windsor arena when the auto was taken. He walked into Windsor police station as the theft at Harrow was reported and listened to the chase, crash and capture on police radio.

Request Compulsory Strike Arbitration

TORONTO (CP)—The social service board of the United Church of Canada has called for compulsory arbitration of the mine strikes in northern Ontario.

In a resolution Wednesday the board asked Premier Frost to tell the unions and managements involved that their "failure to reach a settlement forthwith will result in . . . compulsory arbitration procedures."

Some 5,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) are on strike against eight gold mines in the Timmins area for higher wages and the checkoff of union dues.

Germans Christmas Hosts To Canadian Infantry

SOEST, Germany (CP)—More than 600 members of the 1st Canadian infantry brigade group are expected to spend Christmas Day as guests of German families in towns and surrounding vilulages this cathedral city, it was learned today.

The Christmas invitation program is sponsored by committees of civic officials, district church organizations and the committee for German veterans. The latter group has promised generous support "guided by the will to forget all resistance."

"My son lost one eye in the war, but despite this I do not hate the Allies and I will invite a soldier for Christmas," one German mother wrote recently to the German-Canadian committee in Hannover, the former Canadian army headquarters.

Christmas in the "European spirit" is the motto of the sponsors, who feel that contact with German families during Christmas festivities will be of benefit to Canadians and Germans alike.

Because some soldiers do not relish the idea of visiting German families on their own, various organizations plan to extend multiple invitations to the Yuletide parties.

BULLETIN

MONTREAL (CP)—Frank H. Hall, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, said today conciliation proceedings between 17 rail unions and the railways have broken down. The federal labor department has been asked to establish an arbitration board to deal with the dispute.

CCL Committee To Explore Labor Unity

OTTAWA (P) — The Canadian Congress of Labor, with an eye to amalgamation of all Canada's unions under one banner, Wednesday set up a committee to foster closer relations with other central labor bodies.

The CCL's move was a follow-up to a Dec. 3 action of the larger Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which set up a similar committee but under somewhat more restricted terms as to "unity."

An announcement from the CCL's national council, meeting privately, said the four-member committee was to "explore the possibilities of labor unity"—long a goal of that 375,000-member organization.

The 580,000-member TLC, in creating its co-operation committee Dec. 3, stated more cautiously that there was no indication complete unity of all labor organizations would be "automatic."

POLICIES CONFLICT

"The principles and policies of the TLC conflict with those of other organizations in some instances," that congress said, though it added that its committee is empowered to "explore every avenue possible."

For the CCL, Secretary-treasurer Donald MacDonald said Wednesday that congress' committee will explore the possibility of closer relationships with other central bodies "with the hope that better mutual understanding will be an immediate result."

"We would be more than pleased," he added, "if the deliberations of these committees would pave the way for organic unity of all bona fide labor organizations in this country."

Wild Chase Ends In Arrest Of Two Men

HAMILTON (CP) — Two men were arrested separately this morning by provincial police constable Bernard Arbon in the Nelson area after two wild car chases, flying bullets and a hunt over farmlands.

Constable Arbon was patrolling Highway 5 with constable James Niven early today when they noticed a stolen car. They halted the vehicle after a three-quarter-mile chase.

One man got out of the car and was arrested. The policemen discovered two loaded sawed-off shotguns in the rear of the car. These they placed in the cruiser.

As this was being done the man inside the car jumped into the driver's seat, the man outside leaped into the rear seat, and the stolen car took off again.

PUTS BULLET IN TIRE

The officers gave chase at speeds estimated up to 80 to 90 miles an hour. Constable Arbon fired at the rear tires, blowing one near Nelson village. The car swerved off the highway and struck a tree.

The man in the driver's seat was out of the machine in a flash and over a fence into the darkness. The other sat dazed.

The constables took into custody Russell Hobday, 23, of Toronto, and handcuffed him this time. Radio calls brought nine more policemen.

After 8 a. m. Constable Arbon discovered the second man hiding in a pile of straw in the vicinity of the crash. He took into custody Ronald Hobday, 22, brother of the other man. Both men have been returned to Toronto.

French Direct 136 Sorties Supply Troops

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — French transport planes, flying a record 136 sorties, poured a steady stream of troops and war material into the Thai country of northwest Indo-China today to reinforce positions against expected Communist-led Vietminh assaults.

The airlift from Hanoi was stepped up as the French and Thais, entrenched in the pro-French Thai capital of Lai Chau and on the plain at Dien Bien Phu, awaited an attack at either or both points by a Vietminh division.

French fighters and bombers, flying 90 sorties, plastered the Vietminh along the route of march.

They also hit heavily at Yen Bay, on the upper Red river about 90 miles northwest of Hanoi, which the Vietminh have been using as a reinforcement.

The advancing Vietminh division was last reported less than 15 miles from Lai Chau. Another column was reported moving slowly in the direction of Dien Bein Phu.

Prime Minister Approves Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday he welcomes President Eisenhower's "imaginative and constructive approach" to international control of atomic power.

Describing the President's speech before the United Nations as "inspiring," he said in the Commons that control of atomic power is probably the greatest problem in the world today.

It would be "inappropriate" to make any extended comment on the President's speech until it had been carefully studied.

He assured the House that the President's proposals will receive the "most careful and sympathetic consideration."

Mr. Eisenhower proposed an international agency to work toward disarmament and for the use of fissionable materials for peaceful purposes.

Polio Outbreak One Of Worst Across Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada is nursing the wounds of one of the worst outbreaks of polio in its history.

The Western flank of the 1953 epidemic out-manoeuvred medical defenders and short-lived theories, resulting in at least 289 deaths in the four western provinces and a higher rate of crippling paralysis among the 5,316 cases.

In eastern Canada, polio followed a generally orthodox route, creating record incidence and death only in Newfoundland, which experienced a 1953 increase to 12 deaths and 224 cases from the five cases and no deaths reported last year.

When final figures are available, the number of polio cases across Canada this year is expected to double the 1952 total. The federal health department reported in the Commons Wednesday that to Nov. 28 there had been 8,298 cases compared with 4,755 last year.

HARDEST HIT

Manitoba, Alberta and Ontario were the hardest hit by this season's outbreak.

In Manitoba there were 300 cases of polio for every 100,000 persons—a total of 2,318 cases, from which 85 persons died. Government officials say this incidence exceeded all known Canadian and world figures.

Alberta, plagued with an epidemic prolonged beyond the normal period, has suffered 98 deaths and 1,329 cases. The previous high in Alberta was 79 deaths from 743 cases in 1952.

Ontario reports 76 deaths from 2,080 cases, compared with 1,699 cases and 101 deaths last year, and its record 119 deaths in 1937.

Most physicians say 1953 has produced the "worst polio epidemic in the history of the western provinces.

ONLY GOOD REPORT

Saskatchewan was the only western province which did not this year surpass its record epidemic. Reported cases to date total 1,074, with 69 deaths. In 1952 there were 1,223 cases and 90 deaths.

There was also a substantial increase in the proportion of older persons affected. Thirty per cent of the total 2,318 cases in Manitoba were persons over 20. In Alberta, too, polio no longer is considered a children's disease. Seventeen per cent of the 98 Alberta deaths occurred in children under 10, while 60 per cent were persons between 20 and 40.

In previous years, the oil province has seen polio epidemics hit their peak in August and end their normal decline in September. This year, 40 per cent of deaths occurred in the final quarter of the year.

SCHOOL CLOSED

Alberta and Newfoundland were the only provinces to delay school openings this year because of polio. A 500-student school near Calmar, Alta., about 25 miles southeast of Edmonton, was ordered closed Wednesday until Dec. 17.

In Quebec, 462 cases have been reported with 10 deaths. In 1952, there were 122 cases with four deaths, compared with the record year of 1,200 cases in 1931 and a record 28 deaths in 1950.

New Brunswick has had 54 cases—mostly mild—this year. No deaths have been reported. The record year there was 1952, when there were 16 deaths and 431 cases.

Nova Scotia's 1953 total so far is seven deaths from 57 cases. Last year there were five deaths and 94 cases, compared with the record year—1951—of 425 cases and 23 deaths.

Up to Nov. 28, there had been 10 cases and one death in Prince Edward Island.

Aviation's Birthplace Retreats Big Sand Hill Sifted By Wind

Kill Devil Hill on North Carolina's Outer Banks—where man made his first powered flight a half century ago—is no longer where it was when the Wright Brothers first knew it.

The steady winds of Hatteras have blown it a tenth of a mile away. Until it was "anchored" in 1929 to serve as a permanent monument, the big sand hill had retreated over 500 feet southward from its original location. The Wrights' real take-off point is marked by a granite boulder at a now level site north of the dune's base, the National Geographic Society points out.

Focal point for a forthcoming four-day golden anniversary celebration of the Wrights' epochal flight, Kill Devil Hill's 91-foot-high summit is crowned with a grey granite pylon honoring the brothers and their plane, the Kitty Hawk Flyer.

BRAND OF RUM

The mound reportedly was named for a local brand of rum potent enough to do what "Kill Devil" implied. It is America's largest barkhan, or travelling mound of loose sand. Originally cresent-shaped, its gently sloping convex front faced into the prevailing winds from which it slowly retreated.

When the national memorial was authorized by the Congress in 1929, the marching hill's wind-sculptured beauty was sacrificed, Tough, wiry grass, nourished by leaf mold, was planted on its steep slopes. Gradually, its 314 acres became fixed and parklike, with winding walks and drives.

After studying weather bureau records, the Wrights selected Kill Devil Hill for their aerial experiment because of the steady, strong air currents. They made their first trip there, from their home in Dayton, Ohio, in 1900. For three years they experimented solely with gliders.

At last they managed to install power in a glider to their satisfaction, and in September, 1903, they came down to their North Carolina camp. Beset by mechanical problems and bad weather, they were not ready to fly their sputtering machine until mid-December.

FATEFUL DAY

On the morning of December 17, with the wind 22 to 27 miles an hour, steady, from the north, they made the first of four flights. Their frail contraption of wood, muslin and wire stayed aloft 12 seconds on the initial attempt—man's first successful powered flight. The fourth and longest flight covered 852 feet in 59 seconds.

Moments later a sharp gust of wind overturned the machine and damaged it badly. It could not be repaired in time for any more flights that year, and it was never flown again.

Fifty years ago Kill Devil Hill was accessible only by boat. Today the entire Outer Banks are connected with the mainland by highway, and in recent years the area has attracted increasing numbers of visitors.

A few miles due south of Kill Devil Hill and the village of Kitty Hawk is historic Roanoke Island, where Raleigh's Lost Colony of 1587 predated Jamestown and Plymouth.

Reds Barbarians, Cannibals Says Freed British PoW

HANNOVER, Germany, (AP)—Pte. Frank James Kelly, British soldier recently released from Russian captivity, collapsed twice today as he told his story at a press conference here.

A doctor gave him restoratives and Kelly insisted on going on with a statement in which he called the Russians "barbarians and cannibals."

At one point, as the near-fainting Kelly struggled to make his words heard, reporters suggested the conference be stopped. But Kelly refused.

With tears streaming down his face he said: "They (the Russians) were brutes. They tortured me 16 hours a day. It is only a miracle I am here today. It is only a miracle I am again with my own people."

WAS FORCIBLY FED

Since Kelly was returned by the Russians last month he has been in a military hospital here receiving special treatment for malnutrition.

"I am credited with 300 days of hunger strikes against the people who tormented me," he sobbed. "At one time I did not take food for 10 days until it was forced into me.

"Can you imagine what it is like 16 hours a day to be kicked, rabbit-punched and forcibly fed with a clamp in your mouth?" he asked.

"Others were blinded and paralyzed through their treatment.

"We were all innocent. I was innocent. It was a trumped-up charge. They knew it. Everybody knew it."

Kelly did not explain his references to other persons in Russian captivity.

Kelly was captured by the Germans in the battle of Arnhem where he was a paratrooper in an airborne medical unit. He did not explain how he came into Russian hands after being released by the Germans.

Dean Asks Reds Want End Talks

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and Communist diplomats made no progress today toward setting up a Korean peace conference, and United States envoy Arthur H. Dean asked the Reds if they were ready to break off the preliminary talks.

The Reds retorted with a long tirade, then acknowledged that the negotiations were at a standstill and said they would answer Dean Friday.

A few miles from the scene of the deadlocked talks, Allied explainers failed for the eighth straight day to win back a single South Korean war prisoner who chose to stay with the Communists.

BREAK UP STRIKE

Indian paratrooper guards broke up sit-down strikes staged by most of the 30 captives in an apparent effort to tie up the interviews.

Dean told Communist diplomats he would do everything possible to carry out the Bermuda conference call for a Korean peace parley. But there would be no retreat from his insistence that Russia attend the conference as a full participant.

Communist emands that the Soviet Union be invited as a neutral observer caused the stalling of the preliminary talks.

Price Groups Drop In Early Trading

TORONTO (CP) — Most price groups were lower in light early afternoon trading on today's stock market session.

Fargo and Pacific led the western oil rise with 25-cent gains. Western Leaseholds showed the biggest loss, 15 cents.

Noranda led base metals lower with a $1 drop. International Nickel, one of the many 25-cent losers, was at a new low for the year. Cassiar, down 10 cents, was the biggest junior loser.

All gold categories were weak. Bulolo, a senior, was up 15 cents, and Prospectors Airways, a holding company, was down 15 cents.

Uraniums were lower. Nesbit-Labine was the biggest of the many losses with a five-cent drop. New Larder U led the New Brunswick base metals lower with an eight-cent loss.

Papers and foods were the only actively traded categories to resist the downward industrial trend. Steels and liquors were steady.

"The most urgent need is for subsidized public housing," the brief said. The government could do this, the CCL added, under the National Housing Act.

RENEWED REQUEST

The congress renewed its request for a national plan of health insurance. (The government already has told other labor bodies, in reply to their annual submissions, that there is no immediate prospect of this.)

Taking up labor legislation, the CCL urged that the national labor code be extended to cover such industries as automobile, oil, meat-packers, mines and forest products now under provincial jurisdiction.

Other CCL proposals:

1. Removal of the $60-a-yea. top on the two-per-cent levy on income for old age pensions.

2. "Drastic" reduction of the general sales tax and abolition of this tax, 10 per cent, on necessities.

3. Increasing the basic personal income tax exemptions to $1,500 from the present $1,000 for single persons and to $3,000 from $2,000 for married taxpayers.

4. An old age pension of $65 a month payable to all at the age of 65 for men and 60 for women.

5. Collective bargaining rights for government employees, along with the extension of the checkoff of union dues to labor unions with membership in the government service.

NATO Chief To Request 1,200 Planes

PARIS (AP)—Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther will ask the North Atlantic Treaty Organization next week for 1,200 more planes and a 10-per-cent increase in NATO ground forces, informed sources report.

The plane shortage still is the weakest gap in the Western Europe defence structure, Gruenther will tell the ministers of the 14 NATO countries which open their 12th meeting in Paris Monday.

It's a good bet the ministers will give the supreme Allied commander in Europe all the planes and troops he is asking for, or nearly all.

NATO POSSIBILITIES

If they do, NATO will have:

1. An air force of about 5,600 planes. It now has close to 4,400 planes, but Russia is estimated to have 20,000.

2. Ground forces totalling around 108 front-line and reserve divisions. It now has 98, including the Greek and Turkish armies.

More than 50 foreign, defence and finance ministers of the NATO countries began gathering in Paris this weekend for the three-day meeting. The Canadian delegation will be headed by Defence Minister Claxton and External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Johnston at Monday's meeting of the North Hastings Ministerial association, held at the United Church parsonage, Coe Hill. After describing the work done at St. Francis, a home for delinquent boys in Kansas, where he was previously engaged, Mr. Johnston went on to suggest ways in which the churches and clergy could help with the growing delinquency problem in Canada. Tobacco As Cancer Cause Challenged By Professor

NEW YORK (AP) — Tobacco company stocks took a tumble Wednesday, apparently reacting to medical and scientific reports which hinted at a connection between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

The reports, however, have not gone unchallenged.

E. Cuyler Hammond, Yale professor of biometry (statistical studies of human life) and statistical research director for the American Cancer Society, says there is still no proof—only indications—that cigarette smoking causes lung cancer.

At New Haven, Conn., Hammond said a study he is directing of the smoking habits of 204,000 men does not warrant "even a most preliminary analysis of the relationship between smoking and cancer."

TESTS NOT FINAL

Concerning other studies already made of smoking in relation to human cancer, Hammond said:

"Certain investigators, including myself, are not completely convinced as to the validity of the results in spite of the fact that a number of independent studies conducted in more or less the same way led to more or less the same apparent conclusions."

Hammond added that laboratory evidence gives no positive proof that cigarette smoking causes lung cancer "but it is highly sugestive."

In Winston-Salem, N. C., Wednesday, the president of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co., E. A. Darr, said there has been "no real or substantiated evidence showing cigarettes cause lung cancer."

Slain Teen-Agers Unearthed From Old Well

PAMPLICO, S. C. (AP) — The battered head of a pretty 15-year-old schoolgirl and the body of her boy friend were dug out of an abandoned well near here Wednesday night.

Sheriff John Hanna said both had been shot. The decapitated body of Betty Clair Cain had been found Monday in a shallow grave overlooking the Pee Dee river. Her companion was Harvey Allen, 22.

Police announced that several men are being held for questioning.

Hanna said a wallet and watch were missing from Allen's pockets.

The sheriff said the girl's head and Allen's body were badly beaten.

LEFT HOME ON DATE

The couple was last seen Sunday at 7:30 p. m. when they left the girl's home on a date. Early Monday Allen's bloodstained car was found behind a schoolhouse, three miles from the river. The headless body of the girl was found in the grave by the river that night.

The search turned to the abandoned well Tuesday. The well is about one-half mile from where the girl's body was found.

A layer of gravel was on top of the well, but fresh earth prompted officers to dig into it. They came upon the girl's coat first. Beneath a pile of cornshucks was her head. Buried below it was Allen's body, stuffed head down.

The finding of the girl's head came only a few hours after her body was buried. A medical report said she had been raped.

Police theorized that because of the difficulty of finding the well, a local person probably committed the crime.

Aviation Writer Dies In England

LONDON (Reuters) — Charles Grey Grey, 78, prominent aviation writer who almost caused an international incident in the Second World War by a derogatory reference to the United States, died Wednesday night.

In 1911 he founded Aeroplane, the British aviation weekly, and edited it until 1939. From 1916 to 1942 he was editor and compiler of Jane's "All The World's Aircraft"—a semi-official reference book.

Grey unleashed a storm of criticism when in the 1940 edition of Jane's he mentioned that the U. S had decided "to support the war financially 'to the last Englishman.'" All copies of the edition were withdrawn by the publishers.

He said afterwards: "I used the expression ironically at the expense of American isolationists."

Campbellford Plans Santa Claus Parade

CAMPBELLFORD (ENS) — Plans for the Santa Claus parade on Saturday have been completed. Service clubs, merchants and other organizations are busy finishing the decorated floats.

The annual parade draws a large crowd. The population of the town is almost doubled, as residents of neighboring towns and villages come to Campbellford.

The procession will start this year from the public school at 2 p.m. After touring the town, Santa and his helpers will stop off at the arena to greet the children and give them each a bag of candy.

Welsh Hymn-Writer Dies, Aged 93

CARDIFF, Wales (AP) — Dr. Howell Elvet Lewis, hymn writer and clergyman known as "the grand old man of Wales," died Wednesday night at Penarth, near here. He was 93.

Although blind, he preached up to a few weeks ago in Welsh Congregational pulpits.

He wrote more than 200 hymns, some of which were sung around the world.

Dr. Lewis served for a time as Archdruid of Wales, office of highest distinction in the Eisteddfod, association of Welsh singing societies.

Escapees Get More Prison

HAILEYBURY (CP) — Two youths and a man were each sentenced to 18 months in penitentiary Wednesday for car theft, to bring to 3½ years their sentences for offences committed after they broke from penitentiary last August.

The three are Percy Coe, 21, his brother Joseph, 31, both of Cobalt, and James McCooey, 23, of Englehart.

They were convicted earlier at Kapuskasing of breaking, entering and theft and attempting to escape custody and given two years in penitentiary.

Police said the offences were committed within two weeks after the three broke out of Collins Bay penitentiary near Kingston, where they had been serving 2½ years on another breaking, entering and theft charge. They still face charges of escaping.

25 Per Cent. Postal Increase

The Finance Minister, Mr. Douglas Abbott, has told the Commons that he desires to increase the ordinary letter rate in Canada by 25 per cent., to extend the local rate to rural routes, and to merge the air mail with the surface mail service. We see no reason to suppose that this move will meet with any very strong opposition, and although the increase is a very large one, we do not think that it will be found intolerable. The Post Office Department has been a money-loser for many years, and there is no reason why it should not pay its way. But we are quite sure that if the public is expected to pay more for postal service it will expect—no, not a better service, but at least a return to the quality of service which this country enjoyed for many years before 1940.

* * *

In Mr. Abbott's statement there is a suggestion that the increase it to take care of the needs of an increased Postal Department staff, working shorter hours. The public will not care particularly about this; of course the public wants Postal Service employees to have a square deal, but their chief interest in the Postal Service is to get their letters carried and delivered as fast as possible. For some years the Canadian postal system has been in decline, both in long carriage and in local delivery. No explanation has even been given as to why this should be so—no explanation, that is to say, which can hold water. For years we have put up with a basically dishonest system which works on the notion that a business letter, stamped with a four-cent stamp, is entitled to better delivery service than a private letter, also stamped with a four-cent stamp. If the postal rate is to be raised, the standard of service should be raised 25 per cent., as well.

* * *

If the Post Office is to have more money, could it not also have some reform at the top—some consideration of its higher officials? In particular, could it not have some new method of selecting its stamp designs? Canada at present enjoys the disagreeable distinction of being a first-rate nation with fifth-rate stamps—ugly in design and clumsy in workmanship. A new and dispiriting depth was reached in the stamps which were issued this year to celebrate the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth. If those stamps represent the thinking and taste of the Post Office Department, it is time we imported a skilled civil servant from Britain or the U.S.A. to teach our Department the elements of its work.

Bright Lights Behind

The hitch-hiking soldier near Port Arthur who obliged his truck driver by smashing the headlights of a car coming up behind took rough measures to teach a lesson in care and courtesy. We cannot—nor could the Port Arthur court—wholly condemn him. Thoughtless or inconsiderate people sometimes do not lower their headlights when approaching another car. Many do not bother to lower them when coming up behind a car ahead. Yet the glare of headlights behind, reflected in one's own rear-view mirror, is almost as menacing and troublesome as the blinding top lights of an approaching car.

Common courtesy and care require a driver approaching another car, or perhaps trailing it for many miles, to lower his lights. The Port Arthur truck driver complained to his hitch-hiking soldier passenger about being blinded by the lights of the car behind. The truck was stopped, the soldier got out, flagged the offending car behind, and then smashed its headlights. He explained: "If people in this part of the country don't know how to dim their headlights I'll show them". He did — with vengeance.

Alive At The End

President Eisenhower's presence and speech at the end of the eighth U.N. Assembly on Tuesday was the one big bright and productive feature of the sessions which have otherwise been dull and indecisive.

Resolutions were adopted on the least contentious matters, action on more pressing and aggravating issues was postponed or averted. The most important resolution to succeed in passing was the one to revive the Disarmament Commission, and that gained importance only through President Eisenhower's support of it Tuesday; otherwise it would have been a still-born resolution. It makes it possible for the Great Powers to negotiate privately on disarmament, if they so wish.

"Failed two-thirds" was the fate of important resolutions brought before the Political Committee (to pass the assembly a two-thirds majority is required). So the Assembly came to no decisions about Morocco, Tunisia, Burma or Korea—yet all these matters should be within the province of U.N.—aggression here, disturbances there, contentious issues elsewhere. At the beginning of the sessions, Mr. Lloyd, British delegate, said that "great issues were hanging in the balance." They are still hanging. As he said before returning home, the balance has not been tilted in favour of peaceful solutions; however, neither has it been tilted the other way.

Mr. Vishinsky's characterization of it as a "transitional assembly" seems apt, particularly in view of the hope given it and the world on Tuesday. Before the next Assembly convenes a "meeting of minds" and the co-operative activity in diplomatic channels may have prepared the way for decisions and action which this present Assembly could not take.

Insincerity In Sports

From time to time we receive a pamphlet called The Printed Word which is issued by a Toronto firm of public relations counsel—or, as the coarse old expression was, press agents; in the P. W. they seem to be beating the drum for Conservatism, but not loudly enough for us to be quite sure. But in the last issue to reach us, they assert that many people claim to be interested in the arts, who are not so, because an interest in the arts is supposed to bring prestige; they add to this doubtful opinion the following, which we consider wrong-headed:

> While art may attract the insincere, sports are usually a touchstone of sincerity. Few sit on the windswept bleachers at an autumn football game who are not enthusiasts for it. Watching hockey is more comfortable, but not without its inconvenience, and the hundreds of Canadian amateur players would receive salaries much lower than they now do if people were not sincerely interested in the game.

Not so: not so. There is quite as much insincerity among the spectators of football and hockey as at the symphony. We have made a careful and statistical study of the subject, and we know. Here are our figures.

At any football match, 67 per cent. of the women under 30 present are there because the boy-friend is a football addict and they must go or lose him. At the same match 58 per cent. of the men present are there because their women have dragged them there. At all baseball matches 27 per cent. of the people present are there because a business acquaintance has insisted on being taken at the firm's expense. At all hockey matches 23 per cent. of the spectators are there because their children insisted on being taken; 45 per cent. of the women were made to go with their men; 37 per cent. of the men were made to go with their women; 62 per cent. of the players would rather be at the movies, but it is the only way they can earn a living.

There is a lot of phoniness about appreciation of art, but it would be pitiably naive to assume that there is no phoniness in the enthusiasm for sport.

What Food Is Rationed In Britain?

We have been asked if any food is still rationed in Britain. Here is our answer. Meat and bacon are rationed, but this will end next summer. Cheese and fats, the only other food on ration, will also be freed from controls next year. This will end all food rationing in Britain.

The United Kingdom Information Office in Ottawa informs us further of the following:

> "The allocation and price control of meat will be ended next summer and its import restored to private traders. Detailed arrangements for the import of meat under private trade will be discussed with the appropriate authorities in the supplying countries.
>
> "Marketing arrangements are to be introduced for home produced meat, which will guarantee British farmers a certain minimum return, but prices of all kinds of meat, both home produced and imported, will be regulated by supply and demand.
>
> "Milk products will also be decontrolled next summer and the import of all milk products into Britain will be restored to private traders. But since some element of subsidy will remain, milk prices will continue to be subject to Government approval.

Heavy Vote

The Toronto Globe and Mail complains about the "dry rot of indifference" shown in the Toronto civic elections, when only 28.8 per cent. of the voters went to the polls. Here in Peterborough, we wish to point out, there was certainly no such rot; by official count 61.87 per cent. of the voters used their ballots. It was the heaviest municipal election in Peterborough in a decade.

NOTES AND COMMENT

You are getting old if you can remember the time when every house had a parlour and a guest room.

The day is foreseen when everybody will live to be 90. Let's see: if work begins at 20, and retirement comes at 65, that means that mankind will work for half his lifetime. Superficially, that's good.

ONE ORTHODOX PANTOMIME

London's Christmas Shows

By IVOR BROWN

THE FACT that there is to be only one orthodox pantomime in central London this Christmas has been attributed to the more dominant appeal of ice pantomime, with its swaying beauty of massed skaters in gliding motion and its slippery humours of clowns and damsels with the skids underneath them.

But one simple reason for the thinning-out of London pantomimes is that of late they have not been sufficiently funny in the old, robustious way. The taste in decoration has improved: but the antics have dwindled. Pretty, fanciful pantomime does not please the wider public. The drastic drolls, the assault-and-battery men and the Dames who aren't ashamed of the old leering arms-akimbo fun, are the props of pantomime in the provinces.

* * *

WHEN RECENTLY some of the London pantomimes were launched without enough clowning at a bundle of whimsy instead, they invited the decline and even the fall of an institution whose appeal, outside the capital, is rightly or wrongly, so enormous that pantomimes go on running in the big industrial cities almost until Easter.

More serious playgoers regard this as a nuisance, because the stages on which they might be seeing a succession of interesting plays are booked up with the Christmas revels which continue until the end of March. But since the pantomimes stay on, profitably, in response to genuine public demand, there is nothing to be done about it by those who find them wearisome.

* * *

MEANWHILE, in central London, the Palladium remains faithful to pantomime, and in the public remains faithful to the Palladium, because it always includes a good, vigorous, rip-roaring type of comedy as well as exotic "turns" and lavish decoration. Richard Hearne, known and beloved on television screens as Mr. Pastry, will be there in the new "Cinderella"; his physical elasticity and glorious capers have not yet been effected by the years. Max Bygraves will be his chief ally.

At the Empress Hall, near Earl's Court, Norman Wisdom, a comedian who stands largely on his charming capacity for collapse, appears in the iced version of "Sinbad the Sailor." And there will be three circuses available, at Olympia, Harringay and Earl's Court.

* * *

THE AMERICAN musicals, such as "Guys and Dolls" (Coliseum), "The King and I" (Drury Lane) and "Paint Your Wagon" (Her Majesty's) may be packed out during the holidays: so it is well to remember that the British, too, can score in this line, and that "Love from Judy" a native product with the new native star, Jean Carson, is in its second year at the Saville.

There will be a fresh intimate revue at the Lyric, Hammersmith, where such revues have been well done in the past; while "Airs on A Shoestring" continues to draw a steady public to the Court in Sloane Square. Both these shows are British in writing, theme and performance. They are produced without display; brains are the chief ingredient.

* * *

IT WILL NOT BE a very merry Christmas for those who fancy the classics. The enormously popular visit to London of the Stratford-upon-Avon company in "Antony and Cleopatra" will have ended, as the team has engagements on the Continent. Donald Wolfit, who has been playing a wide range of tragedies and comedies at the King's Hammersmith, will have abandoned the old masters for J. M. Barrie; he is to play Captain Hook and Mr. Darling in the "Peter Pan" revival at the Scala. If G. B. S. (George Bernard Shaw) be now deemed a classic, the classicists can welcome a capital Shaw revival at the St. James's where Kay Hammond and John Clements are to be seen in the ever-popular "Pygmalion."

* * *

THE OLD VIC will have no general comedy available until January 6, when "Twelfth Night" comes into the repertory to suit the day. On Boxing Day there will be two performances of that far-from-genial comedy, "All's Well That Ends Well" a piece with such improbable and unpleasant episodes that it is rarely acted at all. This must surely be the first time in its history that it has been put forward as a Christmas attraction, and given twice on the Bank Holiday.

Of serious modern drama the two examples of most appeal are T. S. Eliot's "The Confidential Clerk" (Lyric) and Roger Macdougall's "Escapade" (Strand). In the former, one of the oldest plots about the relation of the adopted child to the adopting parent is retold in modern dress, with Mr. Eliot's special form of semi-comedy written in semi-poetry. Those who have not seen Mr. MacDougall's play, with its amusing mixture of doctrine and high spirits, its prickly pacifist and its triumphant schoolboys, should find it satisfactory, since it blends a broad holiday mirth with just a little political message.

"Carrington, V.C.," at the Westminster, makes an effective story of a court-martial in which the hero is the victim, since he has stooped legally in order to conquer morally. At Wyndhams there is Graham Greene's "The Living Room," with Eric Portman as an invalid priest involved in the conflict of compassion for a girl in love with a strict and Catholic moral code.

* * *

IT WILL NOT be easy to get seats for "A Day by the Sea" with its cluster of stars. Mr. N. C. Hunter's play has been described as moving and melancholy, and certainly it delivers no inspiring message and invites no holiday guffaws. But if you are not put off by a portrait of an old family going downhill, now gracefully, now grumpily and sometimes very oddly, then it is undeniable that the workmanship which presents this domestic group is the finest our stage can manage. Of the many stars assembled, I particularly enjoyed Dame Sybil Thorndike's picture of a practical, perplexed mother, kindly, but capable of snapping out: a role fascinating in its humours and humanity and perfectly rendered.

* * *

FOR PLEASANT LEVITY I can recommend Jack Buchanan and his company in "As Long As They're Happy" at the Garrick, and Yvonne Armaud in "Dear Charles" at the New. While for those who must have a crime or a corpse at Christmas, Agatha Christie is a benefactress twice over, since "The Mousetrap" is still running at the Ambassadors and the huge Winter Garden is being well-filled by her trial play with amazing twist and turns called "Witness for the Prosecution."

At the Globe, Emlyn Williams, having abandoned his superb impersonations of Dickens on the dais, is back in his old role of author and actor with a tale of murder both practised and avenged. His new play, "Someone Waiting," reminds one of his eerie touch in "Night Must Fall." If one cannot enjoy Christmas play going without something to mitigate the Christmas spirit, here is a piece to give one the shivers and keep one guessing too.

An American Opinion:
HE LOOKS ENVIOUSLY TOWARD CANADA

The Criminal Driver

(MONTREAL STAR)

A MOTORIST was sentenced to 15 months in jail for manslaughter yesterday, and his driving privileges were cancelled for ten years. In sentencing this man after an accident which took three lives, Mr. Justice Lazure noted that ordinarily in cases of this kind juries recommend a reduction of the charge to one of dangerous driving. The driver thus benefits from the less severe sentence the judge is able to impose for the less serious offence.

This practice of juries reflects a state of mind that has developed in recent years. This state of mind takes the view that automobile accidents are just unfortunate mishaps for which nobody is really to blame. It never seems to occur to some people that the motorist who drives dangerously and kills someone is a criminal by definition of the law and should be so considered by the public. It is true he does not set out to kill someone. That is why the law makes a difference between manslaughter and murder. But setting up a difference of definition between manslaughter and murder does not make the former less of an offence. There is such a thing as justifiable homicide, but manslaughter is not in this case.

The point labored a little bit here is that we are coming to regard motoring offences with too lenient an eye. So long as we do that the driver will go on thinking that he is immune from the ordinary laws. He will go on thinking that criminal acts committer while driving are not really offences and that if he is caught at them he is more to be pitied than censured.

This kind of thinking is responsible for a great many accidents on the highways. Only the strictest enforcement of the law will change it.

Sentence By The Jury

(VICTORIA TIMES)

New and revolutionary powers would be given to juries in murder cases by the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Capital Punishment published in Britain the other day.

After four years' study the commission calls for a change in penalty which would provide an alternative to the death sentence for murder and would leave the decision on that question up to the jury, not the judge.

Capital punishment would not be abolished—the commission was not empowered to consider that point—but juries would weigh extenuating circumstances in each particular crime and might impose prison terms in place of hanging.

Conviction in a case of cold-blooded murder would still carry the death penalty. In other instances, where the evidence did not justify reduction of the verdict to manslaughter, consideration would be given to other factors. As The Times (London) Weekly Review puts it, attention would be paid to the "now accepted principle that punishment has to be fitted not to the crime, but to the criminal. Rejecting, therefore, the notion of two degrees of murder they substitute that of two classes of murderer, distinguished by whether sufficient extenuating factors to justify leniency can be found, whether in the circumstances of the crime itself or in the murderer's whole character and record."

The change would place a new responsibility on juries whose duties have been solely to pronounce upon facts, not to concern themselves with sentence.

The procedure would call for a second trial after the original verdict had been returned and at that second trial extenuating circumstances would be closely scrutinized. Questions of insanity during the commission of the crime would be carefully weighed, together with the matter of provocation. The latter would be extended to take in words as well as deeds which might lead to a killing.

Many other particulars of murder trials received the attention of the commission. It would, among other things, alter the phrasing of sentence, relieve judges of the ritual of donning the black cap to pronounce the death sentence and leave to their discretion the concluding: "And may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

The commission would exempt all persons under 21 from the death sentence. At present the minimum age is 18. It would acquit persons on grounds of insanity without declaring them "guilty but insane". It would make no distinctions as to sex. No greater leniency would be shown women than men. On the highly controversial question of "mercy killings" it could reach no satisfactory definition distinguishing such acts from murder.

Unquestionably the most important element in the commission's recommendations was that giving the jury the right to pass sentence. That, in itself, appears to have obvious merit. Under existing law the jury pronounces the verdict. The judge says the words which consign the guilty person to the gallows. With the proposed new sentencing authority the jury could still be the determining factor in requiring capital punishment, but it could also qualify the results of its decisions.

A more flexible instrument is recommended in murder trials and a more humane approach is made to the prisoner. That should ease the consciences of honest jurors, probably lead to more convictions, but not necessarily increase the number of executions.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I have called upon thee, for thou wilt hear me, O God: incline thine ear unto me, and hear my speech. Keep me as the apple of the eye, hide me under the shadow of thy wings, from the wicked that oppress me, from my deadly enemies, who compass me about. (Ps. 17:6, 8, 9.)

* * *

I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress: my God: in him will I trust... He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust: his truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

Thou shalt not be afraid for the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day: nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness: nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday.

A thousand shall fall at thy side, and ten thousand at thy right hand: but it shall come nigh thee. Because thou hast made the Lord, which is my refuge, even the most High, thy habitation: there shall be no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling. Ps. 91:2, 4-7, 9, 10.)

Animals Not Competitive

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Humans are zealous in their attempts to swim channels, to climb mountains, break speed records and reach outer space. Birds and animals rarely do things which are not motivated by instinct and the basic rules of survival. A bird flies across a river simply to get to the other side. If nature gives them a speed of flight superior to their fellows, they leave it at that.

We have no knowledge of one species of birds or animals competing with others for the distinction of being faster or stronger. They use their strength and speed to catch their prey or to fly above a storm, and they have a determined nature to adjust themselves to their faculties and to live in the habitat they like.

It is difficult to say whether man, with his inquiring nature and his fondness for challenge, is in the long run any more adjusted to his environment than the birds who fly curiously around mountain climbers and wonder in their little bird-brains what purpose the climbers have in risking their lives to reach the top.

Young Hoodlums

(Moose Jaw Times-Herald)

The frequency of wilful and wanton destruction of property by juveniles in Moose Jaw indicates that parental control is lax to the point that youngsters and teen-agers have householders in a terrorized state.

Never a week goes by but what there are instances of flagrant and unrestrained destruction.

Aerials are torn off cars parked on streets. Side-view mirrors are wrenched from cars and trucks, and the body of the vehicle damaged by the vandals. Private garages are broken into and anything moveable is stolen.

Rocks are thrown through windows of homes, and verandahs are messed up with filth and oily substances, which are so destructive that only a complete repainting job will remove them.

Windows in garages are smashed by stone-throwers and the point has been reached when no citizen is safe to leave anything moveable loose around his premises.

Sound Advice

(Charlottetown Guardian)

The advice of Agriculture Minister Gardiner, derived from a Scots grandfather, is that farmers should find what their farm was best suited to produce and then keep on producing it. With the necessary and understood qualification that the product must be in demand at a generally profitable price the advice would seem to be good. In again, out again tactics are hard to follow successfully.

Cobourg Beats Lakefield By An 8 to 4 Count In Lakeshore Puck Fray

Cobourg doubled the score, 8-4, on Lakefield Indians, Wednesday night at Civic Arena, when the Maundrell Lakeshore puck pack put on a bang-up display in each period of lightning-play to gain their second triumph of the young intermediate "A" hockey season. A small crowd of rain-soaked fans watched the battle. Despite the score, play proved fairly close territorially; and Indians fought hard to the finish, only to see their best efforts boomerang. The visitors gained a 3-1 edge in the final frame, to wrap up the verdict going away.

Referee Doug Calhoun meted out 20 penalties for a variety of minor offences in the rugged duel, with "honors" divided evenly.

OPENED SCORING

Jack Irvine opened scoring at the quarter mark in the first period, when he lined a blueline drive past Ray Harding; Doug Fisher drew an assist on the screened play. The visitors made it two, midway in the frame, when the latter coasted in on the Indian custodian with a short pass from Dave Casey and whistled a high right-wing scorcher to the mesh.

Ab Caravaggio put Lakefield on the map from Doug Hunter and Ace Reid, on a passout with Keen in the coop; but Jack Fisher came through for Cobourg just before the gong, to give his team a 3-1 edge. It was touch and go thereafter, with a bitter battle for supremacy in the mid-session. Each team tallied twice consecutively with Neil Wasson, Reid, Buck Legrow and Bernie Flesch the marksmen for their respective teams; Dick McCracken and Casey each lent a hand on one.

FINISH STRONG

Cobourg showed superior stamina and class in the final and, following an early smart tally by Kenny Floyd that put Indians close, the Maundrell gang pumped in three goals without cracking enough defensively to allow their rivals further chances to narrow the gap. Jack Reeves, John Fisher and Hunter scored, in that order. Five penalties hurt the losers in the final however, and referee Calhoun aroused the ire of local fans for a few so-called "cheap" calls. Lakefield currently occupies fourth place; Cobourg is last, but climbing fast.

GOAL-MOUTH ACTION — Fresh from an upset victory over Orono, Cobourg Comets skated to another upset win Wednesday night when they downed Cam Wasson's Lakefield intermediates 8-4 at Civic Arena. Although rough, but not as rough as previous meetings, the game was the fastest intermediate game seen at the arena this year. Atkins And Big Montana Counted Out Of Ring In Main Pro Grapple Go Suffering a case of hydrophobia in the ring, Fred Atkins, the ruffian from Australia, and Hombre Montana, one of the Andes moved to North America, took to the open places, namely the ringsides Wednesday night at the main bout of the weekly wrestling. They didn't know, but that move was their undoing. While they were trading elbow and body slams, hurling each other through the air, and punching, Referee Joe Gollob disqualified them. Since that was the third fall, both wrestlers taking a fall previously, the bout was called a draw, much to the disgust of Atkins.

The disqualification came quickly, practically before fans were seated following the intermission after the second fall.

Subduing the 325-pound South American with a series of punches, kicks and knees, Atkins rather rudely hoisted Montana high above his head and proceeded to pitch him through the ropes to the ringside.

DRAGS FRED OUT

Despite Gollob's efforts, Atkins kept kicking Montana every time the "little" wrestler tried to climb back in. But Atkins' tactics backfired and before he knew it, he was at ringside with Montana. The South American had grabbed Atkins' foot, dragging him through the ropes to the floor.

Slightly angered by this illegal move, Atkins once more hoisted the mountain of a man above his shoulders, throwing him to the hardwood floor. As Atkins raced for the ring, Montana recovered enough to once more grab Atkins' leg, holding him still outside.

Then as Gollob frantically beckoned to timer Fred Scates to ring the bell, Montana applied a bear hug, gradually squeezing the air from Atkins' lungs. That ended the fight.

The first fall went to Atkins in the first 12 minutes after he had mauled the South American into a semi-conscious state. Holding Montana's beard and arm, Atkins was rushing Montanan into the hard corner. After three head-on crashes, Montana went limp and Atkins easily applied a top spread for the fall.

EACH HAS TURN

Atkins played the role of the teacher and Montana the pupil in the second fall. The Australian propped Montana in the corner and then used the human battering ram. Rescued by Gollob, Montana came back, applied the same on Atkins, showing he had been a wide-awake pupil. This time Atkins went limp and Montana applied a back-breaker for the fall.

Sky-Hi Lee, the villain from Arkansas, had an abundance of muscle, bone, fat and tricks to force the ring-wise Irishman, Timothy Geohagen, to a draw in the semi-ginal.

Towering over the stocky Timothy, the 292-pound Lee found his strength was equalled by Geohagen's. Therefore he resorted to some hair-pulling, kicking and choking. This didn't help Lee for it only made the Irishman angry. Timothy lowered the boom several times, but never hard enough to lay Lee low.

Reyes Nacho, TV star from Arizona, appeared for a while in the first bout to be the winner, despite his use of hair-pulling, biting, punching, kicking, over England's Alan Garfield. But Garfield rallied, found extra strength in his anger, threw Nacho here and there, and then applied the grapevine for the fall at the 22-minute mark.

Didn't Want Play For Team

QUEBEC (CP)—Goalie Jacques Marcotte said Wednesday night a recent statement before the executive of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association that he did not want to play for Quebec Citadelles expressed his personal feelings and was not prompted by legal advice.

In an interview, Marcotte said: "I made the statement at a meeting of the CAHA executive Monday and I repeat it. I don't want to play for Citadelles. . . ."

Marcotte was commenting on a Kitchener report that quoted Citadelles coach Phil Watson as saying Marcotte wanted to leave Quebec Frontenacs of the Quebec Junior join the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A club.

Statements to the contrary, Watson was quoted as saying, were "all baloney . . . and statements from Frontenac lawyers."

GRANT'S SPORT CORNER

By DON GRANT

Old Nick will soon be here. In fact, the jolly old fellow will be sliding down chimneys two weeks tonight.

It's hard to realize that Christmas is here once again. However, the appearances of Santa in downtown stores, the colored street lights, the trees on the lamp-posts, the gaily decorated windows, and several trips to the finance company all go along with Christmas. There are only 11 more shopping days.

A good snowfall would cure our tardiness in Christmas shopping. It would also make many people happy, especially the ski enthusiasts who have been working for the past two months preparing for their favorite sport.

It was a discouraging season last year in the Peterborough district but skiing enthusiasm seems to be just as strong as ever. In fact from the new faces seen at the ski night this week at the YMCA, skiing would boom providing Mother Nature comes through.

The Peterborough Ski Club, one of the best known clubs in the province, has been organized and ready for more than a month. Waddy Waterman, a noted cross-country skier, is president assisted by Jim Hooper as vice-president. Jack Sackville is secretary and Jerry Williams the treasurer.

Membership chairmen, Ted and Joan McCaig have been busy selling annual tickets for the club and tows. Doug Fanning has been equally busy arranging competitions. Walter Griffin and Don Earle are looking after properties and tows and Toby Westbye the juniors.

The work is not just confined to the Peterborough district. President Waddy along with his wife, secretary Jack and his wife, attended the semi-annual meeting in Collingwood when the various meets for Ontario were allocated.

Jim and Mollie Craig have also done more than their share of work for the Ontario organization. Jim has taken a great interest in junior skiers. He is a believer in teaching the young ones to ski. He spends as much time as he can at his duties as Ontario junior chairman. Wife Mollie also has her hands full as chairman of the ladies' section for the province.

Going back to the recent meeting in Collingwood, the Southern Ontario zone asked the Peterborough club to be host for the senior men' and juniors' four-way meets. Although this is a large undertaking the club agreed and consented to make arrangements for the meet for sometime in January. It will be held at Bethany (cross-country, slalom and downhill) and at Nassau (jumping).

Jim points out that the Peterborough club hopes to have a number of junior competing. The winners will advance to the Ontario meet in Collingwood in February. From the Ontario winners, a team will be chosen to represent the province in the Canadian junior championships at Fort William.

Jumping At Nassau

The junior ski school, operated on Saturdays at Kemp's Hill, has helped bring the youngsters along. A number, providing they get some practice before hand, should do well in these meets.

Toby Westbye, another veteran skier, has made arrangements for the schools this season. All they're waiting for is some snow and they'll probably start sometime in January.

All the work so far hasn't been done indoors. For the past six weeks the skiers have been working on their grounds at Bethany on the weekends. They've been putting up snow fences, testing motors and readying the tow ropes (they've two, one about 1,200 feet and the other about 700 feet). The chalet has been cleaned, ready for operations.

For a while, that one weekend in November, the ski enthusiasts throughout the district brought their poles and skiis out of moth balls for an hour. Several boys including Ian Blaiklock and Ross Dobbin went down the slope at Kemp's Hill.

Given a teaser taste then, the skiers have been hopefully looking up at the skies, patiently waiting for another white blanket to cover their favorite hills. Let's hope we don't have to wait too long.

Robert Peirson Re-elected Prexy Of Lacrosse Club

Bob Peirson was returned as president of the Peterborough Trailermen of the senior OLA at the annual club meeting held last night in the Public Library. It will be his fourth term, the club having won the Mann Cup three times in a row as Canadian senior "A" lacrosse champions.

The 1954 executive nomination slate, as submitted by Mick Magee, was voted in as follows: President, R. M. Peirson; vice-president, Gordon Dobbin; secretary, Mick Magee; treasurer, Howard McLean; directors, Ken Kingston, Jack Gainey, Pete King, James Goldie, Garth Braund, Bob Curtin, Harry Tudhope, Dr. Jack Epping, with one more to be appointed. Howard McLean gave notice that he would resign when a replacement could be made, and Gordon Dobbin also intimated he would be unable to act this year. Paul Irwin retired when his term was up.

Various reports were submitted and there was talk of a possible junior-senior amalgamation this year. The coach and manager will be appointed at the next meeting.

Leafs Blank Habs In 3-0 Triumph, Have 41 Penalties

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The repercussions were expected to come thick and fast today after what some say was the roughtest game in National Hockey League history. Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs, the two "feudingest" clubs in the business, kicked up such a penalty ruckus Wednesday night that league officials probably will go into a huddle to take some action. A record 41 penalties, give or take a few, were handed out by referee Frank Udvari as the third-place Leafs blanked the league-leading Canadiens 3-0 in Toronto.

It was a rhubarb, to say the least. By the time Udvari had finished his work in the third period only nine players were on the ice and the benches were empty. Conn Smythe, Leaf managing director, said it was the "war of 1812."

BIG BLOWUP

The big blowup, which surpassed the 25 penalties given to Detroit Red Wings and the Leafs Oct. 12, 1952, came at 18:12 of the third period after Leafs had taken a 3-0 lead. Thirty-one penalties were assessed in that period alone, including four majors and 21 10-minute misconducts and automatic $25 fines.

In the only other game Wednesday night, second-place Red Wings and the fifth-place New York Rangers fought to a 3-3 deadlock at New York.

The Toronto game, fairly quiet for the first two periods, broke wide open in the third when the Leafs' Ron Stewart and Montreal's Bud MacPherson started trading blows. It was mayhem after that.

Tom Johnson of Montreal moved in to separate them and Stewart slugged Johnson on the chin. Players rushed from the benches and sticks and gloves went flying.

TACKLED 3 PLAYERS

At one time, Harry Watson tackled three Montreal players. Bob Solinger of the leafs and Canadiens' Bert Olmstead started punching. MacPherson switched to Toronto centre Eric Nesterenko. Paul Masnick of Montreal and Toronto defenceman Fern Flaman slugged it out.

The sellout crowd of 13,426 was going wild. Udvari was frantic. Nobody could tell who was hitting whom.

However, Udavari got things squared away and ordered both coaches to clear their benches. After giving four penalties in the first period and six in the second, he threw the book in the third.

Udvari ordered major penalties for fighting to MacPherson, defenceman Tom Johnson of Montreal, Nesterenko and Stewart after the big fight.

4 PLAYERS ON ICE

Each team had only four players on the ice. Toronto had defencemen Hugh Bolton and Tim Horton, centre Ted Kennedy and goalkeeper Harry Lumley. Montreal went with rightwinger Bert Olmstead, defenceman Butch Bouchard, centre Jonnny McCormack and netminder Gerry McNeil.

Said Smythe:

"I don't want to say much. All I want to know is when the Canadiens will be back here."

There was no mention of NHL president Clarence Campbell being asked to investigate the brawl. However some officials said after the game "we don't doubt that he will."

The Leafs took a 1-0 lead on George Armstrong's goal at 4:56 of the first period. Kennedy and left-winger Sid Smith tallied in the second.

CAME FROM BEHIND

At New York, Rangers, who have not beaten Red Wings this season, came from behind to tie the score 2-2. Camille Henry, centre Max Bentley and defenceman Hy Buller accounted for the Ranger scoring. Gordie Howe, Tony Leswick and Johnny Wilson tallied for Detroit.

Rangers spotted the Wings two goals in the second period before coming to life. Howe scored at 5:01 when he batted the puck past Johnny Bower and Leswick made it 2-0 at 8:44.

Bentley put the Rangers back in the game at 12:51 and Buller deadlocked the score at 18:40. Then Henry came through in the third period but Wilson ruined that.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

By CHARLES H. SPEARIN

According to the newest census figures of scouting across Canada there are 389 Lone Scouts. Living on farms or in villages where there are not enough boys of scout age to form a troop, these boys choose a "Counsellor and Friend" and carry on their scouting under his guidance.

The registered Lone Scout is just as much a member of the World Brotherhood of Scouting as is the boy who who belongs to a troop in town or city. As a matter of fact, in his outdoor opportunities the Lone Scout is better able to follow the ideas of the Founder, Lord Baden-Powell than is the average town or city scout. The real outdoors is just beyond the kitchen door.

The Counsellor and Friend of the Lone Scout is authorized to act as his examiner for the various tests, mailing the results to Provincial Headquarters. He may also act as Scout Master to hear the boy repeat his Law and Promise and invest him with the mauve neckerchief which is the distinguishing mark of the lone Scout. As in the city troops, it is fitting that a boy's parents be present at his investiture so that they also may have an understanding of the Scout Law and Promise, so it is in the case of the Lone Scout.

There are more than 80 Proficiency badges available to second and first class scouts. Of special interest to the Lone Scout are the Bee-Keeper, Dairyman, Farmer, Poultryman and Stockman badges.

2nd ST. LUKE'S PACK

A combined meeting of the St Luke's and St. Andrew's Cub Packs enjoyed the showing of a colored film at St. Luke's church hall last Tuesday evening. A few of the boys' parents attended the meeting as Fred James was invested with the Yellow and Green neckerchief and Garry McFaul was presented with his First Star.

1st ST. JOHN'S PACK

In preparation for their Christmas Party to be held this week the Cubs of St. John's Pack drew names from the hat to see that each would have his gift.

Barry Carew's parents were present when he repeated his law and promise and exchanged his Zulu Boy neckerchief for the Purple and Gold of the St. John's Pack.

The following tests were passed: Barry Carew, time; Peter Ford, time. Leroy Lake, union flay; Bill Collinson and Bob Yudin, message; Hartley Mitchell, thrift and model; Ken Murdock, somersault and balancing; Bill Collinson, artist badge. Team Player's badge was presented to David Gunn.

16th TRINITY TROOP

The Christmas Party of the 16th Trinity Troop is planned for Wed. 16th.

Following that the troop meetings will be discontinued for the Christmas vacation until January 6th.

After a rousing game of floor ball last wednesday evening the troop was divided into classes for test instruction, S. M. Dick Batten taking the tenderfoot class on the Law and Promise while A.S. M. Brian Gibbons coached 2nd class in knots and lashing and P.L. Bill Hendry instructed first class in the lifeline throwing test.

A successful hike was enjoyed last Saturday when 12 scouts with leaders Brian Gibbons and Russell Brierly demonstrated what is meant by "putting the 'out' in scouting."

Having received a course of instruction from Constable Bohn of the O.P.P., the following scouts passed their first class tests in Highway Code and Controlling Traffic: David Dunham, Brian Malcolm, Murray Mann, Donald Spearin, Jim Robinson, James Pollock, Garry Rishor and Robert Perry.

5th PETERBOROUGH

"The cubmasters lost his hat." That was the name of the first game played on Tuesday at the cub meeting. After this, a game of "clear the circle" was played, followed by a game of "pirates treasure."

After teaching the cubs their knots, cubmaster Harry Wooden read a story to them, concerning the origin of the terms Akalia, Buloo, Begherra, and other names connected with the cubs.

White neckerchiefs were given to the invested cubs: Ronnie Harris, Mark Niblett, Murray Stephens, Richard Kearns, Glenn Hughes and Don Kibblewhite.

Military training was the main topic at the scout meeting on Thursday. After being drilled for about a half hour, each patrol got together to make up a skit. Each patrol put on a different skit, much to the enjoyment of the others.

At the end of the evening the Seal Patrol was found to be victorious, for the second week running. They had 389 points to end off with, but the Beaver patrol was close behind with 387.

Royal Ship Slows For Operation

ABOARD S. S. GOTHIC (Reuters)—This ship taking Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh across the South Pacific cut its speed to 12 knots Wednesday night while a crew member underwent an appendix operation aboard.

The Queen's own medical officer, Surgeon-Cmdr. Derek Steel-Perkins, performed the operation on watchman Harry Tucker, 44.

The Gothic is due at Suva, Fiji Islands, Dec. 17 for the next stop on the royal couple's six-month Commonwealth tour.

Though this is hurricane season in these waters, the weather so far has been moderate.

The operation took place as the ship was passing the cloud-capped island of Fatu Hiva, southernmost of the Marquesas group in the Pacific.

The Queen and the duke asked to be kept informed of Tucker's progress, which late at night was reported satisfactory.

Miss Sheila Ingram

STIRLING (ENS) — The funeral of Miss Shiela Dawn Ingram was held on Tuesday afternoon from her late residence, Front St., Stirling, and was largely attended.

eHr rector, Rev. H. C. Secker of St. John's church conduced the service.

The bearers were all young men of the village. Messrs. Maurice Montgomery, John Smith, Bob Eggleton, Don Campbell, Claire Ackers and Bob Balmer.

Internment was made in Stirling cemetery.

Youths Confess Killing

CHICAGO (AP) — Three 'teenagers were held by juvenile authorities today after police said they admitted taking part Monday night in the killing and burying of a youth described as a neighborhood bully. The body of Leonard Pariano, 20, was found in a shallow grave Tuesday near a south side coal yard. Police said Robert Naminski, 15, admitted hitting Pariano on the head with a crowbar after his two companions had lured him into the coal yard.

Seeks Red Debate

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Herschel Shanks, chairman of the Harvard law school forum, has invited former president Truman and Senator Joseph McCarthy to debate communism in the United States before the forum. Shanks said he sent the invitations Dec. 2 but hasn't heard from the ex-president or the Wisconsin Republican senator.

Leaves Formosa

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Rear-Admiral A. P. Storrs, chief of staff of the United States Pacific fleet, left today for Pearl Harbor after three days of high-level conferences here. Storr's talks presumably dealt with general defence and with reported plans to strengthen the Chinese Nationalist navy.

Plan Pollution Talks

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain is inviting about 40 countries to attend an international conference in London next April on ocean oil pollution, Transport Minister Alan Lennox-Boyd told the House of Commons Wednesday. The shorelines of European countries from Britain to Scandinavia have been most affected by pollution, he said.

OFFER $2,000 REWARD—High school students of Toronto's suburban Scarborough township aid in search for Marion McDowell, 17, abducted by a masked gunman as she sat in a parked car with her boy friend on a Scarborough sideroad. Police have offered $1,000 reward and the girl's father has matched the amount for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the kidnapper.

After 14 Years In Army Says Toughest Fight Was With American Boxer

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Capt. Rex Carey of the Buffs, back home after 14 years in the Canadian and British armies, still figures he had the "toughest fight of my life" as a civilian.

Carey, formerly of Victoria, B.C. and once middleweight boxing champion of Canada, has served as a soldier in Sicily, Italy, Ethiopia, Tripoli and Egypt. He holds the Military Cross for action in Sicily, has been a prisoner of war and only recently was leading patrols against Mau Mau gangs in Kenya.

But still, he says, his toughest fight was as a boxer.

"I was fighting a big American sailor in the States," he recalled. "He had a large picture of an oomph girl tattooed on his chest and every time he moved she seemed to wink at me.

"At the end my Negro second said, 'boy, why did you' fight so bad?' And I told him, 'I couldn't keep my eyes off that darned girl.' "

Carey, now on leave near Dover sizing up the possibilities of civvy street, went to Canada with his parents in 1919 and grew up in Victoria. He won the British Columbia title three years in a row. In December, 1937, he became Canadian middleweight champion, defeating Paul Dyzandra of Winnipeg in the finals at Vancouver. Later he turned professional.

He joined the Canadian Scottish at Victoria in 1939 and went overseas with the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry in February, 1940, rising from lance corporal to commissioned rank.

After the war, part of which he spent as a prisoner in Italy, Carey transferred to the British army, forfeiting his Canadian passport. In Addis Ababa, he twice met and talked with Emperor Haile Selassie. In Kenya, the incident he recalls most vividly occurred when a rhinoceros charged while some British officers were taking tea.

The rhino caught one officer and hooked him with his horn. Miraculously, the officer was uninjured. The "spike" went through his packsack.

Hershey Edges Syracuse 3-2; Sullivan Scores

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League race looks pretty much the same as it has for the last few weeks—Buffalo Bisons on top and Hershey Bears trying to catch up.

Wednesday the Bisons downed Cleveland Barons 6-1 and Hershey edged Syracuse Warriors 3-2. In the other game Pittsburgh Hornets moved up into a fourth-place tie with Providence Reds by beating them 3-2.

At Buffalo, Bisons were behind in the first period on a goal by Barons' Chuck Blair, but later the same frame Russ Kowalchuk of Buffalo tied it up. Don Marshall made it 2-1 for Buffalo before the period closed. In the following stanzas Marshall got his second counter, Gord Pennell, Pete Wright and Ken Hayden also scored for the Bisons.

BREAKS 2-2 TIE

At Syracuse Murray Henderson of Hershey broke a 2-2 tie with less than five minutes remaining in regulation time. Arnie Kullman and Red Sullivan scored for Hershey with Bronco Horvath and Doug Powell notching the Warriors' tallies.

Rookie Parker MacDonald scored the tie-breaking marker at Pittsburgh and a first-period tally to pace Pittsburgh's 3-2 win over Providence. Johnny McLellan got the other Hornet goal while Al Baccari and Chuck Scherza scored for the Reds.

Vote To Consider Scuttling Pension Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—The major leagues voted to consider scuttling the player pension play by November, 1955 "due to excessive demands" but left the door open for further check on the players' attitudes.

J. Norman Lewis, the players' legal adviser, was charged with misrepresenting to the players and the press that all world series and all-star game radio-TV receipts belong to the players and must be applied to the fund. Both Lewis and A. B. Chandler, former commissioner, insist the radio-TV money belongs to the pension fund.

The major league owners claim the central fund, in which the money is kept, belongs to the 16 clubs as a "joint bank account."

The world series radio-TV rights bring about $1,250,000 into the fund each year under a contract that expires after the 1956 series.

TOO BIG DEMANDS

In a lengthy statement, read to the press by National League president Warren Giles on behalf of the two leagues, the clubs insisted they desire to continue the present pension plan "but the excessive demands by the player representatives and their attorney have compelled the clubs to consider the possible necessity of terminating the plan in November, 1955."

The door was left open for a shift of the players' attitude in the next-to-last paragraph of the statement. It read in part:

"If the demands of the player representatives and their attorney represent the attitude of all the players, then it is obvious that the present pension plan must be terminated and a different disposition made of the funds now devoted to that purpose."

They didn't say how they would check on the players' attitude.

Issue Detailed Statement About Marcotte Decision

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association Wednesday issued a detailed statement elaborating on its Dec. 7 decision th[illegible]alie Jacques Marcotte of [illegible]ontenacs is Quebec Citadelles' property.

Citadelles are a Quebec entry in the junior A division of the Ontario Hockey Association, while Frontenacs play in the Quebec Junior Hockey League. With Citadelles last season, Marcotte has been playing this season with Frontenacs despite an unsettled injunction application submitted in Quebec Superior court.

The issue was decided after a six-hour CAHA meeting at which the Frontenac club claimed there had been misrepresentation by the Citadelles in two respects: That Citadelles had entered into a contract with Marcotte that he would be able to attend L'Acadamie Commerciale in Quebec City, and in a subsequent contract the succeeding year had promised that Marcotte would play junior A hockey.

NOT CO-OPERATIVE

The CAHA said that while Citadelles were not able to arrange for Marcotte's tuition at L'Acadamie Commerciale, "every effort was made for this at other institutions but the player was not co-operative."

"It was noteworthy that when he entered into a contract with the club in the succeeding year with the knowledge and approval of his parents, no mention whatever was made as to any educational advantages," the CAHA statement said.

"During the present season, although the school term commenced Sept. 2, the player had not enrolled at any education institution until Oct. 30 and during November had attended approximately three hours weekly of evening classes only."

HIS SALARY PAID

In connection with the claim he had been promised he would play junior A hockey during the 1952-53 season, the contract actually provided only that he would be paid "for participation in junior A classification" at a stated salary, the CAHA found.

"This salary was paid throughout the season, and the player was carried as a substitute goalkeeper for the junior A club throughout the season, and when he commenced to play as goalkeeper for the junior B team in December, it was not because the club (Citadelles) was threatening to discipline his services but because club officials and the player himself considered that the experience would be valuable to him."

Castellani Wins Against Turner

CLEVELAND (AP)—Rocky Castellani stood off the savage buzz-saw fighting of Gil Turner with toe-to-toe slugging Wednesday night to win a unanimous 10-round decision in a wild bout in Cleveland Arena. The victory strengthens Castellani's bid for a middleweight title shot.

Castellani, No. 2 middleweight contender, weighed 157 to 155 for the Philadelphia perpetual-motion man, fourth-ranking contender.

For three rounds, the Clevelander speared Turner at will with sharp lefts to the head as the crowd booed for more action. Then Turner went into action, and there was scarcely a let-up the rest of the way.

A crowd of 11,813 paid $72,110 to watch the televised bout on the Cleveland News Christmas Fund show.

Referee Lou Parker scored it five for Castellani, four for Turner and one even. Judge Herb Williams had it 6-3-1 and judge Charlie Bill called it 5-4-1.

Jumper Loses Nerve

NEW YORK (AP) — Herman Romine was rescued Wednesday night from a tower of the George Washington bridge more than 200 feet above the Hudson river after a three-hour effort by police. Launches stood by under the big bridge, searchlights played over the superstructure and policemen swarmed around the girders before the man was taken to hospital. "I wanted to jump," he said, "But I didn't have the nerve."

Remember When—

Toronto Argonauts squeezed out a 4-3 win over Sarnia Imperials in the Grey Cup final 20 years ago today at Toronto. Argos had beaten Winnipeg, western champions, 13-0 in the semi-final before meeting with the champions of the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Royals Best Defensive Club

NEW YORK (AP) — Montreal Royals, led by Walter Alston, the new Brooklyn manager, were the best defensive club in the International League during the 1953 campaign.

The Royals, who won the circuit's playoff and then the little world series, made only 128 errors all last year for a sparkling .978 average. They finished three points higher than the runner-up Baltimore Orioles. Toronto was third with .973, official averages released today by the league showed.

Montreal only had two leaders among the individual defensive standouts. Roy Hartsfield tied Bob Wilson of Toronto for the top spot among second-basemen with .974 and Ed Roebuck had the most chances, 70, among the six pitchers who fielded 1.000.

Other leaders: Charley Kress, Rochester, first base .993; Hector Rodriguez, Syracuse, third base, .970; Billy Demars, Toronto, shortstop .966; Wally Moon, Rochester, outfield .990; Nelson Burbrink, Springfield, catcher .985.

Turf Writers Name Top Pacers

COLUMBUS, O. (AP) — Hi-Lo's Forbes, Keystoner and Adios Boy were the three top pacers of 1953, the annual poll of 112 turf writers by the United States Trotting Association showed today.

Adios Boy, owned by J. S. Turner of Nassawadox, Va., polled 77 votes to 17 for Adios Betty, his nearest rival, in the race for the two-year-old laurels. Adios Boy, with Korean war veteran Howard Camden in the sulky, went a mile in 1.58.6 in October, the first two-year-old ever to crack the two-minute mark.

Keystoner, winner of the four-heat $55,000 Little Brown Jug, is owned by George Tipling of Cleveland and driven by Frank Ervin. He had 70 votes to 12 for runner-up torrid for the three-year-old honors. He led the year's pacers in money won with $59,131.

Hi-Lo's Forbes, acclaimed the aged pacer of the year with 78 votes to 20 for Tassel Hanover, hit the headlines with a 1.58.6 mile over Roosevelt Raceway's half-mile track in June. It was the fastest mile ever registered over a minor course. Hi-Lo's Forbes is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wagner of Landover Hills, Md., and is driven by Henry Clukey of Herrington, Del.

Attersley Scores 5 Goals For Guelph In 10-10 Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A fire that burned down the Oshawa arena last fall sent Bob Attersley to Guelph Biltmores. He has turned into the hottest guy in the league.

After the fire the Generals were forced to suspend operations in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series. Their players were distributed among the other league teams.

Attersley scored five goals and assisted on two others as the Biltmores fought to a 10-10 overtime draw with Quebec Citadelles in Guelph Wednesday night. The tie left both teams tied for last place in the league standings.

St. Catharines TeePees defeated Barrie Flyers in Barrie to increase their first-place margin to four points ahead of Toronto St. Michael's.

GILLIS GETS TWO

Johnny Gillis scored two goals for Guelph with Bob Forhan, Wally Para and Bill McCreary scoring one each.

Gilles Thibault scored three for Quebec, followed by Mike Ratchford who notched two. Singles went to Gaston Pelletier, Richard Bouchard, Carl Wandowich, Pat Prestley and Stan Parker.

Cec Hockstra and Wimpy Roberts tallied two goals each for St. Catharines. Hugh Barlow, Brian Cullen, Armstrong, Steve Warchol and Danny Poliziani rounded out the total.

Cleland Mortson bagged three for the Flyers. George Ranciri notched two and Neil Chattington and Jim Robertson scored one each.

No games are scheduled for tonight. Friday night Barrie is at Toronto St. Michael's, Hamilton at Guelph and Galt at Toronto Marlboros.

Tiger Coach Launches Protest Over Tie

HAMILTON (CP)—Jimmy Skinner, coach of Hamilton Tigers of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, had lodged a protest with he league concerning Sunday's 0-0 tie with Toronto Marlboros in Toronto.

Skinner, said Marlboro defenceman Gerry James, threw his stick while trying to stop Brian Kilrea, Hamilton centre, on a rush toward the Toronto goal.

He said James, the only player between Kilrea and the Marlboro goal, should have been given a penalty.

Referee Jack Shropshire said he didn't give a penalty because he thought the stick slipped from James' hand.

Accused Claims Was Victim Of Assault

Claiming to be the victim in a face-slapping, hair-pulling, arm-twisting, fighting and swearing set-to which involved four women and one man at Marg's Cabin Camp on Water St. N. Saturday, Anne Tobin, a tenant at the camp, was herself charged with causing a disturbance in a public place when she appeared in magistrate's court Wednesday. Her husband, Leonard Tobin, was similarly charged and both were convicted.

Annnie Tobin was fined $10 with costs $5.50 and Leonard Tobin $2 and $11.50 costs. Charges were laid by Mrs. Margaret Lewis, owner of Marg's Cabin Camp.

Magistrate W. R. Philp, who several times had to call witnesses and accused to order, told Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw that "as far as these fights on this place are concerned, in future, everyone taking part should be charged."

ACCUSED "DRUNK"

Mrs. Margaret Lewis gave evidence of Annie Tobin coming down from her cabin to Mrs. Lewis' store in a "very drunken" condition and offering her $5 towards rent owed if she would turn on the lights in the cabin. Mrs. Lewis had turned off the lights because "you can't keep lights going on air and the Tobins owed six-seven weeks' rent". She had refused to accept the $5 whereupon accused had used "swearing, dirty language".

Magistrate Philp said: "You'll have to tell us what she said". And Mrs. Lewis did.

Under cross-examination, Mrs. Lewis denied that she had thrown Mrs. Tobin out of the shop, kicking and hitting her and causing injuries to her back and ankle.

A 16-year-old witness to the argument, Shirley Bye, refused to admit allegations that she had twisted Mrs. Tobin's arm, slapped her and pulled her hair. Only when Mrs. Tobin cast reflections on her mother's morals had she left her seat and backed Mrs. Tobin up against the wall. Afterwards she had helped Mrs. Lewis push Mrs. Tobin out the door.

Mrs. Bye supported the evidence given by her daughter Shirley and Mrs. Lewis. She had not seen any of the face-slapping and hair-pulling alleged by the accused.

Mrs. Tobin told the court that she had offered Mrs. Lewis the $5 in good faith and "if she'd taken it then there would have been no argument'. When the quarrel started both Mrs. Lewis and Shirley Bye had sworn at her. She repeated her allegations of being assaulted.

MOSTLY UNTRUE

When Magistrate Philp asked her what she thought of the evidence, she replied that most of it was untrue.

Crown Attorney Bradshaw said it appeared "that they were all in on it" and if one was to be charged then all should be treated similarly. However, in this case the charges had been laid by Mrs. Lewis, not by the police.

In evidence against Leonard Tobin, Mrs. Lewis said that earlier in the afternoon he had asked her to turn on the lights in the Tobin cabin, but she had refused. Finding them on later, she had gone to turn them off. Tobin, who was "very drunk", had come running towards her yelling and screeching to put the light back on or he would "fix you, you grey-haired old . . ."

"I took to my heels and ran back to the store as fast as I could", said Mrs. Lewis.

This evidence was collaborated by Mrs. Margaret Trainor, who had witnessed the incident.

Tobin said in defence that Mrs. Lewis had had an argument with his wife earlier and "that's why she charged both of us I guess".

"Competition to be increasingly keen in coming months"

JAMES STEWART, C.B.E., PRESIDENT, addressing the 87th Annual Meeting of The Canadian Bank of Commerce, said in part:

Despite prevailing tensions, brought about by international uncertainties, and by a shift from a sellers' to a buyers' market in almost all business, Canada has been able during the year either to maintain or to increase production in the main fields of commercial and industrial activity. This undoubtedly reflects the underlying strengths in the economy that have been manifest since war's end. Now many evidences of a more competitive market are becoming apparent, and signs are not wanting to indicate a continuance, if not an intensification, of this condition in the immediate future with all that this implies in the matter of profit margins.

Inflation—domestic and international—has served, among other things, to hide or distort cost factors, and pricing in many instances has been unduly influenced by the anticipation of a continuing upward inflationary spiral. For the time being, and for the foreseeable future, the inflationary pressures have been contained, and costs, and prices, will play their proper role in the market-place.

An over-all view of the domestic scene reveals many signs of strength. Most significant of all statistical data relates to the number of people gainfully employed in the country. As we turned into 1953 the labour force was estimated at 5,210,000. Later estimates show an increase of some 3.6 per cent or approximately 188,000 — a favourable increase during the year.

Another sign of strength is to be found in the continuing intensity of consumer demand. One conclusion that is becoming evident is that we are moving toward a higher domestic consumption pattern — a desirable objective provided that demand is not based on an excessive use of consumer credit. Under an emerging competition, which undoubtedly will highlight the sovereignty of the consumer, pricing becomes the most important task in maintaining demand, and consequently employment.

A third factor that has contributed to the present high level of activity is capital investment. For some years now we have had an annually increasing sum of money spent for the expansion and maintenance of plant and equipment, and decisions to direct money into these channels have played an important role both in increasing the opportunities for employment and in increasing productive capacity. There are of course limits to the degree of capital expansion practicable in an economy such as ours, first in terms of the size of our markets, and second in terms of the availability of skilled labour. In the past we have had periods of capital formation followed by periods of consolidation. It may be in the coming year that some reduction in capital spending will be seen although the over-all amount is likely to continue at a high rate.

The post-war expansion of plant capacity and the creation of new industrial and commercial enterprise has been accompanied by some changes in capital structures. At the outbreak of war in 1939 the over-all relationship of equity to debt in industrial and commercial enterprise was about two to one. The recent general trend does suggest that at times of high taxes and low interest rates such as we have been experiencing over the past few years, business is seriously tempted by the apparent advantage of obtaining needed working capital by way of debt rather than by obtaining equity money.

The advantages of tax savings on fixed charges look attractive but such advantages can be temporary and can, when any serious slackening in production emerges, become a disadvantage if not a burden. I think it would be safe to say that in some industries the disadvantages are now showing up and the warning signals should be heeded by those who contemplate financing in the future.

So far as our trade activities are concerned, it is difficult to abruptly alter consumption or export patterns. It is possible that our position can be weakened through price differentials, particularly as increasing competition is becoming more noticeable in foreign markets, and this aspect must be watched. One distressing sign of possible price competition has been noted in reports from the United States that a two-pricing system may be adopted — a high domestic price and a low export price — in order to move surplus farm products accumulated under parity programmes. Consequences of such a policy cannot be fully appraised at this time but a two-price system, regardless of how it is explained, raises the issue of dumping — a bone of contention in trade and tariff discussions.

The shortage of dollars continues to plague many potential customers of Canadian goods and services. This in part explains the many restrictions on imports and on exchange that confront exporters on this continent. More serious for Canadian producers of exportable commodities is the fact that countries functioning under restrictive programmes are buyers' not sellers' markets, and price is an important consideration.

One way to meet trade competition is through the most effective use of machinery and skills and quality. We cannot successfully foist onto foreign markets high-cost, high-wage products under competitive condltions.

A somewhat unusual development in international trade emerged this fall with the announcement that certain surplus products in the United States would be sold for sterling and/or francs. It is reported that this disposal programme calls for shipment of surpluses through channels that will not disrupt trade, and dumping is also barred. But questions of interpretation loom large, particularly the definition of dumping,and the acceptance of another country's currency in trade raises problems both for the importer and the exporter. Such practices, even motivated by the friendliest of intentions, place competitor countries in an invidious position with regard not only to their regular exports but also to their surplus commodities. It would be hoped that the Canadian government would not lightly follow suit in such a programme.

The prolonged period of rising prices associated with full employment and steadily increasing real purchasing power has, unfortunately, created the impression that the three factors are one and indivisible and that the reversal of the trend of one necessarily implies a similar movement of the others. A moderate decline in prices need not be viewed in this light. We have in the past had periods of prosperity in an era of stable or slightly declining prices, and when a cheapening of commodity prices follows a high rate of capital investment and a marked rise in productivity it may rightly be regarded as heralding an era, not of restricted employment, but of continuing or increased prosperity in terms not only of dollars, which may be illusory, but of goods, which are tangible.

As we look to the months ahead I would venture to suggest that over-all consumer demands will continue high.

In the non-durable goods' field, demand is buoyant and retail sales indicate a relatively stable outlook. Demand in this area is difficult to assess because attitudes and fancies are subject to abrupt changes, but there is nothing in the present situation to warrant the belief that any noticeable falling off in demand is ahead of us though there well may be a levelling off of the peaks recorded in past months.

In the durable goods' field there are signs of some slackening in demand and as a consequence inventory positions in some lines may require adjustment in the coming months. However, adjustment from extraordinarily high peaks is far different from a drying-up of demand, and bearing in mind replacements and new family formation the demand should remain firm if prices are adjusted accordingly.

In both the durable and non-durable consumer goods' fields increasing competition for the consumer's dollar means among other things that price will play an increasingly important role in moving goods from the producer to the ultimate consumer. This is a problem that will have to be attacked by every one in business.

Capital spending, as I already have remarked, may be off somewhat from this year's peak but is likely to continue at a relatively high level.

This year farm income declined from the very high levels of 1951 and 1952, and having regard for world agricultural prices and the generally abundant domestic agricultural picture there is little ground for anticipating a return to the recently established peak. However, the level of farm income this year is relatively high and should continue so for the crop year ahead.

We must be prepared for uneven activity both regionally and in the industrial operations that make up the economy. If my assumption of the business climate for the months to come is correct then business for the first time in some years will acquire a fuller appreciation of the relationship of costs to selling prices. This relationship has been obscured in the immediate past by reason of rising dollar volume which has tended to give an unrealistic view of profits.

In the course of these remarks I have repeatedly referred to increasing competition, not as a counsel of pessimism, but as a cautionary note. We must become increasingly aware of the implications of generally high costs of production and the difficulties emanating from them in competitive markets both at home and abroad.

NEIL J. McKINNON, GENERAL MANAGER, after reviewing the balance sheet, highlights of which are summarized below, said in part:

The 87th Annual Statement of the Bank shows total assets to be $1,911,815,744 and records a growth during the period of approximately $91,000,000.

The past year has seen business activity, with the exception of certain areas, at record levels. It has been marked by increasingly competitive conditions and this has been attended by some slowing down in the turnover of inventories as well as in the payment of trade accounts. These developments are associated normally with a heightening of a competitive environment and they do not give reason for concern although, of course, good business management must always be alert to corrections which become necessary from time to time.

A year ago your attention was drawn to the rapid rise in consumer credit taking place at that time. The aggregate volume has shown a continued increase this year but in recent months at a noticeably lessening rate. It may be that the sharply increasing trend formerly observed is now moving to a plateau and while such a development would, of course, have an effect on retail sales, it is perhaps a rather healthful condition under present circumstances as it suggests an easier relation of this type of credit to disposable incomes.

Two important measures of legislation have been announced by the Government which will be brought before Parliament during the current session. One of these will be legislation under which it is proposed that the banks be placed in a similar position to the insurance, loan and trust companies and other institutions as lenders under a plan for long-term mortgage loans for residential construction, to be insured by the Federal Government. The terms of this legislation when available will be studied with care and consideration for the interests of the country as well as for good banking principles both of which in the final analysis are inseparable.

The decennial revision of "An Act respecting Banks and Banking" known familiarly as The Bank Act will also be undertaken by Parliament. This Act of Parliament is the source of charters for the banks and its review affords an opportunity to examine the functions, performance and scope of operations of the banks in relation to changes and developments in the Canadian economy and financial structure during the past ten years and to amend or alter the terms of the Act in keeping with the continued adaptation of banking practice in the best interests of the nation as a whole. The review is accordingly welcomed by the banking system as an aid to maintaining at a high level its facilities for service in the national interest.

Greenshirts Stay In OHA

KITCHENER (CP)—There was new junior hockey hope in Kitchener today although everybody agrees it's a losing game at the box-office.

Local junior hockey fans, what few there are here, were heartened by the word Wednesday night from Frank Selke, managing director of Montreal Canadiens, that Kitchener Waterloo Greenshirts will stay in Ontario Hockey Association Junior A competition.

In announcing the switch, Selke said the Kitchener players that were labelled for teams in the Quebec junior league will be returned to Kitchener. It was just a matter of talking to them, he said.

"I expect to gather the players in Montreal tomorrow morning," Selke said in Toronto Wednesday night. "If they're willing to return we'll send them back. We plan to finance the team for the rest of the season."

BOUGHT FRANCHISE

The National Hockey League Canadiens bought the Kitchener franchise last week for $15,000. The OHA said it would refuse any branch-to-branch transfers to the players. That left everything up in the air and local fans tried unsuccessfully to raise enough money to buy back the franchise.

Selke, who had said it was impossible for a junior A team to operate in the black in Kitchener, said he decided on the move because the nine players involved in the proposed transfer would not be given their release by the OHA.

"I realized that these transfers would not be forthcoming," he commented. "I didn't want to keep these players out of hockey. I don't think the OHA ever would have transferred them. You can't play with a marked deck, you know."

Selke added that none of the players would object to going back to Kitchener. The franchise was sold because local business men here said they were losing up to $1,000 a week on the club.

OHA HAPPY

Tory Gregg of Wingham, president of the OHA, said he was "delighted" to have Greenshirts, in fifth place in the league, remain in the league.

The Greenshirts, who brought up several junior B players last week, lost four straight games after the deal. Gregg said those games will be stricken from the records and rescheduled. Individual points scored in the games will also be thrown out.

Selke also announced that coach Curly Davis will have charge of the team until an executive can be appointed. Sam Pollock, coach of Montreal Canadiens of the Quebec League, will assist Davis.

Deny Golf Tourney To Be Failure

MONTREAL (CP)—A statement that the 1954 Canadian Open golf championship might prove the biggest bust in its history brought quick denials from Canadian golf officials in Toronto and Vancouver.

Officials at both points denied statements by a highly-placed golf authority in Montreal that the tournament would entice few Americans to journey to Vancouver's Point Grey club July 14-17, and, lacking big names, would be a failure.

The Montreal authority said the Royal Canadian Golf Association has been informed that the United States Professional Golfers Association will keep the Point Grey date on its calendar, but that it need players on hand as the most westerly point in the U.S. tournament circuit next summer is St. Paul, Minn., some 1,800 miles away.

He said the RCGA suggested the venue be changed, but western members insisted there be no change "even if it means holding the tournament with only neighborhood and club pros."

B.E.G. TIE-IN

Bill Hamilton, secretary of the RCGA, commenting on the statement in Toronto, said it is unfortunate the PGA schedule doesn't fit in with the Vancouver venue but denied decision to hold the tournament there had caused a rift in the association. Canada was not "just another spot on the PGA tour."

"We were interested in Vancouver for next year's open to tie in with the British Empire Games," he said. "We feel we can have a good Canadian Open.

In Vancouver, Les Wagner, chairman of the 1954 Canadian Open, said he is confident the open will be a success both financially and from the standpoint of name-player participation."

SPLITTING T—Bud Wilkinson, left, congratulates Jim Tatum on Maryland's all-conquering football season, but the Terrapins' coach knows Oklahoma will be ready in the Miami Orange Bowl on New Year's Day. Wilkinson succeeded Tatum as the Sooners' head man.

Maroons Easily Crush Bulldogs 4-1

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It's easier to play hide-and-seek in your own backyard. You know the hide-outs there.

The same applies to hockey and it was proved Wednesday night in Ontario's senior hockey action.

In five games not one visiting team could carry away a victory.

In the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series Chatham Maroons rolled to an easy 4-1 victory over Windsor Bulldogs who lost sole possession of first place by the defeat.

Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen took a 6-3, home-ice victory from Sarnia Sailors to move into a first-place tie with the Bulldogs and in Hamilton the Tigers dropped Niagara Falls Cataracts 6-1.

In Pembroke the Lumber Kings blanked Sault Ste. Marie (Mich.) Indians 1-0 during their Northern Ontario Hockey Association meeting and Sault Ste. Marie (Ont.) Greyhounds turned back the visiting Sudbury Wolves 6-3 in the other NOHA contest.

MAROONS NEVER HEADED

Chatham took a 1-0 lead in the first period and were never threatened. Frank Bonello, Ed Didone, Jim Conelly and Bill Cupulo were the Chatham marksmen. Lyle Wiseman tallied the only Windsor goal.

Clare Martin led the Kitchener snipers against the Sailors with two goals. Gerry Theberge, Don Rope, Howie Lee and Johnny Muretich notched the others. Jerry Horton, Ron Castelane and Harry O'Connor divided the Sarnia total.

Tigers spotted the Cataracts a 1-0 lead in the first period and roared back with six unanswered goals to win. Gordon McGinn, Murray Comfort, Al Buchanan, Eddie Busch, Hub Anslow and Jack Taylor shared the Hamilton total. Nick Dubick spoiled Boat Hurley's shutout.

In Pembroke Lionel Barber tallied the Lumber Kings' goal after five minutes of the opening period. The Lumber Kings held off the Indians for the rest of the contest.

The Greyhounds moved back into first place. Johnny Ubriaco, Eddie Mulligan and Jim McBurney each tallied twice for Sault, Ont. Gord Heale, Gil St. Pierre and Yacker Flynn accounted for the Sudbury scoring.

Kitchener is at Niagara Falls for the only OHA action tonight. Pembroke is at Sudbury Friday.

Young Scottish Choir Captures Large Audience

The walls of George St. United Church have echoed to musical praise for over 60 years, but seldom have they been graced with such vocal beauty as rendered by the Kirkintilloch Junior Choir Wednesday night.

Already known as Scotland's sweetest singers, the 25 boys and girls who make up the choir treated 1,000 entranced listeners to two hours of glorious music that ranged from light comedy to the soul-stirring depths of religious passion.

Dressed in tartan kilts and skirts the 10 boys and 15 girls come from a small town about 10 miles from Glasgow and, with a fame that rivals the well-known Glasgow Orpheus Choir, have become endeared to audiences throughout Britain, Holland, Denmark and now Canada. Mrs. Meta MacPherson, who accompanies and conducts the choir, has been associated with the group since its inception 15 years ago. It was obvious Wednesday night, from the absolute control and leadership she displayed, that much of the choir's success is due to hard work and concentration on her part.

The children have two more concerts scheduled before they leave by air for home this weekend. Many of them plan to be back at school in Scotland Monday morning.

NON-STOP PROGRAM

It is considered quite a feat for accomplished adults to present a two-hour concert, but when teenagers can render an almost nonstop and arduous program, as did the young Scots, then they are worthy of high tribute.

Grouped on the small platform in front of their hosts, the George Street choir, the visitors completely captured their audience with opening numbers which included the "Uist Tramping Song" and "The Road to the Isles." With only soprano, treble and alto voices to call upon, it might be thought that the choir was found lacking when it came to producing depth of tone. However, the arrangements, some attributed to Mrs. MacPherson, were lacking in nothing and in fact produced a fallacy of depth that should have convinced even the most ardent critic.

Nearly every child in the choir took his or her turn with a solo or duet and none was allowed retreat without first treating the enthusiastic audience to at least one encore.

The brogue and lilt of voice, unique to Scots, was greatly appreciated in the national ballads and scores of gallery listeners could be seen standing up or leaning over the balcony as if drawn by magic in the young voices.

Essential to the Kirkintilloch choir, or to any choir for that matter, is the simple and unrestrained atmosphere it attempts to breathe with its first item. This is the spell cast over an audience which lifts it into the almost unreal world of music and it is up to every listener not wittingly to break the spell. The capacity audience on Wednesday night failed miserably.

EFFECTIVE SILENCE

Those effective brief moments of silence between dying notes of a final phrase and the outburst of clapping must be preserved, lest the spell be broken and the singers feel they have lost the opportunity to convey their best. In some cases during this concert the audience found difficulty in containing its feelings and completely drowned the end of a song with clapping.

It is also an accepted practice not to acclaim a hymn or religious anthem, especially in a church. However, the "willing thousand" on Wednesday night had other ideas when the choir really topped its magnificence with the beautiful "Oh, Sacred Heart So Wounded." The last whispers of the tragic anthem had not died before the atmosphere was literally torn asunder by thunderous clapping. It was a wonder that the national anthem was not deemed worthy of some acclaim. The golden rule, "a time and a place for everything," applies in music as in all phases of life.

It is a pity that more Canadians will not be afforded the opportunity of hearing the young Scots sing, but it is fortunate that at least a few have heard and thoroughly enjoyed a choir that one day might well take its place alongside the Lytton Girls' Choir and other famous choral groups. —J. O.

TOO MANY U.S. IMPORTS

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Coach Frank Clair of Toronto Argonauts, a United States football import, says there are too many American players getting into the Canadian game.

He said in an interview that competitive bidding for U.S. players is pushing salaries too high and keeping Canadian talent out of football.

The Big Four club coach advocated a cut in the quota of U.S. imports allowed each team from the present figure of eight. He suggested, too, that the rule allowing imports to become Canadians for playing purposes after four years should be scrapped.

Questioned about player salaries, Clair said competitive bidding is pushing salaries both in Canada and the United States up. He mentioned the case of one Windsor high school football player who has been approached by seven coaches. He did not name the player.

TURPIN CLEARED

LONDON (AP)—The British Boxing Board of Control dismissed a complaint against Randy Turpin, former world middleweight champion, that he had employed "unorthodox training methods" before his New York title fight against Bobo Olson of Honolulu.

Turpin went 15 rounds against Olson Oct. 22, losing on points. Later BBBC secretary Teddy Waltham, who saw the 'bout, reported officially that Turpin's training was "unorthodox and inadequqate."

Turpin spent 3½ hours before the board Wednesday. A statement issued later said the board "accepted Turpin's explanation of his training methods and dismissed all complaints against him." It recommended he employ a full-time trainer for future fights and not train himself.

RECORD HORSE SALE

NEWMARKET, England (AP)—The Argentine government paid $64,680 for the five-year old racehorse Aristophanes at Wednesday's Newmarket bloodstock sales. It was the highest price ever paid in Britain for a horse still in training.

Aristophanes—by Hyperion, winner of the Derby, out of Commotion—has won eight races worth $11,438.

CHANDLER COMMENTS

CINCINNATI (AP)—A. B. Chandler, former baseball commissioner, said Wednesday the money in the major leagues pension fund belongs to the players.

In a telephone conversation from his home in Versailles, Ky., he referred to six-year contracts for television and radio rights at all-star and world series games. The contracts, which run through 1956, were made while he was commissioner.

"That money was to secure the pension fund," Chandler said. "It is the players' money and that was the understanding when the contracts were made."

The television contract calls for $1,000,000 a year. The radio contract is for $1,370,000 over the six-year period, Chandler said.

He had no comment on the latest move of the team owners—adoption of a resolution to consider junking the pension plan.

✦ ✦ ✦

PIKE MUM

GUELPH (CP)—Alf Pike, coach of Guelph Biltmores in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series, Wednesday declined comment on reports speculating that he may be named coach of New York Rangers.

A defenceman and leftwinger with the National Hockey League club, from 1939 to 1947, he was offered the post before the NHL season opened but turned it down. Biltmore officials deny any knowledge of the reported shift.

The Guelph coach has a sporting goods business here and is in the second year of a three-year contract with the Biltmores who won the Memorial Cup in 1951-52 under him.

Hymn-Singing Maniac Says God Ordered Murders

STEUBENVILLE, O. (AP) — A jobless, hymn-singing miner killed three of his five little children Wednesday with a crowbar and his feet, and critically injured the other two.

"God told me to kill the children to save them from the tortures and torment of the devil," Frank Holt, 34, was quoted as telling county prosecutor Bernard T. McCann.

Holt was walking around his front yard humming a hymn when deputy sheriff Russell Wilsac arrived at the home, 17 miles northwest of here in the village of East Springfield. The deputy said Holt kept humming hymns and seemed calm during a half-hour auto ride to jail.

Three of Holt's small sons were dead when Wilsac got there—Tracy, 1; Sidney, 2, and Sanford, 6. The other two children, Susan, 4, and Doren, 5, were unconscious in hospital today, their skulls fractured. Hospital attendants said they doubted the youngsters would "make it."

USED CROWBAR

Wilsac said Holt had beaten the children's heads with a 30-inch crowbar and then stamped on them.

In another room of the hospital where two of her children were clinging to life was Holt's wife, Beatrice, 32. She was recovering from the shock of returning to her home after a few minutes at a neighbor's and finding the tragedy—three of the children lying on the dining room floor and the other two in the kitchen.

McCann said Holt told him he did not belong to any church and during questioning trailed off into discussions of God and the devil.

Asked if he intended to kill his wife, too, Holt told McCann:

"No, God did not tell me to."

Big Season

GORE BAY, Ont. (CP)—More than 1,100 deer are estimated to have been bagged on Manitoulin island in the latest hunting season, when visiting hunters were more numerous than usual.

Bank Of Montreal 110 Years In Business At Same Corner

Peterborough branch of the Bank of Montreal is quietly marking this week its 110th anniversary.

"We are not quite positive whether the first day of the bank's service in Peterborough was on the 8th or the 10th," Ford Warren, manager, remarked to The Examiner today. "It was one or the other, and even if we say the actual anniversary is today, who is there to question it?"

The bank has been at the corner of Water and Simcoe Streets for the entire period of 110 years. It is one of the oldest institutions in Peterborough, without any exceptions, and is certainly the oldest business and financial house. Municipal incorporation dates from 1850 when the town was newly fashioned out of the northeast corner of North Monaghan Township.

SOUTHEAST FIRST

The first premises of the bank were at the southeast corner where Robert Nicholls, a young man newly come from New York City, opened a sketchy office as the Bank of Montreal's first agent and representative in Peterborough.

This was the second bank and branch opened in the area north of Lake Ontario, between Kingston and Toronto, and the date was December 9, 1843. That first building at the southeast corner may have been destroyed by fire. At any rate the bank set itself up in substantial quarters in 1857 when the present club building was erected. It was vacated in 1906, and the business moved across the corner.

Robert Nicholls had a carpenter, John English, make for him a strongbox, which has become a municipal heirloom at Civic Hospital. Stout as it was and reinforced, it was not considered proof against burglars, and Mr. Nicholls used to relate in his later years that it was his habit to bundle up the bank's funds at the close of the day and take them home for safe-keeping, possibly under the bed.

EARLY INTEREST

The Bank of Montreal assumes in Peterborough an air of easy assurance as being one of the eldest of the family. Their interest extends into the past beyond the arrival of the Peter Robinson immigration in 1825-26. The bank had a responsibility at that time in the distribution of the Crown grant of £60,000 for the assistance of the settlers and the erection of some log buildings at the corner of Water and Simcoe Streets for accommodation of government agents and some of the settlers. Probably warehouse purpose was served. The immigrants received household and other utensils toh elp them in becoming settled. Many of them had literally to hew a place for themselves in the wilderness, the primeval forest.

Mr. Warren said that Robert Nichols was manager of the bank here from 1843 to 1857 when he was succeeded by Jackson Rae. The rest of the Nicholls story is familiar. The banker was also a merchant at the northwest corner of Water and Simcoe streets. Nichols & Hall was the first sign over the site occupied by Elim Tabernacle on Simcoe St. Later it was known as Hall & Innes.

BEQUESTS TO CITY

Mr. Nicholls accumulated a fortune which his widow, Charlotte Nicholls, largely contributed by gift and bequest to the citizens. Nicholls Hospital was one of her benefactions, and the outstanding one.

Nicholls Oval and Jackson Park were her gifts to the community. Those properties, considered apart from the other Nicholls grants to the public, are a direct connection and outcome of the action of Robert Nicholls in opening 110 years ago today the door of the room or two that became the first office of the Bank of Montreal in Peterborough.

Russians Throng To Visit Tombs Of Lenin, Stalin

By BILL BOSS

MOSCOW (CP)—As the bells of Spaski gate's clock tower sounded the three-quarter hour, the bronze doors of Stalin's Mausoleum opened.

Two workers' delegations placed a huge wreath of artificial flowers at either side of the doorway. Then a score of foreign diplomats and many more Soviet officials entered the building, leading a queue of thousands of Russian citizens lined up in the Red square snow.

Two flights of stairs below the street, Stalin and his predecessor Lenin lay in death before us.

Their joint tomb is a massive but simple monument of highly polished red and black stone. It is the national shrine of the Russian Soviets and serves as the base from which party and government chiefs review the parades of the army and people on May Day and Nov. 7 each year.

Stalin many times stood atop the building that now is his grave. In 1945, German standards captured by the Red armies were dashed to the ground at his feet before the entrance.

The interior is of a grey-black stone called "Labrador" although it is mined in the Caucasus. It glistens like glass. The building is heated and air-conditioned to preserve the embalmed bodies. In cold weather, it is open only a few hours daily.

Admission is by ticket, said a Russian guide, because of the population's great interest in seeing Stalin's body. Later, general admission will be restored as when Lenin was here alone.

The caskets rest on shoulder-high stone slabs. At first glimpse only the profiles of Stalin and Lenin can be seen, lighted by amber lamps. Their caskets are identical and bronze, level with the heads of the militia guards.

Visitors turn right and climb a few stairs to a gallery about 10 feet from the heads.

Lenin, the master architect of modern Russia, is clothed in a blue-black uniform. Both arms are outstretched, the right hand tightly clenched and the left with palm extended downward. There is a fuzz of beard on his cheeks but his moustache and beard are neat.

MARSHAL'S UNIFORM

Stalin, Lenin's pupil who died this year, wears the uniform of a marshal of the Soviet Union, the left breast ablaze with ribbons and two small medals. He is more splendidly attired than he looked in most photographs taken during his life. The face and iron-grey hair, no longer bushy, are familiar but there is an unexpected refinement in the hands and an unusual length in the index finger.

The bodies are exposed only from the waist up. Legs and feet are covered by a black cloth. Stalin looks less waxen than Lenin who died 29 years earlier.

The casket canopies are supported by a column at each corner. The sides and ends are enclosed by glass which slopes inward from the top.

The crowd files by in a slow shuffle, but one may pause to take in the scene.

Leaving the mausoleum, visitors walk along the Red square sidewalk to the Kremlin's Nicholski gate, then through a grill to a spruce-lined avenue.

HEROES CEMETERY

This is the national cemetery for heroes of the U.S.S.R. The avenue leads to the flood-lit Spaski clock tower. On the right is the Kremlin wall, holding the ashes of political and literary figures of the revolution, including Maxim Gorki.

On the left is a low stone monument about 100 feet long, 10 feet wide and 18 inches high. Under it are buried many who were killed in the revolution, mainly in the battle on Red square.

Immediately behind the Stalin Mausoleum are a number of individual graves — Kalinin, first president of the Soviet Union, Frunze, who commanded the revolutionary Red Armies; Dzerjinsky, home minister and one-time head of the secret police; Zdanov, who died after the Second World War; Sverdlov, chairman of the executive committee during the uprising.

Half an hour after the mausoleum gates opened, a long queue of dark-suited, fur-capped Muscovites reached two abreast across Red square beyond the National Institute and around into Alexander Gardens besides the north wall of the Kremlin. Still more hundreds of ticket-holders were being marshalled into line to walk through Russia's national shrine.

STILL SPRY and hungry despite the fact its body was pierced by a lead-tipped arrow, this pet duck of a St. Louis family apparently suffered no ill effects after the arrow was removed. The pet's owners still haven't found out who used the duck as an archery target.

END OF TRAVELS

THE PAS, Man. (CP)—A mallard shot here by George Moran had an inscribed band asking that the wildlife service in Washington, be notified. The resulting check showed the duck was banded in Mason county, Ill., in November, 1942.

United States' Power In Pacific Is Already Broadly Extended

If Syngman Rhee and Chiang Kai-shek think the United States is going to underwrite an Asiatic anti-Communist military alliance they may be sadly disappointed, says J. M. Roberts, Associate Press News analyst.

In the first place, American power in the Far Pacific is already broadly extended. There has been a general reluctance to admit to the Anzus pact with New Zealand and Australia which was designed primarily to quiet their fears about the revival of Japanese strength.

American commitments now cover the Anzus area, Japan, the Philippines, South Korea and to a less formal but nevertheless realistic extent, Formosa. She is committed to aid the French and her associated anti-Communist states in Indo-China, but not to fight with them.

There is also in the background a very real shyness about being accused in Asia of attempting to mobilize Asiatics to do the fighting for the U.S. India could be expected to oppose formation of any bloc which could possibly be described as a weapon of western interests in the Orient.

The United States also has reason for recalling that both Rhee and Chiang have records of going off on tangents of their own without regard for western ideas of how things should be done.

Indeed, Rhee keeps demanding a renewed war with the Reds over North Korea, something of which the western allies want no part. They are already faced with the dual problem of making South Korea strong enough so they can get out, and yet preventing Rhee from making some disastrous break. For everyon knows that if anything happen to the Korean armistice, th resultant war cannot be con fined to Korea.

All this does not mean, o course, that the United State would refuse to aid Korea an Formosa, and anyone else the could get to join their propose pact. Who that might be re mains unclear. But it does mea that they will be operatin strictly on their own politica level, without direct encourage ment or American participatio and without the hope of any mor military aid than they will get a individual entities.

Press Agent Takes On Job Of Saving Souls

HOLLYWOOD (AP) Hal Herman, who until five years ago was a press agent for stars like Rita Hayworth, Deanna Durbin and Rosalind Russell, is back in Hollywood with a different profession. He's saving souls.

His career in publicity was coming along fine when the war broke out. That's when his life began to change. He recalls:

"I first started thinking seriously when I was in the Philippines. I was wading through swamps up to my hips and the thought came to me: What is real?

"After the war was ended, I flew into Tokyo and took pictures of Hiroshima. Later I went to Shanghai with some correspondents. I was greatly affected by what I saw. I remember Edgar Snow telling me that the Chinese people had lost faith in everything—their gods, their leaders, their country. No wonder the Communists could take them over."

NOT IN JOB

Hall returned to Hollywood, but his heart wasn't in the job of pampering the glamor dolls. He was restless, and delved into philosophy and psychology for the answer to his query: What is real. One day a friend counselled him to seek the answer in the Bible.

FOUND REALITY

"It was on Palm Sunday night at 11:30 in 1947," he remembers. "I was reading through my Bible when suddenly the truth came to me. I heard the will of God. I realized that God was reality, as revealed by Our Saviour, Jesus Christ. At that moment I decided to become a researcher in spiritual reality."

Offers began pouring in from churches and religious groups that wanted him to speak. He took on another publicity job, this time for a "Youth for Christ" rally that filled Hollywood Bowl to overflowing.

In the last five years, he has spread the Gospel through Latin America, Europe, Israel, Egypt and all over the United States. He allies himself with no religion, preaching to all.

Fire In House Tests Brigade, New Hydrant At Downer's

Fire Chief William Sorrie entered a house at the north end of Whitlaw St., threw a match on the gasoline soaked floor, and stepped outside to join chairman of the fire, water and light committee, Ald. Harold Rehill.

The two men stood about calmly talking until flame and smoke billowed freely from the eaves and windows of the house.

Firemen first received word of the fire three minutes after it had been set 1:55 p.m. Tuesday.

A stream of water was playing on the burning building five and a half minutes later.

The first truck covered the distance, about two miles from firehall to fire, in three minutes, the second arrived thirty seconds later and was followed shortly by a ladder truck.

Water was pumped to the scene from the hydrant on Morphet St., through 1,100 feet of hose stretched along Lansdowne and Whitlaw streets, across a rickety wooden bridge over Boiler's Creek, and into the hands of waiting firefighters.

A minute later orders were given to cease extinguishing operations.

THREE REASONS

The entire scheme was enacted for three reasons. (1) To demonstrate the efficiency of Peterborough's fire-fighting force; (2) To show the value of the new water main recently constructed in the Downer's Corners district; (3) To destroy a condemned building only recently vacated.

This same building was reported to have burned about the year 1926. At that time no hydrant was available. A pumping apparatus which was eventually set up in the nearby stream wasn't of much value. Sawdust and sediment in the shallow stream soon plugged the intake valve and the pump was rendered temporarily useless. The building was half destroyed before the fire was extinguished.

Circumstances were different Tuesday. The building was dry and filled with fast burning dust. The floor and walls were soaked with gasoline and the fire was purposely given time to take hold. But radio-equipped trucks, pressurized water, and well organized men were available.

The fire, if so desired, might have been completely extinguished within 10 minutes after the alarm was given, and the building left almost intact. As it was, the grassy area 10 feet away from the burning building was unscathed by flame or heat. A booster hose, using water from a portable tank, was responsible for this.

TEST CHEMICAL

A dry chemical extinguisher was also tested at the blaze. It is a portable piece of equipment containing 30 pounds or sodium carbonate (common baking soda). Pressure is acquired from carbon dioxide cartridge and when released, the powder is sprayed over the burning object. It tends to displace oxygen and is highly heat absorbent. Tuesday's fire was of too great a magnitude to properly test the equipment however.

A side-light of interest to home owners: Three or four pounds of baking soda should be kept in an open container, easily available at all times. If a small fire should break out on the stove, in the oven, or under various similar conditions, a handful of this chemical shaken over the fire will extinguish it immediately. It is important to note that the powder be sprinkled, and not thrown in lumps which will render it ineffective.

"TURN OFF THE HOSE, FELLOWS, we want to let her burn" boomed Fire Chief Bill Sorrie's voice to his firemen Wednesday at a practice fire on Whitlaw St., near the Locks' bridge. The firemen, who didn't know it was a practice run, had fought the fire, nearly putting it out. But part of the exercise was not only to give the firemen practice but to destroy the old condemned house, used until a month ago.. Firemen stretching lines (left photo) across the small floating bridge to the burning house are reflected in the calm waters of the creek along with the high elm trees. The fire could be seen from downtown Peterborough as heavy black smoke rose into the sky (above photo).—(Examiner Staff Photos).

Graham Greene Elected

LONDON (AP)—British novelist Graham Greene Wednesday night was elected first president of the Anglo-Texan Society at its initial meeting here. It was formed by a group of Britons whose aims were described by Greene as "promoting understanding between the people of Great Britain and Texas, sponsoring exchange visits and cultural exchanges and generally looking after any Texan who finds his way to London."

My Sincere Thanks

My special thanks to people who worked during the campaign and to Bill, Nick, Eddie, Phonse, Tony, Danny, Fred and Aub. for driving cars during the election

I will do my best in any way I can for the Betterment of Peterborough.

STAN McBRIDE

Says Mackenzie King's Influence Greatest on Common wealth Development

TORONTO (CP)—State Secretary Pickersgill said today former prime minister Mackenzie King from 1922 on had a greater influence on the development of the Commonwealth than any other public man.

Mr. Pickersgill, private secretary to Mr. King during the last 12 years of his life, made the statement in an address prepared for delivery to the Empire Club.

He said Mr. King used his influence "invariably and effectively on the side of preserving and strengthening this great association of free nations we call the Commonwealth."

Mr. Pickersgill said Mr. King saw earlier than most public men that the only way the Commonwealth could be preserved and strengthened was by establishing a relationship of complete equality and autonomy among members.

Mr. King believed vestiges of former colonial relationships were sources of weakness to the Commonwealth, but realized changes could be made only step by step as public opinion developed or as circumstances raised issues which had to be settled.

GIVES CONSERVATIVE CREDIT

Mr. Pickersgill said there is much to be said for the view that the foundations of the Commonwealth were laid by Sir Robert Borden, a Conservative, and that Mr. King merely carried on his work. However, he said, there was a fundamental difference between their conception of the Commonwealth.

Sir Robert advocated an imperial foreign policy in which Canada would have a voice. He believed there could be an effective and continuous Canadian voice in an Empire foreign policy.

However, Mr. Pickersgill said, Mr. King believed any common Empire policy would inevitably be the policy of the United Kingdom. Mr. King insisted there must be a completely autonomous Canadian foreign policy.

HISTORIC ERUPTION

A volcanic eruption in Iceland in 1845 scattered ashes and dust as far as the Orkneys, 500 miles distant.

No Action On Canadian Flag

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliamentarians appear to want a distinctive Canadian flag, but are unlikely to take action on it this session.

The Commons spent three hours Wednesday discussing a private member's resolution proposing adoption of such a flag and suggesting joint commons-senate committee study and recommend a design.

A proposal by Bona Arsenault (L—Bonaventure), received support from members of all parties, along with some criticism.

Further action this session, however, seems remote as the resolution, in effect was killed by a motion to adjourn the debate. The adjourment motion by J. 'L. MacDougall (L.—Vancouver Burrard) was carried by a vote of 137 to 73. All Liberals voted for the motion and members of all opposition parties voted against it.

The vote means the resolution, though remaining on the order paper, possibly will not be debated again at this session of Parliament. The adjournment motion was made 20 minutes before the end of the sitting and under house rules the resolution would have met almost the same fate if the debate had continued to closing time.

The CCF called for the vote to avoid moving to the next item of business, a resolution by a CCF member which would have received about 15 minutes' debate before it was also killed for the session.

Outside the House, Mr. Arsenault said the debate served his purpose in obtaining an expression of opinion from other parties. It had shown that formation now of a committee to study a new flag was not the best means to achieve his aim.

There is "always a possibility," he added, that the government will bring in a bill for a new flag if it is found that a "very large majority" of Canadians favor one.

Presenting his proposal to the Commons, Mr. Arsenault said he does not want to abandon use of the Union Jack in Canada. It could be flown beside a distinctive Canadian flag as a symbol of connections with the crown and Commonwealth.

NOT ON NEW FLAG

But the Union Jack should not appear in the new flag, since it represented authority of the British Parliament over the Canadian Parliament.

As for a French symbol, French-speaking Canadians did not want a fleur de lis or any other French symbol in the design.

He suggested the "place of honor" on the flag be given to the maple leaf, which would then become "to the Canadian people, of every racial extraction and creed, the most significant symbol of unity in the world."

"As one of the leading nations in the world today, Canada should have a national flag which has meaning, beauty and above all a strictly Canadian appearance."

Several speakers referred to Canada's last formal study of a distinctive flag.

A joint Senate-Commons committee in 1946 studied 2,695 suggested designs and recommended to Parliament that Canada adopt a flag based on the red ensign with a maple leaf in a bordered background of white replacing the coat-of-arms in the fly and with a smaller Union Jack in the upper left-hand corner. The design was never submitted to Parliament and no other action was taken.

WANT CANADIAN FLAG

The three opposition spokesmen indicated their parties want a Canadian flag.

Opposition Leader Drew and Rev. E. G. Hansell (SC—Macleod) opposed establishment of a committee to study the design, although they favored a new flag. They argued that the government should propose the design and then ask Parliament's approval.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said the design should feature a maple leaf in autumn colors on an appropriate background.

He suggested all Commonwealth countries consider choosing the Union Jack as a Commonwealth flag.

Rev. Dan McIvor (L—Fort William) said he stlil support the flag recommended by the 1946 committee.

Landlady Stabbed By Ottawa Man

OTTAWA (CP)—Sylvio Potvin, 48, Wednesday night was charged with wounding in the stabbing of his landlady, Miss Yvonne St. Amour, 55.

Police said the woman, stabbed nine times, is in critical condition in hospital. They said Potvin had been drinking and attacked the woman with a hunting knife. An argument apparently had arisen over the light in his room.

Reservoir Analyzer Predicts Future Of Oil Field Quickly

CALGARY (CP)—It only takes a minute to span two years at Imperial Oils engineering research laboratory here.

This is performed by an electrical instrument called a reservoir analyzer, which takes in a mass of information and tells how an oil field will behave years from now.

The only one of its kind in Canada, the analyzer is one of the latest devices to assist in finding the best way to get the most oil from a field.

The problem is studied because, even with modern methods of production, nature may refuse to yield as much as half the oil contained in some reservoirs. An increase as small as one per cent in the recovery in some fields would make thousands more barrels of oil available.

The oil in a field exists not in pools but in the pores of spongelike rock. Underground pressure drives the oil out of the rock and helps bring it to the surface when a well is drilled.

If the pressure is dissipated by too rapid withdrawal of oil, some crude will be lost. The problem is to find the most efficient rate of production while maintaining a satisfactory pressure.

TIME SAVER

The best production rate can be worked out by long, weary mathematics, but the reservoir analyzer can do it much quicker.

The analyzer is eight feet long, three feet high and about 1½ feet wide. Its panels are covered by a maze of dials, plug-ins, switches and two clock-like indicators. Behind the panels is a network of wires.

The analyzer gives the behavior of an electrical system which simulates an oil field.

The analyzer's behavior is first matched with that of an actual field. Then production rates are plugged in. It may take half a day to set the stage, but once the analyzer begins clicking it can tell its story in a minute or so.

Gales, Waves Sink Barge At Cobourg

Derrick Goes Down With Barge As Hole Punched At Dock

COBOURG (ENS)—Pounded by heavy seas in a sixty-mile-an-hour gale today, an Ontario Construction Co. barge sank in Cobourg harbor.

On top of the barge was a large mobile derrick, and it went down also, the top of the derrick being visible out of the water. The derrick and barge had been used in the repairs to the centre pier, but due to bad weather, it was tied up in the corner between the T-pier and the east pier for shelter.

However, the gale was so strong that the continual pounding against the pier punched a hole in the barge and it sank. Nobody was aboard. A salvage job of fairly large proportions will be necessitated in raising the barge and the derrick.

The oil tanker Simcoe was unloading gas and oil at the ferry dock during the heavy blow, and extra lines had to be made fast to hold it steady. The gale which was in progress all morning, is the worst this year.

Wrecked Cars To Be Shown In Safety Drive

The Chamber of Commerce with affiliated members of the Peterborough and District Safety Council, is planning a holiday season safety campaign to begin December 15.

Graphic examples of carelessness will be paraded before the people in the form of automobile wrecks. A number of wrecks will be placed at strategic points throughout the city and posters tacked on them will tell the reason for each disaster. Other wrecks will be towed about the city behind trucks.

The same method of instilling safety consciousness will be applied in relation to the safe handling of Christmas trees. Fire Chief William Sorrie is planning to mobilize a setting showing a properly decorated tree and a burned one. Safety rules will be displayed and the float will be taken to the various schools.

Those in charge of the campaign are, chairman, Jim Fraser, Chief of police, John Thompson. Fire chief, William Sorrie, Ted Elliott, Constable Don McKay, Jack Mark, Jim Lillico, Bud LaBranche, Don Laurie, Bob Hamilton.

MOH Requests Salary Increase Be Retroactive

A request was submitted to the Board of Health by MOH Dr. J. P. Wells, Wednesday night, asking that his salary increase, passed by city council October 14, be made retroactive to the first of 1953. A recommendation to this effect will be presented to city council.

Dr. Wells' request was made to clarify a misunderstanding between himself and the board when the question of salary increase was first presented to council. The question then was whether the raise would be granted or not. Ald. John Dewart who presented the request to council made no mention of the retroactive element.

Increases of salary granted to other members of the public health staff were retroactive.

Dr. Wells' present salary will amount to about $6,730 this year unless council decides to issue retroactive pay. His annual salary, dating from October 14, 1953 on, will be $7,500 with potential annual increases.

$7,000 BASIC

The board sympathized with Dr. Wells' claim. The Canadian Public Health Association sets a basic standard of $7,000 for a qualified MOH with incumbent increases understood. Dr. Wells has had previous experience as an MOH in Prince Edward county.

Mayor Hugh Waddell estimated the previous MOH, Dr. R. A. Kelly's maximum salary, to be in the vicinity of $6,800. This estimate did not include pension plan subsidies, travelling expenses, and sundry other expenses.

The board approved the appointment of Mrs. Blanche Gordon, a registered nurse with three years' practical experience as a public health nurse, at a salary of $3,150, beginning in 1954.

Canada Packers have agreed to install a 127,000 gallon retention tank for sewage disposal. This will eliminate much of the refuse presently polluting Little lake. Other industries, including the CGE, Peterborough Lock Company and Silverwoods Dairy plan similar steps to ease pollution of Jackson's park and Little lake.

Only 25% Of Voters In Oshawa Cast Ballots

Fewer than 25 per cent of the municipal voters in Oshawa exercised their franchise in the elections Monday for council, Board of Education and Utilities Comission.

"Perhaps the fact that there was no contest for the mayoralty may have kept down the number of voters," says the Times-Gazette. "Nevertheless, with the future welfare of the city at stake, it is discouraging to find that probably 70 per cent of those entitled to vote did not take the time or trouble to go to the polling stations."

Approximately 85 per cent of Oshawa's home ocupants are home owners, "but apparently they do not care what happens to their civic government."

Two of the 12 members of the 1953 council were defeated, another retired. Oshawa elects its members annually and without the conditional requirement as in Peterborough which dictates that voters must mark their ballots for at least four candidates.

Rev. F. G. Ongley Inducted 10th Rector Of St. John's

In an induction and institution ceremony dating back to feudal times, the Rev. F. G. Ongley became "the bishop's man" Wednesday night at St. John's church. He is the 10th rector of that church since its founding in 1827. Presiding at the ceremony was Bishop A. R. Beverley, bishop of Toronto, assisted by clergy from Peterborough, Lakefield, Omemee, Port Hope and Bowmanville.

St. John's was completely filled for the service, after which a reception was held for the new rector.

As the ceremony progressed, Mr. Ongley read aloud the declarations of oaths of his office and following, the letters of institution were read. Bishop Beverley then presented the new rector with a book of common prayer and Bible and blessed him.

KEYS PRESENTED

The induction was then completed with the presentation to Mr. Ongley of his letters of institution and the church keys.

Addressing the congregation, Canon W. J. Gilling of St. Luke's described the ceremony as "thoroughly feudal".

He traced it back to the Norman conquest of Britain when new priests became the bishop's men, just as Mr. Ongley accepted the charge from the bishop as "mine and thine".

Canon Gilling described the new rector as having "great and varied experience," being "most industrious and capable;" and his name as being "synonomous with persistence and devotion."

A Hamilton native, Mr. Ongley was ordained after graduating from Trinity College, Toronto, in 1939. He served at St. Clement's in Toronto and All Saints' in Collingwood before joining the RCAF where he saw service as a padre in England and Germany.

After his discharge in 1947, he was appointed rector of St. Matthew's Cathedral in Brandon where he remained until his appointment here.

Poland Reservoir Low

LONDON (Reuters)—Communist Poland is suffering from a severe water shortage, Warsaw Radio reported Wednesday night. It appealed to all citizens not to waste water, and "use as little as possible in washing your clothes and in bathing."

Girls Scarce On The Farm Hie To The City

Girls are compartively few in the membership of the Junior Farmers of Norwood. The proportion Wednesday night was about one girl and five boys. Attendance was about thirty.

Ken Best, assistant agricultural representative, laments the lack of girls in the new club of which Harold Stinson is chairman. They are off to a lively start, but the feminine section is greatly outbalanced.

"And I guess there is nothing we can do about it," Mr. Best has commented to the Examiner. "The rural girls of the Norwood area are mostly in Peterborough or Toronto."

Farmers have been cudgelling their imaginations for a long time about how they are "going to keep them down on the farm," but it seems that the "them" are only the sons of the soil.

GET TRAINING

It would be incorrect to say that farmers are not concerned about their daughters. In some farm homes, the girls are given business and university training as an asset in urban life, recognizing that the farm has only one place for them: as farmers' wives. Then, there are the girls who take up household economy, and whose help at home is highly valued. But, generally the main work on the land has to be done by the men folks. The girls add to the youth and beauty of the cities.

They are here not only from the four corners of Peterborough county but from Hastings, Durham, Victoria and other counties of the district. Their shuttling back and forth between home and abroad makes important contribution to the railway and bus passenger business and revenues.

Lloyd Jasper Pays Tribute To V. S. Milburn

"In the whole farm movement of this country, I don't know any finer or better man than Vivian S. Milburn, who came to the Ontario Federation of Agriculture in its first stage."

That was the tribute by Lloyd Jasper of Mildmay, guest speaker at the annual meeting of Peterborough Federation at Norwood Wednesday night.

Mr. Milburn is a son of Smith township. He was recently re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Milk Producers at their annual meeting, and that was the 26th time Eddie Butler as president and "Viv" Milburn as secretary-treasurer were retained in office by the dairy farmers who supply Peterborough's whole milk.

Mr. Jasper said Peterborough had made a great contribution to the success of the Ontario Federation through the personality of Mr. Milburn "whom you let go to Toronto."

This was the first meeting of the federation in East Peterborough, essentially a transfer for this year's meeting with the object of bringing the farmers of the two sections of the county into closer relationship through the agency of the federation.

Executive members elected were: W. G. Barrie, W. W. Dawson, R. R. Stewart, Mrs. W. W. Graham, Bert Armstrong and Bruce Graham.

Henry Sharpe presided. It was reported that Mrs. Lorne Reynolds had requested that she be permitted to resign.

Rumor Questioning Validity Scotched

Enquiry by the Examiner dispels a rumor questioning the validity of the candidature of Mrs. Alene Holt in the aldermanic elections.

Mrs. Holt placed second to Stan McBride in the count of ballots. In the amended voters list Mrs. Holt is designated as a tenant at 469 Water St., and thereby was qualified to accept nomination for alderman.

Responsible sources of information affirmed that the rumors had been heard in the municipal quarters and had been investigated. It was recalled that announcement had been made providing opportunity for any corrections that should be made to the preliminary list.

The Examiner was told that in the original the tenancy of Mrs. Holt had been incorrectly described, that the amendment was made in the proper time, and that the usual course had been followed in dealing with appeals for change of designation in the voters list.

Groceteria, Bank Buy Sites As Planned Business Area On Lansdowne St. Grows

Loblaws, Bank of Commerce Join Simpson-Sears In South End Expected To Start Construction Within Year

Loblaw Groceterias Co. and the Canadian Bank of Commerce have bought sites in the Lansdowne St. block of property where Simpsons-Sears Ltd. have begun development of a neighborhood business centre. Reports of this purchase of land on the south side of Lansdowne St. and west of Monaghan Road has been confirmed by Examiner enquiries. Details of the plans of the bank and grocery company are not definitely known at present, but the intimations are that in the New Year they intend to proceed with the construction of buildings for their units in what has all the promises of becoming a business area.

The public knows of the investment and plans of Simpsons-Sears in choosing Peterborough for one of their stores in the chain they are projecting across Canada. Contract for the foundation has been let to Carroll Contracting Co. of Toronto, and that work is now in progress

ON GROUND MAPS

Location of the three branches of business has been shown on ground maps to builders and others, and a fourth business will be the Canadian Oil Co. service station at the south-west corner of Lansdowne St. and Monaghan Road. They were the first firm to acquire a holding in that quarter. Simpsons-Sears gave the major interest to the proposed commercial development which is largely based on the fact that off-street parking has become an attractive feature in the planning of store locations for tomorrow. Ample space for customer cars will be provided in the Lansdowne St. block.

Union Men Address Havelock Workers

Representatives from the Peterborough Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC) went to the Havelock town hall Wednesday night to address production employees of the Building Products Ltd., and urge them to join the Peterborough Labor Council. There are about 90 eligible workers in the Building Products plant, two miles east of Havelock. A delegation is expected to attend the January meeting of council and see how business is conducted. Representatives from the council who spoke Wednesday night were Glenn Price, president, and Henry Nokes, secretary.

Commons Bill Planned Raise Quorum To 30

OTTAWA (CP)—A bill to raise the quorum in the House of Commons from 20 to 30 will be introduced by Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre).

Mr. Knowles said today the bill will seek to amend the British North America Act of 1867, which set the Commons quorum at 20.

At that time, he explained, the House membership was 181. Now it is 265. To raise the quorum to 30 would simply maintain the original proportion.

THREE FIRE ALARMS

Firemen answered three alarms between 8:18 p.m. Wednesday and 3 a.m. today. The first call was to the rear of the apartments at 289½ George St. where some garbage was burning in a garbage can. A booster tank was used on the blaze for six minutes. Gas was reported at Foster's restaurant at 12.03 a.m. but it proved a false alarm. Another run was made at 3 a.m. when a faulty sprinkler system at the Peterborough Canoe Co. set off an automatic alarm.

Uranium Mines Developing In Haliburton

One of the richest samples of uranium ore ever seen in this district was pulled out in a drill core on the Faraday uranium property at the north end of Bow lake a few miles south of Bancroft this week.

Some 1,800 acres were staked three years ago making it probably the oldest uranium find in the district. But nothing was done to drill or develop it until this year. Now there are two drills probing the rocky or filled terrain a short distance from the Bancroft highway.

Two other finds a few miles west, Centre lake and Macassa are quickly developing into the first two uranium mines in Haliburton county.

The pioneer development in that area, Centre Lake Uranium which is controlled by Ventures Limited via Charlebois Lake Uranium holdings, has had satisfactory results from fall sampling in the underground workings it was announced this weeks.

Plans are proceeding for extensive underground development in the new year. This property is of local interest; it was staked in July, 1951, by garageman Garnet Burns and Bob Steele, both of Peterborough.

Adjoining Centre lake is the Macassa-controlled Croft Uranium which is also having excellent results from cores of a diamond- drilling program. Thirty-five holes have been completed and to date they have outlined an ore zone about 1,600 feet long with the structure still open for exploration to the south. Croft lies about one mile north of Centre lake. The ore structure of both properties appears to be the same, officials say, and a healthy tonnage from both can be expected.

NEW MAP

In a new district mining map of Haliburton county, issued by a firm of Toronto mining map makers, Cardiff township has been staked solid by various mining companies and prospecting syndicates. There is some ground open in the northeast section and a narrow strip on the west side.

Adjoining Monmouth township has been staked fairly solidly in the centre with Tory Hill as its community centre.

The Paudash uranium field has never been as spectacular as those in remote areas but it is important enough for the Northern Miner to feature it this week on its front page.

It is known that existing ore in that area is not of high grade but accessibility to present power lines, good highways and the railway at Bancroft will make it possible for profitable mining.

CROSSED BRINY ALONE—Two of the youngest passengers to make the long journey across the Atlantic alone arrived in Saint John over the weekend aboard the Canadian Pacific immigrant ship Beaverbrae, from Bremen, Germany. They are Gudrun Wernecke, 4, and her step-brother, Peter Friedrich, 10. They are en route to Kitchener to join their parents who came to Canada two years ago.

Pulp Officials Have Laugh At Prophesy

By BOB JOYCE

MONTREAL (CP) — Canada's pulp and paper men, their faith in the future bolstered by current statistics, are having a quiet laugh at the expense of those who prophesied a downturn in the industry in 1953.

With less than a month to go, paper industrialists prophesy that Canada's newsprint output will top previous records.

They base their forecasts on the evidence of the first 10 months of the year. Canada's newsprint production, the largest in the world, topped the 4,774,000-ton mark by Nov. 1 1953, 14,000 tons more than for the same period last year.

HIGHER U. S. DEMAND

Chief factor in the rise, they say, has been an increase in United States consumption. In the first 10 months, U. S. newsprint consumption was 138,000 tons higher than in the same period in 1952, and by the end of the year the increase should total about 160,000.

This increased consumption has not all been reflected in Canadian newsprint exports. In part it has been met by digging into stocks. Canadian shipments to the U. S. during the first 10 months rose by only 24,000 tons. Newsprint stocks in North America, however, fell by 61,000 tons.

DAUGHTER KIDNAPPED — Mrs. and Mr. Ross McDowell have appealed to farmers in southern Ontario to help search for their daughter Marion, 17, kidnapped from a parked car in Toronto's suburban Scarborough township. The distraught parents and police fear the girl may be dead and are asking farmers to search their fields for the body before snow comes.

U.K. Army Approves Necktie For Soldiers

LONDON (CP) — The British Army has approved a necktie for use by regular soldiers of all ranks when in plain clothes.

The tie, 600 of which were sold before the official announcement was made, has the army crest in gold on a maroon background. It is hoped it will help stimulate recruiting.

"So much of the soldier's time now is spent in civilian clothes," said a war office announcement, "that it is hoped such a tie will be welcomed."

Report 55 Killed In Hunting Accidents

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A hunter in Quebec threw his loaded rifle into the back of a truck. He was one of 55 persons killed in hunting accidents in Canada this year.

Some of the others were mistaken for deer, some became lost in the bush, some drowned.

Only Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island were free of hunting fatalities in 1952 and 1953, a Canadian Press survey shows.

Last year some 86 hunters were killed in Canada.

The number of hunters who died at their sport may be greater than available figures suggest because some provinces do not keep statistics on hunting accidents.

ONTARIO WORST

Ontario reported the most hunting deaths this year, 20 compared with nine last year. Quebec was a close second with at least 13.

Red clothing is the Saskatchewan answer to hunting accidents. Provincial regulations demand a complete outer garment of red for anetlope hunters, for their big game, the hunter is allowed to vary his ensemble with white.

Saskatchewan officials credit the showy clothing with reducing hunting fatalities from six in 1952 to two this year. Most hunters shot were improperly dressed.

New Brunswick is trying a "tough" policy to keep accidents down. A hunter who wounds another may have his hunting licence suspended for life.

GUN SAFETY CLUBS

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick operate gun safety clubs.

Guns were not the only cause of hunting deaths. One man in Ontario died of a heart attack while hauling his gear through the bush. Another overworked his heart building a duck blind.

Some 63 hunters were injured in the four provinces which had figures available, compared with a total of 96 non-fatal injuries in these provinces last year.

Here are the estimated figures for hunting deaths by provinces (last year's figures in brackets):

Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island 0 (0); Nova Scotia 2 (5); New Brunswick 5 (8); Quebec 13 (20); Ontario 20 (9); Manitoba 1 (13); Saskatchewan 2 (6); Alberta 5 (14); British Columbia 7 (7).

ALLEGED NARCOTICS HEADQUARTERS — This photo of a barricaded door was produced in a Montreal court by the RCMP to support charges that the building was used by a narcotics ring. Police said drug purchasers never got by the door which was barred with a piece of two-by-four, a safety chain and a door lock. They said the purchaser apparently paid his money and received his drugs through a peep-hole in the door.

Recently Revived Curfews Have Long, Varied History

Curfew is still a live issue. As problems of juvenile delinquency mount, civic authorities from coast to coast are dusting off long unenforced regulations and considering new ones.

A Washington, D.C., commissioner has suggested a law that would keep children under 12 off the capital streets at night. Under an old curfew ordinance, a Los Angeles judge fined the parents of eight boys who had ambushed and attacked a small group of adults.

Curfew restrictions go back at least to medieval times. The word itself is from the French "courvefeu" (cover fire), an expression introduced into England with the Norman invasion. But the practice was already old when William the Conqueror came. Anglo-Saxon towns in the reign of Alfred the Great rang a nightly bell, warning inhabitants to close their doors and cover their fires.

SAVED LIVES AND PROPERTY

Curfew was a life-and-death matter in the Middle Ages, when most houses were built of wood, and a live ember could start a conflagration that would destroy a city.

It also served as protection against the footpads and robbers who swarmed the highways and the dark, unpoliced streets. The tolling of the bell, or in some cases the blowing of a horn, at 7 or 8 o'clock, announced that all honest men should be at home, and that anyone wandering abroad was liable to severe punishment.

Through the centuries, curfew has been a potent curb upon plotters against those in authority. The Nazi occupation forces of the Second World War used it widely, stepping up the penalties as defeat neared and local acts of sabotage increased.

The famous 19th-century poem, "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight" told ar omantic story set in England under Cromwell's iron rule. Its gentle heroine saved her Royalist lover, doomed to die at curfew time, by clinging to the tongue of the bell, thus muffling it.

CURFEW STILL RINGS

As a tradition, many English towns and villages still sound the curfew bell each evening at 8 or 9 o'clock. Even in London the custom is observed on the old bell at Lincoln Inn. Chester, Lichfield and Totnes not only toll the curfew hour but add the day of the month.

The Puritans brought the curfew to the American colonies. Eventually the custom spread south and west and took the form of municipal ordinances prohibiting young people from appearing on the streets after certain hours.

Thousands of such laws remain on the books, though they are enforced only periodically. In 1943, acording to a report of the American Municipal Association, from 10 to 90 per cent of all American cities had adopted curfew restrictions. Since then, the Association's records indicate that the number has grown steadily larger.

Jaywalker Jailed

VANCOUVER (CP) — A pedestrian went to jail Wednesday for three days rather than pay a $5 fine for jaywalking. Albany Bisson, 43, refused to answer when the charge was read to him in court. When a court officer asked him if he was going to jail rather than pay the fine, Bisson replied "sure."

Army General Takes Command Of Planning For Olympic Games

By WILL GRIMSLEY

MELBOURNE (AP)—An army general who commanded the Australian forces in the Korean war is calling shots for the 1956 Olympic Games and the success of the venture seems assured.

The chief executive officer for organizing the games is Lt.-Gen. William Bridgeford, who has stamped out the early bickering and put the program on a split-seconds time schedule.

"We have no financial problems. We have already selected all the sites," he said. "Now our job is to go ahead with the needed construction and promotion and we are doing that."

Prime Minister Robert Menzies has issued an edict that all departments and services of the commonwealth must lend wholehearted support to the games.

There has not been any bickering here in the last six months. Already 12 months' work has been spent on the Olympic village and plans are made to step up construction after the Queen's visit in January.

HOLT RECRUITED

One of the Olympic Games' sharpest minds, that of Britain's Edward Holt, has been recruited to aid in the organization. Holt has been active in high Olympic quarters for half a century.

The site of the games, Melbourne Cricket Ground's sprawling stadium, is within walking distance of downtown Melbourne. One third of the section of three-tier stands is being demolished and a new and bigger construction will make the capacity 120,000, half under cover.

From four directions the stadium area is fed by train and trolley services which can easily accommodate the expected crowds.

Olympic officials are counting on 7,000 visitors, exclusive of the athletes and their attendants, and those unable to get into the 90 hotels will be quartered in private homes.

For the anticipated 6,000 athletes, an Olympic village is being constructed in Heidelberg suburb, some eight miles from the city. The athletes will be transported to and from the cricket grounds by bus.

BOATING AT BALLARAT

Rowing and canoeing will be held on Lake Wendouree in the attractive village of Ballarat, 70 miles from Melbourne. Yachting will be at Port Phillip bay off Brighton near the city. The Glaciarium ice rink is to be reconverted for two basketball courts and a gymnastics site. Boxing will be staged at West Melbourne stadium.

The equestrian events will not be staged here because of the quarantine laws. What to do about the events will be decided at the Olympic committee's meeting in Athens, Greece, in the spring.

Bridgeford said the committee had around £1,000,000 for promotion purposes and £1,250,000 for new construction, exclusive of housing developments.

Two Airmen Killed

PENHOLD, Alta. (CP) — An RCAF instructor and a student pilot were killed Wednesday when their light training plane crashed while on a training flight near Innisfail, about 65 miles north of Calgary. The RCAF identified the victims as FO. Ernest Dyre of Red Deer, Alta., and Flight Cadet Lochlain McNeill Campbell, 18, of Calgary.

IN CANADA to study medicine under the Colombo Plan, Dr. Prema Naidu and Dr. E. V. Kalyani have done post-graduate work at Montreal Royal Victoria Hospital. They leave Montreal to continue their studies in Toronto, Saskatoon and Edmonton.

Africa's Famous Reserve

Kruger Park, 8,000 Square Miles

South Africa is the land of sunshine all the year round, writes John Hughes from Durban, South Africa, to the Christian Science Monitor.

A country of more than 10,000,000, South Africa today is a highly developed modern land and, contrary to popular belief abroad, the only wild animals the everyday tourist is likely to see will be those carefully guarded (for the benefit of the animals, not the tourists) in special game reserves.

Typical of these is the 8,000 square miles of Kruger National Park in the northeast of the Transvaal Province.

Here, not so many years ago, was the site of old Africa—Africa of the trading safaris, ivory hunters and adventurers—Jock of the Bushveld country. Today the motor car and camera have taken their place, and the only shooting done is through a lens. But although firearms are banned in this vast zoo without bars, where the animals live naturally in their normal surroundings, just as exciting trophies can be brought back on film.

PARK RULES

A few simple rules govern entry to the park. Visitors are not allowed out of their cars—now regarded as inedible by the animals and left alone. Indeed, many of the animals, particularly the lions, have come to regard traffic with a curious fascination. Whole families of them make a habit of sitting on the roadside to watch the human parade. Not so the unpredictable African elephant, the only inhabitant of the park of whom it is well to beware. "Keep your distance and keep your engine running," is the rule where he is concerned.

But from the other animals, including the giraffe, buffalo, leopard, zebra, antelope, hippopotamus, rhinoceros, baboon, cheetah, crocodile, monkey, and a host of buck and wild birds, you will get the utmost "co-operation."

There are no hotels in the reserve but a variety of comfortable and economical rest camps, each within easy reach of the next for a day's travel, linked by good gravel roads. Various travel firms run trips through the reserve, and, by driving the car off the track into the bush and sitting quietly, you will have all Africa at your running board, and perhaps a lion curiously, but quite harmlessly, trying your car door handle.

NATIVE LIFE

Another of the fascinating facets of South African life is the country's native life. In the cities you will see "detribalized" Africans mostly converted to western dress. But in the native reserves you will find the primitive African of old, living in blankets and beads, tending his cattle and hoeing the soil, consulting his chief and witch doctors, smiling the broad, ivory-flashing smile that is his characteristic.

You could probably devote the whole of your stay to studying the native, his pottery and beadwork, his dancing and singing, and especially the famed Zulus of Zululand, in the north of Natal.

But there is much else to see and do. The country is linked with a network of roads easily traversed by hired car or luxury bus. Alternatives are train or the internal Skymaster service of South African Airways. Whenever you go you will find great scenic beauty from the rolling red veld to vast blue mountain ranges. For South Africa is the land of contrast.

Costs are comparable with those in Britain and considerably less than the United States. An excellent shipping and air network— from America by Robin or Farrell lines or Pan American Airways, and Britain by the Union-Castle Royal Mail service or BOAC Comet—makes South Africa easily accessible.

THE BIG CITIES

In the big cities — Johannesburg, Cape Town, and Durban—you will find theatres, cinemas, the ballet, and the arts, but the emphasis is mainly on outdoor life. With 1,300 miles of sunny bathing beaches and coastal resorts, most of them on the warm Indian Ocean, surfing and swimming are, of course, most popular. But there is also yachting, tennis, bowls, and mountaineering in the Drakensberg range of Natal.

No visit to South Africa would be complete without a trip to neighbouring Southern Rhodesia and the famous mile-long 355-foot high Victoria Falls, twice the height of Niagara.

Being in the southern hemisphere, South Africa's seasons are exactly opposite to those of the northern hemisphere, but although the "winter" climate is dry and exhilarating (snow falls rarely and only on the highest peaks), visitors at any time of year will be sure of sunshine.

No Depression Sighted Yet

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Eric G. Taylor, Canadian economic expert, said Wednesday night there is no evidence of depression on Canada's horizon.

He told a meeting of the St. Catharines Young Liberals Association that Canada's long range economic outlook is the best ever.

"We're the economic garden of the world," he said. "We'll have our ups and downs and there will be adjustments to make but we'll come out all right."

Mr. Taylor is a former president of Brazilian Traction Company.

Blackwell Criticizes Sections Of Act

TORONTO (CP)—Leslie Blackwell, former Ontario attorney general, Wednesday criticized the sections of the Ontario Companies Act which left the decisions on some matters of policy to the discretion of a member of the civil service.

He told the legislature's select committee on revision of the act he thought company law like any other field of legislation should be predicated on the broad principle that all matters of policy should be settled by the political arm of the government.

Attorney - General Porter said that it is necessary to have some latitude to allow for changes and said that he did not know how it would be possible to put into statutes "all the permutations and combinations" that might be brought forward.

McRuer Praises Eisenhower Speech

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Chief Justice J. C. McRuer of the High Court of Ontario said Wednesday night he was "profoundly impressed" by President Eisenhower's United Nations speech Tuesday.

McRuer declared it was "important that we understand each other and resolve our differences by other means that those used in the past."

He spoke at an unusual gathering of the highest ranking jurists of New York state and Ontario, who were guests of honor at a dinner meeting of the Erie County Bar Association.

Eight members of the Court of Appeal for Ontario attended.

Canadian Escorts Netherlands Queen

THE HAGUE (CP)—A Canadian, A. J. Wickens of Moose Jaw, Sask., was accorded the honor of escorting Queen Juliana of The Netherlands to open the fourth general assembly of the World Veterans' Federation.

Wickens, president of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans of Canada, was one of three Canadian delegates to the 200-delegate assembly representing nearly 18,000,000 veterans in 22 countries. With Wickens were W. H. Morgan of Winnipeg, his vice-president, and William T. Correll, president of the War Pensioners of Canada, from Hamilton, Ont.

The assembly convened Nov. 16 and lasted a week.

GESTURE OF FRIENDSHIP

Wickens' place of honor beside The Netherlands queen was a gesture of friendship and appreciation from Dutch war veterans. Last year, the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans gave Dutch veterans 12 folding wheel chairs and $2,000 toward flood aid.

This time, Wickens and Morgan handed over a $1,000 cheque to the Greek veterans for earthquake aid and donated another $2,000 to the World Veterans' Federation fund.

Further financial contributions went to Israeli delegates to be used on a children's rehabilitation centre.

STANDS FOR FREEDOM

Morgan, making his first federation assembly appearance, told the gathering:

"The WVF stands for peace, freedom and independence. The new world is constructed rather differently from the old. For example, I was born a Welshman. My wife is Irish-Canadian, my daughter married a German. What does that make my grandchild? I trust—a human being."

Messages of good will read to the assembly included one from Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Hold 2nd Election Since Year 1910

PLATTSVILLE (CP) — This village of 456 persons will have its second election since 1910 when the 356 eligible voters go to the polls Monday.

From 1910 to 1940 the village's three trustees went into office by acclamation. Local residents confess they had almost forgotten how to arrange the election. The last election was in 1950.

This year six men were nominated to contest the three trustee seats. When four qualified an election was assured.

Cites Restrictions On Margarine

TORONTO (CP)—The president of the National Dairy Council Wednesday cited the restrictions on margarine in other Commonwealth countries to support the Canadian dairy industry's demand for a 15-cents-a-pound excise tax on margarine.

J. J. Creighton reiterated the demand of the dairy farmers of Canada and the National Dairy Council for the 15-cent margarine tax in an address to Ontario Association of Ice Cream manufacturers.

He said Australia limits the production of margarine to between one and two pounds a person a year; New Zealand prohibits the manufacture of other than cooking margarine and South Africa limits the sale and distribution of the product to its low-income colored population.

Post Office Dept To Hire 1,600 Workers

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department will hire 1,600 new employees across Canada next April 1 to make the five-day week effective, W. J. Turnbull, deputy postmaster-general, said in an interview Wednesday.

Higher postal rates, effective the same date, were announced Tuesday to cover the added expense. At present the department has a permanent staff of 22,000 employees.

Halifax Wants Some Assurance

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Gordon Isnor (L—Nova Scotia) Wednesday said in the Senate that the people of Halifax are entitled to assurance by the government that they will be safe from transportation of explosives in Halifax harbor.

Senator Isnor, a resident of Halifax, noted that amendments to the explosives act appeared to exempt the defence minister and his officials from penalties for misuse of explosives or regulation on transportation and handling.

As a result of Senator Isnor's appeal, action by the Senate on the amendments was delayed until today. Unanimous consent of the Senate was necessary for the amendments to be considered.

When the amendments first were presented to the Senate, Senator Isnor recalled the explosion of Dec. 7, 1917, in which about 1,700 persons in Halifax lost their lives.

BID ACCEPTED

TORONTO (CP)—The metropolitan co-ordinating committee Wednesday accepted the lowest bid for the preliminary planning of the lakeshore expressway. The firm was Margison Babcock and Associates of Toronto who offered to do the work for $31,500. Highest bid was $160,000.

Believes Television Could Boost Sales

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—J. A. Eccles, public relations director of the Ontario Agricultural College, said Wednesday that growers should consider television as a means of promoting sale of their produce.

Speaking to the Niagara Peninsula Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association, Mr. Eccles said television could be used to inform the urban dwellers on the marketing situation, to promote consumption of produce by teaching new methods of preparation and to inform the producer of consumer preference.

Two Niagara Men Sentenced For Theft

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP)—Richard Miller and Fergus Higman of Niagara Falls, Ont., were sentenced Wednesday to jail terms following guilty pleas when arraigned two weeks ago on charges of theft with violence.

Miller as sentenced to two years and Higman to one year.

They pleaded guilty to charges of beating up service station operator Arthur Beliveau last Nov. 21 and fleeing without paying for $5.65 worth of gasoline.

Canada's '53 Political Picture Not Much Changed

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP)—Despite one federal and three provincial elections Canada's political picture ends the year much the same as it started.

Prime Minister St. Laurent's Liberal government was returned to office last August after a hectic summer campaign with a slightly-reduced majority. British Columbia's minority Social Credit government, elected in 1952, was re-elected with a small working majority last June. The Liberal-Progressive government of Manitoba and the Liberal government of Nova Scotia won elections in June with their strength slightly decreased.

The Liberals held 181 seats in the House of Commons when the federal election was announced last June; the Progressive Conservatives 48, CCF 13, Social Credit 10, Independent Liberals one and Independents four. There were five vacancies in the 262-seat chamber.

ELECT 170 LIBERALS

After the votes were counted the Liberals held 170 of the 265 seats, three more than the last Parliament as a result of redistribution. The Progressive Conservatives strength was 51, CCF 23, Social Credit 15, Independent three, Independent Liberals two and Liberal-Labor one.

The PC membership was reduced to 50 by the death of Gordon Graydon, member for the Ontario riding of Peel. A by-election will be held early in 1954.

The Social Credit party won 28 of the 48 seats in the B.C. legislature, but lost one in a by-election in Victoria in November. The CCF has 14 seats, the Liberals five, the Conservatives one and Independent Labor one.

Premier Angus Macdonald went back into power in Nova Scotia with 22 of the 37 seats. The Conservatives formed the opposition with 13 seats, and two CCF members were elected. In Manitoba, Premier Douglas Campbell's Liberal-Progressives took 32 of the 57 seats; the Conservative opposition 12, the CCF 5, Social Credit two, Independents four, Independent Liberals one and the Labor-Progressives one.

FEDERAL VOTE LOWER

Four of the members elected to the 22nd Parliament are women. They are Mrs. Ann Shipley, 53, (L—Timiskaming); Miss Sybil Bennett, 49, (PC—Halton); Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, 48, (PC — Hamilton West), and Miss Margaret Aitken, 45, (PC—York Humber).

A total of 5,640,837 of 8,384,178 eligible voters cast ballots, compared with 5,848,971 in 1949. The Liberals received 2,819,038 votes, the Conservatives 1,171,673, the CCF 636,191 and Social Credit 305,909.

All members of the armed forces voted, since the regular services went on active duty after the outbreak of the Korean war. They included 16-year-old apprentices in the army and navy.

The election was held after a long campaign by opposition parties against government trade, taxation and defence policies.

The Liberals sought and won re-election on previous performance and made no promises to the electors. The Conservatives promised a $500,000,000 slash in taxes as their main plank.

CABINET CHANGES

The election date had been announced by Mr. St. Laurent after his return from the Coronation in London, where he also attended a meeting of Commonwealth prime ministers. At the same time he announced the resignation of Works Minister Fournier, who as appointed to the Exchequer Court, and named J. W. Pickersgill, clerk of the Privy Council, as secretary of state.

The Coronation was attended by a large number of cabinet ministers, private members and senators and their wives. A special armed services contingent and the RCMP's musical ride highlighted Canada's contribution to the ceremony.

After the election, Mr. St. Laurent announced a minor shuffle of his cabinet. resources Minister Winters was transferred to the vacant works portfolio and Jean Lesage, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, took over Mr. Winter's post.

Before the opening of the 22nd Parliament, Mr. St. Laurent appointed a new slate of 13 parliamentary assistants. They included W. G. Weir, Liberal whip from Portage-Neepawa, as assistant to the prime minister.

The election victory marked the start of the 19th year of Liberal reign in the Commons and Mr. St. Laurent's sixth year of party leadership.

NEW SENATORS

During the year, Mr. St. Laurent appointed 11 senators, bringing the strength of the upper house to 81 Liberals and eight Conservatives, with 13 vacancies. The new senators include former Commons speaker W. Ross Macdonald; former secretary of state Bradley and three women—Mrs. Nancy Hodges, Victoria; Mrs. Marianna B. Jodoin, Montreal, and Mrs. Muriel McQueen Fergusson, Fredericton.

Besides attending the Coronation, a number of cabinet ministers visited other countries on state business.

External Affairs Minister Pearson, Defence Minister Claxton and Finance Minister Abbott attended NATO meetings in Paris. Mr. St. Laurent visited Washington last May and President Eisenhower returned the visit in November.

Trade Minister Howe was in Geneva for a meeting of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. Agriculture Minister Gardiner represented Canada at a meeting of the UN food and agriculture organization in Rome. Fisheries Minister Sinclair headed the Canadian delegation to the Colombo conference in New Delhi, India, and Health Minister Martin led the Canadian delegation at the UN while Mr. Pearson was president of the general assembly.

SEGREGATION HEARING—A line of people stand in the Supreme Court Building at Washington in hopes of getting into the courtroom to hear second round arguments challenging the constitutionality of segregation in public schools. Cases from four states and the District of Columbia are being considered. With only 50 seats available not all got in to hear Negro attorneys urge the Supreme Court to end racial segregation in public schools and wipe out "a sorry heritage from slavery."

Record Month For Lakefield Library

LAKEFIELD (ENS)—November was the busiest month on record at the Lakefield Public Library, reported librarian, Mrs. J. W. Ridpath. A total of 1,418 books were given out, of which 634 were adult and 784 juvenile. Thirty-eight new members joined.

The board unanimously decided to send a letter of appreciation to Oscar Schleinger, the artist who judged and placed the posters made in connection with Young Canada Book Week. Mrs. Ridpath reported that the book week had been a success.

More than 100 books have been added to the library in the last month. A donation of children's books was made by Mrs. H. Wilford.

The magazine list was completed and approved. Accounts totalling $204.90 were authorized for payment.

Japan Relies On United States, Lost Desire To Be Aggressive

TOKYO - The basic stability of Japan's economic situation is apparent in the changed mood of Tokyo. In 1937 the Japanese were aggressively self-reliant, accepting rigid controls in order to advance their national ambitions. Today they show no inclination to undertake their responsibility of standing on their own two feet writes Chester Wilmot in Montreal Star.

The Japanese people have not yet recovered from the shock of military defeat and foreign occupation, and they have become accustomed to rely on the United States to protect their economy and underwrite their trade deficits. Although many find this galling, a few people are prepared to accept the austerity which would be necessary to bring about economic stability by their own efforts.

In accepting this position of dependence, the Japanese apparently suffer no loss of face since they have rationalized the situation in a manner which saves their pride. This rationalization is seldom explicitly stated; but it has emerged again and again in conversations I have had with politicians and bureaucrats, business men, labor leaders and intellectuals.

JAPAN'S VIEW

After the war, so the Japanese arguments runs, the United States set out to destroy Japan's economy, taking away its colonial sources of food and raw materials, breaking up the big cartels which were the foundation of its competitive effeciency in world markets, and imposing a Labor Standards Law and a trades union structure, which has caused a vast increase in Japanese costs of production.

It is only proper, therefore, that the United States should now bear the burden of rebuilding Japan's economy without calling on its people to accept any sacrifices after all they have suffered. This is the more appropriate, say the Japanese, since in the interests of United States foreign policy, Japan is prevented from trading with Communist China.

Because this kind of rationalization is fairly widely accepted, the Japanese feel no moral obligation to make the effort that Britain made to restore its economy in the immediate post-war years. They have taken to heart the lesson that war does not pay—unless you are powerful enough to win—but they have also learned what advantage there is in exploiting the strategic value which their islands have for the United States.

WARNING SOUNDED

Publicly the Japanese complain about their exclusion from China and about the restrictions imposed on their trade with the sterling area; but the Government fosters no export drive and, with easy profits available at home, private business interests have little inducement to seek difficult and less profitable markets abroad.

In its latest survey, the Government's Economic Counsel Board issues a sharp warning against the present policy of drift and of undue reliance on the continuation of U.S. spending. Japan, it says, is "maintaining an economic level (of consumption) far beyond the real capacity which normal foreign trade permits." The survey condemns "the indulgence in luxuries" which characterizes much private spending and "the expansion of non-urgent company consumption which could be saved."

The result, it argues, is that goods which could be exported are being consumed at home, and that Japan is falling behind its competitors in the modernization of its industrial equipment.

The flooding of the domestic market with goods which could be exported, or which at least need not be produced in volume at present, is readily apparent in Tokyo. The shops are crowded with textiles, electrical equipment and other consumer goods of a luxury or semi-luxury nature, while exhortations and inducements to buy are offered on every hand.

Silk and television provide good examples of trends which the Economic Counsel Board condemns. In 1950 Japan exported 95,000 bales of raw silk out of a total production of 151,000 bales. Last year, although output had risen to 262,000 bales, exports were barely half what they were in 1950. This decline was due not to a falling off in foreign demand, which would have absorbed well over one hundred thousand bales, but to the existence of a buoyant market at home where consumption of silk is now five time greater than it was at the start of the Korean war.

The case of television aptly illustrates Japan's failure to direct its limited resources of development capital into essential industries directly or indirectly concerned with export trade. Both national and commercial television services have now been established, absorbing not only development capital but also foreign exchange, since nearly all the technical equipment must be imported from the United States or Britain.

INFLATION RISK

The present concentration on the domestic market and the neglect of export opportunities, is an indication of Japan's urgent need to prevent inflation getting out of hand. The inflationary pressure arising from the Korean war boom, and especially from the liberal spending by U.S. troops on leave, has put vast sums into the pockets of the people; and unless their expenditure is to be curtailed by heavier taxation, the home market must be provided with sufficient goods to absorb this bountiful purchasing power.

The immediate result has been to curb the development of inflation; but as Japan's production costs continue to rise, its chances of reviving the export trade have steadily deteriorated. The Economic Counsel Board asserts that the situation can be brought under control by " a drastic surgical operation," but there seems to be little likelihood of the necessary measures being taken as long as the Japanese people belive that in the last resort the United States will come to their rescue.

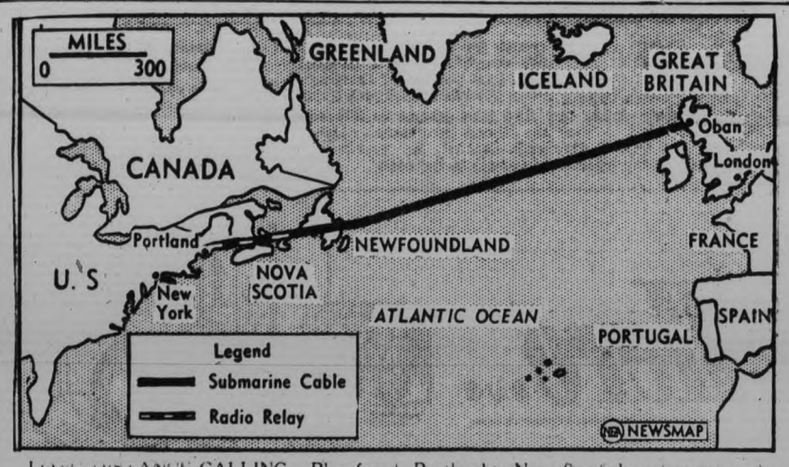
Do farmers use nickel?

"They sure do. There's a lot of nickel right out there in that tractor of Uncle Jim's. I'd hate to think what would happen in rocky ground if that tractor's gears weren't made of nickel alloy steel. Yes, there must be dozens of tractor parts which contain nickel to make them strong and tough."



"What about trucks, Dad?"

"Well, you can see the nickel plating on the bumper, grille and headlights of that truck. Nickel is even more important in its gears and other parts that have to be strong and stand a lot of hard wear. Even small percentages of nickel in steel make it strong and tough, and help prevent rust."

"The Romance of Nickel" a 72 page book fully illustrated, will be sent free on request to anyone interested.

LONG DISTANCE CALLING—Plan for laying the first transatlantic telephone cable is indicated on above Newsmap. The $35 million project, which will span some 2,000 miles, will be the longest underseas voice wire in the world when completed in 1956. Messages will move from New York to Portland, Me., by land lines, and from Portland to Nova Scotia by microwave relay. It is expected to provide swifter, clearer telephone connections between cities in the U.S. and London, and through London to most points in continental Europe. The project is a joint venture of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., the British Post Office and the Canadian Overseas Telecommunications Corporation.

Ontario Co-operatives Did $51,377,561 Business

TORONTO (CP)—United Co-Operatives of Ontario did a $51,377,561 business in the year ended Sept. 30, Hugh Bailey of Dundalk, general manager, said Wednesday.

He was outlining the year's developments to the group's annual meeting. The organization comprises 156 local co-ops with 60,000 members.

This year's total was a decrease of $5,987,308 from last year's. The volume of the dairy and poultry marketing division was $7,843,620, representing 15 per cent of the over-all business, about the same as last year.

The farm supplies section rose to a new high of $18,395,496, representing 36 per cent of over-all volume. This as an increase of $976,390, or 5.6 per cent over last year.

LIVESTOCK DOWN

The livestock division volume of $25,138,444 was down $6,901,671 from last year.

Net earnings from operations were $375,493. Current assets as related to current liabilities were 1.58 to 1, an improvement over last year's ratio of 1.34 to 1.

Mr. Bailey said a new central warehouse, providing 26,000 square feet of floor space, is nearly completed at Weston.

Want Compulsory Church Attendance

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario legislature's select committee on reform institutions Wednesday heard a suggestion that a law be passed to compel parents to take their children to church.

Rev. Norman A. Caswell of Colborne said it would be one way to reduce juvenile delinquency.

He told the committee that he believes the public is behind its stand that corporal punishment might help to keep youngsters out of jail. Swift and memorable punishment with a shorter jail term might do much to relieve the pressure on Ontario jails, he said.

8 Minor Fires In November With Loss $881

Only eight minor fires occurred in Peterborough during November. Value of property lost was $881, of which $372.50 was to buildings and $553.50 to contents. Fire Chief William Sorrie reported to city council.

Although this was not a record, it was one of the lowest of any month in recent years. In September last year, the fire loss was only $301.80. The lowest in 1951 was $871 in February, and in 1950, $780 in December.

67 ALARMS ANSWERED

The fire department responded to 67 alarms last month, of which 59 were telephone alarms, four box alarms, three sprinkler alarms and one verbal. Of these, 41 were daylight alarms and 26 at night.

Equipment used included 500 feet of 2½-inch hose, 550 feet of ¾-inch hose, six booster tanks, 18 hand pumps, 1,008 square feet of tarpaulin, three gas masks and one inhalator. The department travelled a distance of 237.7 miles.

Drills and lectures were limited during the month due to alterations. No. 2 station volunteers were given a lecture at the central station and one at the Bellevue St. station.

There were 751 inspections carried out during the month, six by Chief Sorrie and 745 by inspectors, including 25 re-inspections.

Talks were given to various groups on fire hazards in the home and several films were shown in the interest of fire prevention education.

Monster Shrinks

PORT BOLSTER (CP)—A "sea monster" reported in Lake Simcoe near this community three weeks ago is just an overgrown otter, Chief Constable George Foster of Georgina township said Wednesday. He said he saw the animal swimming in the lake and followed it to shallow water where he got a close look.

TROOPS IN GERMANY—Lt.-Gen. Guy Simonds, chief of the general staff, takes the salute from Canadian troops at Hohne, Germany, near Hannover. The troops, members of C Squadron, Royal Canadian Engineers, and the 79th Field Regiment, Royal Canadian Artillery, were on a final march at the old camp—since replaced by a new one at Soest—before being rotated to Canada.

Drives To His Pitch In Taxi

Street Beggars' Take Equal To Cabinet Minister's Salary

By DAVID SHEARS

THE HAGUE (Reuters)—Street beggars here sometimes enjoy "takings" equal to a cabinet minister's salary.

This was disclosed following a police investigation. The authorities then began an anti-vagrancy drive and today there is hardly a beggar left in Holland.

One official said: "We must not be sentimental about this social evil. Beggars' takings are fantastic. They think they have had a bad day when they take home only 70 or 80 guilders ($20 to $23)."

One of these unkempt, pathetic-looking figures was seen to receive 103 gifts from passers-by in 20 minutes.

HAD SERVANTS

The wife of another had an expensive fur coat and servants at home.

A third drove to and from his pitch every day by taxi.

Police found one woman who claimed to be paralyzed one day, and displayed a board saying she was blind the next. Another claimed blindness but frequently spent his evenings playing "klaverjas,' 'a popular Dutch card game in the cafes. His eyesight was good enough to see the cards.

Recently a burglar got away with 1,500 guilders from a beggar's home.

Picton Native Dies

Save $20,000 On Old Elections Forms

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator Thomas Crerar (L—Manitoba) Wednesday described a government economy measure as a tiny pinpoint of light in the general gloom of public spending.

He gave the description in the Senate during debate on a measure, sponsored by Senator Norman Lambert (L—Ontario), that would make it possible to use stocks of election documents hich might otherwise have to be destroyed.

Senator Lambert explained that because of the printing of the revised statutes many election documents would become useless. The bill made it possible to use such documents for by-elections and elections in the Northwest Territories.

He described it as an economy measure which should bring joy to the heart of the chairman of the Senate's finance committee, Senator Crerar, and his followers.

"How much will it save," asked Senator W. D. Euler (L—Ontario).

Senator Lambert replied that the saving would amount to between $20,000 and $25,000.

Milton Berle Weds Ruth Cosgrove

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Milton Berle and slim, brunette Ruth Cosgrove were married Wednesday. And they topped off the wedding with a eries of thoroughly photographed kisses.

It was the third marriage for the 45-year-old television star, and the second for Miss Cosgrove, 30.

Both of Berle's previous marriages were to Joyce Mathews.

MAJOR LEAGUE SWAP — Outfielder Jackie Jensen, of Washington Senators, right, was the key figure in the two-for-one deal which saw him go to Boston Red Sox for outfielder Tom Umphlett, left, and pitcher Maurie McDermott, centre. It was the first big trade completed at the major league winter meetings currently in session in New York.

Elected Twice

RAMORE (CP)—Roland Messier is a councillor in two townships. Previously elected a councillor in Black township, he again topped the polls during elections Tuesday in adjoining Playfair township. He was allowed to run for both positions because he lives within a mile radius of the two townships. Joe Ryan was re-elected reeve of Playfair townships.

Pipeline Needs Public Ownership—CCF

OTTAWA (CP)—The CCF issued a statement Wednesday saying a study indicates the national interest would best be served by a publicly-owned natural gas pipeline from the west to eastern Canada.

Results of the study—made by the CCF's national staff — were made public as the federal government prepared to bring together two competing private companies on a joint project for bringing Alberta gas into Ontario and Quebec.

The joint scheme is favored by the Alberta government, which last week decided the province has enough gas that it can be released in volume to the east.

A summary of the CCF study released said a publicly-owned line by the fifth year of operation, could bring gas east by an all-Canadian route 30 to 45 per cent more cheaply than if the enterprise were operated privately.

Study Proposal For County Health Unit

KITCHENER (CP) — Waterloo county council voted Wednesday to study the possibility of setting up a county health unit embracing the cities of Kitchener, Galt and Waterloo.

Deputy Reeve Donald Pitcher of Preston, who introduced the idea, said that it would avoid duplication in health services and part of costs would be borne by the province.

He said the type of county health unit set-up he proposed is already operating in 27 counties.

PROVINCE PAYS HALF

Under it, the province pays 50 per cent of costs to county municipalities, 25 per cent in cities over 25,000 population and 33 1-3 per cent in cities under 25,000.

The program would include communicable disease control, including TB and venereal disease diagnosis; a maternal, infant and child hygiene and school health supervision; sanitation, water and food control; sewage and recreational facilities; health education and mental health work.

DOROTHY DIX

Wife Haunted By Thought Husband Does Not Love Her

DEAR MISS DIX: Last year I was married out of necessity. My husband admitted he didn't love me, but was marrying me just for the baby's sake. He said he'd try to make a success of our marriage, and I thought we could, too, since we have many things in common. We have been fairly happy, but I never can forget the fact that he doesn't love me. He treats me like an angel, and everything is fine until the haunting thought that he doesn't really love me returns. He says I should just forget about it and be happy, as he is. Also, I am terribly jealous of him, and between this jealousy and worrying over him, I'm miserable all the time.

Lydia T.

NAGGING WILL ALIENATE HIM

ANSWER If your marriage fails, you'll have no one to blame but yourself. Your husband is doing an adequate job of cooperation. He certainly gets no help from you.

His devotion to you and the baby leads me to believe that he really does love you both, though he's unwilling to admit it. Do you want to kill any possibility that he'll come to care for you? If so, you're on the right track. Just continue your nagging and suspicion, and you'll completely alienate him. Love was never won through demanding. It's too fragile for that.

Part of your trouble is a guilt complex fostered through the manner of your marriage. Through the establishment of a home and family, you've been given a wonderful opportunity to overcome the initial drawback. You tried to force love before, by entering into a pre-marital relationship; that didn't bring the overwhelming response of love that you hoped for. Now you're grimly trying to compel your husband to love you through the very means that will turn him against you. Be content with the manifold blessings you have.

DEAR MISS DIX: We have a 3-year-old son and are soon to be blessed with another child, but our marriage was childless for seven years. My trouble is that my husband constantly finds fault with our little boy. Our week ends are hectic, and Monday morning is a welcome relief. I have no trouble with the child when his father is away from home. My husband's behaviour alternates between trying to win the child with promises that are usually broken, and harsh scoldings over insignificant matters. Are there any courses that might help my husband adjust to his role of father?

Mrs. A. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The second child may resolve your problem, since Dad will have someone else to claim his attention. Delayed parenthood often produces conflicts of this type, particularly in a father who, heretofore has been the recipient of all his wife's attention, and suddenly discovers, with trepidation, that it must be shared. Several colleges have summer courses in family relations, and I suggest that you write your state board of education to ascertain if there is one in your vicinity.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 19 and have been going with a boy for three years. Since I've been working in an office, I've grown to like one of my associates. Would I be wise to drop my steady and try to win the new man?

E. F.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You might try finding out if the new man is married. At 27, he is quite likely to be. Having ascertained that cogent fact, you might then wait until he shows at least an inkling of interest in you. Trading a pleasant young man of a tried-and-true devotion for an ambiguous possiblity is poor tactics.

COLDSPRINGS—(ENS) — The Christmas meeting of the Coldsprings' Women's Association was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday school room. Members of the W.M.S. were guests.

Mrs. C. Brooks, president, was in the chair for an opening carol service. Mrs. E. Jamieson, treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $361.62 with some Christmas cards still to be sold. Mrs. M. Dines treasurer of the plowing match committee reported clear receipts of $2,609.24 from catering. This money is to be equally divided between the Women's Association and the Women's Institute.

Mrs. M. Dines reported for the nominating committee: president —Mrs. Frank Ritchie; vice-president—Mrs. H. McKinley; treasurer—Mrs. E. Jamieson; secretary —Mrs. Leslie McIntosh; assistant secretary—Mrs. Melville Dines; Conveners—group 1, Mrs. Ross Timlin; 2, Mrs. Hilton Minifie; 3, Mrs. Clifford Minifie; 4, Mrs. Arthur Buttars. Happy Thought conveners—Mrs. C. Timlin, Mrs. McIntosh and Eileen Gibson.

Auditors—Mrs. H. Davidson and Mrs. P. Davidson. Pianist—Mrs. P. Harris. Assistant pianist —Mrs. M. Dines.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Allan Linton. The Christmas story was read by Mrs. E. Hay, and Mrs. M. Linton. A pageant, "A Canadian Christmas" was presented in costume by Mrs. C. Bowman, Mrs. W. McMann, Mrs. M. Linton, Mrs. E. May, Mrs. H. Minifie, Mrs. A. Buttars, Ann Bowman, Carol Linton, Bettemarie Minifie and Mrs. P. Harris.

The room was prettily decorated with lighted Christmas trees and streamers.

Mrs. P. Davidson moved a vote of thanks to the W.A. on behalf of the guests. Miss Hoskin moved a vote of thanks to the retiring president, Mrs. Clarence Brooks. Candy, cookies, grapes and tea were served by Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. A. Linton and group.

Your figure should be ideal if your bust and hips are the same size and if your waist is 10 inches less. Should there be a difference of more than 12 inches, you had best start exercising.

You might combine a hobby with beauty building by choosing such occupations as fencing, dancing, hiking, year - round swimming and tennis.

Gullet Cancer Patients Have Surg. Hope

MONTREAL—Almost half of patients operated on for cancer of the lower half of the esophagus, or gullet, live for five years or more.

Encouraging statistics on surgery for carcinoma of the esophagus were revealed in an interview here recently by the man who first suggested, about 20 years ago, that surgeons should explore the chest area in trying to solve the problem of cancer in the gastro-intestinal tract.

He is Dr. John H. Garlock, senior surgeon at Mount Sinai Hospital, New York, and clinical professor of surgery at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons. Dr. Garlock will speak to the Montreal Clinical Society at the Jewish General Hospital tonight.

The visitor cited some of the statistics he will publish shortly on results of surgery in cancer of the gullet. He noted that results of surgery in small clinics outside New York in recent years had led to pessimism about it.

Accordingly, he reviewed 500 cases operated on at Mount Sinai since 1935, when he started surgery for cancer of the gullet, and came up with these more encouraging figures:

1. In cases of the disease located in the lower part of the organ, 41.5 per cent operated on survived for five years.

2. Surgically, the upper part is harder to get at, but taking all cases of surgery on upper or lower gullet together, the average five-year survival rate was still almost 25 per cent.

3. Dr. Garlock remarked that cancer of the gullet is the third most common form of cancer in the gastro-intestinal tract.

If there are deep lines between your eyes, use stickers to prevent their deepening while you sleep. The bits of paper are made for this purpose in a triangular shape.

Parking Tickets Cost Drivers $780 In Month

It doesn't pay to park illegally in Peterborough. It doesn't pay the motorist—but it pays the city.

Legal parking pays off too.

Last month, the city received $780 from drivers who paid parking tickets, compared with $274 during the same month last year, $399 in November, 1951, and $269 for the same month in 1950.

Total receipts for the year, to the end of November, were $31,719.37, compared with $28,492.85 during the same period last year, $28,224.93 the year before and $26,340.53 in 1950.

FROM CITY SQUARE

Receipts from meters in the city square were $1,468.05 last month, compared with $1,156.29 in November, 1952. Total receipts from city square meters since they were installed on July 21, 1951, have been $32,364.47. There were 415 parking violation cards issued in the city parking lot during November.

Total fines and fees collected in police court last month amounted to $2,634.64, of which the city received $877.83, the provincial treasurer $873.22, the justice of the peace $290, witnesses $92.64, court reporter $25, Receiver General $40, restitution $40 and bail bonds $40.

There were 936 cases disposed of, resulting in 319 convictions and 77 withdrawals.

Wont' Reveal Gouzenko Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—Amount of public money spent on behalf of Igor Gouzenko may never be made public, it was indicated Wednesday in the Commons.

A. M. Nicholson (CCF—Mackenzie) placed a question on the order paper some time ago asking for "the total expenses incurred by the Canadian government on behalf of Igor Gouzenko since he became a government ward."

Justice Minister Garson told the House he had spoken privately to Mr. Nicholson and he had agreed to drop the question.

Gouzenko, the former Russian embassy cipher clerk who exposed the Soviet spy ring in 1945, is living under an assumed name in an Ontario town. He is a Canadian citizen and has freedom of movement although he is guarded by the RCMP.

Jet Plane Blows Up Inspector Killed

BEL AIR, Md. (AP)—An experimental twin jet night intruder blew up in the skies over Bel Air Wednesday, catapulting the two occupants into space and killing one of them.

Horrified residents of this northeastern Maryland town stood and watched the fliers float to the earth in parachutes.

Police said both men were battered and burned in the blast. The dead man was identified as W. H. Coldwell, 31, a civilian air force inspector.

Injured was the pilot, Maj. Vance W. Beckham, attached to the Glenn L. Martin Co. Middle River plant where the plane, an American version of the British Canberra, is being produced.

Two Royal Children Enjoy Romping With Princess

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON (CP)—Newspaper and magazine correspondents writing of a "new" Princess Margaret could find two members of the Royal Family who disagree with that definition. To Prince Charles and Princess Anne, "Aunt Margot" is the same exciting nursery playmate she always has been.

During the Queen's absence from Britain, the 23-year-old princess and Queen Mother Elizabeth are constant visitors to the royal nursery and the children can be frequently found at Clarence House, home of the royal mother - and - daughter team.

It's not the first time "grandmummy" and Aunt Margot have filled the roles of foster parents to the Queen's children. The longest spell came during the royal tour of Canada in 1951 and Princess Margaret thoroughly enjoyed it.

EXCITED TRIO

Intensely fond of children, Britain's most eligible bachelor girl delights in romping the Buckingham Palace corridors with Princess Anne and Charles, laughing as they squeal delightedly trying to avoid capture. There are also such games as hide-and-seek and hide-the-thimble. The sophisticated, fashion-conscious princess can be depended on to romp with a boyish abandon that comes up even to Prince Charles' demands.

A favorite pastime is enticing Aunt Margot, with her flair for mimicry, to simulate good and bad fairies and other toyland folk. Margaret can give a performance worthy of any pantomime stage. Prince Charles, who loves catchy tunes and has his own gramophone, can be relied on to applaud with gusto any impromptu performance.

WATCH FOR CARDS

One of the latest and most exciting games is to watch for the postman bringing the cards sent by the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh from each place they visit. The youngsters will sit entranced while the princess explains about the postcard scenes.

To the public at large, however, Princess Margaret seems a different person these days from the fun-loving teen-ager who danced at parties and nightclubs into the early hours. It is pretty well agreed that Margaret now has grown up.

The impeccable princess in expensive mink is certainly a "finished product" despite her youthful years. But the change is perhaps that of any spirited youngster suddenly called on to face greater responsibilities.

As third in succession to the throne and a counsellor of state in the Queen's absence, she has already filled some new official duties. The first state papers signed by the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret have reached Parliament and many of the Queen's public and social duties have been added to Margaret's own heavy schedule.

MANY ENGAGEMENTS

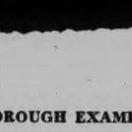
The princess has many engagements including official visits to theatres and variety shows between now and her departure to spend Christmas at Sandringham. The Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh insisted that the children's Christmas should be "the same as always" and that means plenty of fun and games organized by the princess.

Charles and Anne will have presents from Britain and other parts of the world, chosen and packed by the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh. And sometime on Christmas Day a telephone call will come through to Sandringham from New Zealand. It is the Queen's wish she and her husband should say a personal "Merry Christmas" to their children, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret. Charles and Anne were trained early to use the telephone.

Corduroy Finds New Use In Holiday Wear

NEW YORK (NEA) — A newcomer to the resort scene is corduroy, both printed and plain. Colors are bright or pastel, with the print theme carried in basic shades for ensemble effects.

The prints look newest and freshest on sparkling white grounds. Prints may be large or small, splashy or scattered. And in addition to the florals, there are ombre stripes, checks, formal figures, and foulard prints worked out in separates. The circle print, for instance, looks new and handsome. This is achieved by using a small crescent at the top to encircle the waist, followed by half circles down the skirt that increase in size to the hemline.



Some designers are using corduroy horizontally rather than in the classic vertical manner, thus creating new surface interest.

New to corduroy, too, is a wrinkle-resistant finish that some designers are using. This allows the fabric to retain its lustre through repeated washings.

In lounge wear, there's fashion news, too. Moire effects and small, spaced florals have been introduced along with geometric designs on white.

Even in accessories, corduroy has captured the imagination of designers. There are bold plaids for big handbags, black-and-white stripes for cocktail slippers. Petit-point and cross-stitch designs are gay for at-home footwear. For gloves, there are brand-new tweed patterns.

HAIR DO'S AND DONT'S
By Carol Douglas famous beauty consultant

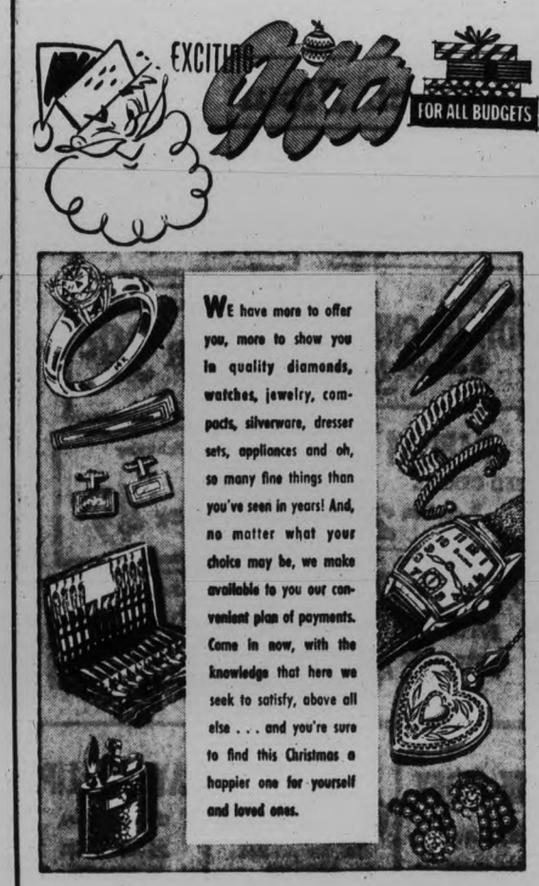
Hair styles, like clothes styles, change with the season. Swinging to one of this season's refreshing new fashions in hairdo's will brighten your whole personality.

DO start with a new home permanent — it makes a new hairdo so easy to set and to keep looking lovely.

And for your next permanent, use Toni Spin Curlers. They're twice as easy, twice as fast — and a permanent investment. Get a complete set including midget Spin Curlers for wispy neckline hair. Only $1.29.

DON'T expect every hair style to suit you perfectly. You can widen a thin face with soft curls at the sides, lower a high forehead with bangs in your hairdo.



DO take care of your hair, whatever style you choose. Brush daily, shampoo weekly. And for the beauty of soft water shampooing—even in hardest water—use Toni Creme Shampoo. It floods your hair with healthful lanolin lather. 4-oz jar, $1.00, 2-oz tube, 65¢.

DO keep your hair gleaming with highlights. Just 20 seconds with Toni Creme Rinse — the new invisible hair dressing—and your hair will be rich and lustrous... easy to comb and set... tamed and tangle-free from one shampoo to the next. 4-oz bottle, only 59¢.

TONI — world leader in hair research — guarantees these products for good hair care.

Cooking With Condensed Soups Is Modern Method

ASK any best cook her secret of success these days—and she's pretty sure to give credit to condensed soup. You're probably an enthusiast yourself.

Cooking with soup is a habit that's helping many homemakers make ends meet—from the standpoint of both minutes and money. The double-rich, double-thick soups make such fine cooking sauces. Start with one of them and it's easy to prepare a casserole or any meat or fish dish that calls for sauce as an ingredient or as a topper. Each soup contributes a special tantalizing flavor of its own—whether you're using tomato, cream of mushroom, chicken or celery soup.

Just think of all the recipes that give extra-good results in shortcut time by way of soup cookery. It's an amazing array from ham loaf to cheese soufflé and French dressing. One prize dish that's as much in season right now as the flowers and sunshine is "Chicken Slices in Cheese Sauce".

Chicken Slices in Cheese Sauce

1 pound asparagus, cooked (fresh, frozen or canned)
6 slices cooked chicken
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of chicken soup
½ cup shredded cheddar cheese

Place asparagus in bundles in a flat baking dish or pan; top each with sliced chicken. Stir soup and cheese together; pour over chicken. Place under broiler, or in hot oven (450°F.), until lightly browned. Arrange on platter. Makes 6 servings. NOTE: For variation, use either cream of mushroom or celery soup instead of chicken.

SOUP SCOOPS

Nibblers Tray: At lunch-time, a tray of pick-up foods is pleasant to nibble along with bowls of soup. Make up the tray with dill pickles, wedges of smoked cheese, and buttered toast fingers (rye bread).

• • •

Party-Style Beans: To give glamour to plain-Jane pork and beans, bake them with pineapple kabobs. Use pineapple chunks and cubes of canned luncheon meat for the kabobs; string them alternately on toothpicks, three per pick. Place kabobs on top of beans in a casserole; pour a little pineapple juice over them; heat all in a moderate oven. Fix two kabobs for each serving.

• • •

In Honor of Mother: How about the family pitching in to get Sunday night supper on Mother's Day while she enjoys a holiday. Even the youngest can help in the kitchen if it's an easy soup-and-sandwich menu. Cream of mushroom soup with toasted bacon and tomato sandwiches makes a good combination. For a festive finish, strawberry shortcake.

Fearful Dilemma Confronts World

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill, in a message accepting the 1953 Nobel prize for literature tonight, said:

"The fearful question confronts us: Have our problems got beyond our control? Undoubtedly we are passing through a phase where this may be so. Well may we humble ourselves, and seek for guidance and mercy."

Since Churchill was unable to come here because of the Big Three conference in Bermuda, his wife read the message at the Nobel festival banquet in Stockholm's city hall with Sweden's king and queen and other dignitaries present.

Charges Toronto Jealous Of Windsor

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Arthur Reaume Wednesday charged at a board of control meeting that Toronto is jealous of Windsor's industrial growth.

He said the Ontario capital "has tried to undermine us" with false stories building up the idea there is an unhealthy industrial climate here.

The mayor said assessments in Windsor are lower than any other major city in Ontario and "that should be made abundantly clear."

The mayor made the statements in connection with a decision by the board to grant Chrysler Corporation of Canada a 20-year lease on Walker road property it needs for a parking lot. Chrysler had turned down a city offer to sell the property for about $36,000. It offered about $11,000.

RATEPAYERS STOP SALE

About 100 ratepayers signed a petition earlier this week objecting to the proposed sale. The city will charge Chrysler $10 a year rent for the property.

Mayor Reaume said the city will do anything within its power to co-operate with the company.

Chrysler Corporation is building the transportation garage and engineering building in connection with a multi-million dollar expansion program. The loss of the two buildings would mean a loss in taxation revenue for the city. The land in question would be used for a 900-car employees' parking lot in connection with the project.

Remanded One Week For Theft Of Guitar

Arrested Wednesday on a charge of stealing a guitar from the farm on which he had worked, Benjamin Logan, 18, of 270 William St., was remanded one week in magistrate's court today. He pleaded guilty to the charge. OPP Constable Jack McKendry made the arrest while Constable D. K. Ross submitted a statement made to him by the accused to Magistrate Philp.

Claim Against Ford Co. Settled For $5,173

WINDSOR, Ont., (CP) —A $26,000 Supreme Court accident claim against Ford Motor Company of Canada, Ltd., and its executive vice-president, T. J. Emmert, has been settled out of court for $5,173.25.

Mr. Justice J. L. McLennan approved the settlement, under which $2,898 goes to Mrs. Rita Michaud of Windsor and $1,650 to her daughter, Gizelle, 13, who were both injured in an accident in which a car owned by the company and driven by Mr. Emmert was involved.

Soviet Cynic's Birthday Vishinsky 70, Still Going

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia's acid-tongued Andrei Vishinsky reached 70 today without showing any signs of slowing down. He planned to work as usual.

The Soviet diplomat may have mellowed a bit in his social life, but he has lost none of his energy or his ability to lash out at opponents in debate. Apparently in much better health than he was a few years ago, he follows a schedule that would tax the strength of men 20 years younger.

Vishinsky was 62 when he first appeared on the United Nations scene in London in 1945. Long famous for his role as prosecutor in the Soviet purge trials of the '30s, he has been one of the main attractions for UN visitors ever since.

REPORTED ILL

From time to time there were reports Vishinsky was ill, that he had passed his peak and was slipping as a speaker, that he was blundering too frequently and that he would be replaced by a younger man.

At the 1951 session of the UN Assembly he was sidelined by illness. Last April he was demoted from foreign minister to deputy minister and made permanent UN delegate when the new Malenkov administration came to power. During the summer he returned to Moscow and there were new rumors that he was being relieved of his UN job.

But Vishinsky bobbed up again for the General Assembly just concluded.

At this session he personally handled almost every political question both in committee and in the assembly itself. He was active socialy, turning up night after night at receptions and cocktail parties.

PRIVATE DINNERS

He gave a series of private dinners for small groups of delegates. He even became more affable to reporters, attending a correspondents' association luncheon for the first time.

If he has any plans for retirement, he has never hinted at them either publicly or in private talks with westerners.

Moscow took official note of his 70th birthday by awarding him the Order of Lenin for "outstanding service to the Soviet state." This is the top decoration of the Soviet Union.

Soviet Purge Among Heads Has Flavor Of Vengeance

By TOM WHITNEY

NEW YORK, (AP)—The purge of possible enemies by Soviet Premier Malenkov and party boss Nikita Khrushchev continues bringing with it overtones of personal vengeance and strong indications that the men of Moscow-centred Great Russia are cracking down.

Moscow dispatches Wednesday night revealed that Khrushchev, fresh from ridding Leningrad 10 days ago of its party chieftain, V. M. Andrianov, now has settled an old personal score down in Armenia.

He sent a favorite hatchet man, Peter N. Pospelov, to the trans-Caucasian republic to boot out the entire Armenian party leadership.

SAY BERIA MEN SHIELDED

Special disgrace was reserved for the long-time Armenian party leader, G. A. Arutiunov. He was fired and expelled from the central committee.

Probably Arutiunov has also been arrested. He and his cohorts are charged with harboring henchmen of Lavrenty P. Beria, Malenkov's top deputy until his down fall and arrest last summer.

The charge easily could be true, since Beria apparently had general responsibility under Stalin for all the three trans-Caucasian republics — Georgia, Armenia and Azerbaijan. Arutiunov was no doubt responsible directly to Beria for many years for his policies and appointments.

But there is another angle to this latest purge.

Khrushchev early in 1951 published a now-famous article in Pravda urging development of "Agrogorods"—collective farm cities. The article aroused opposition in Moscow and the next day Pravda printed a "correction" declaring the Khrushchev article was to be the basis for "discussion"—not yet Soviet gospel. This seemed to open the door to Khrushchev's critics.

Only two critics appeared. One was the leader of the Azerbaijan Communist party, M. D. Bagirov. He was purged right after Beria's arrest. The other was Arutiunov, who was particularly rough on Khrushchev's ideas.

Khrushchev was forced to publicly repent his error. Today he is cracking the whip, and both Bagirov and Arutiunov have had it.

"Baby Tornado" Causes Damage

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — A wind storm described by witnesses as a "baby tornado" whistled through a residential section of this southern Ohio city Wednesday night, ripping off roofs, uprooting trees, levelling garages and tearing down power lines.

It spent less than a minute here, but left in its wake an unofficially-estimated $100,000 damage and a breathless citizenry. No one was hurt.

The freak wind storm, accompanied by what one man called "a heck of a load of rain," twisted cars, bulged out the side of one house, levelled a concrete-block garage, smashed plate-glass windows, knocked out electrical service and put a radio station off the air for three minutes.

Unemployment Rises

KITCHENER (CP) — Unemployment has risen in Kitchener and Waterloo, C. W. Boyer, manager of the local national employment service said today.

There were 1,149 unemployed during November and 144 job vacancies. In October, there were 331 unemployed and in November, 1952, 709 without jobs.

Alfred Follis

Funeral services for Alfred Follis of 505 Patterson St. were held from the Nesbitt funeral home to Little Lake Cemetery Wednesday. The Rev. Ivan Morgan officiated.

Pallbearers were all members of the Sons of England Lodge. They were J. Barnes, C. Coleman, W. Gray, W. G. Shiner, F. Leether and R. Starr.

U.S.-Canada Tie Lauded By Top Jurists

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—High-ranking jurists of New York state and Ontario lauded Canadian-American friendship Wednesday night in an unusual judicial gathering.

The entire membership of the New York state Court of Appeals and eight members of the Ontario Court of Appeals were guests of the Erie County Bar Association at a dinner meeting.

Justice John W. Pickup, chief justice of Ontario, and chief justice James C. McRuer of the Supreme Court of Ontario headed the Canadian delegation.

Justice McRuer said he was "highly impressed" by President speech Tuesday.

Problems barring world peace "will be insurmountable, unless we grasp the true concept of justice in our domestic affairs . . . a free and independent bar and judiciary," he said.

LESSON TO WORLD

Judge Charles S. Desmond of the New York court said the United States-Canada boundary is "a lesson to the world that peace comes not out of meetings of heads of state, but out of the simple will to friendship of simple people."

Other Ontario jurists present included justices Robert E. Laidlaw, Wilfred D. Roach, Colin W. G. Gibson, Frederick D. Hogg, John K. MacKay, John B. Aylesworth and Frederick G. MacKay.

Licence Suspended Operated His Cycle

Leonard Lafonte, 23, of South Monaghan township, was fined $50 and $2.50 costs in magistrate's court today on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while his licence was under suspension.

The charge was laid after PC William G. Scott saw the accused riding his motorcycle last September on Rubidge St. His licence had previously been suspended as the result of an accident.

Additionally, the accused's motorcycle was forfeited to the crown.

Postponement Of Court Curbs Judge

FRANKFURT (AP) — Acting chief justice Carl W. Fulghum of the United States courts in Germany today threw a legal roundhouse at his suspended former boss by postponing a court session scheduled for next Monday.

Suspended chief justice William Clark had told reporters earlier he would not recognize his suspension and would hold court "even if I am the only one on the bench."

He issued a statement saying he was hurt at Fulghum's acceptance of the appointment as acting chief justice and said he thought Fulghum should resent "being placed on probation."

REFUSED TO GO HOME

Fulghum told reporters he was sorry Clark had issued such a statement and added: "I have postponed hearings scheduled for Monday, Dec. 14, to Jan. 18 and 19."

Clark, suspended Wednesday by the state department for insubordination in refusing an order to return home for consultations, has been dismissed, effective Jan. 8. Clark has announced he does not recognize his dismissal.

The outspoken jurist told reporters that the order to fire him came from state department "cookie-pushers" who had used insulting language.

Peach Varieties Alter In Last Few Years

HAMILTON (CP)—While there has been considerable change in the varieties of peaches grown in the past few years, the concord grape, main type grown in the Niagara peninsula, would not be replaced by the new types now being grown experimentally, it was stated by O. A. Bradt, of the Vineland horticulture experiment farm staff Wednesday.

He was addressing some 300 fruit growers attending the annual convention of the Niagara peninsula Fruit and Vegetable Growers' Association at Vineland.

Lake Storm Warnings

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Rain squalls riding on 30-mile-an-hour winds swept western New York state during the night, and storm warnings were put up on lake Erie and Lake Ontario.

The weather bureau said gusts up to 56 miles an hour buffeted the area.

Falling temperatures today were expected to bring snow flurries and occasional snow squalls.

Chinese Industry In Chains Attitude Reds Changed To Merchants, Industrialists

By O. M. GREEN

LONDON (OFNS)—In a long message to the Chinese people on what they could expect under Communist rule, Mao Tse-tung told them a few years ago when the rule was just beginning, that capitalists would be allowed to exist, and even to make profits for themselves as an inducement to use their brains and experience for the benefit of the nation. But a very different picture was painted at the first meeting recently concluded in Peking, of the National Congress of Industry and Commerce.

This congress left no doubt whatever that in future, manufacturers, merchants, even shop-keepers, are to be bound to the wheels of the state chariot: to be compelled to act as the Red driver directs.

Such an arrangement is, of course, inherent in Communist dogma; but it is neither what Mao Tse-tung promised, nor what the record of the members of the Congress entitled them to expect.

At the Congress were 640 industrialists and merchants from all over China—the cream of the manufacturing and commercial community, the most constructive forces developed in China in the past fifty years, men who had been creating industry and building factories while warlords and politicians made wars and chaos.

CABINET ABSENT

It is noticeable that no cabinet ministers attended. Doubless they stopped away to preserve the fiction that the congress was an autonomous body which would reach its own conclusions. We hear nothing, however, of any free discussions; but a great deal about lectures on the state's attitude towards private enterprise delivered by Communist supervisors.

The position was succinctly defined by Li Wei-han, vice-chairman of the Government's Committee of Financial and Economic affairs. "The policy of the People's Government towards private industry and commerce," he said, "is to put it to good use, to keep it within proper bounds and to transform it."

The individual freedom of private enterprise is replaced by partnership with the state — the state being very much the senior partner—with the further disagreeable proviso that merchants and manufacturers "must accept the control exercised by the worker masses."

This partnership, however,—in which Li Wei-han told his audience that their part is to supply the state with products, accumulate capital for its use, train the Communist cadres and guarantee the collection of taxes, represents only a transition to the grand object—"the socialist industrialisation of the country . . the socialist transformation by the state of agriculture, handicrafts, private industry and commerce."

The reference here to agriculture is particularly interesting in view of the abundant concessions that Peking has had to make this year in the face of the peasants' revolt against herding into co-operative groups, over-taxation and dragooning by ignorant cadres.

PURPOSE UNCHANGED

But Li Wei-han leaves no doubt that the Communist purpose remains unchanged. "Individual peasant economy" he said "will be transformed into collective ownership through mutual aid and co-operative farming, and the capitalist economy will be transformed into state or public property."

Yet only last March, the State Administrative Council issued a directive that the farmer's right to his own property must be respected, and that he must not be forced into a co-operative group against his will.

Li Wei-han made a bold claim when he said that "experience in the past four years shows that the various forms of state capitalism which have developed in the country are producing better results in many ways than capitalism."

For many months past, both the Chinese press and official reports have been exposing the waste, incompetence, mismanagement, wastefulness and losses of state enterprises—farms, railways, even education, on which the Communists pride themselves so much.

While the congress was sitting, the official newspaper, "People's Daily" was attacking the chaotic state of the statistics department, where accuracy is very necessary for national planning; and the deluging of factories and villages with scores, even hundreds of forms, often widely contradictory of one another.

Of all this Li Wei-han's audience must have been perfectly aware; nor can it have forgotten Peking's recent admission that private enterprise generally showed better results last year than state enterprise. But the obvious question, "Why, when we are doing well, are we to be extinguished by state dictation?" no one, apparently, dared ask.

One further quotation from Li Wei-han may be given. "The profits," he said, of the new state-and-private-enterprise partnerships, "will be divided on a reasonable basis, part going to the state in taxes, part as funds for improvement of the workers' welfare and future expansion, and part in payment of dividends."

One may wonder how much dividend there will be. One may also wonder whether Li Wei-han has noticed that in Russia collective farming has meant steadily diminishing output and that the new government of Mr. Malenkov has had to make considerable concessions to the Russian people's demand for a less dragooned way of life.

Certainly it is not the system outlined by Li Wei-han that has made the Chinese people the most successful traders in Asia. — (Copyright).

Felt Nervous, Tired Rundown — Praises Syntona

Tells How This Herbal Medicine Brought Relief from Long-standing Health Disorders. "Wouldn't Be Without it."

MR. JACOB STOVER

If you are disturbed night after night by kidney disorders it is time you began taking Syntona Herbal Compound. This medicine, which is made entirely from herbs and roots acts effectively, not only on the kidneys, but also on stomach, liver and bowels. It is a general tonic medicine which helps to tone up the entire system. That is why thousands of people who suffered this way say they can rely on Syntona for best relief.

Here, for instance is the experience of Mr. Jacob Stover, R.R. 2, Tillsonburg, Ontario, who said recently:

"I suffered from kidney disorders, getting up often at night, and had rheumatic pains all through my joints. Because of this and through loss of sound sleep I became nervous and rundown and felt tired out.

"A friend advised me to try Syntona and in no time at all I could see that it was helping this condition. As I kept on taking it the trouble cleared up, and now I feel like myself once more. Now I wouldn't be without a bottle of Syntona in the house, and I want to let other people who suffer this way know how wonderful it is."

Why not let this Pure Herbal Medicine help you as it has so many others? Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough by Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

Polish Exiles Honor St. Laurent, Harris

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and Immigration Minister Harris were honored by leading Polish exiles Wednesday for their "most understanding attitude in the admission to Canada of intellectuals from behind the Iron Curtain."

A tri-lingual scroll was presented to them by the president of the Paderewski Foundation of New York, Edward S. Witkowski, who said that in the five years since its creation, it had been able to bring 250 Poles from Europe to Canada to pursue their studies.

Mr. St. laurent praised the foundation for its "fine" work in helping to bring promising Polish cultural talent to North America.

The foundation, named after the late Ignace Jan Paderewski, a former premier of Poland and a famed musician, statesman and scholar, is supported by private subscription in the United States.

Hollinger Company Defers Reply

Plan Could Assist End Strikes Other Gold Mines

TORONTO —(CP)—A provincially-backed plan for settling the strike of 1,500 employees at Hollinger Consolidated Gold Mines in Timmins has been accepted by the United Steelworkes of America (CIO-CCL).

L. S. Weldon, executive vice-president of the mining company, said Thursday night the firm may issue a statement today.

"This thing takes considerable working out," he said.

The proposal for settling the strike that started 11 weeks ago is based on an increase of five cents an hour. It also calls for setting up a government-appointed fact-finding committee to investigate the economics of the gold-mining industry.

In accepting the proposal, the union gave up its demand for the checkoff—deduction by the company from workers' pay cheques—of union dues.

If the company accepts the proposal, it is believed the plan could set the pattern for ending the strikes by 3,500 miners at seven of the 10 other Timmins area gold mines.

After making public the proposals, Labor Minister Daley said he feels the plan should settle the strike.

Some of the strikes began in mid-July. The other affected mines are McIntyre, Preston East Dome, Aunor, Pamour, Delnite and Coniaurum. Broulan Reef, hit by a strike and an outbreak of violence in July, since announced it has been carrying on operations with a partial staff. Paymaster mine closed after the union rejected a company offer of new contract terms.

The union also has 2,700 workers on strike against Noranda and several other base metal mines in northwestern Quebec.

The points in the settlement plan:

1. The agreement is to be renewed for one year from the date of signing.

2. There will be a wage increase of five cents an hour across the board.

3. The men are to be returned to work as quickly as they can be absorbed, without discrimination.

4. There is to be no change in any other conditions now in existence at the mine.

5. An impartial fact-finding committee is to be set up by the government to hold hearings and inquiries into the economics of the gold-mining industry and its employees on a broad basis and report to the government.

The five-cent wage increase proposal represents an increase of 1½ cents over the last company offer.

The proposed agreement provides that if the price of gold goes up during the contract period, the union may ask for a review of wages.

C. H. Millard, Canadian director of the steelworkers, said the plan "has possibilities."

He added: "one of the most promising features is that the Ontario government will set up an all-out inquiry into the condition of the gold-mining industry . . . if the industry can't operate without public assistance, then there is a question in people's minds whether the industry is necessary.

"I can't say whether settlement of the Hollinger strike would form a pattern for settlement at the other mines."

Too Long 29!

CARDIFF, Wales (Reuters) —The Western Mail, the national daily newspaper of Wales, Thursday proposed a toast to Barbara Stanwyck's greying hair.

"Too many women have been 29 too long," the newspaper complained editorially.

"How refreshing therefore to read that the Hollywood film star, Barbara Stanwyck, is now without concealment going grey."

"You have wisely decided to let age take its course, to eat, drink and be merry, without bothering to dye," it said.

Malan To Extend Color Bar To Universities

STELLENBOSCH, South Africa (Reuters)—Premier Daniel Malan served notice today that he will soon extend his color-bar policy to South Africa's universities.

He said his government has decided to end the "glaring anomaly" of the mingling of whites and non-whites in universities "as speedily as possible."

Malan did not mention any universities by name, but he was obviously referring to Capetown University and Witwatersrand University, which permit Negro students.

At Capetown University today, seven non-whites received degrees of doctor of medicine.

The prime minister said a commission has already been appointed to investigate and consult on steps "which must be taken, appropriate and fairly, to separate whites and non-whites in higher education, whether inside or outside of existing universities."

Scientists Form Atomic Congress

DETROIT (AP) — An "international atomic energy congress" intended to push peacetime use of atomic energy has been announced by a group of scientists and engineers here.

The congress, to which free countries of the world have been invited to send representatives, will be held at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor June 20-25.

Plans were announced by the university and the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, co-sponsors.

With state department approval, experts of the several countries attending the conference will be permitted to exchange certain information on atomic energy research, spokesmen said.

Acceptances have been received, it was announced, from Belgium, Canada, Britain, France, India, Italy, Norway, The Netherlands, Spain and Sweden. All will send representatives.

Discard Holiday Nov. 11 In Schools

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — The board of education has decided to send a resolution to the Ontario department of education asking that Remembrance Day, Nov. 11, be restored as a regular school attendance day.

The Canadian Legion, which sent delegates to the board's meeting Thursday night, agreed the observance could be impressive in school ceremonies.

Trustee Lloyd Goodwin said Remembrance Day is "a sacred and solemn occasion" but its observance by children is hindered rather than helped by granting a school holiday, which in addition resulted in the loss of valuable school time.

Important To Security Of N. America

Unorthodox Methods Break Spy Ring Says Former Russian

NEW YORK —(CP)—United States Senate investigators prepared today for their forthcoming meeting in Canada with Igor Gouzenko, and a top-ranking Democrat declared he regards the former Soviet code clerk in Ottawa as "important to the internal security of the United States and Canada."

Senator Pat McCarran (Dem. Nev.) made the statement in Washington after the Canadian government had announced that Gouzenko, who fled from the Soviet embassy in the Canadian capital in 1945 and exposed a Soviet spy ring, has agreed to answer questions of the U.S. Senate internal security sub-committee. McCarran is the leading opposition member of the sub-committee.

The meeting will be secret, since Gouzenko has been living under cover since his testimony in 1946 brought about the convictions in the spy ring. He has been living under RCMP protection under an assumed name in an unnamed Ontario town.

Canadian authorities were reluctant to allow Gouzenko to be questioned by the U.S. group for reasons of safety and also because all information already provided by Gouzenko had been made available to U.S. officials.

MAY HAVE ADVICE

Gouzenko has been quoted as saying he has no new information but perhaps some useful advice.

In New York, Robert Morris counsel for the sub-committee, said Thursday night that the meeting may be held "tomorrow or next week." He said Senator William E. Jenner (Rep. Ind), the sub-committee chairman, had told him he planned to get in touch with the state department today to work out a meeting date.

The date, like the location of the meeting, will remain secret under the Canadian government stipulation. And after the interview Canada will decide what, if any, of the information, will be made public.

New York Strike Cost Millions

NEW YORK (AP)—The cost of New York's 11-day newspaper strike has ranged to many millions of dollars, but the exact figure may never be known.

Booming business since the strike is tending to counterbalance to some extent the direct losses suffered during a week and a half of idleness, although they never will be made up entirely, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Such estimates as are available easily run the strike cost figure up to $20,000,000—not counting losses to department stores.

Publishers have estimated only that the cost was "incalculable."

ESTIMATED LOSSES

Unofficial estimates of the publishers' losses in gross advertising revenue during the walkout place the figure conservatively at $12,000,000 to $15,000,000. Against this, the newspapers since the strike have been bulging with more advertising than they probably would carry ordinarily at this stage of the Christmas season.

The 400 striking photo-engravers and some 20,000 union employees who refused to cross their picket lines lost perhaps $3,000,000 or more in salaries and wages, at an average of more than $100 a week each.

Heap Of Troubles Awaits Churchill In U.K. Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Churchill flew home today from the Bermuda Big Three conference, into a heap of parliamentary troubles. Caught between a Labor move to overthrow his government on colonial issues and a a Conservative party revolt on Egyptian policy, he will have no chance to relax after the strain of the Bermuda talks. He will, in fact, have to work overtime to prepare his personal statement on the talks for presentation to Parliament — and at the same time map party strategy to block the Labor challenge and calm Conservative rebels.

The one-week period before Parliament closes for a Christmas recess next Friday is packed with one of the heaviest concentrations of problems the prime minister has ever faced.

Top Labor leaders have signed a motion of censure on the government's handling of African colonial problems in Kenya and Uganda. A Labor victory on this issue could mean the downfall of the Churchill government.

But with a majority of 18 seats, Conservative leaders are confident they can block the Labor move when it comes up for debate, probably Wednesday.

GRAVE DISQUIET

The Labor motion expressed "grave disquiet" at the government's actions in dealing with Mau Mau terrorist murders in Kenya and native rule in Uganda.

War Minister Antony Head told the House of Commons Thursday that a two-man court of inquiry will leave for Kenya Saturday. It will inquire into allegations that British troops were offered five shillings a head for Mau Mau "kills," and that scoreboards have been kept of official and unofficial kills to foster a competitive spirit.

The prime minister and his aides will also have to reckon with a simmering revolt of 37 members of their own party, disgruntled by their leaders' moves to return the Suez canal to Egypt.

Despite these problems, Churchill will have to find time this week to prepare a report on his meeting with President Eisenhower and Premier Laniel. The House of Commons has tentatively set aside Thursday for discussion of the conference.

On that day, Churchill will also be expected to give his opinion on Eisenhower's atomic "bank" proposal to the United Nations General Assembly.

The prime minister will also have to find time to discuss the oncoming meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council with Foreign Secretary Eden.

Seek Man To Operate Atomic Power Station

LONDON (AP)—The ministry of supply advertised today for a scientist to run Britain's first atomic power station, at Sellafield in Cumberland county. Annual salary: £2,000.

The successful applicant will be required to take an 18-month course of instruction before he moves into the job.

Power produced at the station, which is still under construction, will be fed into the state-owned national power grid.

Demand Higher Pay

ROME (Reuters)—Armed police guarded government offices and railroad stations throughout Italy today as a million government-paid workers went on strike for the day to back their demands for higher pay.

The strikers, who ranged from Communists to Christian Democrats, all but halted government machinery. Only a skeleton rail service, worked by members of non-striking unions and troops, was running. Trains carried armed guards.

The government has threatened heavy sanctions against strikers.

Girl Kidnapping Reward Posters In 2 Countries

TORONTO (CP) — A reward poster is to be circulated throughout Canada and the United States in the continuing hunt for kidnapped Marion McDowell, 17.

Grappling equipment was brought into play today, the fifth day of the hunt for kidnapped Marion McDowell, 17.

Without a solid clue to the fate or whereabouts of the blonde girl, police prepared to drag the Rouge river and all ponds, creeks, and gravel-pit waterholes in suburban Scarborough township. An aerial search by private plane has also started.

It will offer $2,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the masked gunman reported to have spirited away the baby-faced blonde in a car trunk last Sunday.

The girl, a junior typist with a yen for roller skating and motorcycles, is said to have been slugged unconscious along with 19-year-old James Wilson as they sat in Wilson's parked car on a lovers' lane in suburban Scarboro township.

Wilson told police the assailant was a tall dark man with a Balaclava masking his face.

At first, police expressed belief the attacker might have been a jealous suitor. After questioning some 200 of the girl's friends and acquaintances, they announced they had swung to the theory the man probably was a sex criminal, possibly one recently released from an institution.

EXTENSIVE SEARCH

Scarboro's 70-man police force, assisted by members of other suburban departments and by township residents, continued to check tips and to direct a vast hunt along lonely roads, through farmers' fields and into ravines and woodlands.

Laniel Ridicules Friction Rumor

PARIS, (AP) —Premier Laniel returned today from the Bermuda conference and ridiculed talk of any French-British friction at the conference.

Laniel said he had been surprised at Bermuda "to learn how part of the French press excessively dramatized certain aspects of the conference."

"To say that Franco-British friendship is passing through a crisis now is an absurdity and it is easy to see who that would benefit."

UNION COMPLETE

Laniel, who returned in Prime Minister Churchill's plane, said "our union with our two allies on the big objectives of our world policy is complete."

Laniel, who suffered a lung infection during the conference, planned to see his doctor immediately. Members of his entourage indicated he would call a cabinet meeting next week to fill in other ministers on the Bermuda talks.

Say Soviet Interested In Atomic Energy Pool

PARIS (AP)—The French Communist newspaper L'Humanite gave prominent play on its front page today to a Moscow dispatch reporting that Soviet circles have received President Eisenhower's proposal for a peaceful atomic energy pool with interest.

The dispatch, from L'Humanite's Moscow correspondent, Roger Garaudy, quoted "a usually well-informed source" as saying these Russian circles consider the speech requires "careful examination."

The report contrasted sharply in tone with initial unofficial Soviet reaction to the plan.

There has been no official reaction from the Kremlin.

Call For Spiritual Rebirth

OSLO (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall called today for a spiritual rebirth to establish anew good faith among men as a prime necessity for enduring world peace. Such a regeneration, the 1953 Nobel Peace Prize winner declared in a lecture at Oslo University festival hall, should bring good will, faith and understanding among nations. The 72-year-old statesman, honored for his sponsorship of the Marshall Plan which sent $17,000,000,000 in aid to post-war Europe, received his prize Thursday in the same hall. Tonight's lecture was required by the will of Alfred Nobel, Swedish inventor of dynamite, who left the money for the awards.

Marshall offered these suggestions for furthering the cause of peace, warning that they held nothing of glittering or early promise:

1. "A careful study of all factors" which have caused wars in the past and a striving "to determine the great fundamentals which must govern a peaceful progression toward a constantly higher level of civilization."

2. Study and understanding by peoples everywhere of the differences between national groups. He suggested that principles of co-operation based on these factors might contribute to a better understanding among all nations.

SUB-NORMAL CONDITIONS

3. Solving the economic problem of the "millions who live under sub-normal conditions and who now come to a realization that they may aspire to a fair share of the God-given rights of human beings."

"But perhaps the most important factor will be a spiritual regeneration to develop good will, faith and understanding among nations," he declared.

"And with all these," Marshall asserted, "there must be wisdom and the will to act on that wisdom."

U.S. Goes Ahead With Plan International Atomic Pool

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States, undeterred by Moscow's initial coldness, weighed today the nature and timing of the next step in pressing for acceptance of the Eisenhower plan for an international atomic pool. Officials speculatively pointed out two possibilities for action:

1. A formal request may be made in the United Nations disarmament commission for appointment of a sub-committee consisting of countries with atomic resources.

2. State Secretary Dulles will have opportunity at a forthcoming conference of Big Four foreign ministers in Berlin to discuss the idea privately with Soviet foreign minister Molotov, if that seems to be a good idea at the time.

Dulles takes off for Paris late today to attend a meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization council. It is expected that while there he may discuss the next step on the atomic plan with British and French officials.

DERIDE SPEECH

First Soviet reaction to the president's proposal for an international atomic agency, under the UN, to develop peaceful uses of nuclear energy was given in a Moscow radio broadcast Wednesday. The Russians derided Eisenhower's speech as a "war-mongering" address and contended he had "threatened atomic war."

The official U.S. reaction to this Soviet blast was that it did not "necessarily represent the considered decision of the Soviet government."

For the time being, officials said today, the U.S. will take a wait -and- see attitude, allowing ample opportunity for reflection in the Kremlin.

Moscow Papers Had Holiday

LONDON (Reuters) — Moscow radio started something when it remarked as an aside that most of Moscow's dailies except Pravda failed to publish today.

The news struck persons who knew Moscow publishing habits as odd.

The mystery deepened when Reuters Berlin bureau reported that for 8½ hours today the teleprinter carrying news from the official East German Communist agency ADN to the west had been silent.

Finally Reuters' Moscow correspondent got through Soviet censors. His explanation was simple.

Russia had a public holiday Dec. 5—Soviet Constitution Day. All the Soviet dailies worked Dec. 5 and 6. Today they were due for their extra day off.

Pravda, the voice of the Communist party, appeared. It publishes 365 days a year, holidays or not.

In Berlin, the mystery of the long ADN news blackout remained unexplained.

Pioneer Doctor Dies

BARRIE (CP)—Dr. Jennie Gray Wildman, 90, pioneer woman doctor and one of the founders of the Women's College Hospital in Toronto, died Wednesday.

She received her degree in medicine at Trinity College in 1892 and practised medicine in Toronto with her sister, the late Dr. Elizabeth R. Gray.

Queen Radios Yule Greetings

ABOARD S. S. GOTHIC (AP)—Queen Elizabeth today radioed her first Christmas greeting of the year across the sunny Pacific to the British cruiser Sheffield.

Her message, to the Sheffield's captain, Commodore Keith Campbell Walter, read: "You have come a long way . . . with smartness which has been a pleasure to see. Please convey my thanks to all on board.

"Goodbye and a happy Christmas."

The message was signed "Elizabeth R."

BLACK PRINCE ON DUTY

The Sheffield has handed over escort duty to the New Zealand cruiser Black Prince.

The tanker Wave Baron, which is refuelling the Sheffield before her return to Panama, signalled the Queen in the Gothic: "The master and ship's company wish you to know that their thoughts are with you on this most historic tour."

The Queen replied: "Thank you for your kind and loyal message. I appreciate very much the contribution you are making to my Commonwealth tour."

Mother Not Allowed Try Win Son Back From Reds

TOKYO (AP) — An American mother arrived here today hoping to win back her soldier son who has renounced his country for communism, but Gen. John E. Hull said he had been "obliged to refuse permission" for Mrs. Portia Howe to go to Korea.

The soldier, Pte. Richard F. Tenneson, is among 22 Americans who refused repatriation while prisoners of the Reds. They now are in neutral custody in the demilitarized zone of Korea.

Mrs. Howe arrived by plane today from her Alden, Minn., home. She paid for the trip out of savings from her son's military allotment.

She went immediately to Hull's Far East command headquarters.

"I have the deepest sympathy for Mrs. Howe and the utmost respect for her desire to effect the return of her son to his own country," Hull said in a statement later.

"But in view of previously announced U. S. department of defence policy in relation to the prisoner-of-war question, I am not authorized to permit her entry into Korea to see her son."

Mrs. Hull said she came on her mission of love "with a faith in God and a knowledge that millions are praying for me." She hoped to win back her son from communism by starting "the old train of thought—religious training and love of country."

In September, when Mrs. Howe learned her son was refusing to come home, she said:

"If I could talk to him for at least 10 minutes, I could at least make a dent in that kind of thinking."

Says Reds In Liberal Party

OTTAWA (CP)—Hon. Earl Rowe (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe) said Thursday night in the Commons that the Liberal party includes members who are "pinks" and "who are bordering on red."

Mr. Rowe, former member without portfolio in R. B. Bennett's Conservative government in 1930-35, said:

"Never has a party been in power which has so many stripes of different policy as the party who sits to your right, Mr. Speaker. We have free traders; we have free-lances; we have socialists; we have pinks, and we have those who are bordering on red in the party that is in power today."

Mr. Rowe said the Liberals "constitute the most mongrel political concoction I have seen since Confederation."

Just Amateur Knockers

Houde Says Real Knockers In Parliament

OTTAWA, (CP) —Mayor Camillien Houde of Montreal was guest speaker at the Ottawa Knockers' Club pigtail party Thursday night, but he didn't make a speech. He answered questions instead.

Speakers, he said, would learn more about their audience if they just answered questions instead of making speeches. That suited the Knockers fine—what did he think of the mayor of Montreal?

"I may want to run again. I can't tell you that."

What about the mayor of Ottawa (Charlotte Whitton)?

"I think the same as you do!"

How come Toronto got ahead of Montreal with a subway?

"We want to stay on the level in Montreal."

And what about the song 'alouette'?"

"It's Canada's national anthem —after midnight."

JUST AMATEUR KNOCKERS

Mr. Houde had a word for his hosts. Members of the Knockers' Club of Ottawa were just "bush-league knockers," the real knockers were "up on the (Parliament) hill. You're just learning the trade."

The Knockers' Club was formed some years ago in a Sparks street restaurant by a garrulous group of customers and maintained by former mayor Stanley Lewis and others as an unofficial charitable organization. It's annual dinner, at which the principal item on the menu is pigs' tails, is an Ottawa institution.

Support Bill Protecting Textile Goods

Will Lighten Laws Against Imported Goods

OTTAWA — (CP)—Opposition parties in the Commons indicate they will support the principle of a government measure to tighten anti-dumping laws against imported manufactured goods, particularly United States textiles.

Progressive Conservative and Social Credit spokesmen, discussing the legislation in the Commons Thursday night, said, however, the protection should be extended to imports of other things, such as agricultural produce.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said it should not be used to protect an industry that would exploit consumers.

The move, aimed at plugging a loophole in anti-dumping laws, was announced last Monday night by Revenue Minister McCann and went into effect Tuesday. The bill before the Commons writes the changes into legislation.

The action followed representations to the government by the textile industry against U.S. imports entering Canada at cut prices at the end of the textile selling season.

When textiles and other manufactured imports show sharp seasonal price drops, the measure will permit setting a "weighted average" of the price in the exporting country during a period up to six months prior to the date of importing.

FAVORED BY PCs

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton) said the textile problem developed because Dr. McCann had his "eyes closed and arms folded." Until this late move, the government had not admitted anything was wrong. The opposition welcomed the action, however.

Textile imports had risen to $126,000,000 in the first seven months of this year from $109,000,000 in the same period last year and figures for the last five months probably would show a larger increase.

He said he doubts the legislation is clear enough to enable customs officials to make uniform rulings on individual cases. He also urged that it cover the dumping of all products in Canada and not manufactured goods only.

Solon Low, Social Credit leader, said "If we are going to have a textile industry, that industry must be supported."

Other industries, including agriculture, should be protected against dumping and the Social Credit party would propose amendments later "to include some other things that need protection."

EMERGENCY MEASURE

Mr. Coldwell said his party supports the bill "insofar as it prevents unfair trade practices." But it was an emergency measure which should be reviewed in six months or a year.

A royal commission investigation of the textile industry in 1936 showed it had a "black record." The House should be careful not to provide "shelter to people who would use it to exploit the consumers of this country."

Hon. Earl Rowe (PC—Dufferin-Simcoe) described the Liberal party as "dusty free-traders" trying to find ways to protect industry from foreign competition.

He said he is amused to see the party which had been under the "cloak of free-traders" twisting and turning to look for ways to protect industry.

Since Confederation the Liberal party when out of government had always condemned tariff barriers to protect Canadian industry. But every time the Liberals came to power they had raised tariffs.

Mr. Rowe said Liberal benches now held members of every political stripe. It was "the most mongrel political concoction" he had ever seen.

New Seed May Save Millions

OTTAWA—(CP)—A tiny new wheat seed, which may save growers many millions of dollars in the event of a rust epidemic, is being speeded to Prairie farms. Product of 14 years of research, the new seed, named "Selkirk," is the creation of a group of Canadian scientists working to protect Canada's huge wheat crop from the dreaded destroyer, race 15-B, a stem rust. The fungus growth, first discovered in the United States in 1938, has spread northward, with its spores settling mainly over Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan. Many millions of bushels of wheat already have been lost through this destroyer, and in the event of an epidemic, Prairie farmers could lose between $20,000,000 and $30,000,000 in rotted wheat, said Dr. C H. Goulden, chief of the agriculture department's cereal division and one of the men who participated in the research.

Selkirk, to be distributed to Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan farmers, will give Canada protection against rust for at least another five years, Dr. Goulden said.

NEW RUSTS

New families of stem rust are developing in nature. One is 15-B-3 part of the 15-B family. Scientists now have plunged into new seed breeding work, to build up a variety that can combat these other fungi. These new rust forces are still weak. By the time they pose a real threat, the scientists hope to have a successful successor to selkirk.

Licensing and distribution of selkirk, formerly known as "C. T. 186," was announced in the Commons Thursday by Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

Growing the new variety in the West and in California, the government has built up a supply of 130,000 bushels. Of this, the U.S. will get 6,000 bushels to build up a supply for American farmers. This is in return for the co-operation extended by the U.S. to the Canadian scientists.

Certified seed growers in Canada will get 10,000 at $5 a bushel. This will be registered seed—the highest quality. The government will keep 10,000 to increase supplies next year. The remainder, 104,000, will be distributed to farmers in Manitoba and the eastern half of Saskatchewan at $4.50 a bushel. Supplies will be limited to six bushels a farmer. By next fall each should be able to build up 100 to 120 bushels of seed.

Sask. Offers Pay Passage Of Stowaway Belgian Girl

OTTAWA (CP)—Senator R. B. Horner (PC-Saskatchewan) has offered in the Senate to pay the passage to Canada of an 18-year-old Belgian girl shipped back to her homeland after an unsuccessful attempt to enter the country disguised as a seaman. "And if the reply to that is that it is against the law, against passport regulations and so on, I would say that that is truly a case where the law is an ass," he said Thursday.

Senator Horner raised the subject as a question of privilege. He drew attention to a newspaper account of the attempt by Jeanne Mutton to enter Canada aboard the freighter Luksefjell disguised as seaman Alfred Albert Leopold Soudemonte.

"Here surely was an opportunity for Canada to secure an amazing citizen," Senator Horner said. "This girl is only 18. The dispatch says that she was handy with her fists and that the captain said she was one of the best helmsmen that he ever had."

THREATENED TO JUMP

Senator Horner said he understands the girl threatened to jump overboard into the St. Lawrence while being deported to Antwerp.

"I am sure that we all admire a struggle on the part of anyone to achieve a purpose worthwhile. A noble effort was made by this girl to secure admittance to Canada but she was refused.

"In view of the circumstances I for one would be perfectly willing to pay her passage over here."

Citizenship Minister Harris, informed of Senator Horner's offer, said he will look into the case to determine whether any further action should be taken by his department.

In Oostende, Belgium, Alphonse Soudemounte shooed away curious reporters wanting to talk to his blonde, 18-year-old daughter.

SEE HIS DAUGHTER

He told all callers to see his daughter Liliane that he doesn't "want people pestering my girl."

The girl arrived in Antwerp Wednesday night aboard Lukesfjell.

Papa Soudemonte, a radio mechanic, Thursday night declined to say why she planned her unique escapade, but added: "She has always wanted to join the navy, despite the fact that women aren't allowed in the service here."

At Montreal she gave her name as Jeanne Mutton.

Exporters Ask Canada Become "Free Port"

MONTREAL CP)—The Canadian Exporters Association urged Thursday that Canada become a "free port" where tourists could buy goods tax free.

S. A. MacKay-Smith of Ottawa, president of the association, said in a statement a way should be devised to induce tourists to purchase Canadian goods in greater quantity.

This could be achieved by making goods available to tourists free of all duty, sales and exise taxes.

J. G. Wharry, Peterborough, was among directors appointed.

Jail Christmas Home For Lindsay Vagrant

LINDSAY— (ENS)—A Lindsay man, Jack Steele, was sentenced to 14 days in jail today when he appeared in police court and pleaded guilty to vagrancy. Steele was arrested Thursday by Constable Percy Mark, who told the court the accused's clothes were in "a very poor condition", and would probably disentegrate if washed.

Magistrate Gee recommended the man spend Christmas in the "comfortable" jail, and said the court would attempt to provide him with proper clothing on his release.

Plan Put Civilians Under Military Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Servicemen's dependents outside Canada, auxiliary services and newspaper correspondents with the armed forces would be brought under the military code of discipline under a bill introduced Thursday night in the Commons.

The bill would make dependents of servicemen outside Canada liable for trial by court martial. Members of auxiliary services, such as the Red Cross or Salvation Army, and correspondents could — but not necessarily—be tried by court martial.

Though the bill was not immediately explained in the House, it was understood that its general effect would be to bring all civilians serving abroad with the armed forces under the jurisdiction of Canadian law.

As it now stands, such civilians are subject to the laws and courts of the country where they are serving. The bill would be similar to American provisions.

Fire In Ford Factory Forces Evacuation

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A fire in the south end of plant four of Ford of Canada today forced evacuation of the plant and the temporary shutoff of day shift operations through the 627,000 square foot plant.

Automatic sprinkler systems and fire hoses of Windsor and company firemen quickly doused the blaze, which was confined to a small area where foam rubber seating is stored.

Montreal Port Closes Latest Date Yet

MONTREAL (CP)—Harbor officials announced the port of Montreal will close Dec. 19, latest closing date in the city's history.

The Israeli vessel Yaffo, at present en route to Montreal is expected to arrive on the 14th and officially close harbor traffic when she leaves on the 19th.

Previous record year was in 1946 when the last vessel left port Dec. 18.

Night navigation in the St. Lawrence river between Montreal and Quebec ceases tonight.

Price-Fixing Deal Alleged

VINELAND (CP)—Niagara peninsula fruit and vegetable growers have urged government investigation of the Canadian fertilizer industry.

The growers at a meeting Thursday charged the industry with price-fixing and said the investigation should include price spreads.

The meeting also asked for measures to prevent publicly-supported institutions buying imported produce in preference to Canadian fresh and processed fruit.

Earlier M. M. Robinson, secretary of the Ontario Fruit and Vegetable Growers Association asked the federal government to consider anti-dumping laws for imported agricultural products.

"FAST BUCK"

He said dealers and retailers "thinking only in terms of a 'fast buck,' turn to low-priced markets in their relentless effort to secure a jump on a competitor."

Canada, he said, could use its agricultural imports policy as a weapon to retaliate against United States quota's on imports of Canadian produce, if a weapon is needed.

Little Price Change In Toronto Trading

TORONTO (CP) — Most price groups were little changed in light stock market trading today.

Western oils and industrials were a little lower. Base metals were about steady and golds showed a slight rise.

Liquors, refining oils, agricultures and utilities were the weak elements in the industrials. Steels and papers were stronger in light trading. The biggest rise of the session was St. Lawrence's $1 gain in the papers.

Golds showed a little strength in the seniors after an opening majority of small losses. Bulolo, the fluctuating senior, was 35 cents higher.

Base metal seniors showed a little strength despite early losses. Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay were a little stronger.

Uraniums were lower. Lorado and Baska countered the trend with penny gains. New Larder U and Brilund showed five-cent gains.

Western oils were mixed with several higher-priced issues gaining amounts ranging to Husky's 25 cents and Canada Southern's 15.

Make Youths Clean Up Spilled Garbage

LINDSAY (ENS) — Lindsayites who have been prone to blame wandering dogs when their garbage pails were upset outside their homes may have to change their plans and watch for two-legged culprits from now on.

Thursday night, four Fenelon Falls youths were caught in the act of upsetting garbage cans along one of the town's main streets in the north ward. They spent an hour in the early morning chill cleaning up the mess they had created.

According to Chief Hunter of the Lindsay police, the boys were reported by a north ward woman. PC Henley investigated and found the boys on the street. On questioning them, he found they were the guilty parties.

The boy were escorted to the police station, where they were equipped with brooms belonging to the fire department. They were returned to the scene and while the constable supervised, they cleaned up the spilled garbage.

The officer's report comments: "As the garbage had been scattered on the lawns of several homes and in the middle of the street, it took approximately one hour for the boys to complete their task." The youths were then taken back to the station, cleaned the brooms, told they might be charged and allowed to return home.

French Troops Withdraw From Lai Chau

By LARRY ALLEN

HANOI, Indo-China (AP) — The French announced today that they have pulled their troops out of Vietminh-threatened Lai Chau, capital of the Thai tribal country in northwest Indo-China, without firing a shot. Announcement of the evacuation came after repeated French assertions that Lai Chau would be staunchly defended against the Communist-led rebels.

Brig.-Gen. Rene Cogny, commander of French forces in North Indo-China, proclaimed Dien Bien Phu, 180 miles west of Hanoi and 50 miles south of Lai Chau, as the "new capital" of the Thai country. French paratroopers seized Dien Bien Phu from the Vietminh in a daring drop Nov. 21.

DIVISION 316 ATTACKING

Some 3,500 civilian residents of Lai Chau already had been evacuated to Hanoi and Dien Bien Phu in anticipation of an attack by the crack Vietminh Division 316, which had been reported marching on Lai Chau.

The Reds were expected to lose no time in entering the abandoned Thai capital.

Cogny said the military evacuation of Lai Chau had been approved by Deo Van Long, president of the confederation of the 300,000 Thai peoples.

The French commander termed Lai Chau a "mousetrap." It is wedged between high mountains at the junction of three rivers flowing from Communist China.

Dien Bien Phu, on the other hand, consists of a series of villages on a broad plain and has an airstrip through which the French have been building up their forces.

(The Vietminh radio, heard in Hong Kong, claimed the rebel forces had already engaged the French in heavy fighting in the Lai Chau area and that 715 French Union troops had been killed. The advance along a road in the region "has been slow due to heavy enemy troop concentrations," the Vietminh radio said.)

"We've scheduled no hearings of the sub-committee for this coming week," said Morris. "We're just standing by, ready to go."

The state department has designated Jenner and Morris as U.S. representatives to question Gouzenko at the meeting.

McCarran said he suggested to Jenner that he (McCarran) go along to represent the Democrats on the sub-committee. He said Jenner was agreeable but "the state department, as far as I can determine, is not inclined to acquiesce."

TIMES INTERVIEW

The New York Times meanwhile carried a long interview which its Ottawa correspondent, Tania Long, said she had with Gouzenko Sunday in an Ottawa suburb. Miss Long quoted Gouzenko as saying he plans to tell the U. S. investigators that "unorthodox methods" are needed to break up Soviet spy rings which he is "certain" still operate in North America.

He said that at the time of his defection from the embassy there were five espionage networks operating in Canada. However, he said he had only been attached to one of them and thus could disclose to Canadian authorities only the names of those in his own ring. Thus, the other four presumably could have continued to operate since then.

Girl Kidnapping

The girl's father, Ross McDowell, accompanied by a group of friends, helped search barns and outbuildings, culvert, railway bridges, thickets and woodlots. McDowell appealed to farmers in the buildings to look around their property for some trace of his vivacious daughter.

His sister-in-law, Mrs. William McDowell, offered to act as intermediary between any informants and the police.

"If anyone with helpful information is afraid to go to the police, they can come to me," she said. "I would be happy to help in this way."

The father said today the calls from cranks may lead him to consider placing his wife in a hospital.

"I just can't bear to see her tortured day by day," he said. "She has long been in ill-health and the heart-ache of each day is having its effect on her."

Residents northeast of the city called police after seeing newly-turned ground on a lot in the area. Officers dug for seven feet without finding anything.

Provincial police are checking a report that a girl answering the description of Marion McDowell was seen in a Thamesville, Ont., restaurant Thursday. A waitress of the town near Chatham reported seeing a girl whose face and ankles were swollen and who seemed under the influence of narcotics eating with a man about 35 years old.

Hydro Workers Continue Lindsay Strike

LINDSAY—(ENS)—Still no developments have been reported from the strike scene at the Lindsay Hydro Electric Commission. Although reports have been circulation about town that the two groups, striking workers and members of the hydro commission, have held meetings during the last two days, neighter side would comment on them.

Today, Manager Lightbody said that over 30 men had applied for 13 jobs being advertised by the commission as open, after that number of men ceased working Monday morning. Since then, the strikers have remained on the picket lines steadily but no new men have attempted to enter the hydro yard, or commence work.

The strike is now in its fifth day without a sign of let-up on either side. The workers are continuing to strike for recognition which the commission refuses. Hydro users, meanwhile are sitting tight, hoping that no breakdowns in service will occur while the men are out. To date, no emergencies have been reported.

Gov't Profit Too Large Says Drew

Transport Co. Made $444,940 Excess In 1952

OTTAWA (CP)—Opposition Leader Drew suggested Thursday in the Commons the government is making too large a profit out of Northern Transportation Co. Ltd., a crown-owned company which serves the Northwest Territories.

He also suggested that the number of elected members of the territories council be increased from three to five.

Mr. Drew was speaking on a government resolution, later passed unanimously, proposing amendments to acts dealing with the territories. A bill outlining these amendments was then introduced and given first reading.

Mr. Drew said that in 1951 total assets of Northern Transportation Co. were $3,586,000 and the profit $444,940. Last year, the company had loaned $600,000 without interest to Eldorado Mining and Refining Co., another crown-owned company.

The Progressive Conservative leader said a "very reasonable" profit would be the "wise course" for Northern Transportation, which moves goods along the Athabasca and Mackenzie rivers. Taking a smaller profit would prevent hardship for users of this "essential" service, though he acknowledged that the chief user was Eldorado.

To Hear TV Corp. Application For New Station

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal communications commission has scheduled a hearing Jan. 8 on the Niagara Frontier Amusement Corporation's application to build, on an uncontested basis, a channel 2 television station at Buffalo-Niagara Falls, N. Y.

The commission Thursday refused to grant the permit and set the hearing to determine also:

1. Whether Enterprise Transmission Inc. filed a rival channel 2 application "for the purpose of impending, obstructing or delaying" a decision on the contest for the channel.

2. Whether Niagara Frontier "or any of the parties to its application have agreed to pay directly or indirectly, consideration" to Enterprise for quitting the field.

THREE WITHDRAW

Niagara Frontier reached an agreement Nov. 2 with two earlier applicants, the Niagara Falls Gazette Corp. and Victory Television Corp. The next day Enterprise filed its channel 2 application.

The Enterprise also dropped out. With Niagara Frontier's bid unopposed, the commission still held up approval, saying it had not been able to conclude whether award of the channel to Niagara Frontier would be in the public interest.

ONE END ON THE LAKE BOTTOM, the other buoyed up by trapped air, is the scow and derrick which sank Thursday morning in Cobourg harbor after a 60-mile an hour gale had pounded it against the pier until it sprang a leak and sank. The above photo, taken at the height of the storm, shows workmen of the Ontario Construction Company, owners of the scow, fastening a cable to the sunken scow to prevent it from sinking into deeper water. The scow, with a mobile derrick aboard, had been tied up in the shelter between the T-pier and east pier but the gale became so strong that huge waves came over the harbor breakwaters and churned the harbor into a condition almost as bad as outside the piers.

Costs of the four-day trial which ended Thursday were assessed against C. M. Helmer, 78-year-old widower of Endicott, N. Y., named in the action as co-respondent.

Mr. Justice F. H. Barlow said that, while there was no direct evidence of adultery, "inference may be drawn from all the evidence that appears before the court."

Gordon Ford, Mrs. Mathews' counsel, said a separate action is pending, a $100,000 suit by Mrs. Mathews against Miss Beatrice Lyons, a law partner of Mr. Mathews, for alienation of affections and criminal conversation (adultery).

Pond At Stewart Hall To Be Skating Rink

When winter comes to the Stewart Hall section of Otonabee, the new pond on the W. W. Dawson farm, across from his house, will likely be lighted for night skating. It is almost up to the brim these days, indicating ample water in the neighborhood.

In the first place, farm ponds today are planned for fire protection, and in the last few years many farmers have excavated water sites or otherwise attracted flow or seepage of water.

The Dawson pond on the north side of the Wallace Point road will probably be a skating place before Christmas.

London Rejects Its Arena

An offshoot of Ontario civic elections of peculiar interest to Peterborough people was the result of the vote taken on a proposed bylaw in London. London has a fund of $248,252 for a rink and civic centre — the accumulation of monies got after the war when "Memorial Centres" were popular municipal projects thought fitting to honour those who had died in the services. The $248,252 which London has is not enough to build the arena. A bylaw was put to Londoners last Monday, asking them to approve the raising by debenture of an additional sum of $1,250,000. The voters rejected the bylaw.

* * *

The project of Peterborough's Memorial Centre was revived before the elections and promises were made that the thing would be built. The Memorial Centre committee now has $253,000, raised long ago by public subscription and through interest thereon in the intervening years. To this, when the building is begun, the city is committed to contribute $75,000, which was voted by the ratepayers at the time of the canvass. This makes a total of $328,000 that will be available to build the rink. What kind of rink can be got for that sum? What kind of memorial? If more money is needed, will Peterborough citizens support either a fund-raising campaign or a bylaw?

* * *

These questions may seem premature since the site has not yet been acquired, although action on this is likely to be taken in February. However, the proponents of an elaborate arena would be wise to take into reckoning the fate of the projected big London centre dealt by the hands of the taxpayers of that city. They should remember, too, that London has two and a half times as many people as Peterborough to pay for the rink.

Have We Been Wrong?

Several streets and one universtiy in Canada have been named in honour of George Ramsay, 9th Earl of Dalhousie, one of Wellington's generals who played a distinguished part in Canada's history during the early nineteenth century. His name is pronounced, variously, D'loosie and Dal-howsie. We have always used the former pronunciation, simply because it was the one we heard during our childhood and accepted without question. But now Dr. A. E. Kerr, the principal of Dalhousie University, says that the name should be pronounced the second way, and quotes the Earl of Dalhousie as authority—which he certainly may claim to be.

There is another opinion, however. The Lord Lyon King of Arms in Edinburgh, who is the chief authority on Scottish heraldry and family history, says that D'loosie is all right if you are speaking 'Braid Scots'. Now we make no claim to speak Scots, whether Braid or Narrow, but we always call Auchinleck 'Affleck' and Kircudbright 'Kircoobry' because our Scottish friends laugh at us if we do otherwise.

Have we been wrong all these years? We should be glad to have some guidance on this matter. Certainly it will be hard for us to learn to say Dalhowsie now.

An Ineffective Murmur

Every year at about this time a great many pictures of the Virgin Mary with the Infant Christ appear in papers and magazines of all kinds; some are handsomely printed, and some are cheap and tawdry. But what worries us is that they are often accompanied by a caption which reads rather like this: "This picture of the Madonna is the work of . . . ." 'Madonna' is an Italian word meaning My Lady; to talk about The My Lady is silly.

We do not expect that many people will pay any attention to our protest. The usage is a common one and hard to break. But we suggest that if the Italian word Madonna were allowed to fall into disuse, and the perfectly good English term Our Lady were used instead, it would be better English.

Two Centres Blacked Out

New York has been without daily papers for a week. Whether it was out of sympathy for the New York strikers or for the publishers, or for some other reason, most Moscow newspapers failed to publish the first two days of this week. Monday is their usual day off (the Sabbath is not kept holy in Russia), but Tuesday another near-paperless day followed. A Malenkov wrench in the linotype machines? Or were the reporters and printers taking time off to listen to President Eisenhower's speech?

We're Red And Don't Know It

We have been trembling like an aspen leaf ever since Monday evening, when Mr. J. M. Blackmore, Social Credit MP for Lethbridge, appeared on a panel discussion on the radio with some members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery, and the following exchange took place:

Mr. McLintock: Mr. Blackmore, I heard your speech the other night in the House. I was in the Press Gallery, and one thing you said rather intrigued me and I'll quote you from Hansard if I may. You said, "Communists employ twisted publicity. Just take a look at the newspapers which will report this speech that I am giving now, and you will know the kind of publicity I mean. You will get the idea of who the Communist sympathizers are." Now the only people I think that could write a report on this speech you were giving then were members of the Press Gallery, including most of us here, and I'd like to know do you consider us Communists or consider our newspaper owners and publishers Communists or under Communist influence, or what?

Mr. Blackmore: I have found in all my relations with the press men that they are men of integrity of the very highest quality.

Mr. McLintock: Well, what did you mean by this?

Mr. Blackmore: Well, it's what happens to their report after it gets to the editor of the newspaper—whether he leaves some of it out or . . . (Chorus of "Nonsense!")

Ann Francis: Do you imply that some of our newspaper editors who send men to the Press Gallery are Communist sympathizers?

Mr. Blackmore: Well, I'll leave you entirely to judge for yourselves by just referring to the various newspapers.

Mr. McLintock: Well, let me ask you this. Did the newspapers that you have read give a reasonably fair report of your speech?

Mr. Blackmore: Yes, most of them gave the report that the press men sent in, except that when they came to write in their editorials you would hardly recognize the reports as having come from the press men and many of the press men themselves must have been chagrined.

Mr. McLintock: Oh, it's the editorial writers that are under Communist influence, not the reporters, eh?

Ann Francis: And do you think they are operating without the knowledge of their publishers?

Mr. Blackmore: Well, I would imagine that they are operating with the knowledge of the people that are behind their publishers, and who those are you can judge by what's managing the press down in the United States.

Mr. McLintock: Who?

Mr. Blackmore: Well, the Communist organization.

Mr. Fraser: The Communist organization is managing the press of the United States?

Mr. Blackmore: I would say that it is influencing unduly the press of the United States.

Ann Francis: And also here in Canada?

Mr. Blackmore: Undoubtedly the press in Canada too.

Mr. McLintock: Including the Chicago Tribune?

Mr. Blackmore: Just a minute on the Chicago Tribune. The Chicago Tribune is probably able to get ahead of them—get out above them. Some papers are independent probably, but a good many are not.

We are an editorial writer, and shockingly under the domination of our Editor, who happens to be ourself. There is no doubt whatever that if that fellow had Red ideas he could compell us to give voice to them. And the people behind him—well, as we look at them in the light of what Mr. Blackmore says, they are a desperate lot; they are of all ages—some of them mere children, who are the worst anarchists of all—and some of them are women, who have always been useful agents of subversive elements.

It is not as though we had not been investigated. Our doctor investigates us at regular intervals, and although he rarely says anything we can tell from the look on his face that he has seen better things than our trembling carcass in his time. But now Mr. Blackmore has let the cat out of the bag. We are unduly influenced by Communists; that is what has been wrong with us for years, and we would give anything for a pill that would put the trouble right.

Death At Eighty

An Associated Press despatch printed in a Montreal paper under the date line Glen Falls, N.Y., recounted how a Montreal woman was fatally injured in a leap from a speeding car while the driver named Boland and she were returning from New York city to Montreal. They began arguing about another woman, as Boland told police, when Miss Savard jumped out—to her death. The account continues:

State police said the woman jumped from the northbound automobile on Route 9 between Glens Falls and Saratoga Springs.

Boland at first was charged with driving while intoxicated, but a charge of speeding more than 80 miles an hour was substituted.

He pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Thomas Angelo, who sentenced him to a $25 fine and 10 days in Saratoga County jail.

And that is the end of the story.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A new international language has been devised which is a mingling of French, Italian, English and Spanish, and is called Interlingua. Would it not be simpler for everybody to learn Latin than a mishmash like that?

When the Queen vsited Bermuda, no coloured Bermudians were presented to her at the State Dinner. Which shows that all British subjects are equal, but some are more equal than others.

MIDDLE EAST LETTER

The Captain And Dancer

By THOMAS R. LITTLE (in Cairo)

THERE WERE all the elements of a spy thriller in the news which broke in Cairo recently that Tahia Carioca and Captain Mustapha Kamel Sidky had been arrested in Sidky's flat, where a considerable amount of subversive literature has allegedly been found. It was not the reason for the arrest which gave the incident character but the personalities involved.

Beautiful and temperamental Tahia Carioca is still probably Egypt's finest oriental dancer, or, as foreigners would usually say, "tummy dancer." She is the classic of the swaying hips and oscillating stomach muscles. King Farouk paid court to her; an American married her and took her off to Hollywood. But eventually she was drawn back to the film studios and cabarets of Cairo.

✧ ✧ ✧

CAPTAIN SIDKY is a dashing officer with a taste for romantic intrigues on the fringe of Egyptian politics. He claims to be the true leader of the "Free Officers Movement" although what he actually led was a small group of adventurers like himself. His movement was anti-Palace and against "the old regime," while at the same time he was friendly with a Lady-in-Waiting and confidante of the King. How far she led him into the labyrinthine double-cross of pre-coup Egyptian politics is unknown; but at least the present ruling Army Group would never trust him.

Tahia and Sidky, who are both romantic by nature, were married secretly. But besides romance, Sidky seemed to need the dangerous pleasure of political intrigue, even though in this he is never successful for long. His predilection in that direction is too well-known.

✧ ✧ ✧

HE AND TAHIA were promptly thrown in gaol while the investigation probed the depths of Sidky's plotting. Tahia was at last released, exonerated from any part of his politics and perhaps in honour of the affectation in which the public holds her. Unlike the cinema versions of the lovely dancer and the dashing captain, the story will probably end with a commonplace trial and a humbling prison sentence for the captain. And one presumes that Tahia will dance her way to forgetfulness.

At least she can never rival the greatest of all stories of Arab stage, that of Asmahan, the poor girl who sang her way into marriage with a Druze prince of the Syrian mountains, turned spy and film actress after she left him, provoked a gun fight on the Pyramids road in Egypt between her rival lovers and died tragically and spectacularly when her chauffeur, racing her car along a canal, plunged with it into the water. There can be only one Asmahan, whose beauty can now be seen in shaky dimness in old films, and whose rich, romantic voice can come to us only coarsely from well known records.

THE EGYPTIAN COUNCIL of Revolution has a committee investigating the national dress with an eye to reforms. The "tarbush"—a smart hat of red felt in the shape of an inverted plant pot and with a natty black tassel, is still reported to be scheduled for oblivion. Even more striking is the report that the "galabieh" is to go and that students will probably in future be expected to dress smartly in blue jackets and grey trousers.

The galabieh, which for all practical purposes can be described as a white nightshirt with wide sleeves which the worker can easily pull back, is the dress of the common people of Egypt. It has for long been a sensitive subject for many Egyptians that the galabieh has been represented abroad as the symbol of the nation's backwardness. Now it is proposed that workers and peasants should wear cotton shirts and trousers.

IN THE TOWNS of Egypt, clothing has gone half-way towards abandonment of the native dress. The handsome kaftan, a long loose coat, is rarely seen. Even the galabieh is worn by a declining percentage of the townspeople, although it is still sufficiently common to be characteristic. One wonders, however, whether its abandonment in favour of cheap skirts and trousers will, in the long run, make a better impression on the visitor, who may see more signs of poverty in an ill-kept shirt or pair of trousers than in a well-worn galabieh.

The universities may gain by a uniformity of dress. The Council of the Revolution is trying to wean the students from their taste for playing politics riotously in hours normally apportioned to study. The Liberation rally, the political organ of the army regime, and the National Guard are being introduced into universities to canalise student energies into organisation in which 'unity, discipline and work' replace brickbats and bonfires. A neat pattern of dress might equally incline them toward greater dignity.

A VISITOR to the Sudan is naturally led to wonder whether nationalism will eventually turn against the history of the British there or whether the affection of the Sudanese for their dear, dead enemies will triumph over everything. The British heroes of the Mahdi wars of the last century are remembered and commemorated equally with those of the Sudanese themselves.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS is particularly true of General Gordon, whose romantic life and death in the Sudan has left such a strong imprint on the country. Few men have given their name to so varied a selection of monuments. There was a college and there are streets named after him; there is his effigy in stone in Khartoum; but there is also in the Sudanese capital the Gordon hairdressing saloon, Gordon emporiums of various sorts, and, of course, the Gordon Cabaret where you can enjoy such recherche pleasures as the can-can danced in the African moonlight by a troupe from Paris. The only other cabaret in Khartoum is known as the "G.B." which stands for "Great Britain." The British raj has, it seems, annexed the night life of the Sudanese capital.

There are dark rumours, however, that an independent Sudan will turn against cabarets and alcoholic drinks. There are strict Muslims there who genuinely disapprove and would like to see prohibition imposed.

DIFFERED

The teacher wanted to impress on his class that there was nothing a man could not do if he put his mind to it. Johnny Jones begged to differ.

"Well," said the teacher, "tell me what is it."

"You try to strike a match on a piece of soap," was the answer.

An American Opinion: BREEZED OFF

The Shadow of Starvation

By O. M. GREEN

"IT IS nearly as certain as any prediction can be that India's population will rise to 520 millions by 1981." This is the alarming conclusion drawn by Mr. R. A. Gopalaswami, India's Census Commissioner, in his report on the 1951 census.

Already India's registered population is 360 million; but, as for every one thousand persons counted probably eleven remain uncounted, the true figure may be much greater.

The census showed a birthrate of forty per thousand, a death rate of only twenty-seven, and so net annual increase of thirteen per thousand. It also showed that although child marriages are, in theory, punishable offences, there are more than 2¾ million married males and nearly 6¼ million females, 66,000 widowers and 134,000 widows, aged between five and fourteen.

The chief cause of India's leaping population is what Mr. Gopalaswami calls "improvident maternity," or births to mothers who have borne three or more children. In this respect, India's problem is worse than that of any other country (of China we know nothing, although its birthrate problem is probably great) with 42.8 such mothers in every hundred. Japan comes next with 33.9 per cent; France 19.7 per cent; the U.S.A. 19.2; Britain 14.3; West Germany 12.3.

A curious fact is that in the thirty year period before 1921, the production of food kept pace with the population's total increase which was only 12.2 millions. But between 1921 and 1951, the increase of population was 110 millions, far out-stripping the increase in food production. A suggested explanation is that before 1921 frequent famine and pestilence kept the population down; for since that year, famine has been less frequent.

* * *

THE REPORT shows that 295 million Indians live in 558,089 villages, while there are only 3,018 towns containing 61.9 million people. Most of the villagers work on the land; and of these, the census showed, there are 402 without land for every 1,000 who own some land.

Of every one thousand self-supporting Indians, seventy per cent are engaged in producing their own food and a small surplus, but this surplus is far from being enough for the needs of the 294 remaining. Whereas in the 1880s, India had a normal annual surplus of about 1,200,000 tons of food grains beyond its needs, today it has to import about three million tons a year.

The theory that industrialisation is a cure for all ills—a theory so widely held nowadays in hungry Asia—is dismissed as a delusion by Mr. Gopalaswami. He goes on to examine the probable results of the Indian Government's Five-Year-Plan for increasing food production by developing irrigation and bringing waste land under cultivation. This, it is expected, will add six million tons a year to India's food resources.

"But," Mr. Gopalaswami asks, "when we have got it, where shall we be? We shall have secured just about two-fifths of what we need by 1961. If a world war should begin and external supplies cut off, the blow will have fallen. The people in all parts of the country must pass through the Valley of the Shadow as the people of Bengal did in 1943."

There is only one answer, a check on population and an end to improvident maternity. But this will never come about unless the Government acts. The report discussed the sort of measures required; organized campaigns to preach birth control, the help of cultivated women to talk to the village women, methods of instruction for young married couples. By this means the rate of increase of births might gradually be slowed down and India's population stabilized at 450 millions.

If the Government does not act, India will be unable to support its people beyond that figure. Then, for millions, there will be nothing but starvation.

History of Cats

(Winnipeg Free Press)

Some 1,800 years ago while a Roman tile was being made a cat must have walked across it, because the paw marks were baked into it, and were clearly visible on the tile when it was one of the exhibits at a novel exhibition held in London, England. The exhibition was devoted to Cats Through the Ages. Sponsored by the International Association of Abyssinian Cat Owners, the exhibition included more than 300 exhibits.

The exhibition was attended by Michael Joseph and in a commentary in London Calling he observes that there was only one live cat to be seen—an Abyssinian cat called Chloe, very proud and dignified, rather small and exquisitely lovely.

A few yards away from Chloe was a mummified cat from ancient Egypt — a reminder of how cats were honoured thousands of years ago. There were paintings, drawings, sculpture and books; cats in ivory, jade, gold, silver, bronze, wood and china.

And there were some wonderful pictures, ranging from Leonardo da Vinci's 15th-century drawings to the work of modern artists like Louis Wain and Ronald Searle.

Pass The Seaweed

(Ottawa Citizen)

Most people enjoy seafood. They are fond of scallops, lobster, oysters, shrimp, and clams, and various other products of the deep. But, if certain Maritimers are to be trusted, they are missing one of the greatest treats of all. Seaweed, that is. Its champions, however, prefer to call it dulse (hence "dulse domum"—"it's nice to eat seaweed at home"?).

Dulse fanciers form a somewhat select fraternity, being naturally more prominent along seacoasts. But now a Montreal man, with the apparent blessing of Nova Scotia scientists, is laying plans to bring this delicacy to a much larger number of his countrymen.

Dulse, as is fairly well known, is impregnated with iodine. But it also contains calcium, iron, copper, zinc, cobalt, nickel, molybdenum, manganese, strontium, titanium and vanadium. Thus, if a man were to go on a steady diet of dulse, he should in time become a valuable property.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And it came to pass, as we went to prayer, a certain damsel possessed with a spirit of divination met us, which brought her masters much grain by sooth-saying: the same followed Paul and us, and cried saying. These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto us the way of salvation. And this did she many days. But Paul, being grieved, turned and said to the spirit, I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her. And he came out the same hour.

And when her masters saw that the hope of their gains was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and drew them into the marketplace unto the rulers, and brought them to the magistrates, saying, These men, being Jews, do exceeding trouble our city, and teach customs, which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, being Romans.

And the multitude rose up together against them: and the magistrates rent off their clothes, and commanded to beat them. And when they had laid many stripes upon them, they cast them into prison, charging the jailer to keep them safely: who, having received such a charge, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks. And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sang praises unto God: and the prisoners heard them. And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken: and immediately all the doors were opened, and every one's bands were loosed. (Acts 16:16-26.)

New House For $3,320

(Brantford Expositor)

Fresh proof of what can be done to get people well housed quickly and at less than crippling cost, has just come from England. At the Building Exhibition now being held in London there is a pre-formed house which can be extended as income and family grow. It is nothing like the hideous prefabs of wartime Britain, built to meet a pressing emergency.

This new house has a pleasant appearance. Basically it comprises one bedroom, a good-sized lounge-dining room, kitchen and bathroom. This, including all sanitary ware, electrical and kitchen fittings (except stove and refrigerator) site preparation, connecting to utilities and erection, costs only $3,320. Land is extra.

Exterior walls are of resin-bonded plywood, with plasterboard and fibreglass insulation. There is a fireplace in the living room, and the chimney and long wall forming a gable end are in brick. The house is delivered to the site packaged and numbered for assembly and it requires only two men to put it together. The addition of a second bedroom raises the all-in price to $4,040 and a third bedroom to $4,340.

If anything is being done in Canada along these lines even at prices which allow for higher costs, it is being kept very dark. These British houses are to be exported and Canada is one of the chief markets in view. It would be ironic if other people should solve Canada's cheap homes problem.

Harvesting Thirty Alibis

(Wall Street Journal)

A young city man had a cottage in the country, but one thought plagued him. He had so many visitors the previous summer that his budget snapped and he got very little rest himself.

With this in mind he wired 30 people who had been his guests: "Am strapped for money. Need $300 badly. Please forward same immediately."

In all he harvested 30 new alibis which he read with relish while enjoying his first vacation in years.

Oddfellows Win And Lose In Juvenile Jousts As Minor Hockeyists Mix

Oddfellows won and lost in two PMHA games played at Civic Arena last night. The IOOF juveniles beat Norwood, -2, but were blanked by Aces 7-0. In midget play, Shamrocks whitewashed Norwood 10-0, and Aces took a 6-1 victory over the Norwood crew, who had to play twice as their turn came up in the weekly schedule.

Bantam results saw Shamrocks win 9-1 from Optimists, and the latter were also listed on the short end of a 6-1 count in their joust with the Aces.

This latter tilt had Aces up 2-0 in the first on goals by Allen and Julian, with Bignell aiding on one. Next heat was 4-0 on two goals by Fitzgerald and one each by Nurse and Allen, the latter getting one assist, also. Trude scored in the third for Optimists, the game being quite clean.

NEARLY A SHUTOUT

The other bantam battle had Optimists blanked again till Trude scored in the third of a clean tussle. Copping and Moffitt got one each early for Shamrocks and McFadden twice tallied from Deroble. An assist went to Copping in the first. The latter, Donahy and McCormick scored in the second, Theobald, Byrne and Moffitt each earning an assist. McCormick and McFaden finished it up with goals in the third.

Hanno counted Norwood's only goal in the midget melee with Aces. Murphy scored in the first for the winners, and Ferguson got two and Kinlin one next heat as Parnell and Sullivan each got an assist. The third period saw O'Connell and Ferguson light the lamp once each. The winners drew three of the four penalties.

Shamrock midgets made it 4-0 in the first, Mahoney, Stewart, Coombs and McCarthy tallying, and the latter getting an assist. He also scored one in the second frame. Stewart, Heron and Pace counted in the third, and Darling had a pair of markers. Forestell aided on two, Daly, Olmstead, and Armstrong earning an assist apiece.

AN EARLY LEAD

Aces rolled to a 2-0 juvenile lead in the opening canto on goals by Brooks and Strickland, the latter and Stewart having an assist each. Farren tallied next period from Kane and Floyd. In the third chukker, Stewart, Doris, Kane and Brooks hit the mark, an assist apiece being marked to McFadden and Brooks. Oddfellows drew six of the 10 penalties.

The win for Oddfellows saw Hunt score first for them from Paget, after Laing counted for Norwood. Goldie and Roy put IOOF up 3-1 in the second. Paget, Hunt, Roy, Renwick, Goldie and McDonald all counted in their big third chapter, Allen, McDonald and Hobart each drawing an assist. Rusaw banged one in for Norwood on a pass from Patterson. There were four penalties each.

SOX-REDS SWAP PLAYERS

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago White Sox obtained outfielder Willard Marshall from Cincinnati Reds in exchange for three players, pitcher Saul Rogovin and infielders Connie Ryan and Rocky Krsnich. No cash was involved.

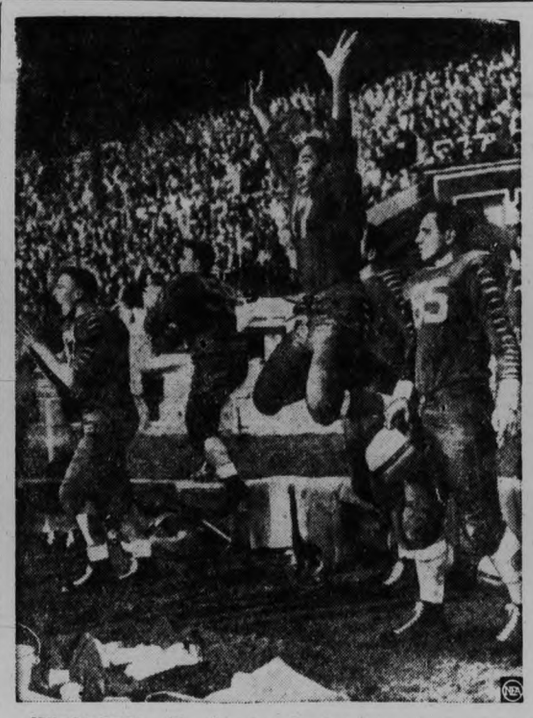
Young Canucks Might Play In Texas Rugby

OTTAWA (CP)—The Milk Bowl, annual football classic between small fry teams held in Texas, has enlisted the prime minister's office to see whether 27 young Canadians are interested in a free holiday in Texas next year.

A letter from Eugene C. Weafer, executive secretary of the bowl, has reached here asking the prime minister's office to make public the story of the holiday.

The letter says a selection committee of the Milk Bowl will decide within 90 days whether to invite 27 Canadians. It asks that Canadian groups with small fry football teams—players under 14 and weighing no more than 100 pounds — communicate with the bowl at 1406 Ursuline Avenue, Bryan, Tex.

HELD AT HOUSTON



The 1954 milk bowl will be held at Houston, Tex., with proceeds going to the Texas Lions League for crippled children. A Texas team will play a team from out of the state.

In a postscript to his letter, Mr. Weafer says his family came from Sarnia, and that his grandfather was a railroad engineer for 55 years with, he believes, the Canadian Pacific Railway.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Playing coach Bob Thorpe intimated at the senior lacrosse meeting here the other eve that he wouldn't do the coaching of the Trailermen next season—though he declined to elaborate on the matter. Vice-prexy Gord Dobbin also said that he wouldn't have the time to act this year, and Bob Curtin offered to remain on the board of directors but didn't want to manage the team again. President Bob Peirson—in for his fourth term—decided that these fellows should have more time to think it over, and necessary appointments will be made at an executive meeting early next month. A replacement is likely for Treasurer Howard McLean, who wants to see the games for a change instead of being stuck in the ticket booth.

* * * * * *

Ken Kingston, local member of the OLA, informed the meeting that he'd written to the CLA demanding the club's cut of the Mann Cup series. CLA has sent nothing yet and intimated the Trailermen would receive only about a quarter of what the club had expected from the lucrative series in Victoria. Well heeled now, the CLA is very stingy with the clubs which make it what it is, and mayhap there is merit to the BC suggestion that the eastern and western association should run their own show. Local club may take in the junior team this year. The 1954 senior officers are: Bob Peirson, Gord Dobbin, Mick Magee, Howard McLean, Ken Kingston, Jack Gainey, Pete King, Jim Goldie, Gar Braund, Bob Curtin, Harry Tudhope, Dr. Jack Epping, with at least one more to be appointed.

Whoops, Hoops And Oops

Basketball crowds onto the sports scene here these weeks. The YW girls' loop is going now in twin bills Friday nights. High school teams are prepping for group play with exhibitions. Lasses' frays tonight: Black's vs. CGE, and Lindsay vs. Collis. Then a layoff till January. Coach Doug MacPherson's intermediate Marines have a hoop exhibition at eight Saturday night in St. Peter's gym with the colorful and colored New York Black Barons. They're a classy touring team along the lines of the famed Harlem Globe Trotters, serving up a lot of fun and entertainment as well as smart basketball. Marines include: Bob Smith, Bill Edger, Ab and Joe Stewart, Gord Burns, Hugh Dibben, Ed Nicholls, Neil Thompson, Don Ash, Dan Griffin, Dave Langhorne and possibly a few others.

The hot OHA senior "B" group race in Central Ontario continues. Overtime games and upsets make it an exceptionally interesting season so far, and anyone betting much on the outcome of any recent tilts has more money than brains. Oshawa Truckmen are still atop the heap though inclined to slip somewhat the past 10 days—or it may be that other clubs are improving to narrow the gap. Truckmen tackle the TPT Petes this e'en in Civic Arena, and we're looking for a local win. The Petes lost to Oshawa by a goal in the final second of play in their last meeting, so should get revenge in a hot go here tonight.

Truckers In A Slump?

By beating Oshawa 10-6 the other night, Kingston climbed back into second place in the standing, two games behind the Truckmen and a point in front of Orillia. The Pontiacs in third slot have 13 points now, with Petes next in line with nine, one more than Belleville. The latter club goes to the Limestone City tonight and entertains Orillia on the morrow, same day as K's mix with Oshawa at Bowman Villa. That 10-6 win snapped a Kingston losing steak but made it three losses in a row for Oshawa, and of course the Petes will be trying to slip the Truckmen another reverse here this e'en. And odd quirk of the schedule finds Kingston not coming up this way again until Feb. 5.

Beating the drums for the Ontario Jockey Club, Jim Coleman—former Globe sports columnist—sends us some dope which may interest horse players. No less than 74 runners went into winter quarters early this month and started payments for the Queen's Plate. These included 10 from Western Canada, though the Plate (oldest continuously-run horse race in North America) has never been won by a western entry. Next entry payment of $100 is due May 1, and it is expected by then that the field will be reduced to about 36 leading contenders. It will cost the owner of each horse another $250 to start in the run for The Guineas. King Maple probably will rule a stout favorite when price-makers figure odds in the "winter book".

Badminton Club Arranging Big Tournament

President Bob Baker announces that the Peterborough Badminton Club is sponsoring a local "B" class tournament in ladies', men's and mixed doubles on their Market Hall courts Dec. 28, 30 and Jan. 2, with "A" class players of the host club included.

The purpose is to give players of such local groups as St. Peter's, Trinity, Knox, YWCA, PCVS, and Kenner an opportunity to compare strength, to better their standard of play, and to increase interest. It is hoped to make this an annual feature with perhaps singles and a "C" classification added next year. Consolations will be played in all three divisions, assuring each team of at least two matches.

THE FIRST NIGHT

Ladies' and men's doubles will be played down to the final round and their consolations completed on the first night, and mixed doubles similarly the second night. The third night will be devoted to the finals of the three events with umpires and linesmen governing play, to some good exhibition matches featuring Grant Henry, one of Canada's best, and to the presentation of prizes to winners, runners-up, and consolation winners.

Entry fee of 50 cents per team in each event will help defray cost of birds and prizes. Entries should be telephoned to Mrs. Graham 22534, Ralph Charlton 6884, or Roy Johnston 20792, not later than Dec. 19. A large entry list is anticipated, and all adherents of local clubs are cordially invited to attend free of admission charge.

Greenshirts Finish Season Canadiens Assume Control

MONTREAL (CP) — Managing director Frank Selke of Montreal Canadiens announced that Kitchener Greenshirts who were ticketed for junior teams in Quebec have agreed to return to Kitchener and play out the season.

At the same time Selke said the Canadiens club, which purchased the Kitchener junior team two weeks ago, has assumed full control of the team.

Selke said Thursday Canadiens are prepared to operate and absorb any loss involved.

He said three Kitchener business men will be appointed to handle finances and it is hoped they will revive interest in the team.

The previous backers were reported operating at a loss of $700 to $1,000 weekly.

Selke met with the players and told them he didn't want to keep them out of hockey.

It was indicated Selke felt refusal of transfers from the Ontario to the Quebec branch of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association would not be relaxed. In that event the players either would have to remain out of hockey this season or be let go to other Ontario junior clubs.

ACE PLAYS HERE—Grover Freeland is one of the star basketball players who will appear with New York Black Barons here this Saturday night. The team is as famous as the Harlem Globe Trotters and serve up an amazing assortment of hoop tricks and fun. They play Outboard Marines at eight p.m. Saturday night in St. Peter's gym at the corner of Reid and Brock streets.

Canadiens Win 5-3 Against Chicago Hawks

By JIM BASTABLE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Frank Selke always said is was fierce pride that made Maurice Richard a great hockey player. Jean Beliveau would make him even greater. Richard, the last fellow who'll deny it, was his reckless, tempestuous self Thursday night and reminded 14,373 fans and Chicago's goalkeeper Al Rollins that he's just about the most dangerous player in the game. The 32-year-old rightwinger scored three goals against Rollins and Chicago Black Hawks to lead the league-leading Montreal Canadiens to a 5-3 National Hockey League victory.

Everything was made to order for the fiery Rocket. The Forum was sold out and Beliveau, the sensational high-priced rookie, was back in the line-up. That's where the pride came in.

"Maurice is too proud to let anybody replace him as the fans' favorite," Selke, Canadiens' managing director, has said. "He's not bitter or jealous over Beliveau. But because he's so proud he'll be a bigger help to himself."

Meanwhile, Boston Bruins, led by Ed Sandford's three goals, beat the second-place Detroit Red Wings 6-3 in Boston in the only other league game.

There was no bitterness but plenty of drive when Richard got his goals. However, one of them was disputed when the puck carromed into the nets off his leg. That lifted his goal total to 16 for the season and put him in the leadership.

NOT IN TOP SHAPE

Beliveau, a 22-year-old centre, was in action for the first time since Oct. 22 when he cracked an ankle bone. He obviously wasn't in top shape and missed several scoring chances.

It was Montreal's 14th victory in 15 home games.

The other Montreal goals were scored by Dick Gamble and Floyd Curry. Bill Gadsby, Pete Conacher and Doc Couture tallied for the last-place Hawks.

Referee Jack Mehlenbacher called 17 penalties, two majors, one misconduct and 14 minors.

Richard scored his first goal when Montreal centre Ken Mosdell fired the puck, which hit Richard and went past Rollins.

Gamble made it 2-0 at 13:32, before Gadsby beat goaltender Gerry McNeil for Chicago's first goal. Richard scored the only goals of the second period, one on Bert Olmstead's rebound and the other on a pass from defenceman Tom Johnson.

THREE-MAN ATTACK

Conacher scored on a three-man attack at 6:28 of the third period and Curry and Couture came through a few minutes later.

Eddie Mazur of Montreal and Larry Zeidel of Chicago got the majors in the second period for fighting.

At Boston, the Bruins retained fourth place with their victory. Defenceman Hal Laycoe, centre Milt Schmidt and rightwinger Johnny Peirson got the other Boston goals. Rightwinger Gordie Howe, defenceman Red Kelly and Glen Skov accounted for the Detroit points.

The Bruins came from behind three times to take the victory. It was the first time this season that so many goals were scored in one game against Detroit goalkeeper Terry Sawchuk. He made 27 stops, as compared to 23 made by Sugar Jim Henry in the Boston nets.

No games are scheduled for tonight. Saturday night fifth-place New York Rangers meet the Canadiens, Black Hawks travel to Toronto and the Bruins clash with Detroit.

Boucher Wants New Coach N.Y. Rangers

NEW YORK (CP)—Frank Boucher, who has been holding down two jobs as coach and manager of New York Rangers, says he's looking for a new Ranger coach to take some of the load off him.

"It's no secret that I've been doing more work than I should be doing in order to do my best job in either position," Boucher told a meeting of hockey writers Thursday.

"So, naturally, I've been scouting around for a good man and keeping an eye on the right man in case he should become available."

He didn't name the coach that he's been "keeping an eye on."

THIEF GETS $700

The search for a new coach comes at a time when police are searching for someone who stole about $700 from Detroit Red Wings' dressing room at the Garden during Wednesday night's game when the Rangers tied the Wings 3-3. Garden authorities are trying to figure out how the thief got into the dressing room during the first period and nicked Gordie Howe, Tony Leswick, Glen Skov and Marty Pavelich of the money in their street clothes.

There were reports that the thief missed $1,000 which Ted Lindsay was reported carrying.

The Wing players said they had an unusually large amount of money in their possession because they planned to go Christmas shopping during their New York visit.

Lack Of Support Forces Sarnia Out Of OHA

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia is dropping out of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior A series because of lack of support from the fans.

Withdrawal of the Sarnia Sailors, decided on Thursday night at a meeting of the Sarnia arena commission, is effective immediately.

It was announced the team has lost $8,000 this season.

R. N. Taglietti, sponsor of the motion to withdraw, said:

"In my opinion, the blame rests 100 per cent on the shoulders of the public of the city of Sarnia."

Attendance at home games has averaged 1,412. The commission said at least 2,000 admissions a game are needed to break even.

It also said the high cost of operating a team in the senior circuit was another reason for the folding of the Sailors, tied for last place in the eight-team league with Niagara Falls Cataracts.

LACK PROTECTION

The commission's hockey committee also accused the Canadian and Ontario hockey associations of falling down on protecting the Sarnia team against raids by United States clubs. It said the International Hockey League lured away players Jim Wilson, Skippy Frezell and Mac Beaton from last year's club.

This season the Sailors have won four of their 22 games and tied three—about the same record as at this time last year, when total attendance was 5,246 higher.

Earlier this year, the club was offered for sale. There were no takers.

Minor Puck Squads Battle In Marmora

MARMORA — (ENS) — Five games of hockey were played at the Marmora Arena on Wednesday evening on good ice. The series started with a bantam fixture between Madoc and Norwood. Although Norwood obtained the first counter early in the first, they failed to beat Danford again and retired beaten 4-1. W. Empey got two of Madocs goals.

Next the midget teams of Stirling and Norwood tried conclusions. The Stirling goalie Brady got a shutout since his team won 3-0. The scoring being evenly divided over the periods.

STIRLING WINS

The juvenile teams of these two villages staged the third game for the final score to also read Stirling 3, Norwood 0. Ross Ray starred in the Stirling goal.

Havelock and Flinton juveniles were next ot perform. After an evenly fought game and the second and third periods being scoreless, Havelock won by 4-3. Chase brothers, McMillen and Patterson were most effective for the winners and Fisher starred for Flinton.

The final game was also a juvenile tussle between Coe Hill and Marmora, the northerners putting it over the Marmora boys by the score of 5-2 in a game fairly rough.

Goalie Sues For Breach Hockey Contract

QUEBEC (CP)—Two suits to annul goalie Jacques Marcotte's 1952-53 playing contract with Quebec Citadelles were taken Thursday in Quebec Superior Court.

The suits were taken by the 18-year-old player's sister, Suzanne Marcotte of Grand'mere, Que., and by les Sports Frontenac Inc., owners of Quebec Frontenacs.

Lawyer Mark Drouin said the suits claim Marcotte signed the contract under false representation. It was claimed Marcotte was told he would be enrolled at L'Academie de Quebec, a high school, and would play junior A hockey.

CO-DEFENDANTS

As co-defendants with Citadelles, the suits named the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association Inc., and the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and its executive members.

Mr. Drouin, acting for the Frontenac club of the Quebec Junior Hockey League, said aim of the suit is to break off all ties Citadelles have with Marcotte. It was taken as a result of a CAHA decision last Monday, ordering Marcotte to leave the Frontenac club and report to Citadelles of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series.

Cataracts Beat Dutchmen 3-2

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Fighting off a late rally, Niagara Falls Cataracts moved into a seventh place tie Thursday as they outlasted the league-leading Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 3-2 in an Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game.

Nick Dubick shot Cataracts into a 1-0 lead in the first period.

Eric Unger made it 2-0 in the second session as he came out of the penalty box to take the puck from Art Hurst at centre and go right in on goalkeeper Bill Harrington. On a power play with a man advantage, Ted Fauteux made it 3-0 with a 20-foot sizzler.

The Cataracts were playing four men to six when Kitchener put the first goal past goalie Don Lockhart. Ken Laufman made it 3-2 at the 15-minute mark.

ROUGHEST HOCKEY BRAWL—Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leaf players square off in what is described as the roughest game in National Hockey League history. A record 41 penalties were handed out as Leafs beat Canadiens 3-0 at Toronto. At centre Leafs' Bobby Solinger (white sweater) wrestles Canadiens' Ken Mosdell. Other players identifiable: Dick Gamble (8); Harry Watson (4); Maurice Richard (9) and Danny Lewicki (18). Referee Udvari cleared both benches in the third-period fracas.

Unsuitable Runners Barred B.C. Racing

VANCOUVER (CP) — Non-winning horses and fillies judged unsuitable for breeding are to be barred from British Columbia racing.

Members of the B.C. Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association have approved a plan to buy up registration papers of barred horses in co-operation with track operators. Under the plan a portion of every purse will be deducted, then matched by track operators. Owners of barred horses will get $200 for the registration papers, eliminating the animal from racing.

Barred fillies or mares will also be eliminated for breeding purposes.

FOOTBALL CROWDS STEADY

NEW YORK (AP)—The appeal of such teams as Notre Dame, Southern California, Maryland and Minnesota offset smaller fan turnouts for other teams and kept major college football attendance unchanged during the 1953 season in the United States.

Figures compiled today by The Associated Press, covering the home games of all major conference teams and comparable "independents," show that over-all attendance in 1953 was "up," but the change was so small as to be insignificant.

The success of a few teams hoisted the national total to the right side of the ledger.

Southern California, for instance, drew 412,772 spectators at six home games, as compared to 242,466 in 1952.

Maryland and Notre Dame, staging a tight race for No. 1 ranking, also pulled in the fans in large numbers. Notre Dame's attendance at five home games this year was 286,406, as compared to 215,681 at four games last year. Minnesota's revival as a Big Ten contender brought an average home attendance of 59,540 a game.

JAIL FOR FIXER

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—A Court of Appeals ruled Thursday that former University of Maryland student must go to jail for trying to bribe one of the college's football players.

The court upheld the conviction of Louis Glickfield, 22, of Washington for offering a roll of $100 bills to hold down Maryland's score in a game last year with Louisiana State.

Centre Tom Cosgrove said Glickfield held out the money as a reward if Maryland won by less than 21 points. Maryland, with Cosgrove playing a key role, defeated Louisiana state 34-6.

The court upheld Glickfield's $1,000 fine and reformatory sentence of a maximum of 18 months.

LONDON (AP)—Randy Turpin, Britain's middleweight champion left Thursday for an exhibition bout in Brussels—against doctor's orders.

"We have to keep faith with the Brussels promoter," said manager George Middleton. The bout is set for Saturday.

Trafton Fired As Coach Of Blue Bombers

WINNIPEG (CP)—Fiery George Trafton said today he has been fired as coach of the Winnipeg Blue Bombers, 1953 Grey Cup finalists.

Karl Slocomb, Bomber president, said he had no comment to make, but a meeting of the Winnipeg Rugby Football Club would be held tonight.

Trafton made no secret of his dismissal. He said he was called into Slocomb's office Thursday and informed of the club's decision.

Bomber Player Tries Workout With Leafs

Said assistant general manager Hap Day:

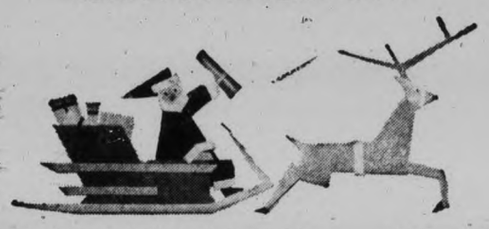
"I have heard he might not be the outstanding type of hockey player he is as a football player, but the way he hit out there today, he could be."

New Stadium For Dodgers

BROOKLYN (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers president Walter F. O'Malley disclosed Thursday that the Dodgers are negotiating for the erection of a new stadium and said there was a strong possibility it will be ready within five years.

"We hope to make enough progress within the next six months to know one way or another whether the Dodgers will have a new park" O'Malley said. "We will have to have a certain amount of governmental support."

O'Malley said three sites have been picked but declined to name them. He specified, however, that the present site that contains Ebbets Field is not one of these.



O'Malley said the proposed new stadium would cost approximately $7,200,000 and would seat 52,000 persons. He estimated it would take three years to build.

Giorgio Ferrente Evangelia Loulaki

Kiddies Adopted By Kiwanis Show Progress

Latest reports on the progress of the Kiwanis Club's two adopted children in Crete and Italy indicated both are coming along well with the aid of the Kiwanians' contributions.

The children are Giorgio Ferrente and Evangelia Loulaki. Giorgio is a resident of northern Italy and has finished the elementary school grades. At present she is an apprentice in a mechanical repair shop. In February he will be 14 years old.

Evangelia is in the sixth grade at school and according to the executive assistant of the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children is a good student and always neat and tidy.

THANKS CLUB

In recent communications to the club Katherine Slevin gave progress reports of the two children thanking members of the Kiwanis for their "interest and kindness". She said "your financial and moral support have been of inestimable value . . ."

On the other hand, W. M. Gemmell, president of the Peterborough organization, feels that "by actual support and kindly interest we may be influencing someone to stand for 'The Four Freedoms' who would otherwise be lost to Communism."

Members contribute $15 a month to each of the children by taking collections at each weekly luncheon. None of the funds raised through any of the money-making ventures of the clubs are used in this regard.

Actress Rescues Boy

URUAPAN, Mexico (AP)—Hollywood film star Susan Hayward risked possible serious injury Thursday to save a young Indian boy from sliding over a 20-foot ledge during a heavy rain. Miss Hayward sprained an ankle during the rescue but director Henry Hathaway said he expected her to be on the set today. The film company is shooting scenes of the edge of Mexico's extinct volcano, Paracutin.

Sales Of Farm Livestock Scarce Throughout District

"Thre are very few sales of farm livestock and implements this fall" not only in Lambton county as mentioned in the weekly crop report of the Ontario, but also in Peterborough according to J. H. Miles, auctioneer.

We've had few country sales this year," he said. "I don't think farmers are disposed to sell and retire to the city as they used to be. Maybe that is a fact. The second last sale I had was in the country, up in Smith, but the man was selling his cattle to go into sheep. That seemed to be a good move.

"Although it is 20 years since the depression, farmers are still wary about financial difficulties. They don't want to be caught with their credits down, if they can help it. In my experience, farmers generally, who weren't firmly rooted, didn't think of selling until they couldn't hold the farm any longer. We all know that a farm income is less this year, but the situation is not to serious that you'd expect a rash of sales."

Mr. Miles said he wouldn't want to go through trials like the nearly ten years of the depression.

CAVAN EVASION

"There was an incident in Cavan that I rather like to recall. A bailiff had me go out there to sell enough chattels to satisfy a debt. If I didn't go someone else would have. Making out the list, I told the woman of the place to move a cow several pigs and about 60 hens, away from the barn by the time the sale started. So, I could tell the creditor that we sold all the moveable chattels we could see. That was a fact, literally true, call a little evasion of the truth. I couldn't strip that place of the little handful of livestock I left them. And were they grateful!

"I wouldn't want to go through scenes like that again in the country. I really don't think we'll see them either.

"I have actually sold in town enough furniture to pay the rent. At one place where I was called in, they had sold the bed, bedsprings, dresser. All that was left was a mattress on the floor. The head of the house had been laid off. He had to get another $15, when they spoke to me about selling something else.

That was the way they were struggling along,—sell enough furniture to get $15 to pay the rent, month by month."

TOTALLY WRECKED after sliding and rolling along River Road near Nassau early today. At a glance the car appears only slightly bent, but the frame was moved two feet during the rolling. Two men, Patrick Spencer, 25, and William Spencer, 69, slightly hurt, were rushed to the Civic Hospital by Nisbett's ambulance. Police said the car hit some loose gravel, started to slide, then rolled.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

The funeral service will be held on Saturday, at 2.30 p.m. at the Wellington funeral home with interment in Wellington cemetery.

New Slogan Given Atoms-Peace Move

LONDON (AP) — Britain's minister of works has given the atoms-for-peace movement a new slogan — "Plutonium into plowshares."

David Eccles told the House of Commons Thursday night that the vital cores could be pulled out of Britain's atom bomb and used to produce power for peaceful industrial purposes if peace were assured.

"We could beat our plutonium into plowshares," he declared.

Eccles described the British A-bomb as a "core of fissile material wrapped in a case with a lot of gadgets, fuses and so on." The score would last for "thousands of years" if not used for bombing.

Father, Son Injured As Car Rolls

A father and son, William Spencer, 69, and Patrick Spencer, 25, both of Lakefield, received minor injuries early today when their car slid and rolled for 300 feet. The accident happened on the River road about one mile south of Nassau.

Nisbett's ambulance took both men to the hospital where the son was given out-patient treatment for a lacerated and broken nose. The father was admitted and treated for a fractured arm. His condition today is satisfactory.

The men's wives, except for a severe shaking about were unhurt.

The families were returning to Lakefield about 1 a.m. when their car suddenly hit some loose gravel on a sharp turn, just north of the CNR crossing on the River road. Police said it slid, then rolled, coming to rest upright.

OPP Constable Bruce Tillson investigated.

Nephton WI Take First Aid Course

The regular meeting of the Nephton WI, held at the home of Mrs. Archie Cameron, took the form of a Christmas party when 22 members and three visitors were present.

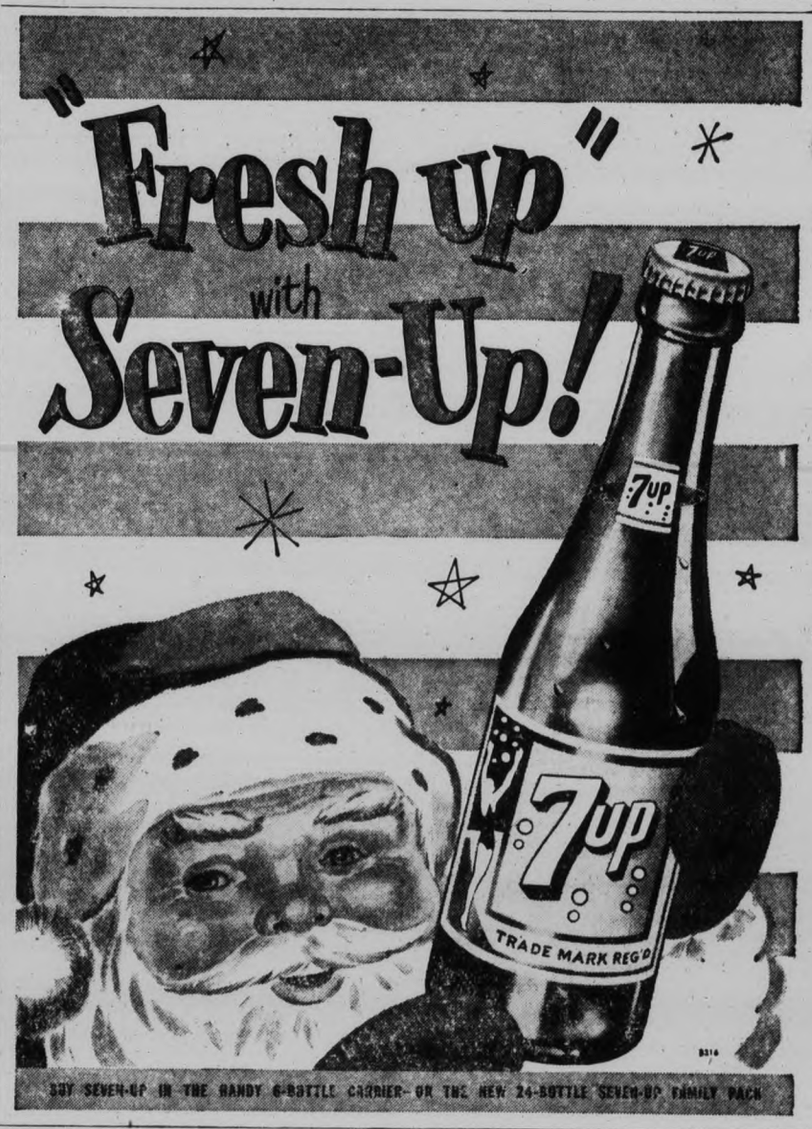
Mrs. E. Craig, president, presided at the business session.

It was decided starting in January the women would take a St. John Ambulance course.

A donation was sent to the Christmas Seal fund. Penny round-up bags for the Mental Health Association were accepted. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $178.

Mrs. A. Cameron and Mrs. G. Wilson, conveners for the evening, then took over the meeting. A reading, "Christmas Customs in Many Lands" was given by Mrs. G. Wilson. This was followed by a Christmas and winter song contest, won by Mrs. E. Davis and a relay race won by Mrs. E. Craig's team.

Then members put on a short minstrel show accompanied by Archie Cameron.



The gifts were drawn in on a sleigh by Rudolph The Red-Nosed Reindeer (Mrs. E. B. Wright) followed by Mickey Mouse (Mrs. P. Duggan), both ladies in suitable costumes.

A vote of thanks was given by Mrs. Craig to Mrs. A. Cameron and her assistants for the very enjoyable evening.

The meeting closed with the serving of a delicious lunch. The lunch conveners for the evening were Mrs. Stabler, Mrs. Leidhold, Mrs. Murphy, Mrs. Hull.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

Forums To Discuss Rural Public Relations Monday Night . . . Peterborough Crop Improvement Association Meeting Thursday, Dec. 17 . . . Plowmen's Annual Meeting Next Thursday Night . . . .

"The Farmer's Relations With Public Vital" is the Forum subject for Monday, Dec. 14.

Public relations is a comparatively new concern of the average farmer. That statement of fact should be somewhat restricted to the "average progressive farmer," for the simple reason that many of the other branch of the rural family are indifferent, although public relations is "vitally" related to their business and their income.

Lloyd Jasper, himself a farmer near Mildmay in Bruce county, touched on this subject at the annual meeting of Peterborough Federation at Norwood Wednesday night.

Second vice-president of Ontario Federation, Mr. Jasper said: "If there is one thing we farmers are lacking more than another it is in our public relations."

V. S. Milburn made the same self-criticism at the meeting of the Peterborough Milk Producers here last week. Both these provincial federation executives mentioned that "we are contemplating the engaging of a public relations man to act for the federation, our co-operatives and also the commodity groups."

Mr. Jasper remarked that "it is hard to know what is best to do."

ADVICE OF LEADERS

This public relations proposal has been reaching and devolving down from leadership to membership. It is an outgrowth of organization.

The paid secretary of a farm group gradually makes contacts with industrial and other business representatives, and it doesn't take him long to discover that public relations men are prominent in staff ratings. These promoters of goodwill (for one business or another) are not hampered with secretarial or other odd jobs. Public relations is their sphere, and an expense account goes with their salaries.

Eventually farm group executives report their experiences to their membership, and as their own movement expands it becomes apparent that to do the broader job "we are contemplating hiring a public relations man" as Mr. Jasper told the hundred farm men and women at Norwood.

The scope of public relations may be mentioned in the Monday night broadcast. On the other hand the opportunities of building goodwill with the public are almost infinite.

Norwood Agricultural Society is doing a good job of public relations in their fall fair. Evidence of friendly response was the crowd of 25,000 as estimated by G. A. Brethen and his associates this year.

Central Ontario Holstein Breeders are not trying to exploit their annual championships show in Peterborough as they might do with a little more effort and imagination.

To what extent do they invite the public to their big show of several hundred of the finest dairy cattle in twelve counties of Central Ontario? A few of these cattle go on to All-Canadian honors, and even All-American.

Every cheese made at Pine Grove factory this season was No. 1 grade—and government grading. Howard Andrews won the J. L. Irwin Memorial Trophy on its first offer to cheesemakers of Central Ontario. The story was told in the Examiner, but, and this is not a personal criticism. Mr. Andrews shied away from a photograph of himself and his trophy, significant of his fine quality performance up north of Lakefield, with the co-operation of his patrons. (Fine quality foods.)

Farmers are not space-grabbers in the daily newspapers, and what their leaders are urging them is that it is about time they began to think constructively and steadily of publicity.

Not so long ago, on the old market, a government fruit and vegetable grader ordered off the counters scrub apples that were hardly worth carrying home. Strange to say, the loudest protests that morning were uttered even menacingly by consumers.

Apples are not a common product of Peterborough farms, but if any objection should have been raised against the show of fourth or fifth grade fruit it should have been from the farmers themselves. It was their market, selling their products—food products, and they should at least have established sale by grade.

Public relations is not designed to persuade other people that farmers are friendly, hospitalable people and fine citizens. That has been their reputation down the years, but they are in the producing and the selling business. they have a high place in the economy of their country. Their goods and their position are being challenged, and have been now for years, and their leaders are exhorting them to face the changes that are arising around them, and to tell their story as it can be told.

Sentiment is stirring in that direction. Evidence is seen in the June set-aside fund for publicity in advertising. The other night Henry Sharp, president of the federation, proposed at the Milk Producers meeting that this small levy should be extended through the entire twelve months, instead of being confined to one.

Farmers and the farm implement people have a great deal jointly at stake.

Farmers have to buy machinery that saves labor, but it requires considerable outlay of capital. However, implements are made and used in the production of the public's food. Why shouldn't these two groups try to get together in some demonstration aimed at the informing of the public of machines and their operation and their essential place in the whole business of supplying food to the nation.

Norman McConkey came home several years ago from some big dairy day or week in a New York state town. He saw much the same kind of "publicity" in Wisconsin. He was bubbling over with the achievement in arousing public interest in farm affairs in those two communities.

To the Examiner, Mr. McConkey said: "I don't think it would go over here."

Neither it will, until opinion, sentiment and enterprise decide that it can be done and that a great deal of support can be enlisted from urban sources.

These are a few facets of "public relations." A book could be written about that prospect.

Here's another. The city offered a group of farmers George St. property for market purpose. Resentment boiled up.

Eventually comes Simpsons-Sears buying a property in what was recently township land, and four businesses are planning to convert that field into a retail centre.

The market farmers were offered accommodation at Morrow Park, cover, parking space, means of heating, ample room, two bus lines passing the area.

And, they couldn't see it. The Exhibition Board couldn't have refused them, and the city would properly have had an interest in that move. All it required was a little job in publicity, based on the vision of people like the heads of Toronto Simpsons and Chicago Sears-Roebuck.

Fieldman Coming

E. H. (Ab) Stoltz, of Aurora, fieldman for the Ontario Scotch Shorthorn Breeders, will be here for the annual meeting of the Peterborough breeders Wednesday, January 16, at 2 p.m., in the office of the Department of Agriculture.

✦ ✦ ✦

Milk Value - 42c A Quart

According to a recent economic breakdown of the current retail costs of the various nutrients contained in it, milk is the best food bargain on the market. If you were to purchase all the nutrients in one quart of milk separately, they would cost .42 cents, says C-I-L Agricultural News.

Broken down, it reads: one quart of milk contains one cent's worth of sugar, a half-cents worth of vitamins and minerals, two and one-half cents worth of fat and 38 cents worth of protein (at present beef and pork roast prices). Total—42 cents.

✦ ✦ ✦

Pay Short Course Cost

With a bank credit of around $100, which they earned this year as a group, Norwood Juniors decided Wednesday night to pay half the expense of any of the boys who wished to attend the short course at Guelph between Christmas and New Years. Entries must be in by Tuesday.

✦ ✦ ✦

Preside At Napanee

James T. Brown of Newcastle, recently elected president of the Central Ontario Spring Show, will be chairman for the first time at a meeting of executive and seed show committee at Napanee, Friday, December 18. The morning session at 10:30 will be followed by lunch. The afternoon meeting will be concluded in good time to let the members start for home early.

✦ ✦ ✦

Crop Improvement Annual

Annual meeting of Peterborough Crop Improvement Association will be Thursday, December 17 at 2 p.m. in the office of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Bruce Graham is president.

Program suggests a roundtable discussion of the Spring Show, proposed bus tour and projects for 1954. There will be a review of the 1953 crops, committee reports and election of officers. The prize money for the 50 bushel winter wheat club will be distributed. Farmers generally are invited.

✦ ✦ ✦

Praises W. Sutton

Chairman of the Ontario Farm Forums Association these last two years, Wellington Sutton, of Otonabee, was complimented before his home crowd by Lloyd Jasper at the Federation meeting at Norwood Wednesday.

Mr. Jasper said Peterborough had given V. S. Milburn to the Ontario Federation, and more recently Mr. Sutton who had been devoting much of his time to promoting the Farm Forums of the province.

✦ ✦ ✦

Plowmen Meet Dec. 17

Peterborough Plowmen are holding their annual meeting Thursday, December 17 at 8 p.m. in the Department of Agriculture office. Crop Improvement Association is meeting in the afternoon.

The county match was suspended this year, and the association's interest was switched to the International Match at Cobourg. The big match demonstrated that plowing is still a lively interest and particularly for the younger tractor operators.

✦ ✦ ✦

Sells Four Herefords

Interest in purebred Herefords appears to be encouraging at the holiday end of the year. Charles Fisher, of Bailieboro, sold four bulls from his herd within the last ten days.

"No special effort," he remarked to the Examiner. "Farmers came along enquiring about good male stock, and they took four from me." Mr. Fisher is president of the Eastern Ontario Hereford Breeders' Association.

✦ ✦ ✦

$247 Shorthorn Average

The trend of beef cattle prices during the last three years was sharply pointed at the sale of thirty-one lots of Scottish Shorthorns at Clinton in Huron county Dec. 1.

Receipts amounted to $8,400 for an average of $247, as compared with $335 a year ago, and $439 at the auction in 1951. The drop in price between the two levels was $192 a head. Top this week was $395 for a cow and next high was $320 for a bull.

✦ ✦ ✦

The Dew's Moisture

Plain ordinary dew sometimes outranks rainfall in providing moisture for crops. Tests by the soil conservation service and the Ohio experiment station show that dew at Coshocton, Ohio, totals from 6 to 10 inches of moisture a year. In a dry August, rainfall totalled .5 inch and dew 1.4 inches.

✦ ✦ ✦

Cheese Producers Dec. 19

Patrons of Pine Grove and Trent River factories are especially invited to the annual meeting of Peterborough County Cheese Producers' Association Saturday, December 19 at 1:30 p.m. in the office of Frank C. Paterson.

Only two factories are left in this county, and they both have good production records. Fred Crowe is president.

Ontario Cheese Producers Association are being requested to send a representative to report on the cheese marketing progress and outlook. Door prizes are being offered.

✦ ✦ ✦

Alfalfa For Hogs

Alfalfa — both fresh and dry—keeps hogs in good shape for Earl France and Sons, Gooding county, Idaho.

In spring, summer and fall, France keeps his herd of registered Poland Chinas on straight alfalfa pasture, six or eight sows per acre, rotating the used lots every two or three weeks to give the plants a chance for comeback. The pastures lie along the river which borders his place, furnish shade for hot summer days as well as feed.

For winter feeding, France also grinds up alfalfa hay with a hammer mill and feeds large quantities.

As high as 75 per cent of the total ration of old sows is alfalfa meal, he estimates, and up to 50 per cent of the ration of breeding gilts.

Wade Wells, University of Idaho extension swine specialist, recommends that the usual quantity of alfalfa in any form to feed breeding swine is not more than 20 to 25 per cent of the total ration. Below or above that, he says, you ordinarily may sacrifice some rate of grain.

The Frances agree that if you are trying to put weight on hogs its best to full-feed them on grain—they feed a mixture of wheat, oats and barley. But, for simply maintaining breeders and keeping them in good shape, heavy hay feeding is ideal. On their good lush pastures, they say, sows stay in good condition on as little as a pound of grain a day.

Wells encourages growers to finish hogs on a ration including at least 15 to 20 per cent alfalfa (in comparison with the old system of feeding only 5 per cent to avoid excess lard at selling time. For little pigs he recommends a maximum of 5 per cent alfalfa; for growing pigs 15 to 20 per cent.

With breeder hogs, more alfalfa in the ration seems to insure less breeding trouble traceable to faulty nutrition, Wells says. Good alfalfa contains a lot of vitamin A and calcium—both needed for effective reproduction. (The Windrow.)

Chemong Forum Formed

The new Chemong Farm Forum met this week at the home of Braden Mann, as reported by Fieldman Harold Lewis. The secretary is Burritt Mann and representative to the Federation of Agriculture is Newton I. Brown.

In their first meeting they agreed, on the subject of the Citizens of Tomorrow, that the Junior Farmers are taking their place in local leadership, "but feel that they cannot afford to take time off to attend meetings at the provincial level."

"We feel that a farmer should strike a happy medium. A person learns much by getting away from his work and talking things over with his neighbors and farmers in other counties. A farmer should try his best to attend meetings of his county federation and take his place in local activities. We must keep ourselves informed and must always be ready to use our influence that our democracy may be strong."

Youth Program Makes Leaders

The farm youth program, sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture, is proving its value in the rural community.

That was the consensus of Peterborough Forums this week. Lily Lake commented that young people "are not utilizing their knowledge to the best advantage." Thirteen members attended this Forum in the School House.

It was also agreed that it is not sufficient for a farm youth to stay home and concentrate on farm work and efficiency. "He doesn't make a sufficient contribution to his community," Maple Row Forum concluded. "He would be of more benefit if he shared his views and ideas with others, as well as improving his own perspective."

Maple Row met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard MacDonald, Stewart Hall. Twenty-one at Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hindred's home. Attendance was generally good.

Daisy D. Forum reported 25 guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Elliott for the discussion, "The Struggle for Men's Minds."

Durham Holstein Breeders Honor J. H. Jose At Orono

J. Harry Jose and Sons of Newcastle, a family that has been long active in the breeding of Holstein cattle, were honored at the Durham County Holstein Breeders Club dinner at Orono Sat. Dec. 5.

They were presented with a congratulatory address recognizing their breeding accomplishment in the success of their Canadian champion living lifetime milk producer on twice-a-day milking, Mina Fayne Korndyke. Her record has since been surpassed.

"The Man Behind the Cow" was the subject of the Club's tribute. The address accompanied presentation of a picture of "Mina".

It recalled "the keen interest in good Holsteins which has been a Jose tradition, as your father, Stephen Jose, was the first president of the Durham County Holstein Club when it was organized in 1917. How proud you must be to have your sons holding high the torch."

The main part of the address to Harry Jose was as follows: "We wish to express our pride in the recent remarkable accomplishment of your grand old cow 'Mina Fayne Korndyke'. She has brought distinction to the Jose family, to Durham county, and to the Holstein breed of Canada, by producing in 14 lactations on twice-a-day milking 201,563 pounds of milk containing 7,591 lbs. fat.

"In winning the Gold Ribbon certificate, by reaching the 200.00 lb. mark (with the very creditable average of 3.76 per cent), 'Mina' is the seventh cow in Canada ever to achieve this outstanding triumph in production, and what is even more remarkable, the second to do so on twice-a-day milking. Also, only one other cow has completed 14 lactations. This amazing veteran, now over 20 years of age, is well on in her 15th lactation, still going strong.

"We realize that every great production record has behind it a story of unceasing care and attention by the owner and his helpers. Such a record requires a great cow, but it also requires the practice of great skill in feeding and husbandry on the part of the owner, plus a genuine interest in the outcome of the record.

BIG MILK RECORDS

"Longevity and steady production is a family characteristic of the progeny of her sire, 'Fayne Toitilla Korndyke', as proven by the lifetime records of Mina and her four sisters, who averaged over 143,000 lbs. Their creditable classification is also noteworthy: Mina grading Very Good, Olive Excellent, Alice and Belle each Good Plus.

"Olive Burke Fayne, who distinguished herself as Canadian champion for fat in her first four lactations, was previously recognized by Durham County Holstein Breeders. She achieved prominence in the Browview herd of James T. Brown and Son, Newcastle, where after producing 161,004 pounds of milk, she was unfortunately killed by lightning. Their sire was bred by the late L. C. Snowden, from a Gold Medal cow, and sired by a paternal bro. of Springbank Show Countess (to whom a monument has been erected at Woodstock, Ontario, in recognition of her World Record Lifetime fat production of 9062 lbs from 207,050 lbs. milk.

"Mina's ancestry also traces on both sides of her pedigree to Susie Korndyke Fayne Lass, (Canadian Champion Lifetime milk producer, bred in Durham County by Christopher Cox), so she can boast relationship to Canada's champion life-timers for both milk and fat."

It was mentioned that about half the present Jose herd are descendants of Mina and her paternal sisters.

Parting Gifts To Miss Noble

A Royal Doulton Figurine was a gift Thursday to Miss Jean Noble by her friends of the local office of the Department of Agriculture. It was presented by F. C. Paterson.

Miss Noble is retiring at the end of the year as district home economist of the department with office at Bowmanville. She will attend the College of Education for the half-year term beginning in January to qualify as a teacher of home economics in Collegiate Institutes.

At a farewell tea in the afternoon, the Homemaking Club leaders presented Miss Noble with a piece of luggage. The presentation was made by Mrs. Marjorie Payton, of Lakefield.

Appreciation of Miss Noble's sustained work with the leaders and their clubs wase expressed with best wishes for her future.

Two Steers Pay $22,400 To 4-H Club Pair

Two 4-H Club youngsters collected handsome dividends for their championship steers at International Livestock Exposition in Chicago and the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto. The total of their receipts was $22,400.

Sue White, 18, of Big Spring, Tex., bought a Hereford calf for $189 a year ago. Champion steer at Chicago, it sold after the show for $20 a pound. "Lone Star" put $20,100 in the bank account of the 4-H Club girl.

The calf weighed 140 pounds when she bought it in September, 1952, and the official weight at the Chicago Exposition was 1,005 pounds. Albert Pick, president of the American Hotel Association, paid the highest ever offered for a grand champion of the International.

He also bought the previous record high-priced steer for $12 a pound in 1950.

Coming to the Royal, Ross Graham, 17, of Palmerston district, near Guelph, won the Queen's Guineas amounting to $250 for his champion steer, and after it was auctioned he had a purse of more than $2,300 to take home. Ross won with an Aberdeen-Angus. His father said the two biggest events in his life were: "When I got married, and when I heard the news that Ross had won the Queen's Guineas."

I sincerely wish to thank those electors who supported me in my election to the township of Otonabee Council.

I also wish to remind those who were not able to support me at this time that their interests will be mine during 1954.

Sincerely,
DAVID H. KEMPT.

VISHINSKY REACTS TO EISENHOWER'S SPEECH — While President Eisenhower makes an appeal for international control of atomic weapons in the UN at New York City, Soviet representative Andrei Vishinsky reacts to the speech. At left Vishinsky follows the text. In the centre he weighs a point, and at right he breaks into applause. Vishinsky's only comment was: "A very important speech—a highly interesting one."

Greenlease Investigators Charged With Violations

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis police board plans to file formal charges accusing former Lieut. Louis Shoulders and patrolman Elmer Dolan of violating regulations in their handling of the arrest of Carl Austin Hall, kidnap-killer of Bobby Greenlease, awaiting execution.

I. A. Long, board president, said Thursday Dolan has been suspended pending hearings for him and Shoulders. Shoulders earlier resigned from the force but the board has not officially accepted the resignation.

The police board president said the charges will be filed under police regulations and that the hearings, which will be scheduled later, will not be criminal proceedings.

Long declined to reveal the nature of the charges except that they would deal with the officers' actions in handling the kidnap case here.

Shoulders, in commenting on the development, said that he had not been a policeman since Oct. 24. Reminded that his resignation had not been acted upon, he said: "They stopped my pay and that's enough for me."

Dolan's only comment was: "I don't know what it's all about."

The board's action came during a long inquiry into the missing $300,720, more than half the ransom paid to Hall and Mrs. Bonnie Brown Heady by Robert C. Greenlease Sr., of Kansas City, father of the six-year-old victim. Mrs. Heady, Hall's partner in the kidnap-killing, also is awaiting execution Dec. 18.

LONDON (CP)—Police swooped down on a coverted truck and made seven arrests. They claimed the truck was being used as a "moving gaming house."

Chart Earth's Shifting Latitudes

WASHINGTON—In five small observatories spaced around the world, astronomers of four nations tightly plot the stars in a program which keeps track of the earth's very-changing latitudes.

Two of these unique stations are in the United States, the National Geographic Society points out. Gaithersburg, Maryland, is the site of an eastern observatory; a western one is at Ukiah, on the Russian river in northern California.

Across the Pacific, a third station is at Mizusawa, on Honshu, Japan's largest island. Russian astronomers operate a fourth observatory at Kitab in Soviet Turkistan, some 100 miles north of Afghanistan. Carloforte, on San Pietro Island off the southwestern coast of Sardinia, is the other station.

COMMON LATITUDE

All five observatories are on the same parallel of latitude—39 degrees, eight minutes. Identical study conditions for identical stars are thus assured at all stations.

Because the earth constantly wobbles on its axis as it rotates, latitudes shift slightly. By plotting the stars, the observatories maintain a continuing record of the earth's varying tilt.

In a 14-month cycle, known as the Chandlerian period, the axis at the North Pole may shift as much as 60 feet. Seth Chandler, outstanding American astronomer of the 19th century for whom the cycle was named, was an early expert on variable stars.

Each night, sky conditions permitting, latitude astronomers scan the heavens to chart the positions of 12 pairs of stars. Each pair consist of stars equidistant north and south from the zenith—the point directly overhead. In a year's course, 144 stars are charted in this manner.

CARTOGRAPHIC GUIDE

Detailed notes on the nightly observations flow into the International Latitude Service's central office near Turin, Italy. There, research studies based on the observations are published periodically. Results serve as a valuable guide to map makers the world over.

The service is operated jointly by the International Astronomical Union and the International Association of Geodesy. The five latitude observatories were established beginning in 1899, shortly after the variability of latitudes was discovered.

The two United States observatories are maintained by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. Both are one-man operations. Astronomer Earl L. Williams keeps the nightly vigil at Gaithersburg; and his colleague, Leonard Caoutte, is the astronomer at Ukiah.

Television Comes To Italy

By JOHN CAIRNCROSS

ROME —(OFNS) — Television, hitherto an exotic rarity in Italy, is about to make its debut as a popular service. The first experimental station was set up at Turin in December, 1951, and was followed by one at Milan in April, 1952. Three weeks ago a station was opened at Rome, and crowds of viewers are frequently seen in front of or inside Roman cafes. Even in the Italian Parliament reading room there is always an enthusiastic group of viewers. And the President of the Republic, Signor Luigi Einaudi, has his own set in the State Palace of the Quirinal. Indeed, if Italian television is shortly to make giant strides, it is because the Government has taken it firmly under its wing.

30 HOURS A WEEK

At first there will be thirty hours of telecasting a week. Three and a half hours will be devoted to news bulletins, five to films, five and a half to foreign relays, three to plays, three to programs for women and children, five hours to "culture" and discussion of current topics. The rest of the time will be distributed between variety, music and so on.

The network begins to operate full on January 1, 1954, and will be one of the largest in Europe; with nine transmitters serving an area of more than eighty thousand square kilometres, and having a population of more than twenty million, or forty-three per cent. of Italy's population. The six studios —four at Milan, one at Turin and one at Rome—will not provide separate programmes but will alternate, Milan concentrating on drama, sport, culture and topical questions, Turin on children's programmes and variety and Rome on films and politics. With its more extensive equipment, Milan will clearly dominate television in Italy. This is not unfair since Milan is not only the industrial capital of the country and the centre of the most densely populated district, but also the gateway to Europe. The Swiss are constructing a station on Monte Generoso which will link the Italian service with the rest of Europe, and thus make possible a rich flow of exchange programmes.

For the time being thhe southern part of Italy will not be covered; but plans are ready for the construction of a network to cover that area in two or three years.

The cost of television sets will be high. A utility model with a seventeen-inch screen will cost £120, while a sixteen-inch screen model will cost £95. At this rate the authorities do not expect great demand for sets. On October 1 there were thirteen thousand viewers. Next year it is thought the number will rise to thirty-seven thousand, in 1955 to eighty-seven thousand, in 1956 to 186,000 and in the following year to 333,000. The calculation is based on experience in Britain, the only European country with wide experience of television.

In addition to the cost of the set, the viewer will—or should—buy the annual licence. This, like the network, is the most expensive of its kind in Europe, and costs almost £10. There has been some criticism of such a high rate. But the Government has pointed out that the network costs £3,500,000; that—unlike radio—there will be no advertising on television for the first two years, or until the number of licence holders has exceeded a hundred thousand; and that the cost of running even a short programme is heavy. The Government, in fact, has chosen the hard but prudent course of trying to recoup its expenditure over a fairly short period. There is no doubt that television has been given a very fair start by the authorities—even, it is whispered, at the expense of sound radio. So it is just as well that the Italian viewer should be made to pay for these special facilities.

Television is hardly likely to play the part in national life that it plays in the United States, or is beginning to play in Britain. But Italians adore "a spectacle", and they are likely to linger more and more in front of the TV secreen. Viewing, like the Vespa motor-scooter, is sure to become part of Italy's post-war way of life.

Sold Poison In Mistake Stomach Powder

HAMILTON (CP)—A drugstore clerk in nearby Burlington told police Thursday he had just given a man a bottle of poison in mistake for stomach powder.

Radio stations broadcast a description of the customer and appealed to listeners to call the police if they saw or knew him.

Mrs. John Kapusty of Hamilton was one of those who heard the broadcast.

"It sounded like my uncle," she said. "I listened more closely when the description was repeated. After that, I phoned my aunt in Burlington. They had been out shopping and he had gone into a drug store to buy something."

The uncle, William Aitchinson, 73, of Winnipeg, visiting in Burlington was the customer.

By the time the warning reached him, he had already taken some of the powder. He was taken to hospital, where officials said he was recovering.

LOWER SCHOOL'S BEST — PCVS' second annual commencement for the lower school, Grades 9 and 10, was held Thursday at the junior school assembly. There students who graduated from Grade 10 to Grade 11 were presented with their intermediate certificates. The three top students, Carol Brewer from commercial, Paul McNeely from industrial, and Lorene Batley from academic (above) read the certificate. Miss Verna Burgess, a PCVS history teacher, spoke briefly to the graduating class.

Junior Diploma Winners Urged To Continue Learning At PCVS Commencement

Commencement exercises for the junior grades were held at PCVS Thursday. More than 150 students received intermediate school certificates, although some were not in attendance to receive the diplomas personally. Stanley Adamson, chairman of the Board of Education, and Jack Rutherford, manual training teacher, presented the diplomas.

Miss V. Burgess, MA, addressed the graduating class. She pointed out that although the graduates had achieved something of which they should be proud, they should never slacken in their quest for knowledge.

"The higher you climb, the more rewarding will be the view from the top. There are many peaks yet to be climbed."

FORTUNATE HALF

These young students, she said, are very fortunate, especially when one considers that about 50 per cent of Canadians receive less than eight years formal education.

The three basic aims of all education are (1) to teach youth to earn a living; (2) to encourage youth to think for itself; (3) to outfit youth for the position of a citizen in a democracy.

"If we added these three aims together we would have the basic purpose of all education. That is the training of character or the development of such qualities as truthfulness, courage, loyalty, leadership, a sense of honor, patience and persistence.

"The essential things that you should develop here are good work habits—for they are the basis of economic success. Once you have chosen your profession, you must not stop half way.

"However, success does not just mean graduating and getting a job. Making a living is just doing, but living is being, and being comes through the development of one's mind. We must think like a man of action and act like a man of thought."

Knowledge, Miss Burgess pointed out, is necessary to correct thinking. Honest thinking must be based on full knowledge, and knowledge is acquired slowly and with effort.

"The high school cannot fill your mind, of course, but if it sends you out into the world with a desire for knowledge and some idea how to acquire and use knowledge, it will have done its work well.

"We want you to be capable of original and independent thinking and not form your opinions from hearsay."

BECOMING CITIZEN

School training should fit a person for a responsible position in a democratic society. "If you are bearing your share in this school community, if you are co-operating fully with teachers and students alike, you are potentially a good citizen."

C. S. Browne, principal, thanked Miss Burgess and Miss M. Bailey, BA, introduced the prize and scholarship winners.

Commencement chairman was Al. MacQuarrie, BA.

List of diploma, prize and scholarship winners follows:

PCVS Office Staff Given 5-Day Week

The five-day work week is now all but the accepted thing.

On Thursday night the board of education gave it a boost by ruling that the three girls on the clerical staff at PCVS no longer have to work Saturday mornings. This will be given a try for three months.

At present each girl works one Saturday morning every three weeks. They felt they could do their work in the regular five-day schedule; so they asked Principal C. S. Browne for permission to have Saturday off. Mr. Browne passed the request along to the board.

"I think Mr. Wightman's suggestion (i.e. that it be on a trial basis) is a good one," said Mrs. Anne Rowell. "We can try it for three months."

Red Tactics Slow UN Efforts Win Back PoWs

By MILO FARNETI

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied efforts to woo home war prisoners who stayed with the Communists were threatened today by Red slowdown tactics which forced suspension of interviews with South Korean PoWs.

Lt.-Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the neutral nations repatriation commission, said 30 South Koreans will be called up for interviews Saturday. But there was no indication whether the sessions would be held.

Thimayya suspended the Allied explanation program today after 25 of 30 prisoners insisted on making their own explanations to Allied interviewing officers.

He said that if the PoWs refuse to accept NNRC conditions for the interviews "I'm afraid the explanations will come to an end."

RED REQUEST REFUSED

The Indian general also announced that a Red request to interview 250 anti-Red Koreans Saturday was turned down because the prisoners refused to leave their compound. Some of these prisoners were interviewed earlier and the rest have refused to budge.

Arthur H. Dean, special United States envoy, said meanwhile that he may fly to Washington before Christmas and leave the stalled talks on arrangements for a Korean peace conference in the hands of his chief aide.

If Dean leaves, Allied negotiations probably will be taken over by Kenneth T. Young, the state department's director of northeast Asian affairs and Dean's No. 1 adviser.

NO PROGRESS

The diplomats made no progress today toward removing the big road block to a peace conference—Communist insistence that Russia attend as a non-voting neutral rather than as a full participant.

The snarl in the PoW explanation program has delayed the start of interviews with the 22 Americans and one British prisoner.

Allied officials said the Red slowdown appears to be aimed at tying up the explanation program before the non-Koreans are called.

Extra Benefits For Children Dead Veterans

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons Thursday approved a government bill to extend federal educational benefits to a group of 25 children of deceased war veterans.

The action was taken through an amendment to the Children of War Dead (Education Assistance) Act. Under the act children attending colleges or universities receive tuition plus $25 a month.

Up to now the act applied only to a child receiving pension under the pension act or to a child who received a pension until reaching 21. It did not cover boys of 16 and girls of 17 cut off from the pension, for various reasons, children ineligible for a pension because of the means test and children unable to remain at school because of illness and consequent discontinuance of pension.

The amendment makes these children eligible for the assistance, providing they are high school graduates and plan to study at a college or university.

Reform Course For Parents Of Delinquents

TORONTO (CP)—Establishment of a course to improve parents of delinquent children was suggested Thursday at a meeting of the Ontario legislature's reform institutions committee.

The suggestion came from the Penal Reform for Women Joint Committee, representing 11 Ontario organizations.

Mrs. R. B. Dale-Harris, co-chairman of the women's committee, said such a course now is conducted in the United States and parents take it if their child has two convictions.

The women's committee asked the reforms committee to consider appointment of women probation officers, construction of a reception wing at the Mercer reformatory for women here and that trained rehabilitation and parole officers be appointed to care for women discharged from Mercer.

LACK OF PEPPER

The reforms committee turned to discussion of papper.

Chairman W. J. Stewart said that when the committee visited county jails at Lindsay and Peterborough, prisoners complained about lack of pepper with their meals.

Col. Hedley Basher, deputy reforms minister, said prisoners in some jails have thrown pepper in the eyes of the guards.

"We have to be cautious about handling pepper in the jails," he said.

Mystery Face On TV Screen Terrifies Mother, Children

BLUE POINT, N. Y. (CP)—A television set that has terrorized children because of a ghostly woman's face on the screen—even when the set is turned off—was turned to the wall today in a home in this Long island community.

Thursday the new set occupied a place of honor in the living room of Jerry Travers' home. But during a children's program six-year-old Caroline Travers ran crying to her mother saying: "We can't see it (the program). A face is in the way."

Mrs. Travers investigated. One look and she turned pale. There was the face, staring out of the screen as the program went on behind, or through, it.

The children whimpered. Mrs. Travers, a little nervous herself, turned off the set. The face remained. Then she turned the screen side of the set to the wall.

When her husband returned home from work, they swung the set around. The face was still there.

"CAN'T HAPPEN"

Radio and TV experts were consulted. One expert said "it can't happen."

Network officials, given a description of the face of the woman, could not identify her.

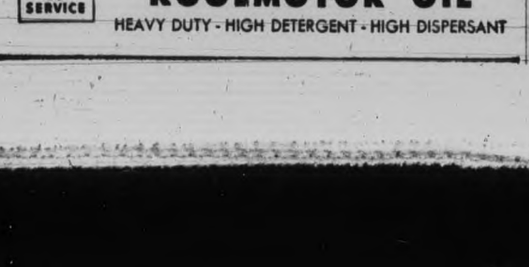
But Ray Clurman, chief engineer at the telechrone color television laboratory in nearby Amityville, had an explanation.

The face is probably an image from a previous program which became engraved on the picture tube as a result of faulty equipment, he said.

Meanwhile, for the sake of the children, the screen side is still turned to the wall.

N.Y. Delays Opening St. Lawrence Project

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP)—The chairman of the New York state power authority said Thursday night that opening of a Massena field office for the St. Lawrence power project may be delayed until spring.



Decision for the delay, he added, rests with the consulting engineers and is not the result of litigations pending on the power project, he added.

Previously John E. Burton, the chairman, had said that the authority planned to open a Massena office about Jan. 1.

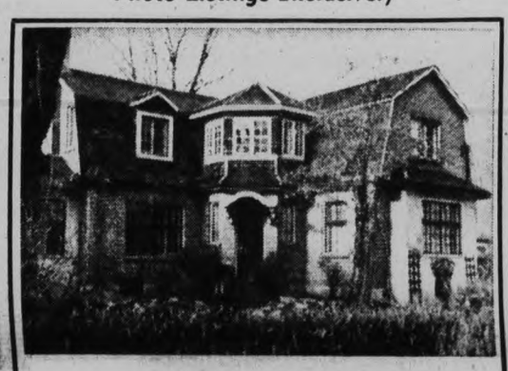
Former Iran Politician Defends In Mossadegh Trial

TEHRAN (Reuters)—A former deputy speaker of the Iranian Majlis (parliament), Ahmad Razavi, Thursday defended Mohammed Mossadegh, the deposed former premier, on the 28th day of his trial for treason.

Razavi maintained that Mossadegh's decision to call referendum on the question of the dissolution of the Majlis is legal. He said Mossadegh decided that "since the Majlis was elected by the people, the people have the right to decide on its fate."

He told the court that there had been no precedent in Iran for such action, but in many other countries, governments had often asked for referendums on subjects beyong the competence of their parliaments—often with the consent of the parliaments.

Razavi's defence came after a series of disavowals of responsibilities for some of Mossadegh's action by his former colleagues. Several, including former members of his cabinet, testified that he hid from them the Shah's decree ousting him from office as prime minister. He is charged with defying this decree.



Mossadegh's defence was halted after the court said he had attacked the late Reza Shah, father of the present Shah. It is expected to be resumed after the prosecution witnesses give their evidence.

APPROVES PRICE

A price of $5,000 for five acres of land, bought from the city in the Queen Elizabeth subdivision, was approved Thursday night by the board of education. The land —to be used for school purposes— was dickered over for a while; the board offered $4,000, and the city asked $6,000. A compromise figure of $5,000 was finally reached.

City Hall Costs $14,584 To Maintain

An analysis of maintenance costs at city hall, as estimated for 1953, has shown them to be $14,584.35 less than was predicted when the building was erected.

The architects originally estimated maintenance costs would be $2.50 a square foot, on the basis of their experience of similar buildings in other communities. This was considered an overestimate by local officials and the rental rate charged to various departments occupying space in the city building was set at $2.25 a square foot.

An analysis of actual costs during 1953, however, has shown the figure to be considerably lower. For 26,517 square feet of floor space, it works out to $1.70 a square foot. Only half the 1,440 square feet of the garage is chargeable, thus reducing the area chargeable to the police department from 5,500 to 4,830 square feet.

COSTS BROKEN DOWN

Here is a breakdown of estimated operating costs during 1953: salaries — $13,681.16; care of lawns and flower beds by parks department, 12 hours a week at $1.38 an hour for 21 weeks — $347.76; fuel ($4,908.80, less $1,200 charged to Public Library) — $3,708.80; insurance — $709.25; depreciation on major cleaning equipment — $449.85; cleaning and maintenance supplies — $1,689.43; light and water — $1,627.57; city hall 1953 debenture payment—$22,660; total — $44,873.82; area chargeable — 26,517 square feet; cost—$1.70 a square foot.

Payment of interest and principle on the debentures is included in that figure. The debentures are for a 15-year period. As long as these payments are being made, there will be no allowance for depreciation, finance committee chairman Ald. T. D. Miller explained. Once the debentures have been paid off, the same figure, about $22,000, would be included as the amount of depreciation.

When the matter was brought up in committee, Ald. Miller suggested that the $1.70 rental charged to various departments be increased by 10 cents, to provide a "cushion" against rising costs. But Mayor Hugh Waddell explained that the charge could be adjusted each year to meet such contingencies.

Taxi Owners Ask Permission To Raise Rates

Taxi rates in the city of Peterborough may be increased depending on a petition expected from taxi owners. The basic rate of 50 cents for two miles may go up to 50 cents for one mile. The price of 25 cents for each additional mile will remain the same.

Appearing before the police commission Thursday, James J. Donnelly said, as a representative of taxi owners, they were in favor of having the increase.

"A slight increase is necessary to give us any margin of profit," he told commissioners.

Only one of the major operators, Capitol, was not in favor of the increase and he was unable to contact several minor owners. Mr. Donnelly said, however, 31 out of the 38 were in favor of the raise in fares.

He was unable to present a petition from the operators so commissioners decided to wait until a "suitably signed" list could be submitted before action was taken.

Approve Two Changes In Staff At Kenner

Two changes in the Kenner Collegiate staff have been approved by the board of education.

Mrs. A. Ward Smith, a qualified secondary school teacher with a year's experience, has been appointed for six months. She succeeds Mrs. Muriel Elliott who is retiring from teaching.

Mrs. H. A. Craig, a specialist in mathematics and physics with eight years' experience, has also been appointed on a temporary basis. She succeeds Gordon Johnston who is resigning to go into the lumber business.

Both resignations are effective Dec. 31.

Winning Young Artists Presented Awards Earned

About 30 parents assembled in the Public Library Thursday evening to watch the presentation of prizes to winning students of the Peterborough Examiner Art Class. General manager Harold L. Garner, introduced by artist-instructor Oscar Schlienger, officiated.

The student artists were divided into two groups, those who had completed only one season of instruction and others who had finished their second. Prize winners in the first-year group were:

Carol McGarrity, 13, first; Bob Cardwell, 16, second, and Tim Thompson, 14, third prize.

Winners of the second-year group were Dalia Eidimtaite, first; Marjorie Barry, second, and tied for third prize, David Biggs and Nancy Armstrong. Miss Eidimtaite was absent from the prize-giving, having moved to Ottawa a short while ago.

HONORABLE MENTION

Honorable mention to first-year students went to Marcia Readman, John Madill, Eleanor Ball, Reg Chandler, Arlene O'Rourke and David Donaldson. The same recognition for the older group was given to Joanne Tait.

First prize consisted of paint boxes for both groups and second prize was an artist camp stool (first year) and an easel (second year). Third prizes in both groups were canvas sketch blocks and brushes. Both the upper entrance hall of the Library and main lecture room displayed the students' work as they progressed step by step.

CHAIRS LAST MEETING

Stanley R. Adamson, chairman of the board of education in 1953, presided Thursday night for the last time at a regular meeting of the board. He is retiring at the end of the year for business reasons. He thanked his fellow trustees for their support throughout the year, congratulated the three sitting trustees for their success in being re-elected on December 7, and praised Arthur Pitchford, who was defeated in the election, for his work on the board. "I assure you I will be following your work with interest," said Mr. Adamson, "and will support you in anything reasonable . . . requiring public support."

Car-Chasing Dog Lives To Fight Another Day

With utter disregard, perhaps even contempt, for safety and traffic regulations, a dog of unknown identity and doubtful ancestry has been harassing drivers on Water St. As cars near the corner of Murray St., he takes a diagonal run from the east side and tries, unsuccessfully, to chew off the corners of their bumpers.

This dog has been setting a bad example for children on their way to and from school by intentionally disobeying safety patrollers' signs and common sense.

One would think these sallies would be shortlived because the police station is mere feet away. Not so, however. When an officer, aided by the children, tried to catch him on numerous occasions the dog stayed well away from him.

NIPS POLICEMAN

This mystery dog, when no cars are around, contents himself by nipping the heels of policemen as they come and go from the station.

Thursday the law of averages caught up with the dog. As he attempted to nail a westbound car, an eastbound car nailed him, sending him spinning like a top. Humane society officer Bruce Menzies was called to cart away the stunned, perhaps dying, animal.

Just as officer Menzies thought he had him, the "stunned, dying" animal revived and sped off for parts unknown

He didn't stay long, though. This morning Fido was back at his regular job, large as life and twice as obnoxious.

Police Board To Ask City For $3,800 Extra

Police commissioners will ask city council for $3,800 to see the department through the year, they decided Thursday afternoon.

The request will be made in accordance with a resolution forwarded to council earlier with the commission's 1953 budget. The board reserved the right to ask for further funds because the salary budget at that time was uncertain. The commission had been negotiating with the police association for 1953 wages then.

Since then, higher salaries have been coming out of money set aside for other purposes and the department is fast reaching the point where it will have no money left for anything. On those grounds the $3,800 is needed.

New Salary Plan For Teachers To Cost $7,500

The board of education have approved a new salary schedule covering public school teachers, caretakers and maintenance staff, and office staff. However, agreement must still be reached with the secondary school teachers. Apart from the annual increase of $200 given each year to staff members, the extra salary bill, caused by changes in the schedule, will total about $7,500. Some 200 public school teachers, caretakers, maintenance men, office staff and administrative officials are affected.

Changes are as follows for public school teachers:

1. All maximums boosted by $200.

2. Instead of the former departmental requirements for a permanent certificate, the following:

(a) three approved departmental courses, or (b) three university courses, each equivalent to one-fifth of a year's university work, provided that one of them is English and that the teacher has attended at least two university summer schools, or (c) any combination of (a) and (b) with a minimum of two summer schools.

3. An immediate salary increase of $50 for each departmental summer school. No payment for university courses until the work for a degree has been completed.

4. All teachers holding permanent certificates dated prior to 1953 shall be regarded as qualified to proceed to the immediate maximum.

5. Teachers who have qualified for the intermediate maximum may earn an immediate increase of $50 for each approved summer course. Four will be the limit, or a possible allowance of $200.

6. Allowance for degrees is unchanged, except for the addition of the Bachelor of Education degree for which an allowance of $50 will be made.

7. Apart from these changes all provisions of the 1953 schedule remain in force.

CARETAKERS

Caretakers and maintenance:

1. Salaries to be paid twice monthly.

2. The cost-of-living to be incorporated into salary up to $200; if the cost-of-living amounts to more than $200, it will be paid in a lump sum in December.

3. Caretakers now at minimum salary will receive the usual $200 annual increase in January, plus another $200 when they have completed a year's work.

4. Caretakers in sole charge of eight or more rooms may go to a maximum of $3,000, plus cost-of-living allowance. At present he must be in sole charge of 10 rooms to get this maximum.

Office staff:

An increase of $200 for 1954, plus individual salary adjustments.

On A Dare, Boy Breaks $250 Window

Throwing a stone "on a dare," a seven-year-old boy ruined a $250 stained glass window at St. James' United church Wednesday. The two-and-a-half inch hole caused by the stone will necessitate replacing or rebuilding the whole window.

According to police, the boy was returning from school with three other lads, including his eight-year-old brother. The quartette was throwing stones against the wall of the church when one member dared the boy to throw one at the window.

He did, hit it and broke the valuable window.

The culprit wasn't discovered until children at school were asked if anyone was responsible for the damage. He admitted it to the principal.

Government Urged To Increase Reindeer Herds In Far North

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—No wonder one famous reindeer is said to have a red nose. Rudolph's ancestors were Communists.

Or perhaps ex-Communists, because they came from Siberia.

Anyway, the ancestry of Santa Claus' Canadian means of transportation was recalled in the Commons Thursday as Opposition members urged the government to increase reindeer herds on the reserve near Aklavik, N. W. T. The subject came up during discussion of a government measure dealing with reindeer regulations.

Howard Green (PC—Vancouver Quadra) went so far as to suggest that Santa Claus might be concentrating too much on toys and not enough on reindeer.

CAN SUPPORT MANY MORE

Resources Minister Lesage said there now are 7,771 reindeer in Canada's northland. Mr. Green quoted from an article that the Canadian North can support 40,000,000 reindeer.

Increasing reindeer herds might be one of the main methods of developing the North, he said.

The reindeer of the species rangifer tarandus, is not native to North America.

Between 1892 and 1902, when the Russians put a halt to it, the United States government brought 1,280 reindeer immigrants to Alaska from Siberia to provide the Eskimos with a new source of food and clothing.

There now are some 2,000,000 reindeer in Alaska. They double their number every three years through the spring fawnings.

THE GREAT TREK

In 1929, the Canadian government agreed to pay $195,000 for delivery of 3,000 reindeer on the eastern side of the Mackenzie river delta near Aklavik.

This great 1,000-mile trek started Christmas Day, 1929, and was not completed until February, 1935. Only 10 per cent of the original herd reached its destination but the annual fawnings brought the number finally delivered to 2,370, plus one caribou which sneaked into the herd along the way.

The trek originally had been estimated to require 18 months.

Not one of the six Eskimos or four Lapps who started the trek perished, although for months on end, the herd and herders were lost and believed to have died. The trek was led by Andrew Bahr, a Lapp.

The reindeer was first domesticated by the Lapps, who live in far-north Scandinavia. Despite Santa Claus' exaggerations, the reindeer can travel only 12 to 15 miles an hour with a pack of 250 pounds.

In 1933, Canada passed a reindeer protection ordinance and set aside 6,600 square miles as a reindeer reserve. Last year, this reserve was enlarged to 17,900 square miles. The government also hired three Lapps from Norway to train Eskimos in herd handling. More than 100 Eskimos have been trained.

The annual roundup is held in July and slaughtering in December.

Civil Servants Agree Stop Federation Dues

OTTAWA (CP)—The Civil Service Association of Ottawa Thursday night unanimously approved a resolution to cease per capita payments to the Civil Service Federation of Canada unless the national body accepts an Ottawa association compromise on a section of the federation's constitution.

The CSAO objects to a clause in the federation constitution, to become effective Dec. 24, that would reduce the local group's jurisdiction in any government department covered under a national affiliate of the CSF.

Minor Hockey

STIRLING (ENS) — Douglas Paterson of Stirling was re-elected to the executive committee of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association at the annual meeting held in Toronto.

BBC Penetrates Curtain

LONDON (Reuters)—Many BBC transmissions are getting behind the Iron Curtain and have a big audience, despite the efforts of more than 1,000 Communist "jamming" stations, the corporation said Thursday. Listeners risk possible death, yet from East Germany alone 30 or 40 letters of appreciation were said to reach the BBC every week.

Three Found Dead In Gas-Filled Room

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two men and a woman were found dead Thursday in a gas-filled rooming house in downtown Vancouver. A third man was found unconscious in his room.

The dead were identified as Mrs. Annie Mcguire, 60, owner of the house, Alfred M. Laroque, 50, and Frederick Hager, 26.

Eugene Flubacher, 24, was taken to hospital where his condition was reported as poor.

The fumes seeped through the old two-storey house from a broken domestic gas line.

Pusan Mayor Resigns

PUSAN, Korea (AP)—Son Yung Soo resigned today as mayor of Pusan to demonstrate his "serious regret" for a fire which destroyed one-sixth of this port city Nov. 27. The city council will name a mayor Wednesday, and Son was expected to get the job again.

Chartered Accountants Win Out In Saskatchewan Probe

REGINA (CP) — Saskatchewan's royal commission on public accountancy today upheld the right of chartered accountants to be the sole professional group in the province and recommended repeal of an act which granted similar status to certified public accountants.

In its 45-page report issued today, the commission said:

"The Saskatchewan Institute of Chartered Accountants, beyond any doubt, represents the top level of professional accountants in the province and there is no reasonable probability of their position being challenged by the legislative recognition of one or more other groups.

"The matter may be disposed of with finality and in the public interest by refusing recognition to any other group."

WANT MORE STUDENTS

Summing up a broad survey of public accountancy which stretched into all provinces, the commission also recommended changes in provincial legislation to permit more students to enter the field and a licensing system for those who do not become chartered accountants.

The commission, which included Mr. Justice F. Thomson, Frederick C. Cronkite, dean of the college of law at the University of Sakatchewan, and Thomas M. McLeod, dean of the college of commerce, was set up last spring by order-in-council.

Establishment of the commission followed incorporation of the Certified Public Accountants Association of Saskatchewan by the legislature at its last session. It has not been proclaimed.

The report said recognition of a second professional group of public accountants would create continuing confusion and tend to lower the level of professional services. The commission noted that single societies of other professions—law, dentistry and medicine—were recognized and there seemed no reason to doubt the system was working well.

WOULD PROTECT "C. A."

The public has come to know a chartered accountant has the educational background, the training and experience necessary to perform the services he offers the public, the report said. It was in the interest of the public that use of the term "C. A." be protected.

However, the commission found that those who are qualified to give "limited service" such as required by small businesses should not be prohibited from entering the field.

The commission said it concluded it would be in the public interest to adopt a licensing system similar to those in Ontario and Nova Scotia. It suggested a three-man board of governors, one member appointed by the government, another by the University of Saskatchewan and the third by the Chartered Accountants Institute.

Union, Shipbuilders Agree To Contract

MIDLAND (CP) — Representatives of Local 43, Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers (CCL), and Midland Shipyards Limited have reached an agreement after nearly nine months of negotiations, it was announced Thursday.

The new contract which ends March 1, 1954, will give employees an increase of two cents an hour, retroactive to March 1, 1953. Effective next March, employees will also receive a 40-hour work week with the same take-home pay as they now are getting for 42 hours.

The increase, together with the extra days' holiday pay, means a total of about $25,000 back-pay for more than 500 employees.

Mrs. C. Gosselin

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine Anne Gosselin was held on Thursday morning from the Anglesey funeral home to Sacred Heart church for requiem mass at nine o'clock. The celebrant was the Rev. F. Mihelic and in the sanctuary was the Rev. [illegible] McCarney.

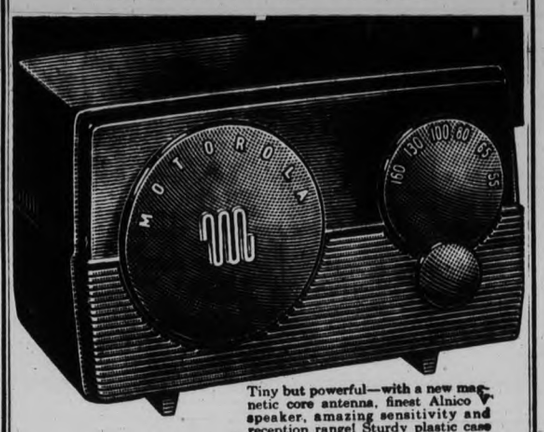
Burial was in St. Peter's cemetery with graveside prayers being said by the Rev. G. Sullivan assisted by Father McCarney.

Pallbearers were Jack McCarney, Clinton Heath, R. M. Hardie, Barry O'Shaughnessy, Eldon Paquette and Donald Moore.

Blast Interrupts Class

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Dr. Richard P. Smith Thursday was telling his class what atom and hydrogen bombs will do, and just as he was emphasizing the tremendous explosive power of the two bombs, a window-shattering blast rocked the lecture room. It came from a freshman student's experiment in a chemistry laboratory upstairs.

Dies In Fall



DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Construction worker Roy Davis, 46, fell to his death Thursday while posing with a 50-foot Santa Claus for photographs he planned to use on his personal Christmas cards. Davis had helped build the giant advertising figure, and when photographers gathered to take pictures of the display he fell 35 feet from a crane cable on which he stood to be photographed.

Intensified Farm Program For Canada

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Federation of Agriculture today asked the provincial government for "a more intensified agricultural program to feed our increasing population."

"Farming has now reached the point where it must be treated as a commercial enterprise," the federation said in a brief presented today to Premier Frost and members of the cabinet.

The brief called for "intelligent, well-directed production programs, coupled with adequate marketing systems to make it sufficiently profitable to engage in food production and to encourage the right kind of quality production."

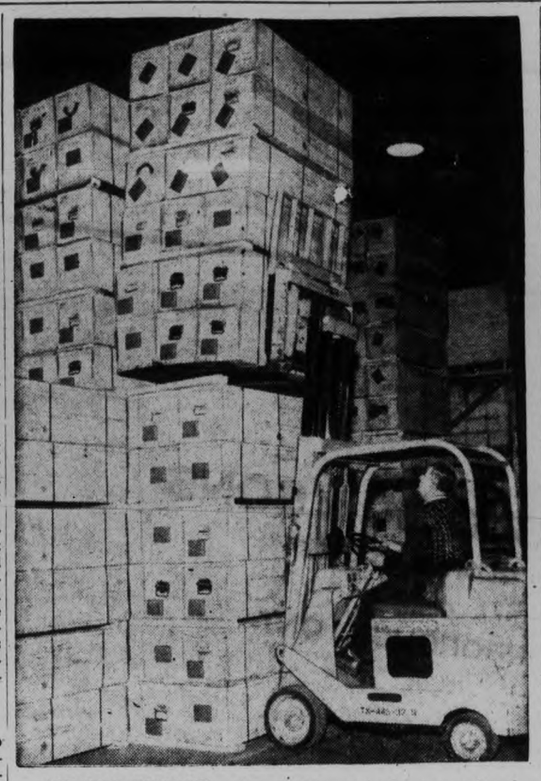
On education, the brief recommended "that the full capital cost of all new school buildings should be borne by the provincial or federal governments." New school buildings should be borne by the provincial or federal governments." New school buildings should provide "only those facilities which are regarded as essential to education."

MARKETING PRAISED

The federation said the Ontario government has shown "outstanding leadership" in marketing legislation. It requested that the number of votes needed to set up a marketing scheme be two-thirds of the producers actually voting, instead of the present two-thirds of all the producers in the area.

Other recommendations:

That the Milk Control Act be changed to allow formation of a milk-producers' body to sell milk and direct it to specific markets.



That the government continue research to develop a test to detect adulteration in dairy products.

That agricultural products from other countries be brought under the Marketing Act.

That meat packers who haul farmers' hogs with their own trucks and dairies who haul farmers' milk be required to have Public Commercial Vehicle licences.

Shipping Executive Dies

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Adam E. Cornelius, 71, a founder of the American Steamship Company died here Thursday. Cornelius was chairman of the board and treasurer of the steamship company, one of the largest shipping firms on inland waters. The company operated vessels chiefly in the Great Lakes trade, but also along the Atlantic seaboard during both world wars.

AID FOR FRANCE—A new shipment of arms under the Mutual Aid Plan was completed recently as 26,000 rifles left No. 25 Central Ordnance Depot, in Montreal, for shipment by sea to the French Army. With spare parts and cleaning implements, the shipment totalled 3,172 cases. A forklift truck was put on the job moving the heavy wooden boxes to freight cars for shipment to the east coast.

Fed. Conciliators To Decide CPR Dispute

MONTREAL (CP) — A contract dispute between Canadian railways and 150,000 of their non-operating employees will be placed in the hands of a federal conciliation board.

Frank H. Hall, spokesman for unions representing the workers, said Thursday the decision to ask for a conciliation board was reached Wednesday when discussions with the railways broke down for a second time.

In Ottawa, Labor Minister Gregg said he will act quickly to establish the conciliation board as soon as a formal request for one is received.

The board will consist of three men, one each nominated by the unions and the railways, with a chairman selected either by these two or, if they fail to agree, by the minister.

ASKING BENEFITS

The unions are not seeking across-the-board wage increases. They are asking for so-called "fringe" benefits such as longer vacations with pay, sick pay allowance, overtime pay for Sunday work and an increased number of statutory holidays with pay.

The railways estimate the demands would cost them $60,000,000 annually. Involved in the negotiations are the Canadian National, Canadian Pacific, Hamilton and Buffalo and Ontario Northland railways. Seventeen unions, representing all categories of non-operating employees, are involved in the discussions.

Gov't To Improve National Parks

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Thursday approved in principle a government bill designed to improve the administration and development of Canada's national parks.

Resources Minister Lesage said the bill, which amends the National Parks Act, will enable his department to overcome some administrative problems.

The bill gives the minister power to enter into agreements with a province or a company for the development, operation and maintenance of public utility services in national parks, including telephone, electric power and natural gas. Services of this type must be operated by the department under existing legislation.

Aware No Differences Seaway Commission

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government is not aware of any differences of opinion among representatives of the international joint commission in connection with the St. Lawrence seaway.

Health Minister Martin, acting minister of external affairs, made the statement in the Commons Thursday in replying to a question asked Tuesday by Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton).

Mr. Fleming asked the government to comment on the accuracy of reports that differences of opinion have developed among Canadian and American representatives on the international joint commission. Mr. Martin said the government is unaware of any differences.

Quartet Pleads Guilty

GALT (CP)—Three men and a woman from Hamilton pleaded guilty in court Thursday to a charge of breaking, entering and the $2,500 theft of a watch and diamond ring from a local jewelry store Tuesday. Harold Marshall, William Ireland, Joseph Zambo and June Webb were remanded a week for pre-sentence reports.

Gov't To Debate Housing Legislation

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons will study the government's new housing legislation next week, Public Works Minister Winters informed the Commons Thursday.

Mr. Winters said a resolution preparatory to introducing the legislation will be debated early next week, and he expects to issue the bill to members before the Christmas recess starts the end of next week.

The legislation would permit banks to make loans on guaranteed mortgages and also would provide for reduced down payments and longer mortgage periods.

Record Number Immigrants Arrive In 1953

OTTAWA (CP)—With entries 70 per cent higher in October than a year ago, Canada was virtually assured of more immigrants before the year's end than landed last year.

The immigration department announced Thursday that October's 18,624 arrivals boosted the immigration total in the first 10 months of the year to 143,722. This is two per cent lower than the 146,236 in the similar period last year.

The October increase was the biggest this year. In the first four months immigration lagged an average of 40 per cent below the comparable period last year. However, a steady increase began in May reaching a climax in October.

TEN MONTH TOTAL

The 10-month tally showed a 10 per cent increase in United Kingdom arrivals to 40,390 from 36,637 and a seven per cent increase in arrivals from northern European countries to 61,568 from 57,472. U.S. arrivals dropped one per cent to 7,796 from 7,904 while those from other countries were down 23 per cent to 33,968 from 44,223.

October arrivals were higher in all groups than a year ago. Those from the U.K. jumped 25 per cent to 4,817 from 3,856, from the U.S. nine per cent to 1,008 from 927, from northern Europe 130 per cent to 7,701 from 3,343 and from other countries 81 per cent to 5,098 from 2,814.

If the rate of increase of the last six months continues, Canada should easily exceed the 164,498 arrivals of last year.

Pair Remanded

BARRIE (CP)—William Stephen Kingsley, 19, and Francis Ian Robertson, 21, both of Toronto, were remanded Thursday to Dec. 17 for preliminary hearing on a charge of murdering Fred (Scotty) Cameron, 57, Toronto stock-broker messenger.

Crown Withdraws Murder Charge

TORONTO (CP)—A charge of murder against Norman Beveridge, 42, was withdrawn Thursday at the request of the crown attorney.

Beveridge had been charged with James Houghton, 26, in the slaying of Mrs. Sadie Davidson, 32, whose slashed and half-naked body was found Nov. 18 on the steps of a Jarvis street cleaning shop.

Beveridge will be held as a material witness in the case against Houghton. Bail was set at $500.

SHE LIKES HIS SENSE OF HUMOR—After their marriage at New York City, Milton Berle's 32-year-old bride, the former Ruth Cosgrove, of Paterson, N.J., cuts their huge wedding cake with the help of her new spouse. Mrs. Berle said that the thing she likes best about Milton is his sense of humor.

Canada's Merchant Fleet Problem Not Yet Solved

OTTAWA (CP) — The cabinet Thursday tackled the problem of Canada's deep-sea merchant fleet, for the second time in a month, but came to no decision on government action.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said after the meeting that the ministers received a report from Transport Minister Chevrier on the fleet, which is in financial difficulties, but came to no conclusions.

The transport minister, it was understood, made a specific recommendation to cabinet, but no information on it was available. Mr. Chevrier declined comment.

Before the ministers was a request from ship owners asking for authority to sell most of the Canadian-owned deep-sea vessels in view of a Nov. 12 government decision not to subsidize operations.

The Canadian Shipowners Association said in a letter to Mr. Chevrier that the industry faces insolvency because of government restrictions on how the operators may dispose of their ships.

They asked the removal of a "covenant"—under which most of the dry-cargo vessels were bought from the government after the war—that bars them from selling the vessels abroad unless the money goes into a government-supervised fund for the construction of new shipping.

APPOINTED PRO

TORONTO (CP)—John F. McGivney, Toronto teacher, has been appointed public relations director for the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. The federation has 6,000 members.

Victorian Order Bill Approved

OTTAWA (CP) — The Senate Thursday approved in principle a bill to incorporate the Victorian Order of Nurses, sponsored by Senator N.M. Paterson (L—Ontario).

The bill which now goes to a Senate committee for further study outlines the purposes of the organization and defines its powers and membership.

Senator Paterson said the VON has been operating in Canada since 1897 under a royal charter. Its 500 nurses made more than 1,000,000 home visits to sick or injured persons yearly.

ACCIDENT FATAL

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Mrs. Gertrude McNab, about 60, died in hospital Thursday night of injuries received earlier when struck by a car at a downtown intersection.

No Proof Smoking Causes Cancer

TORONTO (CP)—The National Cancer Institute of Canada has no definite proof that cigaret smoking causes lung cancer, Dr. O. H. Warwick, executive director, says.

He was commenting on reports from New York quoting E. Cuyler Hammond, a Yale University professor, as saying laboratory evidence shows indications that cigaret smoking causes lung cancer.

There was no proof, however, Mr. Hammond said Thursday.

Dr. Warwick said that while the number of male deaths from cancer in Canada increased from 240 in 1931 to 1,129 in 1949, the institute had no proof that smoking was in any way responsible. Larger population, a greater proportion of old people, and other factors would boost the 1949 figures, he said.

He said no studies now are being undertaken in Canada to determine any possible relationship between lung cancer and smoking of cigarets.

Stolen Truck Recovered

TORONTO (CP) — A transport truck loaded with several thousand dollars worth of tobacco and cigarettes was stolen Thursday and recovered about an hour later. Police said the truck was taken when the driver stopped for lunch. The truck was found half-unloaded.

Price Reductions Seed Grain Recommended

TORONTO (CP) — Reductions were included in recommended minimum prices for seed oats and barley announced Thursday by the seed marketing and publicity committee of the Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

Recommended price for commercial No. 1 oats is $1.40 a bushel and for registered No. 1 $1.65. Commercial No. 1 barley would be $2 a bushel and registered No. 1 $2.40.

The prices are based on retail sales at shipping points for treated seed with bags included, and show a drop of 10 cents a bushel for oats and 25 cents for barley from last year's level.

The prices are recommended only as a guide but have been followed almost without exception other years. Keen demand is expected for seed this year, since prices for registered seed are lower.

No Law To Fight Color Bar

TORONTO (CP)—C. R. Magone, deputy attorney general, told a delegation from the National Unity Association Thursday that Ontario has no laws to fight discrimination against Negroes.

The association, formed five years ago to protect Negroes' rights, visited Mr. Magone concerning problems of Negroes in Dresden, 18 miles north of Chatham. The town has more than 300 Negro residents.

H. R. Burnett, a Dresden carpenter said Negro persons there had to drive to Chatham to get a hair-cut or a meal away from home. He said two pool-rooms and a restaurant refused to admit Negroes.

"A lot of us served overseas in the last war. We're not second-rate citizens," said Mr. Burnett.

Mr. Magone told the three-man delegation that without appropriate legislation, the attorney general's department could do nothing for them.

Dismissal Policy Not Applied To CGE

TORONTO (CP)—I. F. McRae, vice-president of Canadian General Electric Company, said Thursday Canadian defence production of a classified nature is carried out "solely under the security regulations of the Canadian government."

Therefore, he said in a statement, the newly-announced policy of the parent U.S. General Electric Company of dismissing all avowed Communists itself, "does not apply in Canada."

He was commenting on the new U.S. General Electric policy announced in New York.

Canadian General Electric employs about 16,000 workers. Bargaining rights at some of CGE's major plants are held by the Communist-led United Electric Workers (Ind.).

Dances To Be Given By Coldsprings WI

COLDSPRINGS (ENS) — The December meeting of the Coldsprings Women's Institute was held in the hall on Wednesday afternoon with a good attendance.

Mrs. Allan Linton president, presided, with Mrs. H. McKinley, secretary, reporting a balance of $456.72 on hand. Mrs. H. McKinle yreported on the girl's club meeting she had attended.

Donations of five dollars were made to the Canadian Mental Health Association and Children's Aid Society. It as decided to hold a New Year dance on December 29, and a married couples dance on January 20. Euchre parties were planned for December 11, and January 9.

Mrs. Elmer May was in charge of the Christmas program, which opened with Carol singing. Miss Hoskin gave a reading on "The Spirit of Christmas."

Mrs. Ross Timlin sang a solo "Suzy Snowflake" accompanied by Mrs. C. Timlin. Mrs. Wm. Maughan gave the topic on, "Some Thoughts on Christmas".

After the meeting bazaar articles were sold. Lunch was served by Mrs. E. May and group and a social half hour enjoyed.

The jackal which attacks sheep in South Africa is the South African equivalent of a fox.

BOBO'S FAREWELL—With a face of such brooding sadness, Bobo, two-and-a-half-year-old gorilla, is consoled by his mistress before leaving his Anacortes, Wash., home for a zoo. Bobo, who was raised by Mrs. C. Lowman, doesn't know his own strength and plays too rough to keep at home any longer.

Sudan Takes Five Weeks To Choose New Parliament

WASHINGTON — Elections do not come often in Anglo-Egyptian Sudan and when they do they are not the one-day affairs of the West. The Sudan is now in the process of electing its first Parliament, and the huge African land is devoting five weeks to a vote count. The results should be known about Christmas.

Then, after three years, the Sudan's first Parliament will order the election of a special assembly to choose full independence or some degree of union with Egypt. Since 1899, Great Britain and Egypt have jointly ruled the Sudan.

NILE FLOWS NORTH

The Sudan is as large as the United States east of the Mississippi, but it has fewer than 9,000,000 people. It is a nomad land 500 to 1,000 miles wide. It extends 1,300 miles from Egypt on the north to Kenya, Uganda, and the Belgian Congo on the south. From south to north it is traversed by the life-giving River Nile.

Some 2,500,000 primitive tribesmen wander veld, forest, and tropical swampland in the Sudan's south. They are choosing electors from their ranks who will meet to name their district representatives in the Parliament.

Six million dark-skinned Moslem Arabs are scattered over the vast semidesert north. They vote directly for candidates. Paper ballots are cast in the towns, colored tokens in the rural areas. In addition, the few thousand Sudanese who hold the equivalent of a high school diploma may vote by mail before December 7 to fill five seats allotted exclusively to this educated class.

Four major and several minor political parties have campaigned for objectives ranging from immediate full independence to immediate government by Egypt. But their activity touches little more than the one per cent of the people who have had some schooling. These are centered in the chief town—Khartoum, the capital, and neighboring Omdurman—at the junction of the Blue Nile and the White Nile.

EGYPT SEEKS "UNITY"

Precious Nile water is the reason Egypt presses for "unity of the Nile Valley," meaning Egyptian control of the Sudan. The Nile Waters Agreement of 1929 between Britain and Egypt wants "unity," not a mere agreement.

Though language, commerce, and religion bind the two areas, Sudan's Arabs are not Egyptians. In 1883-5 they threw off the yoke of Egyptian misgovernment that began with conquest in 1820 and carted off gold, ivory, and slaves. The uprising was led by a self-styled Mahdi (Divine Guide) whose son leads a current political party.

The famous General C. G. (Chinese) Gordon was killed when the Mahdi's forces took Khartoum in 1885. Thirteen years later Lord Kitchener won the historic battle of Omurman against sword-waving 'Fuzzy-Wuzzies" immortalized by Rudyard Kipling. Sir Winston Churchill was a young officer in this Anglo-Egyptian reconquest of the Sudan to end the lawless tyranny of the Mahdi's successor.

Khartoum, largely rebuilt since 1885, is now an attractively landscaped center of government, business, and finance in the Sudan. Omduman is the center of native cultural and religious life —a mud-brick city of 125,000 with bazaars and a Great Mosque.

A short ride southward from these two cities the rich farming district of El Gezira stretches between the two Niles. There a government-managed, million-acre irrigated area produces some 40,000 tons of the world's finest long-staple cotton annually. The government profit on cotton provides about half the revenue of the entire Sudan.

Decision Reserved Anti-Negro Complaint

TORONTO (CP)—Decision was reserved Thursday by the Ontario liquor licence board on a case involving a complaint of anti-Negro discrimination by the William Pitt Hotel in Chatham.

The Negro who was allegedly refused a glass of beer is Alvin Ladd, president of the Chatham local of the Union of Public Service Employees (CIO-CCL).

Hotel manager Harry Tennant admitted the incident but said the headwaiter, who had since been fired, was responsible for it and that it was not the policy of the hotel to discriminate.

HOW MANY?

If all the little islets are counted, there are about 5,000 islands in the British Isles.

Work Out Policy In Secret

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario Liberals meet here behind closed doors today and Saturday to work out a party platform.

The platform is to be submitted to the party's leadership convention next April 8 and 9.

Colin Campbell, Ontario public works minister in the Hepburn administration of the 1930s, heads the policy committee. He said Thursday night:

"Our job is to devise the broad principles of a party platform. I expect all decisions reached at this conference will be submitted to the April convention for endorsation."

The April convention will choose a leader to succeed Walter Thomson, who resigned after the party's defeat in the 1951 provincial general election.

Criticized For Remarks On Segregation

LONDON (Reuters) — The London Star today assailed Colonial Secretary Oliver Lyttelton for accepting racial segregation in certain Bermuda hotels as "essential to the tourist trade."

"'Essential' in the minds of some dollar-earning incorrigibles, maybe," The Star commented. "But what on earth is the British colonial secretary doing accepting anyone's assurance that it is 'essential' anywhere in the British territory?"

Lyttelton should have used "his famous strong-arm tactics" to have the ban on non-whites lifted, the Liberal newspaper declared

Because of the ban, the paper said, a distinguished Negro, Sir Frank McDavid, president of the British Guiana state council, and Lady McDavid had to sleep on rugs in an airport waiting room when flying home after he was knighted by Queen Elizabeth.

Coroner Suggests Rigid Fire Inspection

ST. THOMAS (CP)—Recommendation of more rigid fire inspection for the protection of guests, was included in the verdict of a coroner's jury which Thursday inquired into the death of Thomas Dunn, 73, one of two victims of the Nov. 15 fire which destroyed the St. Thomas YMCA.

Members of the jury also recommended that one general fire alarm system be installed, instead of individual room buzzers, which testimony showed was the chief method of raising an alarm.

Young Adult Group Tours City Industries

SPRINGVILLE (ENS) — Fifteen members of the Young Adult group of Springville Church visited the Nashua Paper Company and the Peterborough Examiner recently.

At the Nashua Paper Company, each visitor was given a package of kitchen food-saving paper and a the Examiner, were given a copy of the evening newspaper.

The group held its monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Visee, Cavan.

Plan Home For Aged

TORONTO (CP)—Plans for a $2,500,000 home for the aged at Newmarket, accommodating 515 persons, were presented to the metropolitan housing and welfare committee Thursday. Construction is expected to start in August.

Women Ask Gov't Remove 10% Tax

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Council of Women of Canada today called on the government to remove the 10-per-cent sales tax on margarine.

The council, in a prepared brief, said margarine is "an economic necessity in many homes" and called the tax unfair.

The NCWC also asked the government to scrap the means test in the Blind Persons Act, grant more favorable pensions to dependent parents of dead canadian war veterans and provide better treatment of early sex offenders under the Criminal Code.

It lauded the CBC for banning alcoholic liquor advertising from its programs, the federal government for appointing women to the Senate and urged the government to implement the labor department's recommendations regarding employment of older workers. It deplored the fact that no women are represented on the civil service commission.

CLOTHES FOR A WINTER VACATION centre this year around the simple dress accompanied by matching jacket or sweater. Slim pink linen dress (left) has simulated bolero effect created from white chalk beads and flowers. Deep pink silk linen (centre) is used for straight, simple dress with jacket that has tucked collar and cuffs with eyelet trim. The soft angora jersey jacket (right) is matched to pink silk honan dress. Jacket has trim of tiny velvet flowers and seed pearls. Simplicity of these dresses makes them ideal as foils for pretty accessories. And the sweater jacket has unlimited uses in a resort wardrobe. Dyed-to-match fashions are important to resort wear this year.

New Resort Fashions Dyed In Matching Colors

By GAILE DUGAS
NEA Woman's Editor

NEW YORK — Dyed-to-match. This is the phrase that's all-important in the new resort fashions. It covers dresses and their sweater jackets, sweaters and skirts, blouses and skirts.

Newest jackets are composed chiefly of sleeves. Tiny felt jackets just over the collarbone, providing a minimum of protection from the sun. The sweater-jacket cut waist-length and sometimes fully lined in silk, is good all day and evening, too. Some sweaters have leather trim.

Embroidery is massed over everything: dresses, sweaters, separates. Often, it's offered as contrast to a complete simplicity of line in the fashion it adorns.

Emphasis is on the one-piece look, even in separates. Cumberbunds conceal the spot where skirt and top come together. A slim molded waistline is the thing and the Empire silhouette is very much with us.

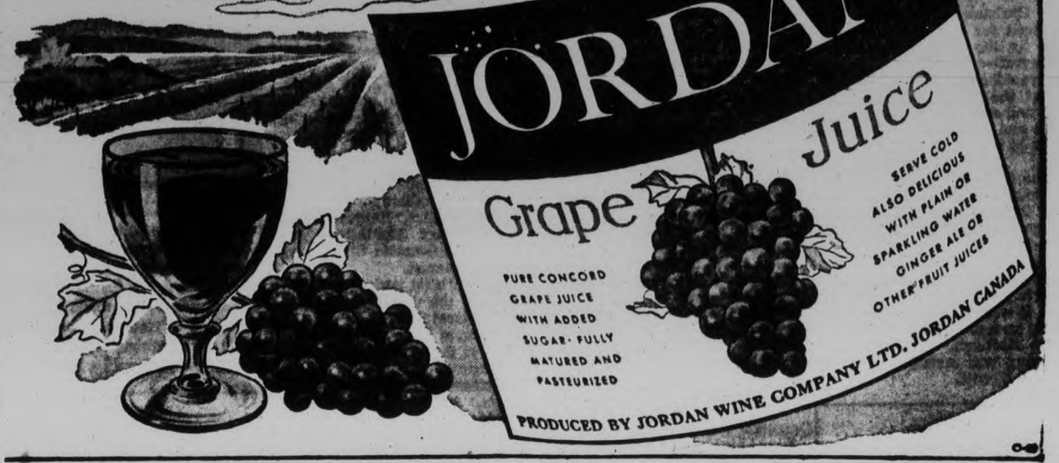
The news in color is no color. It's white. And white looks new in combination with khaki and black. The khaki is a pastel version thought up especially for resort wear. It has a fresh smart air about it.

Smith WCTU Hear Mrs. R. Hanscom

FAIRVIEW—(ENS)—Mrs. Wilbert Rosborough was hostess for the Smith WCTU at her home on Monday afternoon. There were 23 ladies present.

Mrs. Elmer Milburn led in the worship service. Miss Margaret Milburn read the scripture lesson and Mrs. James A. Young offered prayer.

A very pleasing feature of the meeting was an interesting travalogue given by Mrs. R. M. Hanscom of Peterborough, who attended the world WCTU convention held last summer in Vancouver when more than 2,000 delegates attended.



The president, Mrs. J. Gordon Mann, opened the meeting and had charge of the business period. Mrs. Milburn said that 83 scientfic temperance papers had been received from the various schools. A committee of Mrs. W. A. Rosborough and Mrs. Ralph Scott was appointed to purchase prizzes for the children. These will be presented to the children at their Christmas concerts.

The Rev. T. H. Fleetham closed the meeting with prayer.

Lunch was served.

DOROTHY DIX

Doubted Her Love Until He Dated Another

DEAR MISS DIX: I've been going with a boy for two years, and, though we had planned to marry two or three times, something always occurred to cause a postponement. When it comes to making a definite commitment, I never was sure that I wanted to go ahead with our plans. Now, he's seeing another girl, though he says he still loves me. I am sure now that I do love him, and would marry him in a minute. Do you think if I continue dating him that he'll stop going with the other girl?

Meg.

BOY FINALLY WINS

ANSWER: You spend two years leading a boy on, shunting him off, taking him on again, then get indignant and hurt because he looks elsewhere for kinder treatment. Now, you are getting the treatment you meted out for a long time. When you can have a boy, you don't want him, but if he goes with someone else—indignation flares.

Whether you'll get the boy back or not, no one can foretell. Since he's still seeing you, apparently his affection hasn't entirely died, so you have a good chance. However, I do hope you won't win him only to resume your old tactics. If you're grown up enough to consider marriage, you're sufficiently mature to be done with adolescent flirtations.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I'm 15, and recently broke of with a boy whom my family disliked because of his bad manners and habits. Now I've met another boy who is respectful to my family, has a nice personality, but, alas, isn't too good-looking, and on this score my folks object to him. I feel their decision is unfair.

Nona T.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Since your parents object to the nice boy because he isn't good-looking, and were displeased with the attractive lad because he wasn't nice, I gather their objection is to boy friends in general. They probably think you're too young to date and are taking a round-about course to get the idea across. The high type of the friends you bring home will, in time, probably overcome all objections.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been married 24 years, and have two married sons. We are no longer happy. My husband is a good worker and provider, but seems restless and bored at home. I'm thinking about a divorce.

Mrs. H. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You expect to raise two children to maturity, and at the same time have things go on "as they used to be!" Can't be done! You and your husband are getting older, and you must expect to make adjustments in your way of living. Divorce is most definitely not the solution for you. Being alone would only make you more bored and depressed, then you'd have the added worries of insecurity and loneliness, which I assure you are much more difficult to bear than your present life. Seek an outside interest, something new, connected with people you haven't known before. It will give a stimulus to the present status quo, plus adding new friends to your limited social group.

Readers' Friday Column Conducted By Mary Moore

QUESTION: I feel like putting S.O.S. in big letters at the top, for I feel sure you can offer some help on food costs . . . some years ago my husband deserted us, leaving me with a family of 8 children . . . nursing training came in handy, 2 older boys went to work and we managed . . . a few years later he was killed in an accident . . . and I married again. We now have a family of our own and hubby is wonderful . . . we are trying to fix up our home and live on a civil service salary . . . could you tell me how much I should be spending on food? The smallest that is. The family is: daughters 18 and 15 who take lunch to work and school; hubby, lunch to work; myself, doing all my own work and sewing; daughters 11, 6 and 4 and 2 months; son: 22 months (both legs in splints for 3 months due to an accident!). I'm busy but happy. If I could only cut food costs which at present are about $35. to $37. a week. This includes milk bread (which I bake), also soap and cleansers, etc. Can you offer any suggestion. I try most of your cheaper recipes. I love to hear of Marianne—I had 2 years, 8 months nursing training but had to stop when Dad was killed in train accident . . . J. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You certainly have had a big share of misfortunes, but your letter shows lots of "grit and grace". I have a folder entitled "Let's Talk About Your Grocery Bill" printed by Grocery Manufacturers of American Inc. 205 East 42nd St. New York 17, N.Y. It is not as specific as I think you would like but it will show you why you should not buy pre-packaged foods when you want to drastically economize. I am mailing you the release of Nov. 13 in which Florence M. T.'s letter appeared. She is the girl who manages on $60.00 per week with husband and 4 children.

As you know it is labor costs that make the price of food high all along the line. Further since you have a large family for efficiency and economy buy your staples in cases or bulk. If you have a good cold storage cellar buy your vegetables, fruits etc. by the bushel or wholesale-sale bag.

Cereals in packages are not for you. Examine the outside of a package of ready-to-eat cereal. You will find the net contents weigh 10 or 12 oz. for which you have paid about 17 cents. Then examine the cereals which have to be cooked. Sometimes they contain more than 2 lbs. for about 30 cents, and often are made up of a variety of grains with wheat germ too. (When you make hot cereal add wheat germ (11 cents per lb.)—as much as ½ to ¾ cup for each batch.)

However, since you live in a city you can go directly to the flour mill for your cereals and buy them in bulk. You can get them at a much lower price than the packaged cereals to be cooked. Packaging and packages add tremendously to merchandising costs. It is obvious that packaged goods are more sanitary so you have to be sure of your dealer.

Buy powdered skim milk in 5 or 10-lb. cartoons and use up at least 3 lbs. ordinary cheddar cheese per week. You can buy cracked eggs at the egg-grading station at a very reduced price. I have sent you other reading matter to mull over.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: (Nov. 13) column inspired me to write . . taking time is highway robbery, for four small children (5 months to 4½ yrs.) make time more precious than diamonds. The letter from Florence M. T. did it. That wonderful woman must be a miracle worker. My monthly budget is around $80. plus $16. for milk. baby foods take a goodly portion. Our baby is allergic to milk and has quite an expensive substitute. I bake my own bread and since I'm a novice I'm afraid to tackle whole wheat . . . could you give me a general outline of how she spends her food budget, getting everything essential for growing children. If she's so astute as to manage on $60, she must have more economy ideas. I would be so grateful for her help . . . we're trying to save enough to start building our own place . . . 4 children in just 6 years have slowed things up but aren't children wonderful. We're both just 25 so can stand it . . . your column is such a help not only for recipes but hints on child-raising, housework and just plain living . . .

KAY R.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: See letter above yours Kay and my answer. I have sent you what you asked for and when Florence responds will let you know.

Florence M. T. would you care to come to the rescue of two gallant souls?

TRIPLE-RULE REFRIGERATOR COOKIE DOUGH

Four and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1½ teaspoons baking soda, 2¼ teaspoons salt, 1½ cups soft shortening (part butter), 3 cups granulated sugar (or 1½ cups each granulated sugar and packed brown sugar), 3 eggs, 3 teaspoons vanilla (or 1½ teaspoons vanilla and 1 teaspoon almond extract). Sift together the flour, soda and salt. Mix together until creamy and smooth the shortening, sugar, eggs and extracts. Gradually add the flour mixture and mix well.

For variations divide dough into 3 equal parts.

Variation 1: Shape one-third of this dough into 2-inch rolls and roll them in 1 cup finely chopped walnuts. Wray tightly in double thickness of wax paper, twist ends and store in refrigerator to chill.

Variations 2: Add ½ or 1 cup chopped blancned almonds to another one-third of the dough, work them in well, then shape into 2-inch rolls, wrap tightly in double thickness of wax paper, twist ends and store in refrigerator to chill.

Variation 3: Add 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted, to start another one-third of the dough, work it in carefully until dough is smooth. Turn out on sheet of wax paper, and chill dough to make it hard enough to roll. (The addition of the chocolate makes this dough soft.) Then when it is cold roll it in finely chopped almonds when 2-inch rolls are made, and wrap them in double wax paper and chill.

Pinwheels: This is still another variation and requires plain white dough and plain chocolate dough, so you could leave some of your dough untreated with nuts. Between sheets of wax paper roll a piece each of light and dark dough ¼ inch thick. Peel off the top sheet of wax paper from each and turn chocolate circle of dough over white circle of dough, and peel off the wax paper, which was on the bottom and which is now on the top. Roll up like a jelly roll, with the help of the one remaining sheet of wax paper. Roll tightly. Wrap. Chill.

To Bake: Heat oven to 375 deg. Fahr. Slice chilled dough with vary sharp knife to ⅛ or ¼-inch thickness slicing off only what you need. Place on ungreased cookie sheet, and bake about 10 minutes.

If you make this triple batch you will have about 15 dozen 2-inch cookies in all.

If you plan to mail these cookies as gifts, wrap each one in a separate square of wax paper before packing them, and further cushion them in the box with crushed wax paper.

Fairview Women Elect Mrs. Boyce

FAIRVIEW — (ENS) — The Christmas party and election of officers of the Fairview Women's Association was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. D. Wilson. Her home was beautifully decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. There were 30 ladies present.

The president, Mrs. Stanley Boyce, presided. Reports were given by the president; treasurer, Mrs. Carman Bell; flower committee by Mrs. Harold Lewis, Mrs. Everett Cockburn and Mrs. Walter Heard; quilt convener, Mrs. Frank Trude and parsonage committee Mrs. W. D. Wilson.

During the year the WA held a successful strawberry social, several bake sales, two suppers at the church, a tea at the YWCA, catered for a dinner of the Mr. and Mrs. Club of George St. Church, quilted and sold several quilts, raised money in various ways to provide funds for renovating the parsonage and sent fruit and flowers to the sick.

The meeting was concluded with a worship service in charge of Mrs. Jewell, leader of group three with Mrs. Carman Bell, Mrs. W. D. Wilson and Mrs. Harold Heard taking part. The Rev. Fleetham sang the Christmas carol, "In the Bleak Mid Winter".

List of officers as presented by Mrs. Bruce Heard of the nominating committee were:

President, Mrs. Stanley Boyce; vice-president, Mrs. Harold Lewis; secretary, Mrs. Cephas Heard; treasurer, Mrs. Carman Bell and group leaders, Mrs. Milton Kidd, Mrs. Edison Kimball and Mrs. Carman Bell.

The committees will be appointed at the January meeting which will be held at the home of Mrs. Everett Cockburn.

Mrs. Bruce Heard moved a vote of thanks to the hostess.

A delicious Christmas lunch was served by Mrs. Wilson and ladies of group three.

LARGE GRAPES

Grapes almost the size of golf balls grow wild in the uncultivated areas of Colombia, South America.

Of Interest to Women

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Suggest Cranberry Punch

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The federal agriculture department reports cultivation of cranberries is increasing in Canada, although production is not yet sufficient to reach all retail markets in the country.

The red, tangy berries are mainly grown in the Maritimes, Quebec, Ontario and British Columbia. They grow in low, boggy country and are difficult to pick by hand. When cultivated for market the berries are usually harvested with large scoops that have comb-like teeth.

Cranberries were originally called "crane-berries" because the stalk resembled the neck of a crane. Pioneer women learned from the Indians how to use the berries.

A treat for the children at Christmas is cranberry punch. Use two cups cranberries, one cup water, one-third cup sugar and two 20-ounce tins apple juice.

Boil cranberries and water five minutes, or until skins pop, stirring to prevent sticking. Put through a food mill or sieve to remove skins. Add sugar and apple juice and stir until well-blended. Chill before serving. Yields six cups. The cranberry juice may be mixed with apple juice just before serving.

FROZEN STYLE

As a change with turkey, cranberry ice is easy to make. Take two cups cranberries, one cup water, one cup apple juice, or one half cup orange juice, one half cup sugar and one-eighth teaspoon salt.

Boil five minutes, then put through a food mill, or sieve to remove skins. Add fruit juice, sugar and salt and blend well. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until quite firm. Break into chunks and place in bowl. Crush with a fork until mixture is smooth mush. If mixture is allowed to melt, the "ice" will have coarse crystals.

Quickly beat for a few seconds, immediately pour mixture back into freezing tray and allow to freeze until firm. Yields three to three and one half cups.

This ice makes a good substitute for a side salad with cold turkey.

The home economists with the department of agriculture also have a few tasty suggestions for the leftover cranberry sauce at Christmas.

Cranberry glazed ham is simple to fix. Use one cup of cranberry jelly and about one-quarter cup of prepared mustard. Boiled tongue may be glazed with the same mixture.

German Leader Asks For European Army

PARIS (AP)—Konrad Adenauer, West German chancellor, today urged prompt establishment of an European army to maintain West Europe's independence and to preserve world peace.

Adenauer, here to attend a session of the Council of Europe's committee of foreign ministers, spoke in German to a luncheon meeting of the French diplomatic press association and the foreign press association.

"There is only one way of safeguarding the peoples and countries in Western Europe from being swallowed up in the Russian vortex, namely, the way of European integration," Adenauer said. "No one country—I repeat this most emphatically—no one country is in a position to resist on its own the conquest of Europe planned by Soviet Russia."

Obviously aiming his remarks at France, whose parliament is bitterly split on ratification of EDC, Adenauer told his audience the alternative to integration is the status of a Soviet satellite.

$500,000,000 To Solve Traffic Problem

MONTREAL (CP) — City councillor Frank Hanley said today Montreal's transportation and traffic problem could be solved at an estimated cost of between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000.

He said in an interview that this would include a 27-mile subway, expressways along the waterfront and the metropolitan boulevard in the northwest end of the city, and parking facilities.

Mr. Hanley said Thursday night at the annual meeting of a citizens' association the long-dreamed-of subway may be built by interests in the United States.

He said he had learned from "reliable sources" that New York-Washington interests will make an offer to the city in the near future to build a seven-mile section of the subway within four years.

Sleeping Driver Goes To Jail

LINDSAY—(ENS)—A 20-year-old Lindsay youth was sentenced today to a week in jail, his licence cancelled for three months, and his car impounded for the same length of time when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being in care of vehicle while under the influence of alcohol.

William Lower of Lindsay was arrested last Sunday morning, when PC Ralph Fountain discovered him asleep behind the wheel of his car, which had gone into a ditch in the south-east section of the town. Lower was intoxicated, he said, and the keys were turned on in the ignition of the vehicle.

Magistrate Gee imposed sentence after hearing the evidence. Lower was defended by H. E. Richardson.

200,000 Copies Sold

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) —Bookstores over the United States have reported sale of 200,000 copies of Dr. Alfred C. Kinsey's "Sexual Behavior in the Human Female" since its publication three months ago, the publishers say.

Dr. Kinsey's first report, "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male," did not come close to making such an impressive showing in the corresponding period after publication, the publishers said.
